RESEARCH SYMPOSIUM

Medical Marijuana and Your City: Facts, Fiction and Moving Forward

In 2016, Florida's voters approved a constitutional amendment legalizing the production, distribution and use of medical marijuana. The implementation of this amendment will require legislation, administrative rule and the development of complex processes for growers, doctors and patients – and dealing with myths and misinformation. As licensed dispensaries and nurseries provide products and services, questions remain about how and when these will impact our cities. Impacts may be felt in the areas of permitting, zoning, code enforcement, intergovernmental relations, law enforcement and emergency response, as well as other departments. The Center for Municipal Research & Innovation is proud to host this symposium supporting President Susan Haynie's Safe Cities, Safe Florida Initiative. Plan now to join with policy and industry experts, municipal representatives and the League's research partners for a timely, informative and action-oriented session designed to help cities determine next steps.

While there is no fee to attend, pre-registration is required. Please check the box on the enclosed registration form.

Note that anyone who signs up and does not attend the symposium will be assessed a no-show fee of $45.

DAVID O. BROWN

A Dallas native, former Chief David O. Brown quit school during his senior year in college to become a Dallas police officer, with the goal of fighting the crack cocaine epidemic in his old neighborhood. Over his 33 years with the Dallas Police Department, Brown served as a patrolman, crime scene detective, SWAT team member and leader, internal affairs detective and assistant chief.

His career was marked by its share of tragedy, including the death of his brother due to drug-related violence, the murder of his partner and the death of his mentally ill adult son in a shootout with police that also left a police officer dead. But there was also triumph – including completing his bachelor's and master's degrees while being promoted to the highest ranks in the department, and working to reduce crime more than any other chief in the history of the department. Under his tenure, officer-involved shootings were reduced more than 40 percent and excessive-force complaints were reduced by 70 percent, their lowest points on record. Brown's efforts in community policing are nationally renowned. He is the longest-serving and most beloved Dallas police chief in modern times.

His leadership during and after the tragic events of July 7, 2016, calmed the City of Dallas and the nation. Brown's decision to use a robot to detonate C4 explosives to neutralize a suspect was a first in the history of American policing. And the chief's call to protestors to become part of the solution by applying to join the police department, earned him accolades from across the nation and around the world.
