

APPENDIX B

Archival Photographs of the David Babbitt House (319 North Beaver Street)

Figure B-1. East elevation as seen along North Beaver Street, ca. 1906 (scan provided by FSL Real Estate Services).

Figure B-2. North elevation as seen along West Dale Avenue, ca. 1906 (scan provided by FSL Real Estate Services).

Figure B-3. West elevation, ca. 1906 (scan provided by FSL Real Estate Services).

Figure B-4. South elevation, ca. 1906 (scan provided by FSL Real Estate Services).

Figure B-5. The David Babbitt House as seen from the northeast corner of West Dale Avenue and North Beaver Street, unknown date (scan provided by FSL Real Estate Services).

Figure B-6. East elevation as seen from along North Beaver Street, taken after 1906 based on the growth of the tree in the yard (scan provided by FSL Real Estate Services).

Figure B-7. Emma Babbitt on the porch of her home with her daughters Elaine (left) and Gertrude (in her lap), as well as one of her young sons peeking through the door (this image was likely taken mere months before her death in November 1899 and before she went to Los Angeles in hopes of recovery) (adapted from Smith 1989:65).

Figure B-8. View of David Babbitt (left) with his sons Edwin and Joseph, with Clarence Spellmire (right) (this image is likely from the late 1890s based on the presence of empty chicken wire, which is full of vines in the 1906 images above (adapted from Smith 1989:78).