While I haven't yet pursued a formal college degree, I've continued to build skills through professional training, nearly a decade of management experience, and ongoing community involvement. My real-world experience has shaped my ability to lead, problem-solve, and work effectively across a wide range of areas.

Civic Interests:

I’m deeply invested in La Habra’s culture, history, and the well-being of families in our community. My interests include preserving local history, improving access to services for families with special needs, and supporting inclusive public events that bring people together. I’m especially passionate about advocating for programs that strengthen parent involvement, early education, community wellness, and civic pride. I also have a strong interest in digital access, local storytelling, and ensuring city resources reach those who need them most.

Do you possess any special skills?

I have strong organizational and communication skills, both in-person and online. I manage large online community groups and have experience conducting historical and genealogical research. I’m also skilled in digital archiving and have helped preserve and share local history through video digitization and online storytelling.

In addition, I serve on the La Habra Centennial Committee, where I’ve contributed by sourcing over 70 historical photos for the upcoming Images of America book, identifying homes that are 100 years or older, and assisting the Historical Museum with digitizing HDV camcorder tapes to be featured at Historical Nights.

Professionally, I served as a Customer Service Manager for nearly 10 years at Overnight Prints, a division of Farheap Solutions. I led cross-functional teams across California, Nevada, and Kentucky often working within a structure where departments were spun off into independent DBAs for tax and operational purposes. That role strengthened my leadership, training, and problem-solving skills, especially in fast-paced, high-pressure environments.

I also bring firsthand knowledge of navigating public services for families, including special education, Regional Center supports, and child development programs. I’m tech-savvy, detail-oriented, and comfortable collaborating with diverse stakeholders to find practical solutions and find common ground.

Additional Comments:

As someone who has lived in La Habra for nearly 30 years and who is raising a family here, I care deeply about the city’s future.

I believe in honoring La Habra's history while working to make it an even more inclusive and supportive place for families, youth, and older residents.

I'm not seeking a title. I'm hoping for the opportunity to contribute in a meaningful way. I bring lived experience, a collaborative mindset, and a strong work ethic to everything I take on. It would be an honor to serve and help shape the next chapter of community services in La Habra, however I'm needed.
