He asked for an update on the city's progress in providing relief to residents affected by the shutdown.

JOHN POMBIER, Acting City Manager, explained that the most significant need communicated is food. Food banks in Chandler have reported significant resource use, and that food is still needed even if the government were to reopen in the next week. He said staff continues to work with local food banks to ensure there is enough supply in the community, especially as we head into the holiday season. He added that Neighborhood Resources staff have been working diligently to ensure all community partners' needs are addressed. The current guidance to staff is to monitor eviction rates and anticipate quick action to meet community needs.

COUNCILMEMBER HARRIS asked to ensure that residents have easy access to resources they may need at this time.

MR. POMBIER said he wants to ensure they provide resources where they will be most impactful in the community.

COUNCILMEMBER HARRIS said he looked forward to hearing more about these opportunities in the future.

COUNCILMEMBER POSTON said if there is anything the city can do to make access to resources easier; the city should pursue that.

Comments:

It is a very bad look for this council to make concessions for an AI data center that does nothing but take from this community when they voted down a project with similar zoning issues that would have provided affordable housing for teachers, social workers and counselors making $65,000.
