

About Us

PRIA is an idea that government and business can work together, with mutual respect, to address issues of common concern in the world of property transactions.

Home / About Us

We Love "Roundtable" Discussions.

Working together towards a common goal.

PRIA was created based on the concept that participants from all industry segments come together as equals to openly discuss issues and develop best practices and standards for the industry.

Who We Are

PRIA is a place for all participants of the property records industry to come together and openly discuss issues of common concern.

Our members include recorders, title and escrow companies, lenders, notary associations, technology companies and industry groups from across the real estate and mortgage industries.

By developing and promoting national standards and best practices for the land records industry, PRIA and its members are playing a leading role in making property transactions faster, safer and more convenient for everyone.
