I am a financial consultant and founder of Aspire Consulting Firm LLC, where I work directly with individuals and families to improve credit, strengthen financial habits, and overcome barriers that often impact their ability to secure and maintain stable housing. My work has given me firsthand insight into the real challenges many residents face when it comes to affordability, eligibility, and long-term housing stability. In addition to my financial expertise, including financial planning, I have a background in operations and team management within the hospitality industry, where I developed strong leadership, problem-solving, and community-facing communication skills. I am also the founding director of a nonprofit initiative focused on supporting mothers through financial education and access to essential resources. I would bring to the board a community-informed perspective, a strong understanding of financial barriers to housing, and a genuine commitment to contributing to practical, sustainable solutions that expand access to affordable housing.
