

Building A Better Texas

We are here today to honor a 100-year partnership - 100 years of Building A Better Texas! In May 1914, the national Cooperative Extension Service was established by the Smith-Lever Act, which created a state-by-state network of educators who extend land-grant university knowledge and life skills to help people thrive and prosper. Your cooperation and support has made it possible for the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service to reach all Texans with much-needed educational programs that help to make their lives better! To show our appreciation, we would like to present HIDALGO COUNTY with our Building A Better Texas Award! Thank you for helping us to extend knowledge and provide solutions in your county. We couldn't have done it without you!
