

Join Us in Shaping the Future: Seeking Board Members for the Industrial Development Authority of Cochise County

Are you passionate about economic growth, community development, and the prosperity of Cochise County? Here's an opportunity to make a significant impact!

The Industrial Development Authority (IDA) of Cochise County seeks dedicated and dynamic individuals to join the newly re-established IDA of Cochise County Board of Directors. The Board of Directors will include three to five members, a minimum of one from each County Supervisorial District and two at-large. As we embark on a mission to foster economic growth and development in Cochise County, we invite you to become an integral part of this exciting journey.

Who We Are:

The Industrial Development Authority of Cochise County is a non-profit organization promoting economic development within our region. Through our work, we aim to create opportunities for businesses to thrive, attract investments, and enhance the quality of life for our community members.

Why Join Us:

By becoming a member of the IDA Board, you will have the chance to:

- Shape the economic future of Cochise County.
- Advocate for and support local businesses and industries.
- Collaborate with diverse professionals committed to the County's growth.
- Contribute to the creation of jobs and the improvement of our communities.

We're Looking for Individuals with:

- A passion for economic development and community growth.
- Strong leadership qualities and the ability to collaborate effectively.
- Expertise in business, finance, law, or related fields (preferred but not required).
- Enthusiasm for making a positive impact in Cochise County.

How to Apply:

If you are ready to make a difference and help steer the course of economic development in Cochise County, we encourage you to apply. For inquiries or to submit your application, including your resume and a brief statement of interest, to Dan Coxworth, Director, Development Services, dcoxworth@cochise.az.gov, 520-432-9268. The application deadline is November 1, 2023. The appointment to the IDA Board is scheduled for November 14 at 10:00 a.m., the BOS regular meeting.
