WHEREAS, the Rapid DNA Act of 2017 (34 U.S.C. § 12591 et seq.) authorized the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (hereinafter referred to as "FBI") to issue standards and procedures for the use of Rapid DNA instruments and the resulting DNA analyses; and

WHEREAS, Texas Government Code Chapter 411, Subchapter G, DNA Database System authorizes the collection of DNA samples from persons arrested for eligible offenses and the analysis and databasing of the resulting DNA analyses during or immediately following the booking of the arrestee, or at any time thereafter; and

WHEREAS, Texas has implemented the collection, analysis and databasing of DNA samples from arrestees and has received an authority to operate a Rapid DNA Program from the FBI; and

WHEREAS, the Montgomery County Sheriff's Office has an approved Rapid DNA Booking System and wishes to participate in the State Rapid DNA Program in accordance with the applicable Federal and State laws, standards, regulations and procedures; and

WHEREAS, the Montgomery County Sheriff's Office will collect DNA samples from persons arrested for eligible offenses and will analyze the DNA samples using an NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking System in accordance with Texas Government Code Chapter 411, Subchapter G, DNA Database System, and will have the resulting DNA analyses searched against the DNA Index of Special Concern (DISC) to identify any additional crimes for which that arrestee may be implicated; and

WHEREAS, the Texas Department of Public Safety and Montgomery County Sheriff's Office will participate in the Rapid DNA Program to search DNA records collected during the booking process in accordance with applicable Federal and State laws and standards/procedures;

NOW, THEREFORE, this AGREEMENT (hereinafter referred to as "Agreement"), effective on the date of the last party to sign, is entered into by and between the Texas Department of Public Safety (hereinafter referred to as "DPS") and the following law enforcement Booking Agency, known as Montgomery County Sheriff's Office, as an authorized designee of Montgomery County, Texas within the State of Texas, which will hereinafter be referred to by proper name, or as "Booking Agency." In consideration of the mutual obligations contained herein, it is agreed by and between the parties as follows:

B. DPS and the Booking Agency identified in this Agreement agree to abide by the terms and conditions specified in the following documents:

1. The "Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies," attached hereto as Appendix A, which is incorporated in and made a part of this Agreement.

2. The "National Rapid DNA Booking Operational Procedures Manual," attached hereto as Appendix B, which is incorporated in and made a part of this Agreement.

3. The "Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Security Policy," attached hereto as Appendix C, which is incorporated in and made a part of this Agreement.

4. The State of Texas DNA Database Law, Government Code Chapter 411, Subchapter G, DNA Database System, attached hereto as Appendix D, which is incorporated in and made a part of this Agreement.

5. The State of Texas Rapid DNA Program Procedures, attached hereto as Appendix E, which is incorporated in and made a part of this Agreement.

6. The Booking Agency Rapid DNA Program Procedures, attached hereto as Appendix F, which is incorporated in and made a part of this agreement.

C. The State CODIS Administrator and State designated Rapid DNA Program Administrator shall be responsible for ensuring all Booking Agencies participating in the Rapid DNA Program adhere to and comply with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

II. LICENSE TO USE COMBINED DNA INDEX SYSTEM (CODIS) SOFTWARE

A. The FBI has granted DPS an unlimited sublicense to use the CODIS software and CODIS Rapid Enrollment application thereto (hereinafter collectively referred to as the "CODIS software").

B. By signing this Agreement, the Booking Agency expressly agrees:

1. The CODIS software, for which the FBI has or will obtain an unrestricted license to use, shall remain the exclusive property of the FBI.

2. The Booking Agency shall not use the CODIS software in any manner until specifically authorized to do so by the FBI.

In the event the license to use the CODIS software is terminated, the Booking Agency shall remove the CODIS software from its system(s), including all on-line and backup storage media, within ten (10) business days of receipt of the termination notice, and shall immediately return the CODIS software and all accompanying materials provided by the FBI.

5. The Booking Agency shall take reasonable precautions to prevent unauthorized persons from accessing the CODIS software. For purposes of the software license, unauthorized persons shall mean persons who are not Rapid DNA Booking System Lead Operators or Operators. In the event that the FBI determines that such reasonable precautions have not been taken, the sublicense to use the CODIS software will be canceled immediately and will not be restored unless and until the Booking Agency has established that sufficient security procedures have been implemented to protect the CODIS software from unauthorized access. The determination whether sufficient security procedures to protect the CODIS software have been implemented by the Booking Agency shall be in the sole discretion of the FBI. If sufficient security procedures have not been implemented to the satisfaction of the FBI within thirty (30) business days of receipt of the cancellation notice, the FBI may terminate the Booking Agency's license to use the CODIS software and the Booking Agency shall return the CODIS software to the FBI as provided above.

12. To comply with statewide policy for data security requirements including data deletion.

IV. BOOKING AGENCY TO COMPLY WITH THE FEDERAL DNA IDENTIFICATION ACT OF 1994

A. As required by 34 U.S.C. § 12592, the Federal DNA Identification Act of 1994 (hereinafter referred to as the "DNA Act"), the Booking Agency shall only contribute DNA identification records and DNA analyses to NDIS which are:

1. Based on analyses performed by or on behalf of a criminal justice agency in accordance with publicly available standards that satisfy or exceed the guidelines for a quality assurance program for DNA analysis issued by the Director of the FBI under the DNA Act.

4. In addition, the DNA Act provides for imposition of a fine of up to $250,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year or both such fine and imprisonment, if:

   a. Any person who, by virtue of employment or official position, has possession of, or access to, individually identifiable DNA information indexed in a database created or maintained by any Federal law enforcement agency, and knowingly discloses such information in any manner to any person or agency not authorized to receive it; or

   b. Any person, without authorization, knowingly obtains DNA samples or individually identifiable DNA information indexed in a database created or maintained by any Federal law enforcement agency.

B. The Booking Agency expressly agrees to comply with subparagraphs 1 through 4 above.

C. The Booking Agency expressly acknowledges that participation in the State's Rapid DNA Program shall be governed by the DPS Rapid DNA Program procedures, the "Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies," the "National Rapid DNA Booking Operational Procedures Manual" and the "Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Security Policy."

D. The Booking Agency shall ensure secure transmission of DNA profiles and DNA data to DPS. The Booking Agency and DPS agree to abide by the decision of the FBI and grant it the exclusive right to determine the most appropriate method to ensure secure communications from and to SDIS and NDIS, and to alter that method if necessary. As of the date of this Agreement, the CJIS WAN is the mechanism designated by the FBI for transmittal of DNA data between NDIS, DPS and the Booking Agency.

V. OBLIGATIONS OF THE BOOKING AGENCY IN LEGAL ACTIONS

A. The Booking Agency, to the extent permitted by Federal and/or State law, agrees to indemnify and save harmless, DPS, its officers and employees, from and against any and all claims, demands, actions, suits and proceedings brought by others arising out of the terms of this Agreement.

B. Examples of such legal actions which such notification include, but are not limited to, the following:

   1. Discovery requests for CODIS source code;

   2. Discovery requests for any aspect of CODIS or the Rapid DNA instrument; and

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

C. The Booking Agency shall notify the CODIS State Administrator and State designated Rapid DNA Program Administrator of any criminal actions (such as an arrest and/or conviction for a criminal offense) of a Rapid DNA Operator in their Booking Agency.

VI. SUSPENSION OF THE AUTHORITY OF THE BOOKING AGENCY TO PARTICIPATE IN THE STATE OR NATIONAL DNA INDEX SYSTEMS

A. DPS may suspend all or part of the rights granted to the Booking Agency by virtue of this Agreement for a violation or a series of violations of any Federal or State law or regulation.

B. The Booking Agency explicitly acknowledges that violation of various provisions of Federal or State law or their associated regulations may give rise to the following sanctions:

1. Termination of status as a Booking Agency and participation in the State's Rapid DNA Program;

2. Subject the Booking Agency or its employees to fines;

3. Subject employees of the Booking Agency to criminal charges.

C. If the Booking Agency has been suspended from participating in the State's Rapid DNA Program, the suspension may be lifted upon demonstration to DPS that all violations have been corrected or eliminated. VII. TERMINATION OF THE AGREEMENT

A. Either party to this Agreement may terminate this Agreement, for any reason, by providing the other party with thirty (30) days written notice of their intent to terminate. Non-appropriation: either party to this Agreement may also terminate this Agreement with a thirty (30) days written notice to the other if, to the extent Booking Agency funding may be needed hereto in the future, the Commissioner Court of Montgomery County, Texas/Booking Agency fails to appropriate funding for this Agreement during budget planning and adoption for any of the following fiscal years of County from the effective date herein.

B. In addition to the termination provisions set forth above, upon thirty (30) days written notice to the Booking Agency, DPS may terminate this Agreement and require removal of the CODIS software from the computer equipment of a Booking Agency and/or return of that software and any accompanying materials if notified by the FBI that funds for the continued support of CODIS and/or NDIS are not appropriated by the United States Congress.

C. Any unauthorized usage of the Rapid DNA instrument or CODIS software, including but not limited to, the intentional analysis and enrollment of DNA samples other than those obtained from qualifying arrestees, may result in immediate suspension of the Booking Agency's participation in the Rapid DNA Program and the termination of this Agreement.

VIII. MODIFICATIONS TO THE AGREEMENT

A. Modifications to this Agreement may be made necessary by changes in policies, procedures or technology. Therefore, the Booking Agency agrees that this Agreement may be modified as follows:

1. Modifications to the text of this Agreement (excluding the Appendices) shall only be effective if in writing and signed by all parties.

2. From time to time, however, it may be necessary to revise the FBI's "Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies" contained in Appendix A, the "National Rapid DNA Booking Operational Procedures Manual" contained in Appendix B, or the "Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Security Policy" contained in Appendix C to reflect changes in law, processes and/or technology. In the event that a revision to any or all of the "Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies," the "National Rapid DNA Booking Operational Procedures Manual," or the "Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Security Policy" are made, the Booking Agency agrees that the FBI shall provide notice of any such revisions (by posting on the FBI's web site) and that thereafter such revision shall be incorporated in and made a part of this Agreement without the need for both parties to re-execute this Agreement.

3. STANDARDS FOR THE OPERATION OF RAPID DNA BOOKING SYSTEMS BY LAW ENFORCEMENT BOOKING AGENCIES

1. INTRODUCTION

These Standards are applicable to law enforcement booking agencies using Rapid DNA Booking Systems on buccal (inner cheek) swabs collected from certain arrested individuals who are legally required to provide such samples for the purposes of entering and searching the resulting DNA profiles in the Combined DNA Index System (CODIS). There are three levels of CODIS:

- Local DNA Index System (LDIS)
  - Used by individual public laboratories.
- State DNA Index System (SDIS)
  - Used at the State level to serve as a State's DNA database containing DNA profiles from LDIS laboratories and the SDIS laboratory.
- National DNA Index System (NDIS)
  - Managed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) as the nation's DNA database containing all eligible DNA profiles uploaded by participating States.

State database laws place the responsibility on the applicable State CODIS Agency for the State database program and for ownership of the DNA samples collected in that State, as well as the resulting DNA profiles and DNA data. Accordingly, only the State CODIS Agency shall have ownership of the DNA samples, the DNA profiles and DNA data uploaded into any of the levels of CODIS by the booking agency.

State CODIS Agencies serve as the lead agency for the establishment of Rapid DNA programs in their states. In order to be approved by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the "Authority to Operate" a Rapid DNA program in their state, the State CODIS Agency must first have a law that authorizes the collection and analysis of DNA samples from arrestees. The State CODIS Agency is responsible for developing statewide policies and procedures for the location, configuration and approval of Rapid DNA booking agencies in their state to operate Rapid DNA arrestee booking enrollment programs. The State CODIS Agency's approval of a booking agency to operate a Rapid DNA program must include the review and approval of the booking agency's procedures for operation of the Rapid DNA program. The State CODIS Agency must also have a Memorandum of Understanding or other agreement that defines the roles and responsibilities of the State CODIS Agency and the booking agency for the Rapid DNA program.

Rapid DNA Systems were designed to perform Rapid DNA analysis on buccal swabs collected during the arrestee booking process. The Rapid DNA System is a fully automated system capable of producing a CODIS acceptable DNA profile from an arrestee buccal swab without human interpretation in under two hours. When used by properly trained law enforcement personnel, the DNA profile generated by the Rapid DNA Booking System may be uploaded automatically via a dedicated criminal justice information network to SDIS and NDIS where the arrestee DNA profile will be immediately searched against DNA profiles from unsolved crimes of special concern (sexual assaults, homicides, kidnapping and terrorism cases) at both SDIS and NDIS. The same arrestee DNA profile will be searched against all crimes in the next scheduled SDIS and NDIS searches, usually occurring within 24 hours of the upload. Under these legal and technical requirements, upload of DNA profiles from a Rapid DNA Booking System is a process managed by the State CODIS Agency.

The DNA sample and DNA profile resulting from the Rapid DNA analysis are personally identifiable information subject to Federal and State confidentiality requirements. As noted above, the State CODIS Agency has responsibility for, and ownership of, the DNA sample, the resulting DNA profile, and DNA data entered into CODIS by that booking agency. The booking agency conducting the arrestee's booking station processing shall be responsible for providing the resulting DNA profile and DNA data, as applicable, to the State CODIS Agency. The booking agency shall not file, maintain, store or database CODIS eligible DNA profiles in a separate database or any other type of file.

Only NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking Systems shall be used to generate DNA profiles for entry and searching in SDIS and NDIS. Booking agency personnel using a Rapid DNA Booking System shall be trained and certified in the use of the Rapid DNA Booking System for the resulting DNA profiles to be eligible for entry and searching in SDIS and NDIS. In addition to the Standards specified in this document, booking agencies shall comply with the requirements of the State CODIS Agency for participation in NDIS.

Safeguarding the physical and computer security of the Rapid DNA Booking System is of paramount importance to ensure the integrity of the resulting DNA profiles. The CODIS Rapid Enrollment application software (CRE) will ensure the resulting DNA profile from the Rapid DNA Booking System contains the appropriate arrestee metadata as well as a CODIS compatible DNA profile before the DNA data is uploaded to the State CODIS Agency. The FBI's Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Shared Enterprise Network (SEN) will automatically transmit the resulting DNA profile to NDIS in compliance with additional CJIS security protocols. This document consists of definitions and standards. Compliance with these Standards by a booking agency using a Rapid DNA Booking System is required for the resulting DNA records to be uploaded to and searched in SDIS and NDIS. Only those resulting DNA profiles generated in compliance with these Standards shall be eligible for SDIS and NDIS.

EFFECTIVE DATE:

These Standards shall take effect September 1, 2020.

2. SCOPE

These Standards describe the requirements for law enforcement booking agencies (hereinafter referred to as "booking agency") using Rapid DNA Booking Systems on arrestee buccal swabs to be searched at SDIS and NDIS. The Rapid DNA Booking System will typically be used at the arrestee booking station of a law enforcement agency in jurisdictions where certain arrestees are required to provide DNA samples upon arrest. If a law enforcement agency uses a Rapid DNA Booking System on offender samples collected from individuals that are legally required to provide such samples for the purposes of entering and searching the resulting DNA profiles in CODIS at locations other than a booking station, such as sex-offender registration or parolee processing locations, these Standards are also applicable to that use in those locations.

These Standards apply when the resulting DNA profile from the individual being arrested will be entered and searched at SDIS and/or NDIS. Booking agencies shall meet or exceed these Standards to ensure the quality and integrity of the data generated by the Rapid DNA Booking System.

These Standards are not applicable to the use of a Rapid DNA System on a forensic casework sample (crime scene sample). Forensic casework samples processed on a Rapid DNA System are not eligible for entry or searching in CODIS.

3. RAPID DNA BOOKING SYSTEMS

3.1 The booking agency shall use only NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking Systems for arrestee DNA sample processing.

3.2 The booking agency shall have a designated location to use the Rapid DNA Booking System in order to ensure the security and integrity of the Rapid DNA Booking System, arrestee samples, DNA profiles and DNA data.

3.2.1 The Rapid DNA Booking System shall be located in a secure area that is restricted to personnel designated by the booking agency and not physically accessible to the general public.

3.2.2 The Rapid DNA Booking System shall be placed on a stationary surface and movement of the Rapid DNA Booking System shall be minimized. Relocation of a Rapid DNA Booking System shall be documented.

DEFINITIONS

The following terms are used throughout these Standards and defined for the purposes of these Standards, as follows:

Advanced authentication is additional security to the typical user identification and authentication of login ID and password and is intended to meet the standards of two-factor authentication.

Arrestee is an individual who was subject to arrest, either with or without a warrant, and required, by an applicable State or Federal law, to provide a DNA sample for law enforcement identification and databasing purposes.

Arrestee metadata is the biographical, identification and biometric information associated with the arrestee for criminal justice purposes. Required arrestee metadata fields include the State Identification Number (SID), Universal Control Number (UCN) (for Federal), Electronic Fingerprint Unique Event Identifier, Fingerprint Capture Date and Time, and Arrest Offense Description. Optional metadata fields include the Booking Agency Configurable Identifier, Arresting Agency Configurable Identifier, and Arrest Submission Date.

Audit is an inspection used to evaluate, confirm, and/or determine the extent to which specified requirements are fulfilled.

Booking agency for purposes of these Standards, means an agency or department with the authority to apprehend criminal offenders and/or perform booking activities but is not a forensic DNA laboratory. This typically is the booking station of a law enforcement agency but may also include locations where sex-offender registration or parole processing occur. A booking agency that uses a Rapid DNA Booking System in accordance with these Standards is not considered a forensic DNA laboratory.

Buccal is the inside of a person's cheek which is commonly swabbed for purposes of DNA sample collection.

CJIS is the Criminal Justice Information Services Division of the FBI.

CODIS is the COmbined DNA Index System administered by the FBI. CODIS links DNA evidence obtained from crime scenes, thereby identifying serial criminals. CODIS also compares crime scene evidence to DNA profiles obtained from offenders, thereby providing investigators with the identity of the putative perpetrator. In addition, CODIS contains profiles from missing persons, unidentified human remains and relatives of missing persons. There are three levels of CODIS: the Local DNA Index System (LDIS), used by individual laboratories; the State DNA Index System (SDIS), used at the State level to serve as a State's DNA database containing DNA profiles from LDIS labs; and the National DNA Index System (NDIS), managed by the FBI as the nation's DNA database containing all DNA profiles uploaded by participating States. The Rapid DNA analysis process presents an additional avenue for arrestee DNA profiles to be entered into and searched in SDIS and NDIS.

Certification test(s) is a written, oral and/or practical test or series of tests defined by the State CODIS Agency. The certification test is designed to establish that an individual has demonstrated achievement of the technical skills and knowledge necessary to operate a Rapid DNA Booking System.

CJIS Systems Agency (CSA) is a duly authorized state, federal, international, tribal, or territorial criminal justice agency on the Criminal Justice Information Services Division (CJIS) network providing statewide (or equivalent) service to its criminal justice users with respect to the criminal justice information from various systems managed by the FBI CJIS Division.

Contamination is the unintentional introduction of extraneous DNA into a DNA sample or Rapid DNA System.

CODIS Rapid Enrollment application or CRE is the government furnished application software provided to the booking agency that ensures the resulting DNA profile produced by the Rapid DNA Booking System contains the appropriate arrestee metadata as well as a CODIS compatible DNA profile before the DNA information is transmitted to the State CODIS Agency.

Corrective action evaluates a noncompliance with the goal to identify, correct, and/or prevent reoccurrence of the noncompliance, when possible.

DNA sample is a buccal sample obtained from an individual who is legally required to provide a DNA sample for law enforcement databasing purposes and whose identity is electronically verified via an electronic fingerprint capture device at the time of collection of the sample.

DNA data is the raw computer file produced by the Rapid DNA System.

DNA profile is the information generated by the Rapid DNA System on the reference buccal sample taken from an individual that is uploaded into CODIS.

FBI is the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Federal agency authorized by the Rapid DNA Act of 2017 to issue standards and procedures for the use of Rapid DNA Systems for generating DNA records for entry and searching in CODIS and the National DNA Index System (NDIS).

NDIS is the National DNA Index System. NDIS is one component of CODIS – the national and highest-level index containing the DNA records contributed from participating Federal, State and Local laboratories.

NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking System is a Rapid DNA System that has been approved by the FBI for use in law enforcement booking agencies. A list of NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking Systems can be found at https://www.fbi.gov/services/laboratory/biometric-analysis/codis/rapid-dna.

Negative control is used to detect DNA contamination in Rapid DNA reagents and consumables. A negative control is only required during a performance check for new lot numbers of Rapid DNA cartridges and reagents.

Offender is an individual who is required by statute to submit a sample for DNA analysis and databasing. The term "offender" includes individuals who are convicted of or arrested for a crime or otherwise required by State or Federal law to provide a DNA sample for analysis and databasing.

Performance check is a quality assurance measure to demonstrate the Rapid DNA System is functioning properly. A performance check is completed by the run and confirmation of a manufacturer-provided or manufacturer-approved positive control (known standard) through the Rapid DNA System. In addition, a negative control is required during a performance check for new lot numbers of Rapid DNA cartridges and reagents.

Positive control is used to determine if the Rapid DNA System is performing all the steps in the process properly. This control consists of a known DNA sample provided by the manufacturer or manufacturer-approved source.

Procedure is an established practice to be followed in performing a specified task or under specific circumstances.

Qualifying Arrest Offense is the offense for which the DNA sample is being collected at the time of arrest in accordance with applicable Federal or State law.

Rapid DNA analysis is the fully automated process of developing a CODIS acceptable DNA profile from a buccal swab without human interpretation.

Rapid DNA cartridge is a preassembled set of reagents designed for use in a Rapid DNA System.

Rapid DNA Lead Operator is a Rapid DNA Operator designated by the booking agency who oversees the operation of a Rapid DNA Booking System(s) for their agency and is the main point of contact to the State CODIS Agency.

Rapid DNA Operator is an operator designated by the booking agency who is certified and authorized to operate a Rapid DNA Booking System in that agency.

Rapid DNA System is a fully automated system capable of producing a CODIS acceptable DNA profile from an arrestee buccal swab without human interpretation in under two hours.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Rapid DNA Booking System is a fully automated system, used in a booking agency, to produce a CODIS acceptable DNA profile from an arrestee buccal swab without human interpretation in under two hours.

Reagents are the chemicals used in the Rapid DNA System.

Run is the term used to describe the complete process of developing a DNA profile using a Rapid DNA System. The process begins with the insertion of the cartridge containing an arrestee buccal swab into the Rapid DNA System and starting the run. The process ends with the generation of a result by the Rapid DNA System.

SDIS is the State DNA Index System which serves as a State's DNA database operated by the State CODIS Agency.

State CODIS Agency is the government department or entity where the State CODIS System resides and is the entity responsible for approval of law enforcement booking agencies in the State to perform Rapid DNA analysis to generate DNA profiles for entry/search in SDIS and NDIS.

State Identification Bureau (SIB) is the state agency with responsibility for the state's fingerprint identification services.

1 Introduction

Rapid DNA is a term used to describe the fully automated (hands free) process of developing a DNA profile from a reference sample buccal (cheek) swab without human intervention. These Procedures outline the requirements to integrate Rapid DNA in the booking environment, allowing for immediate searching of qualifying Arrestee DNA profiles against unsolved crimes of special concern (sexual assault/rape, homicide, kidnapping and terrorism cases), while a qualifying Arrestee is in police custody during the booking process. Modified Rapid DNA analysis (requires analyst interpretation) of Arrestee DNA samples is subject to laboratory accreditation, compliance with the FBI Quality Assurance Standards, and the NDIS Operational Procedures Manual.

This process also enrolls the qualifying Arrestee DNA profiles in the Combined DNA Index System (CODIS) at the state and national levels for continual searching against all forensic profiles in CODIS. The unsolved crimes of special concern are stored in CODIS in the DNA Index of Special Concern (DISC). CODIS laboratories across the country are expending significant effort identifying DISC-qualifying cases and collecting the required information for enrollment into DISC.

The State CODIS Agency is the primary agency for the implementation of Rapid DNA in booking environments for a state. It is critical for the Booking Agency to work in conjunction with their State CODIS Agency to incorporate Rapid DNA in the booking process as the State CODIS Agency is responsible for all of the DNA data developed from the qualifying Arrestee. State database laws generally designate the State CODIS Agency with responsibility for the state database program, including ownership of the DNA samples collected in that State, as well as the resulting DNA profiles and DNA data. The booking agency conducting the Arrestee's booking station processing shall be responsible for providing the resulting DNA profile and DNA data, as applicable, to the State CODIS Agency. Only the State CODIS Agency shall have access to and ownership of the DNA samples, the DNA profiles and DNA data uploaded into any of the levels of CODIS by the booking agency. The booking agency shall not file, maintain, store or database CODIS eligible DNA profiles in a separate database or any other type of file.

2 Roles and Responsibilities for Agencies and Parties

It is the responsibility of all agencies covered under these Procedures to ensure Rapid DNA is used in a manner that maintains the quality and integrity of the state and national DNA databases. The following figure provides an abstract representation of the strategic functions and roles such as governance and operations.

2.1 Governance

The FBI Laboratory Division worked with the FBI Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Division and the CJIS Advisory Policy Board (CJIS APB) Rapid DNA Task Force to plan the effective integration of Rapid DNA into the Law Enforcement Booking Agency (Booking Agency) process (see Rapid DNA Requirements). Upon passage of the Federal Rapid DNA Act of 2017 (Public Law 115-50), the Scientific Working Group on DNA Analysis Methods (SWGDAM) began development of standards for the use of Rapid DNA Systems during the law enforcement booking process. Working with the National DNA Index System (NDIS) Procedures Board, the FBI has developed these Procedures to specify the roles and responsibilities of the FBI, the State CODIS Agency and the Booking Agency in the operation of Rapid DNA Systems for generating CODIS eligible DNA profiles for searching at NDIS.

The original Rapid DNA Requirements have been incorporated into the FBI's Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies and these Procedures, which now supersede those Rapid DNA Requirements.

The FBI recognizes that NDIS approval of the Rapid DNA Booking Systems and training of Booking Agency personnel using NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking Systems are integral to ensuring that Rapid DNA is used in a manner that maintains the quality and integrity of CODIS and NDIS.

2.2 Operations

The FBI is responsible for identifying the communications infrastructure and developing the standards and procedures necessary to operate a Rapid DNA Booking program resulting in eligible DNA profiles that are searched in NDIS. The State CODIS Agency is responsible for all DNA profiles stored and searched at the State DNA Index System (SDIS) and uploaded to NDIS. The State CODIS Agency and the State CODIS Administrator have an important role and responsibility for the operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems at booking agencies in their State. Booking Agencies are responsible for the DNA sample collection of qualifying Arrestees within a State. The Rapid DNA Lead Operator is the individual designated by the Booking Agency, who oversees the operation of a Rapid DNA Booking System(s) for their agency and serves as the central point of contact with the State CODIS Agency for Rapid DNA operations.

2.3 Standards and Procedures

The Rapid DNA Act of 2017 authorizes the FBI Director to "issue standards and procedures for the use of Rapid DNA instruments and resulting DNA analyses." The FBI's Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies and the FBI's National Rapid DNA Booking Operational Procedures Manual provide structure and instructions for States to apply applicable state laws, policies and procedures to the implementation of Rapid DNA within their State.

3 Law Enforcement Booking Agencies

3.1 Requirements for participation

The Booking Agency shall consult and work in conjunction with their State CODIS Agency to implement Rapid DNA into the booking process as the State CODIS Agency is responsible for the resulting DNA data developed from the qualifying Arrestee. The Booking Agency shall have and implement policies and procedures that address all aspects of Rapid DNA operation in the Booking Agency.

3.1.1 The Booking Agency shall have a signed Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) or other Agreement with the State CODIS Agency.

3.1.2 The Booking Agency shall submit documentation to the State CODIS Agency that demonstrates compliance with all State level requirements, policies, and procedures including, but not limited to, policies/procedures relating to the following:

- 3.1.2.1 DNA Indicator information associated with computerized criminal history (CCH) records to indicate if Arrestee already has a DNA profile in the State DNA Index System (SDIS)
- 3.1.2.2 Format and numbering scheme for the Arrestee sample specimen ID number (CODIS Spec ID)
- 3.1.2.3 The number of swabs to be collected from each Arrestee
- 3.1.2.4 Identification and resolution of Rapid DNA swab and instrument failures

3.1.2.7 Certified Operators of the Rapid DNA Booking System
3.1.2.8 Documented training of certified Operators

3.1.3 The Booking Agency shall be integrated with an automated electronic fingerprint process to ensure only qualifying Arrestees are processed to generate the Arrestee Enrollment Format (AEF) information for submission to CODIS. This integration shall incorporate the following elements:

- Recording of the Qualifying Arrest Offense(s);
- Electronic fingerprint-based identification (or comparable biometric identification) of the Arrestee at the time of DNA sample collection; and
- Linkage of AEF information to the DNA swab prior to placement in the Rapid DNA Booking System in a manner that prevents sample switches.

3.1.4 The Booking Agency shall ensure secure transfer of the AEF information in a manner that maintains the continuity of the swab, the State Identification Number (SID), and the Specimen ID number. The secure transfer of information shall be in compliance with the CJIS Security Policy.

3.1.5 The Booking Agency shall ensure that their information technology (IT) environment has the capability to execute the FBI-provided CODIS Rapid DNA Enrollment application software (CRE) required for processing the Rapid Common Message Format (Rapid CMF) message and support two-way communication with the State Identification Bureau (SIB)/CJIS Systems Agency (CSA) that is in compliance with the CJIS Security Policy.

3.1.5.1 Alternative electronic data integration and transfer processes that result in a Rapid CMF message may be employed at the Booking Agency if such alternative process can be demonstrated to meet the requirements above.

3.2 Booking Agency Application and Approval for Participation

Booking Agencies planning to perform Rapid DNA analysis on qualifying Arrestees shall contact their State CODIS Agency to determine the State level requirements for participation, including if their State is authorized by the FBI for a Rapid DNA Program (see section 4.2 for additional details on the Rapid DNA Authority to Operate (ATO)).

Booking Agencies in states with an FBI-approved ATO shall apply to the State CODIS Agency with documentation demonstrating their readiness to perform Rapid DNA in the Booking Agency. This documentation shall include participation in testing of the network communications and operational readiness of the Rapid DNA Booking System in conjunction with the State CODIS Agency. If approved by the State CODIS Agency, the Booking Agency is authorized to implement Rapid DNA analysis using an NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking System. Only Rapid DNA Arrestee profiles generated by the authorized Booking Agencies using an NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking System shall be eligible for enrollment and searching in CODIS.

3.3 Changing information about a Booking Agency

The Booking Agency is responsible for notifying the State CODIS Agency of any changes in the information submitted with their original application, such as address, name of contact, etc.

3.4 Rapid DNA Booking Systems

The Booking Agency shall only use an NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking System to perform Rapid DNA analysis on qualifying Arrestee cheek swabs (see table below).

Please see Section 5.3 and https://www.fbi.gov/services/laboratory/biometric-analysis/codis/rapid-dna for the most current listing of NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking Systems.

3.5 Rapid DNA Lead Operators

A Rapid DNA Lead Operator (Lead Operator) is an Operator designated by the Booking Agency who oversees the operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems for their agency and is the central point of contact with the State CODIS Agency.

A Booking Agency shall designate a Lead Operator and a back-up Lead Operator.

The Lead Operator shall meet the training and certification requirements specified in the Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies.

3.5.1 Lead Operator - General Responsibilities

The Lead Operator is the central point of contact in the Booking Agency for the State CODIS Agency and is responsible for the Rapid DNA operations at the Booking Agency. The Lead Operator is responsible for performing, or overseeing the performance of, the following, as applicable:

3.7 Confidentiality of Data

The DNA sample, DNA profile and DNA data resulting from the Rapid DNA analysis are personally identifiable information subject to Federal and State confidentiality requirements. The State CODIS Agency has ultimate responsibility for, and ownership of, the DNA sample, DNA data and resulting DNA profile entered into CODIS by the Booking Agency.

The Booking Agency conducting the Arrestee's processing shall be responsible for providing the resulting DNA profile and DNA data, as applicable, to the State CODIS Agency. The Booking Agency shall not file, maintain, store or database CODIS-eligible DNA profiles in a separate database or any other type of file.

3.8 CODIS Rapid Enrollment Application Software (CRE)

The Booking Agency is not authorized to distribute or sublicense the CRE, and shall not copy the CRE for purposes of distribution or distribute the CRE software to any person or agency outside the Booking Agency without the written approval of the FBI. The Booking Agency shall not publish or publicly disclose information obtained from or included in the CRE, including, but not limited to: CRE guidance material, screen shots of CRE, or instructional and/or training materials without the prior written approval of the FBI. The Booking Agency shall use the CRE in a manner that is authorized by the FBI.

3.9 Communications and Notice Required

The Booking Agency shall notify the State CODIS Agency within 5 calendar days if there is a vacancy in the Lead Operator position, or if the Booking Agency's Rapid DNA operations are suspended.

3.10 Unsolicited DNA Notification Follow-up

The Booking Agency shall comply with the statewide policy for responding to Unsolicited DNA Notifications (UDN) resulting from Rapid DNA Arrestee hits to crime scene profiles in the DISC. If the search of DISC results in a hit between the enrolled Arrestee to an unsolved crime, a hit message called the UDN will be generated and automatically transmitted to the investigative agency submitting that crime scene sample, the Booking Agency, and the arresting agency (if applicable). This UDN message will be routed via the National Law Enforcement Telecommunications System (Nlets) in the same manner as wants and warrants are currently distributed.

For UDN messages involving an investigating agency in another state, it is the responsibility of both the Booking Agency and the Investigating Agency to immediately contact each other to resolve the UDN.

3.11 Booking Agency Standards

The Booking Agency shall demonstrate compliance with the FBI's Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies through participation in required audits. The Booking Agency shall meet or exceed the Standards to ensure the quality and integrity of the DNA data generated by the Rapid DNA Booking System.

3.12 Records

The Booking Agency shall maintain records of their Rapid DNA Program in accordance with the retention period required by applicable State and local laws or regulations. Documentation shall include but is not limited to the following:

- MOU or other agreement with State CODIS Agency;
- Booking Agency Policies and Procedures;
- Booking Agency audits and corrective actions;
- Training, refresher training and certification records for Lead Operators and Operators;

It is the responsibility of the State CODIS Agency to ensure the Booking Agency meets all the requirements specified in these Procedures and any State level requirements for participation. The

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

State CODIS Agency shall provide documentation for the Booking Agency, including the verification that the Booking Agency is in compliance with all of the requirements of these Procedures as well as the State CODIS Agency's requirements to initiate operations for a new Booking Agency within their State. The FBI's CODIS Unit shall review the request and if approved, enter the Booking Agency information into CODIS.

The Booking Agency is responsible for notifying the State CODIS Agency of any changes in the information submitted with their original application, such as address, name of contact, etc. The State CODIS Agency shall provide the FBI's CODIS Unit with updated information, as needed.

4.5 Add or Change information about Lead Operators and Operators

The State CODIS Agency shall provide the FBI's CODIS Unit with updated information on Lead Operators and Operators, as needed.

4.6 Confidentiality of Data

The DNA sample, DNA profile and DNA data resulting from the Rapid DNA analysis are personally identifiable information subject to Federal and State confidentiality requirements.

Legal requirements designate the State CODIS Agency with responsibility for the State database program and ownership of the Arrestee DNA samples, resulting DNA profiles and data. Accordingly, only the State CODIS Agency shall have access to and ownership of the DNA samples, the DNA profiles and DNA data uploaded into any of the levels of CODIS by that agency.

The Booking Agency conducting the Arrestee's processing shall be responsible for providing the resulting DNA profile and DNA data, as applicable, to the State CODIS Agency. The Booking Agency shall not file, maintain, store or database CODIS eligible DNA profiles in a separate database or any other type of file.

The Federal DNA Act provides that the National DNA Index System
"shall include only information on DNA identification records and DNA analyses that are maintained by Federal, State, and local criminal justice agencies (or the Secretary of Defense in accordance with section 1565 of title 10, United States Code) pursuant to rules that allow disclosure of stored DNA samples and DNA analyses only--
(A) to criminal justice agencies for law enforcement identification purposes;
(B) in judicial proceedings, if otherwise admissible pursuant to applicable statutes or rules;

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

(C) for criminal defense purposes, to a defendant, who shall have access to samples and analyses performed in connection with the case in which such defendant is charged; or
(D) if personally identifiable information is removed, for a population statistics database, for identification research and protocol development purposes, or for quality control purposes." [34 U.S.C.§12592(b)(3)]

The unauthorized disclosure of individually identifiable DNA information stored in NDIS is punishable by a fine not to exceed $100,000 (34 U.S.C. §12593(c)(1)). Obtaining DNA samples or DNA information, without authorization, is punishable by a maximum fine of $250,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year or both fine and imprisonment (34 U.S.C. §12593(c)(2)). A State CODIS Agency's access to NDIS is subject to cancellation for noncompliance with these privacy requirements. The privacy requirements are applicable to State CODIS Agencies by Federal law [34 U.S.C. §12592] and through the agreement with the FBI for participation in NDIS.

Participation in NDIS requires adherence to the Federal DNA Act, which requires that access to and disclosure of stored DNA samples and analyses be limited to the authorized purposes expressed in that law. Accordingly, a State CODIS Agency shall not provide access to or disclosure of DNA records that have been uploaded to NDIS to an individual, entity, agency, or laboratory that is not a criminal justice agency nor authorized to access such DNA records under the Federal DNA Act. If the State CODIS Agency disseminates, provides, or releases any or all of its DNA records that have been uploaded to NDIS for purposes not authorized under the Federal DNA Act or to an individual, entity, or agency, or laboratory other than an NDIS participating laboratory, the State CODIS Agency shall notify the FBI and remove those DNA records from NDIS. Additionally, the generation of DNA data and/or a DNA database consisting of such DNA data for dissemination to individuals, entities, agencies or laboratories other than NDIS participating laboratories shall be considered an unauthorized use of the CODIS software and work products.

The State CODIS Agency is responsible for compliance with the limited access and disclosure of DNA samples and DNA analyses required by the Federal DNA Act. While States may have DNA database laws that appear to permit more access to the DNA data, if that State is a participant in NDIS, the State agrees to abide by, and comply with, the more restrictive provisions contained in the Federal DNA Act by agreeing to the agreement with the FBI for participation in NDIS.

4.7 Communications

The State CODIS Agency is responsible for ensuring the integrity and accuracy of the DNA records in CODIS. The State CODIS Agency shall notify the FBI's CODIS

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Unit within five calendar days in the event the State CODIS Agency suspends approval for a Booking Agency's Rapid DNA operations.

4.8 Unsolicited DNA Notification follow up

If the search of the DISC results in a hit between the enrolled Arrestee to an unsolved crime, a hit message called the UDN will be generated and automatically transmitted to the Investigating Agency submitting that crime scene sample, the Booking Agency, and the arresting agency (if applicable). The State CODIS Agency shall have a Statewide policy for responding to UDN messages resulting from Rapid DNA Arrestee hits to crime scene profiles in the DISC. This UDN message will be routed via the Nlets in the same manner as wants and warrants are currently distributed.

For UDN messages involving an investigating agency in another state, it is the responsibility of both the Booking Agency and the Investigating Agency to immediately contact each other to resolve the UDN.

4.9 Booking Agency Standards

The State CODIS Agency is responsible for ensuring that Booking Agency(ies) within their State demonstrate compliance with the FBI's Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies through participation in required audits.

5 Rapid DNA Booking Systems

5.1 Approval of Rapid DNA Booking Systems

A State CODIS Agency that will be submitting a request for approval for a Rapid DNA Booking System shall contact the NDIS Custodian early in the validation process for that System. Developmental validation shall be conducted on all Rapid DNA Booking Systems where either the Rapid DNA instruments, PCR STR typing kits/Rapid DNA cartridges and/or Expert Systems were not previously approved for use at NDIS. Generally, if the Expert System and PCR STR typing kit/Rapid DNA cartridge have not been previously approved for use at NDIS, the validation of such a Rapid DNA Booking System shall include the criteria for validation/approval of an Expert System as described in Section 4.5 of the NDIS Operational Procedures Manual and for validation/approval of a PCR STR typing kit as described in Appendix F of the NDIS Operational Procedures Manual.

A State CODIS Agency shall submit a written request for the approval of a Rapid DNA Booking System to the NDIS Custodian. Requests for approval of a Rapid DNA Booking System shall be reviewed and evaluated by a panel designated by the FBI who shall consider criteria contained in Section 5.2 and Appendix B, to the extent practicable and appropriate. The NDIS Custodian may request additional information and documentation, as necessary, to ensure a thorough review and evaluation.

5.2 Process for Previously Approved Rapid DNA System for Use in an Accredited Laboratory Setting

Manufacturers of a previously approved Rapid DNA System for use in an accredited laboratory and seeking approval of that System as a Rapid DNA Booking System shall contact the NDIS Custodian.

Manufacturers should review the criteria in Appendix B for the general requirements of a Rapid DNA Booking System.

5.3 NDIS Approved Rapid DNA Booking Systems

Rapid DNA Booking Systems approved for use at NDIS on Arrestee cheek swabs by Booking Agencies are posted on the FBI's web site at https://www.fbi.gov/services/laboratory/biometric-analysis/codis/rapid-dna. Once a Rapid DNA Booking System has been approved for use at NDIS, there shall be no changes or modifications to the following: (1) Rapid DNA instrument; (2) the chemistries and/or concentrations of the PCR STR typing kit/Rapid DNA cartridge; (3) the settings of the Expert System; or (4) any other software parameters. A manufacturer seeking to change any component of an NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking System shall contact the NDIS Custodian to discuss the changes and the documentation needed to submit such request to the NDIS Custodian for approval.

5.4 Authorized Use of NDIS Approved Rapid DNA Booking Systems

Booking Agencies shall use only an NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking System(s) to perform Rapid DNA analysis on qualifying Arrestee cheek swabs.

For purposes of uploading and/or searching CODIS, Rapid DNA Booking Systems are not authorized for use on crime scene samples and any resulting DNA records generated from the use of an NDIS approved Rapid DNA Booking System with crime scene samples are not eligible for upload to, and/or search at, any level of CODIS.

Terms and Definitions

Arrestee is an individual who is subject to arrest, either with or without a warrant, and required, by an applicable State or Federal law, to provide a DNA sample for law enforcement identification and databasing purposes.

Arrestee DNA sample collection law is a Federal or State law that authorizes the collection of a DNA sample from a person arrested for a specific offense at the time of arrest and, for which there are no additional requirements (i.e.., determination of probable cause) for the analysis of that Arrestee DNA sample.

Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Security Policy contains the minimum security requirements for safeguarding criminal justice information; compliance with which is required by criminal justice agencies seeking to access the Federal Bureau of Investigation's systems and information. Available at https://www.fbi.gov/services/cjis/cjis-security-policy-resource-center.

Investigating Agency is the law enforcement agency investigating a criminal offense for which a forensic unknown DNA profile was developed and submitted to the DNA Index of Special Concern.

Qualifying Arrest Offense is the offense for which the DNA sample is being collected at the time of arrest in accordance with applicable Federal or State law.

General Requirements for a Rapid DNA Booking System

A Rapid DNA Booking System has additional requirements to meet the Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies (Standards). For Rapid DNA Booking Systems that are not based on a previously NDIS approved Rapid DNA System for use in an accredited laboratory, please refer to Section 5.1 of these Procedures for additional guidance.

For Rapid DNA Booking System approval, manufacturers shall provide detailed documentation of the following:

1. User manuals and any other documentation provided to the booking agency
2. Simplified naming convention of the Rapid DNA Booking System being submitted for approval
3. Mechanism for preventing the run of non-NDIS approved Rapid DNA cartridges (Standard 3.1)
4. Mechanism for ensuring Rapid DNA cartridges and reagents are not used beyond their manufacturer specified expiration dates (Standard 3.4.1)
5. Mechanism for documenting the lot numbers, to include the expiration date, of the Rapid DNA cartridge and other reagents used for each Rapid DNA Booking System run, and if the documentation is generated by the Rapid DNA Booking System or by the Booking Agency (Standard 3.4.2)
6. Mechanism for evaluating positive and negative controls, to include the loci and pass criteria for performance checks (Standard 3.5)
7. Mechanism for documenting performance checks conducted on a Rapid DNA Booking System and if the documentation is generated by the Rapid DNA Booking System or by the Booking Agency (Standard 3.6)
8. Mechanism for creating and documenting Operator user accounts with different access rights on the Rapid DNA Booking System, and if the documentation is generated by the Rapid DNA Booking System or by the Booking Agency (Standard 4)
9. Mechanism for safeguarding the confidentially of the DNA data in accordance with Federal and State laws, and if the mechanism is automatically performed by the Rapid DNA Booking System or is the responsibility of the Booking Agency (Standard 5.1)
10. Mechanism for requiring advanced authentication to log into a Rapid DNA Booking System (Standard 5.1.2)
11. Mechanism for ensuring secure data transmission to/from the Rapid DNA Booking System (Standard 5.2)
12. Mechanism for ensuring the deletion of DNA data at regular intervals so that data is not used or stored in an unauthorized manner, and if the mechanism is automatically performed by the Rapid DNA Booking System or is the responsibility of the Booking Agency (Standard 5.3)
13. Confirmation of which loci are evaluated by the Rapid DNA Booking System and which loci are included in the Rapid CMF message

The FBI reserves the right to request additional information and documentation, as necessary, to conduct a thorough review and evaluation.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Law enforcement needs timely and secure access to services that provide data wherever and whenever for stopping and reducing crime. In response to these needs, the Advisory Policy Board (APB) recommended to the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) that the Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Division authorize the expansion of the existing security management structure in 1998. Administered through a shared management philosophy, the CJIS Security Policy contains information security requirements, guidelines, and agreements reflecting the will of law enforcement and criminal justice agencies for protecting the sources, transmission, storage, and generation of Criminal Justice Information (CJI). The Federal Information Security Management Act of 2002 provides further legal basis for the APB approved management, operational, and technical security requirements mandated to protect CJI and by extension the hardware, software and infrastructure required to enable the services provided by the criminal justice community.

The essential premise of the CJIS Security Policy (CJISSECPOL) is to provide appropriate controls to protect the full lifecycle of CJI, whether at rest or in transit. The CJIS Security Policy provides guidance for the creation, viewing, modification, transmission, dissemination, storage, and destruction of CJI. This Policy applies to every individual—contractor, private entity, noncriminal justice agency representative, or member of a criminal justice entity—with access to, or who operate in support of, criminal justice services and information.

The CJIS Security Policy integrates presidential directives, federal laws, FBI directives and the criminal justice community's APB decisions along with nationally recognized guidance from the National Institute of Standards and Technology. The Policy is presented at both strategic and tactical levels and is periodically updated to reflect the security requirements of evolving business models. The Policy features modular sections enabling more frequent updates to address emerging threats and new security measures. The provided security criteria assists agencies with designing and implementing systems to meet a uniform level of risk and security protection while enabling agencies the latitude to institute more stringent security requirements and controls based on their business model and local needs.

The CJIS Security Policy strengthens the partnership between the FBI and CJIS Systems Agencies (CSA), including, in those states with separate authorities, the State Identification Bureaus (SIB). Further, as use of criminal history record information for noncriminal justice purposes continues to expand, the CJIS Security Policy becomes increasingly important in guiding the National Crime Prevention and Privacy Compact Council and State Compact Officers in the secure exchange of criminal justice records.

The Policy describes the vision and captures the security concepts that set the policies, protections, roles, and responsibilities with minimal impact from changes in technology. The Policy empowers CSAs with the insight and ability to tune their security programs according to their risks, needs, budgets, and resource constraints while remaining compliant with the baseline level of security set forth in this Policy. The CJIS Security Policy provides a secure framework of laws, standards, and elements of published and vetted policies for accomplishing the mission across the broad spectrum of the criminal justice and noncriminal justice communities.

1 INTRODUCTION

This section details the purpose of this document, its scope, relationship to other information security policies, and its distribution constraints.

1.1 Purpose

The CJIS Security Policy provides Criminal Justice Agencies (CJA) and Noncriminal Justice Agencies (NCJA) with a minimum set of security requirements for access to Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Division systems and information and to protect and safeguard Criminal Justice Information (CJI). This minimum standard of security requirements ensures continuity of information protection. The essential premise of the CJIS Security Policy is to provide the appropriate controls to protect CJI, from creation through dissemination; whether at rest or in transit.

The CJIS Security Policy integrates presidential directives, federal laws, FBI directives, the criminal justice community's Advisory Policy Board (APB) decisions along with nationally recognized guidance from the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) and the National Crime Prevention and Privacy Compact Council (Compact Council).

1.2 Scope

At the consent of the advisory process, and taking into consideration federal law and state statutes, the CJIS Security Policy applies to all entities with access to, or who operate in support of, FBI CJIS Division's services and information. The CJIS Security Policy provides minimum security requirements associated with the creation, viewing, modification, transmission, dissemination, storage, or destruction of CJI.

Entities engaged in the interstate exchange of CJI data for noncriminal justice purposes are also governed by the standards and rules promulgated by the Compact Council.

1.3 Relationship to Local Security Policy and Other Policies

The CJIS Security Policy may be used as the sole security policy for the agency. The local agency may complement the CJIS Security Policy with a local policy, or the agency may develop their own stand-alone security policy; however, the CJIS Security Policy shall always be the minimum standard and local policy may augment, or increase the standards, but shall not detract from the CJIS Security Policy standards.

The agency shall develop, disseminate, and maintain formal, documented procedures to facilitate the implementation of the CJIS Security Policy and, where applicable, the local security policy. The policies and procedures shall be consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, policies, regulations, standards, and guidance. Procedures developed for CJIS Security Policy areas can be developed for the security program in general, and for a particular information system, when required.

This document is a compendium of applicable policies in providing guidance on the minimum security controls and requirements needed to access FBI CJIS information and services. These policies include presidential directives, federal laws, FBI directives and the criminal justice community's APB decisions. State, local, and Tribal CJA may implement more stringent policies and requirements. Appendix I contains the references while Appendix E lists the security forums and organizational entities referenced in this document.

1.4 Terminology Used in This Document

Effective in version 5.9.5, priority and implementation markings have been added to the modernized controls. Based on the FBI Director approved APB recommendation, beginning October 1, 2024, requirements existing prior to the CJISSECPOL modernization (i.e., version 5.9) and those identified as Priority 1 ([Priority 1]) will be the set of sanctionable requirements.

- Non-modernized sections do not have markings but are considered "existing" requirements and continue to be auditable and sanctionable.
- "Existing" modernized requirements and indicated by the [Existing] marking.
- Priority 1 modernized requirements are indicated by the [Priority 1] marking.
- All [Priority 2], [Priority 3], and [Priority 4] modernized requirements fall into a zero-cycle status. The zero-cycle begins October 1, 2024 and ends September 30, 2027.

The following terms are used interchangeably throughout this document:

- Agency and Organization: The two terms in this document refer to any entity that submits or receives information, by any means, to/from FBI CJIS systems or services.
- Information and Data: Both terms refer to CJI.
- System, Information System, Service, or named applications like NCIC: all refer to connections to the FBI's criminal justice information repositories and the equipment used to establish said connections.
- References/Citations/Directives: Appendix I contains all of the references used in this Policy and may contain additional sources that could apply to any section.

Appendix A and B provide an extensive list of the terms and acronyms.

1.5 Distribution of the CJIS Security Policy

The CJIS Security Policy, version 5.0 and later, is a publicly available document and may be posted and shared without restrictions.

2 CJIS SECURITY POLICY APPROACH

The CJIS Security Policy represents the shared responsibility between FBI CJIS, CJIS Systems Agency (CSA), and the State Identification Bureaus (SIB) of the lawful use and appropriate protection of CJI. The Policy provides a baseline of security requirements for current and planned services and sets a minimum standard for new initiatives.

2.1 CJIS Security Policy Vision Statement

The executive summary of this document describes the vision in terms of business needs for confidentiality, integrity, and availability of information. The APB collaborates with the FBI CJIS Division to ensure that the Policy remains updated to meet evolving business, technology and security needs.

2.2 Architecture Independent

Due to advancing technology and evolving business models, the FBI CJIS Division is transitioning from legacy stovepipe systems and moving toward a flexible services approach. Systems such as National Crime Information Center (NCIC), National Instant Criminal Background Check System (NICS), and Next Generation Identification (NGI) will continue to evolve and may no longer retain their current system platforms, hardware, or program name. However, the data and services provided by these systems will remain stable.

The CJIS Security Policy looks at the data (information), services, and protection controls that apply regardless of the implementation architecture. Architectural independence is not intended to lessen the importance of systems, but provide for the replacement of one technology with another while ensuring the controls required to protect the information remain constant. This objective and conceptual focus on security policy areas provide the guidance and standards while avoiding the impact of the constantly changing landscape of technical innovations. The architectural independence of the Policy provides agencies with the flexibility for tuning their information security infrastructure and policies to reflect their own environments.

2.3 Risk Versus Realism

Every “shall” statement contained within the CJIS Security Policy has been scrutinized for risk versus the reality of resource constraints and real-world application. The purpose of the CJIS Security Policy is to establish the minimum security requirements; therefore, individual agencies are encouraged to implement additional controls to address agency specific risks. Each agency faces risk unique to that agency. It is quite possible that several agencies could encounter the same type of risk however depending on resources would mitigate that risk differently. In that light, a risk-based approach can be used when implementing requirements.

3 ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

3.1 Shared Management Philosophy

In the scope of information security, the FBI CJIS Division employs a shared management philosophy with federal, state, local, and tribal law enforcement agencies. Although an advisory policy board for the NCIC has existed since 1969, the Director of the FBI established the CJIS APB in March 1994 to enable appropriate input and recommend policy with respect to CJIS services. Through the APB and its Subcommittees and Working Groups, consideration is given to the needs of the criminal justice and law enforcement community regarding public policy, statutory and privacy aspects, as well as national security relative to CJIS systems and information. The APB represents federal, state, local, and tribal law enforcement and criminal justice agencies throughout the United States, its territories, and Canada.

The FBI has a similar relationship with the Compact Council, which governs the interstate exchange of criminal history records for noncriminal justice purposes. The Compact Council is mandated by federal law to promulgate rules and procedures for the use of the Interstate Identification Index (III) for noncriminal justice purposes. To meet that responsibility, the Compact Council depends on the CJIS Security Policy as the definitive source for standards defining the security and privacy of records exchanged with noncriminal justice practitioners.

3.2 Roles and Responsibilities for Agencies and Parties

It is the responsibility of all agencies covered under this Policy to ensure the protection of CJI between the FBI CJIS Division and its user community. The following figure provides an abstract representation of the strategic functions and roles such as governance and operations.

The CSO shall set, maintain, and enforce the following:

1. Standards for the selection, supervision, and separation of personnel who have access to CJI.
2. Policy governing the operation of computers, access devices, circuits, hubs, routers, firewalls, and other components that comprise and support a telecommunications network and related CJIS systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI, guaranteeing the priority, confidentiality, integrity, and availability of service needed by the criminal justice community.
    a. Ensure appropriate use, enforce system discipline, and ensure CJIS Division operating procedures are followed by all users of the respective services and information.

g. Approve access to FBI CJIS systems.

h. Assume ultimate responsibility for managing the security of CJIS systems within their state and/or agency.

i. Perform other related duties outlined by the user agreements with the FBI CJIS Division.

3. Outsourcing of Criminal Justice Functions

   a. Responsibility for the management of the approved security requirements shall remain with the CJA. Security control includes the authority to enforce the standards for the selection, supervision, and separation of personnel who have access to CJI; set and enforce policy governing the operation of computers, circuits, and telecommunications terminals used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and to guarantee the priority service needed by the criminal justice community.

   b. Responsibility for the management control of network security shall remain with the CJA. Management control of network security includes the authority to enforce the standards for the selection, supervision, and separation of personnel who have access to CJI; set and enforce policy governing the operation of circuits and network equipment used to transmit CJI; and to guarantee the priority service as determined by the criminal justice community.

3.2.3 Terminal Agency Coordinator (TAC)

The TAC serves as the point-of-contact at the local agency for matters relating to CJIS information access. The TAC administers CJIS systems programs within the local agency and oversees the agency's compliance with CJIS systems policies.

3.2.4 Criminal Justice Agency (CJA)

A CJA is defined as a court, a governmental agency, or any subunit of a governmental agency which performs the administration of criminal justice pursuant to a statute or executive order and which allocates a substantial part of its annual budget to the administration of criminal justice. State and federal Inspectors General Offices are included.

3.2.5 Noncriminal Justice Agency (NCJA)

A NCJA is defined (for the purposes of access to CJI) as an entity or any subunit thereof that provides services primarily for purposes other than the administration of criminal justice.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

3.2.6 Contracting Government Agency (CGA)

A CGA is a government agency, whether a CJA or a NCJA, that enters into an agreement with a private contractor subject to the CJIS Security Addendum. The CGA entering into an agreement with a contractor shall appoint an agency coordinator.

3.2.7 Agency Coordinator (AC)

An AC is a staff member of the CGA who manages the agreement between the Contractor and agency. The AC shall be responsible for the supervision and integrity of the system, training and continuing education of employees and operators, scheduling of initial training and testing, and certification testing and all required reports by NCIC. The AC shall:

1. Understand the communications, records capabilities, and needs of the Contractor which is accessing federal and state records through or because of its relationship with the CGA.
2. Participate in related meetings and provide input and comments for system improvement.
3. Receive information from the CGA (e.g., system updates) and disseminate it to appropriate Contractor employees.
4. Maintain and update manuals applicable to the effectuation of the agreement, and provide them to the Contractor.
5. Maintain up-to-date records of Contractor's employees who access the system, including name, date of birth, social security number, date fingerprint card(s) submitted, date security clearance issued, and date initially trained, tested, certified or recertified (if applicable).
6. Train or ensure the training of Contractor personnel. If Contractor personnel access NCIC, schedule the operators for testing or a certification exam with the CSA staff, or AC staff with permission from the CSA staff. Schedule new operators for the certification exam within six (6) months of assignment. Schedule certified operators for biennial re-certification testing within thirty (30) days prior to the expiration of certification. Schedule operators for other mandated class.
7. The AC will not permit an untrained/untested or non-certified Contractor employee to access CJI or systems supporting CJI where access to CJI can be gained.
8. Where appropriate, ensure compliance by the Contractor with NCIC validation requirements.
9. Provide completed applicant fingerprint cards on each Contractor employee who accesses the system to the CGA (or, where appropriate, CSA) for criminal background investigation prior to such employee accessing the system.
10. Any other responsibility for the AC promulgated by the FBI.

3.2.8 CJIS Systems Agency Information Security Officer (CSA ISO)

The CSA ISO shall:

1. Serve as the security point of contact (POC) to the FBI CJIS Division ISO.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

2. Document technical compliance with the CJIS Security Policy with the goal to assure the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of criminal justice information to the user community throughout the CSA's user community, to include the local level.
3. Document and provide assistance for implementing the security-related controls for the Interface Agency and its users.
4. Establish a security incident response and reporting procedure to discover, investigate, document, and report to the CSA, the affected criminal justice agency, and the FBI CJIS Division ISO major incidents that significantly endanger the security or integrity of CJI.

3.2.9 Local Agency Security Officer (LASO)

Each LASO shall:

1. Identify who is using the CSA approved hardware, software, and firmware and ensure no unauthorized individuals or processes have access to the same.
2. Identify and document how the equipment is connected to the state system.
3. Ensure that personnel security screening procedures are being followed as stated in this Policy.
4. Ensure the approved and appropriate security measures are in place and working as expected.
5. Support policy compliance and ensure the CSA ISO is promptly informed of security incidents.

3.2.10 FBI CJIS Division Information Security Officer (FBI CJIS ISO)

The FBI CJIS ISO shall:

1. Maintain the CJIS Security Policy.
2. Disseminate the FBI Director approved CJIS Security Policy.
3. Serve as a liaison with the CSA's ISO and with other personnel across the CJIS community and in this regard provide technical guidance as to the intent and implementation of operational and technical policy issues.
4. Serve as a point-of-contact (POC) for computer incident notification and distribution of security alerts to the CSOs and ISOs.
5. Assist with developing audit compliance guidelines as well as identifying and reconciling security-related issues.
6. Develop and participate in information security training programs for the CSOs and ISOs, and provide a means by which to acquire feedback to measure the effectiveness and success of such training.
7. Maintain a security policy resource center (SPRC) on FBI.gov and keep the CSOs and ISOs updated on pertinent information.

3.2.11 Repository Manager

The State Identification Bureau (SIB) Chief, i.e., Repository Manager or Chief Administrator, is the designated manager of the agency having oversight responsibility for a state's fingerprint identification services. If both state fingerprint identification services and CJIS systems control are managed within the same state agency, the SIB Chief and CSO may be the same person.

3.2.12 Compact Officer

Pursuant to the National Crime Prevention and Privacy Compact, each party state shall appoint a Compact Officer who shall ensure that Compact provisions and rules, procedures, and standards established by the Compact Council are complied with in their respective state.

4 CRIMINAL JUSTICE INFORMATION AND PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE INFORMATION

4.1 Criminal Justice Information (CJI)

Criminal Justice Information is the term used to refer to all of the FBI CJIS provided data necessary for law enforcement and civil agencies to perform their missions including, but not limited to biometric, identity history, biographic, property, and case/incident history data. The following categories of CJI describe the various data sets housed by the FBI CJIS architecture:

1. Biometric Data—data derived from one or more intrinsic physical or behavioral traits of humans typically for the purpose of uniquely identifying individuals from within a population. Used to identify individuals, to include: fingerprints, palm prints, iris scans, and facial recognition data.
2. Identity History Data—textual data that corresponds with an individual's biometric data, providing a history of criminal and/or civil events for the identified individual.
3. Biographic Data—information about individuals associated with a unique case, and not necessarily connected to identity data. Biographic data does not provide a history of an individual, only information related to a unique case.
4. Property Data—information about vehicles and property associated with crime when accompanied by any personally identifiable information (PII).
5. Case/Incident History—information about the history of criminal incidents.

The following type of data are exempt from the protection levels required for CJI: transaction control type numbers (e.g., ORI, NIC, UCN, etc.) when not accompanied by information that reveals CJI or PII.

The intent of the CJIS Security Policy is to ensure the protection of the aforementioned CJI until the information is: released to the public via authorized dissemination (e.g., within a court system; presented in crime reports data; released in the interest of public safety); purged or destroyed in accordance with applicable record retention rules. CJI introduced into the court system pursuant to a judicial proceeding that can be released to the public via a public records request is not subject to the CJIS Security Policy.

4.1.1 Criminal History Record Information (CHRI)

Criminal History Record Information (CHRI), sometimes informally referred to as "restricted data", is a subset of CJI. Due to its comparatively sensitive nature, additional controls are required for the access, use and dissemination of CHRI. In addition to the dissemination restrictions outlined below, Title 28, Part 20, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), defines CHRI and provides the regulatory guidance for dissemination of CHRI. While the CJIS Security Policy attempts to be architecturally independent, the III and the NCIC are specifically identified in Title 28, Part 20, CFR, and the NCIC Operating Manual, as associated with CHRI.

4.2 Access, Use and Dissemination of Criminal History Record Information (CHRI), NCIC Restricted Files Information, and NCIC Non-Restricted Files Information

This section describes the requirements for the access, use and dissemination of CHRI, NCIC restricted files information, and NCIC non-restricted files information.

4.2.1 Proper Access, Use, and Dissemination of CHRI

Information obtained from the III is considered CHRI. Rules governing the access, use, and dissemination of CHRI are found in Title 28, Part 20, CFR. The III shall be accessed only for an authorized purpose. Further, CHRI shall only be used for an authorized purpose consistent with the purpose for which III was accessed. Dissemination to another agency is authorized if (a) the other agency is an Authorized Recipient of such information and is being serviced by the accessing agency, or (b) the other agency is performing personnel and appointment functions for criminal justice employment applicants.

4.2.2 Proper Access, Use, and Dissemination of NCIC Restricted Files Information

The NCIC hosts restricted files and non-restricted files. NCIC restricted files are distinguished from NCIC non-restricted files by the policies governing their access and use. Proper access to, use, and dissemination of data from restricted files shall be consistent with the access, use, and dissemination policies concerning the III described in Title 28, Part 20, CFR, and the NCIC Operating Manual. The restricted files, which shall be protected as CHRI, are as follows:

1. Gang Files
2. Threat Screening Center Files
3. Supervised Release Files
4. National Sex Offender Registry Files
5. Historical Protection Order Files of the NCIC
6. Identity Theft Files
7. Protective Interest Files
8. Person With Information (PWI) data in the Missing Person Files
9. Violent Person File
10. NICS Denied Transactions File

The remaining NCIC files are considered non-restricted files.

4.2.3 Proper Access, Use, and Dissemination of NCIC Non-Restricted Files Information

4.2.3.1 For Official Purposes

NCIC non-restricted files are those not listed as restricted files in Section 4.2.2. NCIC non-restricted files information may be accessed and used for any authorized purpose consistent with the inquiring agency's responsibility. Information obtained may be disseminated to (a) other government agencies or (b) private entities authorized by law to receive such information for any purpose consistent with their responsibilities.

4.2.3.2 For Other Authorized Purposes

NCIC non-restricted files may be accessed for other purposes consistent with the resources of the inquiring agency; however, requests for bulk data are discouraged. Information derived from NCIC non-restricted files for other than law enforcement purposes can be used by authorized criminal justice personnel only to confirm the status of a person or property (i.e., wanted or stolen). An inquiring agency is authorized to charge a nominal administrative fee for such service. Non-restricted files information shall not be disseminated commercially.

A response to a NCIC person inquiry may include NCIC restricted files information as well as NCIC non-restricted files information. Agencies shall not disseminate restricted files information for purposes other than law enforcement.

4.2.3.3 CSO Authority in Other Circumstances

If no federal, state or local law or policy prohibition exists, the CSO may exercise discretion to approve or deny dissemination of NCIC non-restricted file information.

4.2.4 Storage

When CHRI is stored, agencies shall establish appropriate administrative, technical and physical safeguards to ensure the security and confidentiality of the information. These records shall be stored for extended periods only when they are key elements for the integrity and/or utility of case files and/or criminal record files. See Section 5.9 for physical security controls.

4.2.5 Justification and Penalties

4.2.5.1 Justification

In addition to the use of purpose codes and logging information, all users shall provide a reason for all III inquiries whenever requested by NCIC System Managers, CSAs, local agency administrators, or their representatives.

4.2.5.2 Penalties

Improper access, use or dissemination of CHRI and NCIC Non-Restricted Files information is serious and may result in administrative sanctions including, but not limited to, termination of services and state and federal criminal penalties.

4.3 Personally Identifiable Information (PII)

For the purposes of this document, PII is information which can be used to distinguish or trace an individual's identity, such as name, social security number, or biometric records, alone or when combined with other personal or identifying information which is linked or linkable to a specific individual, such as date and place of birth, or mother's maiden name. Any FBI CJIS provided data maintained by an agency, including but not limited to, education, financial transactions, medical history, and criminal or employment history may include PII. A criminal history record for example inherently contains PII as would a Law Enforcement National Data Exchange (N-DEx) case file.

PII shall be extracted from CJI for the purpose of official business only. Agencies shall develop policies, based on state and local privacy rules, to ensure appropriate controls are applied when handling PII extracted from CJI. Due to the expansive nature of PII, this Policy does not specify auditing, logging, or personnel security requirements associated with the life cycle of PII.

A citizen of Springfield went to the Springfield Police Department to request whether his new neighbor, who had been acting suspiciously, had an outstanding warrant. The Springfield Police Department ran an NCIC persons inquiry, which produced a response that included a Wanted Person File (non-restricted file) record and a Threat Screening Center File (restricted file) record. The Springfield Police Department advised the citizen of the outstanding warrant but did not disclose any information concerning the subject being on the Threat Screening Center File.

5 POLICY AND IMPLEMENTATION

The policy areas focus upon the data and services that the FBI CJIS Division exchanges and provides to the criminal justice community and its partners. Each policy area provides both strategic reasoning and tactical implementation requirements and standards.

While the major theme of the policy areas is concerned with electronic exchange directly with the FBI, it is understood that further dissemination of CJI to Authorized Recipients by various means (hard copy, e-mail, web posting, etc.) constitutes a significant portion of CJI exchanges. Regardless of its form, use, or method of dissemination, CJI requires protection throughout its life.

Not every consumer of FBI CJIS services will encounter all of the policy areas therefore the circumstances of applicability are based on individual agency/entity configurations and usage. Use cases within each of the policy areas will help users relate the Policy to their own agency circumstances. The policy areas are:

- Policy Area 1—Information Exchange Agreements
- Policy Area 2—Awareness and Training (AT)
- Policy Area 3—Incident Response (IR)
- Policy Area 4—Auditing and Accountability (AU)
- Policy Area 5—Access Control (AC)
- Policy Area 6—Identification and Authentication (IA)
- Policy Area 7—Configuration Management
- Policy Area 8—Media Protection (MP)
- Policy Area 9—Physical and Environmental Protection (PE)
- Policy Area 10—Systems and Communications Protection (SC)
- Policy Area 11—Formal Audits
- Policy Area 12—Personnel Security
- Policy Area 13—Mobile Devices
- Policy Area 14—System and Services Acquisition (SA)
- Policy Area 15—System and Information Integrity (SI)
- Policy Area 16—Maintenance (MA)
- Policy Area 17—Planning (PL)
- Policy Area 18—Contingency Planning (CP)
- Policy Area 19—Risk Assessment (RA)

5.1 Policy Area 1: Information Exchange Agreements

The information shared through communication mediums shall be protected with appropriate security safeguards. The agreements established by entities sharing information across systems and communications mediums are vital to ensuring all parties fully understand and agree to a set of security standards.

5.1.1 Information Exchange

Before exchanging CJI, agencies shall put formal agreements in place that specify security controls. The exchange of information may take several forms including electronic mail, instant messages, web services, facsimile, hard copy, and information systems sending, receiving and storing CJI.

Information exchange agreements outline the roles, responsibilities, and data ownership between agencies and any external parties. Information exchange agreements for agencies sharing CJI data that is sent to and/or received from the FBI CJIS shall specify the security controls and conditions described in this document.

Information exchange agreements shall be supported by documentation committing both parties to the terms of information exchange. As described in subsequent sections, different agreements and policies apply, depending on whether the parties involved are CJAs or NCJAs. See Appendix D for examples of Information Exchange Agreements.

There may be instances, on an ad-hoc basis, where CJI is authorized for further dissemination to Authorized Recipients not covered by an information exchange agreement with the releasing agency. In these instances the dissemination of CJI is considered to be secondary dissemination. Law Enforcement and civil agencies shall have a local policy to validate a requestor of CJI as an authorized recipient before disseminating CJI. See Section 5.1.3 for secondary dissemination guidance.

5.1.1.1 Information Handling

Procedures for handling and storage of information shall be established to protect that information from unauthorized disclosure, alteration or misuse. Using the requirements in this Policy as a starting point, the procedures shall apply to the handling, processing, storing, and communication of CJI. These procedures apply to the exchange of CJI no matter the form of exchange.

The policies for information handling and protection also apply to using CJI shared with or received from FBI CJIS for noncriminal justice purposes. In general, a noncriminal justice purpose includes the use of criminal history records for purposes authorized by federal or state law other than purposes relating to the administration of criminal justice, including – but not limited to - employment suitability, licensing determinations, immigration and naturalization matters, and national security clearances.

5.1.1.2 State and Federal Agency User Agreements

Each CSA head or SIB Chief shall execute a signed written user agreement with the FBI CJIS Division stating their willingness to demonstrate conformity with this Policy before accessing and participating in CJIS records information programs. This agreement shall include the standards and sanctions governing utilization of CJIS systems. As coordinated through the particular CSA or SIB Chief, each Interface Agency shall also allow the FBI to periodically test the ability to penetrate the FBI's network through the external network connection or system. All user agreements with the FBI CJIS Division shall be coordinated with the CSA head.

5.1.1.3 Criminal Justice Agency User Agreements

Any CJA receiving access to CJI shall enter into a signed written agreement with the appropriate signatory authority of the CSA providing the access. The written agreement shall specify the FBI CJIS systems and services to which the agency will have access, and the FBI CJIS Division policies to which the agency must adhere. These agreements shall include:

1. Audit.
2. Dissemination.
3. Hit confirmation.
4. Logging.
5. Quality Assurance (QA).
6. Screening (Pre-Employment).
7. Security.
8. Timeliness.
9. Training.
10. Use of the system.
11. Validation.

5.1.1.4 Interagency and Management Control Agreements

A NCJA (government) designated to perform criminal justice functions for a CJA shall be eligible for access to the CJI. Access shall be permitted when such designation is authorized pursuant to executive order, statute, regulation, or interagency agreement. The NCJA shall sign and execute a management control agreement (MCA) with the CJA, which stipulates management control of the criminal justice function remains solely with the CJA. The MCA may be a separate document or included with the language of an interagency agreement. An example of an NCJA (government) is a city information technology (IT) department.

5.1.1.5 Private Contractor User Agreements and CJIS Security Addendum

The CJIS Security Addendum is a uniform addendum to an agreement between the government agency and a private contractor, approved by the Attorney General of the United States, which specifically authorizes access to CHRI, limits the use of the information to the purposes for which it is provided, ensures the security and confidentiality of the information is consistent with existing regulations and the CJIS Security Policy, provides for sanctions, and contains such other provisions as the Attorney General may require.

Private contractors who perform criminal justice functions shall meet the same training and certification criteria required by governmental agencies performing a similar function, and shall be subject to the same extent of audit review as are local user agencies. All private contractors who perform criminal justice functions shall acknowledge, via signing of the CJIS Security Addendum Certification page, and abide by all aspects of the CJIS Security Addendum. The CJIS Security Addendum is presented in Appendix H. Modifications to the CJIS Security Addendum shall be enacted only by the FBI.

1. Private contractors designated to perform criminal justice functions for a CJA shall be eligible for access to CJI. Access shall be permitted pursuant to an agreement which specifically identifies the agency's purpose and scope of providing services for the administration of criminal justice. The agreement between the CJA and the private contractor shall incorporate the CJIS Security Addendum approved by the Director of the FBI, acting for the U.S. Attorney General, as referenced in Title 28 CFR 20.33 (a)(7).
2. Private contractors designated to perform criminal justice functions on behalf of a NCJA (government) shall be eligible for access to CJI. Access shall be permitted pursuant to an agreement which specifically identifies the agency's purpose and scope of providing services for the administration of criminal justice. The agreement between the NCJA and the private contractor shall incorporate the CJIS Security Addendum approved by the Director of the FBI, acting for the U.S. Attorney General, as referenced in Title 28 CFR 20.33 (a)(7).

5.1.1.6 Agency User Agreements

A NCJA (public) designated to request civil fingerprint-based background checks, with the full consent of the individual to whom a background check is taking place, for noncriminal justice functions, shall be eligible for access to CJI. Access shall be permitted when such designation is authorized pursuant to federal law or state statute approved by the U.S. Attorney General. A NCJA (public) receiving access to CJI shall enter into a signed written agreement with the appropriate signatory authority of the CSA/SIB providing the access. An example of a NCJA (public) is a county school board.

A NCJA (private) designated to request civil fingerprint-based background checks, with the full consent of the individual to whom a background check is taking place, for noncriminal justice functions, shall be eligible for access to CJI. Access shall be permitted when such designation is authorized pursuant to federal law or state statute approved by the U.S. Attorney General. A NCJA (private) receiving access to CJI shall enter into a signed written agreement with the appropriate signatory authority of the CSA, SIB, or authorized agency providing the access. An example of a NCJA (private) is a local bank.

All NCJAs accessing CJI shall be subject to all pertinent areas of the CJIS Security Policy (see Appendix J for supplemental guidance). Each NCJA that directly accesses FBI CJI shall also allow the FBI to periodically test the ability to penetrate the FBI's network through the external network connection or system.

5.1.1.7 Outsourcing Standards for Channelers

Channelers designated to request civil fingerprint-based background checks or noncriminal justice ancillary functions on behalf of a NCJA (public) or NCJA (private) for noncriminal justice functions shall be eligible for access to CJI. Access shall be permitted when such designation is authorized pursuant to federal law or state statute approved by the U.S. Attorney General. All Channelers accessing CJI shall be subject to the terms and conditions described in the Compact

Council Security and Management Control Outsourcing Standard. Each Channeler that directly accesses CJI shall also allow the FBI to conduct periodic penetration testing.

Channelers leveraging CJI to perform civil functions on behalf of an Authorized Recipient shall meet the same training and certification criteria required by governmental agencies performing a similar function, and shall be subject to the same extent of audit review as are local user agencies.

5.1.1.8 Outsourcing Standards for Non-Channelers

Contractors designated to perform noncriminal justice ancillary functions on behalf of a NCJA (public) or NCJA (private) for noncriminal justice functions shall be eligible for access to CJI. Access shall be permitted when such designation is authorized pursuant to federal law or state statute approved by the U.S. Attorney General. All contractors accessing CJI shall be subject to the terms and conditions described in the Compact Council Outsourcing Standard for Non-Channelers. Contractors leveraging CJI to perform civil functions on behalf of an Authorized Recipient shall meet the same training and certification criteria required by governmental agencies performing a similar function, and shall be subject to the same extent of audit review as are local user agencies.

5.1.2 Monitoring, Review, and Delivery of Services

As specified in the interagency agreements, MCAs, and contractual agreements with private contractors, the services, reports and records provided by the service provider shall be regularly monitored and reviewed. The CJA, authorized agency, or FBI shall maintain sufficient overall control and visibility into all security aspects to include, but not limited to, identification of vulnerabilities and information security incident reporting/response. The incident reporting/response process used by the service provider shall conform to the incident reporting/response specifications provided in this Policy.

5.1.2.1 Managing Changes to Service Providers

Any changes to services provided by a service provider shall be managed by the CJA, authorized agency, or FBI. This includes provision of services, changes to existing services, and new services. Evaluation of the risks to the agency shall be undertaken based on the criticality of the data, system, and the impact of the change.

5.1.3 Secondary Dissemination

If CHRI is released to another authorized agency, and that agency was not part of the releasing agency's primary information exchange agreement(s), the releasing agency shall log such dissemination.

5.1.4 Secondary Dissemination of Non-CHRI CJI

If CJI does not contain CHRI and is not part of an information exchange agreement then it does not need to be logged. Dissemination shall conform to the local policy validating the requestor of the CJI as an employee and/or contractor of a law enforcement agency or civil agency requiring the CJI to perform their mission or a member of the public receiving CJI via authorized dissemination.

A local police department executed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) for the interface with their state CSA. The local police department also executed an MOU (which included an MCA) with the county information technology (IT) department for the day-to-day operations of their criminal-justice infrastructure. The county IT department, in turn, outsourced operations to a local vendor who signed the CJIS Security Addendum.

5.2 AWARENESS AND TRAINING (AT)

Security training is key to the human element of information security. All users with authorized access to CJI should be made aware of their individual responsibilities and expected behavior when accessing CJI and the systems which process CJI. LASOs require enhanced training on the specific duties and responsibilities of those positions and the impact those positions have on the overall security of information systems.

AT-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to all personnel when their unescorted logical or physical access to any information system results in the ability, right, or privilege to view, modify, or make use of unencrypted CJI:
    1. Organization-level awareness and training policy that:
        a. Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
        b. Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
    2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the awareness and training policy and the associated awareness and training controls;
b. Designate organizational personnel with information security awareness and training responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the awareness and training policy and procedures; and
c. Review and update the current awareness and training:
    1. Policy annually and following changes in the information system operating environment, when security incidents occur, or when changes to the CJIS Security Policy are made; and
    2. Procedures annually and following changes in the information system operating environment, when security incidents occur, or when changes to the CJIS Security Policy are made.

Discussion: Awareness and training policy and procedures address the controls in the AT family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of awareness and training policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to awareness and training policy and procedures include assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

AT-2 LITERACY TRAINING AND AWARENESS

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Provide security and privacy literacy training to system users (including managers, senior executives, and contractors):
    1. As part of initial training for new users prior to accessing CJI and annually thereafter; and
    2. When required by system changes or within 30 days of any security event for individuals involved in the event;
b. Employ one or more of the following techniques to increase the security and privacy awareness of system users:
    1. Displaying posters
    2. Offering supplies inscribed with security and privacy reminders
    3. Displaying logon screen messages
    4. Generating email advisories or notices from organizational officials
    5. Conducting awareness events
c. Update literacy training and awareness content annually and following changes in the information system operating environment, when security incidents occur, or when changes are made in the CJIS Security Policy; and
d. Incorporate lessons learned from internal or external security incidents or breaches into literacy training and awareness techniques.

Discussion: Organizations provide basic and advanced levels of literacy training to system users, including measures to test the knowledge level of users. Organizations determine the content of literacy training and awareness based on specific organizational requirements, the systems to which personnel have authorized access, and work environments (e.g., telework). The content includes an understanding of the need for security and privacy as well as actions by users to maintain security and personal privacy and to respond to suspected incidents. The content addresses the need for operations security and the handling of personally identifiable information.

Awareness techniques include displaying posters, offering supplies inscribed with security and privacy reminders, displaying logon screen messages, generating email advisories or notices from organizational officials, and conducting awareness events. Literacy training after the initial training described in AT-2a.1 is conducted at a minimum frequency consistent with applicable laws, directives, regulations, and policies. Subsequent literacy training may be satisfied by one or more short ad hoc sessions and include topical information on recent attack schemes, changes to organizational security and privacy policies, revised security and privacy expectations, or a subset of topics from the initial training. Updating literacy training and awareness content on a regular basis helps to ensure that the content remains relevant. Events that may precipitate an update to literacy training and awareness content include, but are not limited to, assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines.

(2) LITERACY TRAINING AND AWARENESS | INSIDER THREAT

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Provide literacy training on recognizing and reporting potential indicators of insider threat.

Discussion: Potential indicators and possible precursors of insider threat can include behaviors such as inordinate, long-term job dissatisfaction; attempts to gain access to information not required for job performance; unexplained access to financial resources; bullying or harassment of fellow employees; workplace violence; and other serious violations of policies, procedures, directives, regulations, rules, or practices. Literacy training includes how to communicate the concerns of employees and management regarding potential indicators of insider threat through channels established by the organization and in accordance with established policies and procedures. Organizations may consider tailoring insider threat awareness topics to the role. For example, training for managers may be focused on changes in the behavior of team members, while training for employees may be focused on more general observations.

(3) LITERACY TRAINING AND AWARENESS | SOCIAL ENGINEERING AND MINING

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Provide literacy training on recognizing and reporting potential and actual instances of social engineering and social mining.

Discussion: Social engineering is an attempt to trick an individual into revealing information or taking an action that can be used to breach, compromise, or otherwise adversely impact a system. Social engineering includes phishing, pretexting, impersonation, baiting, quid pro quo, thread-jacking, social media exploitation, and tailgating. Social mining is an attempt to gather information about the organization that may be used to support future attacks.

Literacy training includes information on how to communicate the concerns of employees and management regarding potential and actual instances of social engineering and data mining through organizational channels based on established policies and procedures.

    a. Access Control
    b. System and Communications Protection and Information Integrity
    c. Patch Management
    d. Data backup and storage—centralized or decentralized approach
    e. Most recent changes to the CJIS Security Policy

4. Organizational Personnel with Security Responsibilities: Personnel with the responsibility to ensure the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of CJI and the implementation of technology in a manner compliant with the CJISSECPOL. Discussion: Organizations determine the content of training based on the assigned roles and responsibilities of individuals as well as the security and privacy requirements of organizations and the systems to which personnel have authorized access, including technical training specifically tailored for assigned duties. Roles that may require role-based training include senior leaders or management officials (e.g., head of agency/chief executive officer, chief information officer, senior accountable official for risk management, senior agency information security officer, senior agency official for privacy), system owners; authorizing officials; system security officers; privacy officers; acquisition and procurement officials; enterprise architects; systems engineers; software developers; systems security engineers; privacy engineers; system, network, and database administrators; auditors; personnel conducting configuration management activities; personnel performing verification and validation activities; personnel with access to system-level software; control assessors; personnel with contingency planning and incident response duties; personnel with privacy management responsibilities; and personnel with access to personally identifiable information.

Comprehensive role-based training addresses management, operational, and technical roles and responsibilities covering physical, personnel, and technical controls. Role-based training also includes policies, procedures, tools, methods, and artifacts for the security and privacy roles defined. Organizations provide the training necessary for individuals to fulfill their responsibilities related to operations and supply chain risk management within the context of organizational security and privacy programs. Role-based training also applies to contractors who provide services to federal agencies. Types of training include web-based and computer-based training, classroom-style training, and hands-on training (including micro-training). Updating role-based training on a regular basis helps to ensure that the content remains relevant and effective. Events that may precipitate an update to role-based training content include, but are not limited to, assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines.

(5) ROLE-BASED TRAINING | PROCESSING PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE INFORMATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Provide all personnel when their unescorted logical or physical access to any information system results in the ability, right, or privilege to view, modify, or make use of unencrypted CJI with initial and annual training in the employment and operation of personally identifiable information processing and transparency controls.

Discussion: Personally identifiable information processing and transparency controls include the organization’s authority to process personally identifiable information and personally identifiable information processing purposes. Role-based training for federal agencies addresses the types of information that may constitute personally identifiable information and the risks, considerations, and obligations associated with its processing. Such training also considers the authority to process personally identifiable information documented in privacy policies and notices, system of records notices, computer matching agreements and notices, privacy impact assessments, [PRIVACT] statements, contracts, information sharing agreements, memoranda of understanding, and/or other documentation.

AT-4 TRAINING RECORDS

[Existing] [Priority 4]

Control:

a. Document and monitor information security and privacy training activities, including security and privacy awareness training and specific role-based security and privacy training; and

b. Retain individual training records for a minimum of three years.

Discussion: Documentation for specialized training may be maintained by individual supervisors at the discretion of the organization. The National Archives and Records Administration provides guidance on records retention for federal agencies. Retention of records for three (3) years accounts for a triennial audit cycle.

Related Controls: AT-2, AT-3, CP-3, IR-2, SI-12.

Use Case 1 - Awareness and Training Program Implementation by a Local Police Department

A local police department with a staff of 20 sworn criminal justice professionals and 15 support personnel worked with a vendor to develop role-specific -awareness training, and required all staff to complete this training upon assignment and every year thereafter. The vendor maintained the training records for the police department's entire staff, and provided reporting to the department to help it ensure compliance with the CJIS Security Policy.

Use Case 2 – All individuals with unescorted access to a physically secure location

A local police department hires custodial staff that will have physical access throughout the PD (a physically secure location) after normal business hours to clean the facility. These personnel have unescorted access to a physically secure location and therefore must be given the awareness training on all the topics identified in CJISSECPOL AT-3 d 1.

Use Case 3 – General User Awareness and Training

A school district maintains a locked file cabinet with hard copies of background check results of all teachers and employees which may include CJI (CHRI). Only authorized personnel who have the ability to open the cabinet are required to be given the baseline security awareness training on all the topics identified in CJISSECPOL AT-3 d 1 and 2.

Use Case 4 – General User Awareness and Training

A County Sheriff's Office has employed a number of dispatchers. Part of the function of these dispatchers is to run CJI queries at the request of the Sheriff and deputies. As part of their daily duties, the dispatchers have access to CJI both logically (running queries) and physically (printed copies of reports containing CJI). These dispatchers are entrusted with direct access to CJI and are therefore required to be given the awareness training on all the topics identified in CJISSECPOL AT-3 d 1 and 2.

Use Case 5 – Privileged User Awareness and Training

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

The State Police has hired a number of system and network administrator personnel to help bolster security of the state network. Part of their daily duties may include creating accounts for new personnel, implementing security patches for existing systems, creating backups of existing systems, and implementing access controls throughout the network. These administrators have privileged access to CJI and CJI-processing systems and are therefore required to be given the awareness training on all the topics identified in CJISSECPOL AT-3 d 1, 2, and 3.

5.3 INCIDENT RESPONSE (IR)

IR-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to all personnel when their unescorted logical or physical access to any information system results in the ability, right, or privilege to view, modify, or make use of unencrypted CJI:
   1. Agency-level incident response policy that:
      a. Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
      b. Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
   2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the incident response policy and the associated incident response controls;

b. Designate an individual with security responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the incident response policy and procedures; and

c. Review and update the current incident response:
   1. Policy annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and
   2. Procedures annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Incident response policy and procedures address the controls in the IR family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of incident response policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to incident response policy and procedures include assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

IR-2 INCIDENT RESPONSE TRAINING

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Provide incident response training to system users consistent with assigned roles and responsibilities:
   1. Prior to assuming an incident response role or responsibility or acquiring system access;
   2. When required by system changes; and
   3. Annually thereafter; and

b. Review and update incident response training content annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Incident response training is associated with the assigned roles and responsibilities of organizational personnel to ensure that the appropriate content and level of detail are included in such training. For example, users may only need to know who to call or how to recognize an incident; system administrators may require additional training on how to handle incidents; and incident responders may receive more specific training on forensics, data collection techniques, reporting, system recovery, and system restoration. Incident response training includes user training in identifying and reporting suspicious activities from external and internal sources. Incident response training for users may be provided as part of AT-2 or AT-3.

Events that may precipitate an update to incident response training content include, but are not limited to, incident response plan testing or response to an actual incident (lessons learned), assessment or audit findings, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines.

Related Controls: AT-2, AT-3, AT-4, CP-3, IR-3, IR-4, IR-8.

Control Enhancements:

(3) INCIDENT RESPONSE TRAINING | BREACH

[Priority 3]

Control:

Provide incident response training on how to identify and respond to a breach, including the organization's process for reporting a breach.

Discussion: For federal agencies, an incident that involves personally identifiable information is considered a breach. A breach results in the loss of control, compromise, unauthorized disclosure, unauthorized acquisition, or a similar occurrence where a person other than an authorized user accesses or potentially accesses personally identifiable information or an authorized user accesses or potentially accesses such information for other than authorized purposes. The incident response training emphasizes the obligation of individuals to report both confirmed and suspected breaches involving information in any medium or form, including paper, oral, and electronic. Incident response training includes tabletop exercises that simulate a breach.

IR-3 INCIDENT RESPONSE TESTING

[Priority 3]

Control:

Test the effectiveness of the incident response capability for the system annually using the following tests: tabletop or walk-through exercises; simulations; or other agency-appropriate tests.

Discussion: Organizations test incident response capabilities to determine their effectiveness and identify potential weaknesses or deficiencies. Incident response testing includes the use of checklists, walk-through or tabletop exercises, and simulations (parallel or full interrupt). Incident response testing can include a determination of the effects on organizational operations and assets and individuals due to incident response. The use of qualitative and quantitative data aids in determining the effectiveness of incident response processes.

Related Controls: CP-3, CP-4, IR-2, IR-4, IR-8.

Control Enhancements:

(2) INCIDENT RESPONSE TESTING | COORDINATION WITH RELATED PLANS

[Priority 3]

Control:

Coordinate incident response testing with organizational elements responsible for related plans.

Discussion: Organizational plans related to incident response testing include business continuity plans, disaster recovery plans, continuity of operations plans, contingency plans, crisis communications plans, critical infrastructure plans, and occupant emergency plans.

IR-4 INCIDENT HANDLING

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Implement an incident handling capability for incidents that is consistent with the incident response plan and includes preparation, detection and analysis, containment, eradication, and recovery;

b. Coordinate incident handling activities with contingency planning activities;

c. Incorporate lessons learned from ongoing incident handling activities into incident response procedures, training, and testing, and implement the resulting changes accordingly; and

d. Ensure the rigor, intensity, scope, and results of incident handling activities are comparable and predictable across the organization.

Discussion: Organizations recognize that incident response capabilities are dependent on the capabilities of organizational systems and the mission and business processes being supported by those systems. Organizations consider incident response as part of the definition, design, and development of mission and business processes and systems. Incident-related information can be obtained from a variety of sources, including audit monitoring, physical access monitoring, and network monitoring; user or administrator reports; and reported supply chain events. An effective incident handling capability includes coordination among many organizational entities (e.g., mission or business owners, system owners, authorizing officials, human resources offices, physical security offices, personnel security offices, legal departments, risk executive [function], operations personnel, procurement offices). Suspected security incidents include the receipt of suspicious email communications that can contain malicious code. Suspected supply chain incidents include the insertion of counterfeit hardware or malicious code into organizational systems or system components. For federal agencies, an incident that involves personally identifiable information is considered a breach. A breach results in unauthorized disclosure, the loss of control, unauthorized acquisition, compromise, or a similar occurrence where a person other than an authorized user accesses or potentially accesses personally identifiable information or an authorized user accesses or potentially accesses such information for other than authorized purposes.

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Support the incident handling process using automated mechanisms (e.g., online incident management systems and tools that support the collection of live response data, full network packet capture, and forensic analysis.

Discussion: Automated mechanisms that support incident handling processes include online incident management systems and tools that support the collection of live response data, full network packet capture, and forensic analysis. Incident handling could be inherited from an upstream agency or could be part of a state-level process.

IR-5 INCIDENT MONITORING

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control: Track and document incidents.

Discussion: Documenting incidents includes maintaining records about each incident, the status of the incident, and other pertinent information necessary for forensics as well as evaluating incident details, trends, and handling. Incident information can be obtained from a variety of sources, including network monitoring, incident reports, incident response teams, user complaints, supply chain partners, audit monitoring, physical access monitoring, and user and administrator reports. IR-4 provides information on the types of incidents that are appropriate for monitoring.

a. Require personnel to report suspected incidents to the organizational incident response capability immediately but not to exceed one (1) hour after discovery; and

b. Report incident information to organizational personnel with incident handling responsibilities, and if confirmed, notify the CSO, SIB Chief, or Interface Agency Official.

Discussion: The types of incidents reported, the content and timeliness of the reports, and the designated reporting authorities reflect applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Incident information can inform risk assessments, control effectiveness assessments, security requirements for acquisitions, and selection criteria for technology products.

Related Controls: IR-7.

(3) INCIDENT REPORTING | SUPPLY CHAIN COORDINATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Provide incident information to the provider of the product or service and other organizations involved in the supply chain or supply chain governance for systems or system components related to the incident.

Discussion: Organizations involved in supply chain activities include product developers, system integrators, manufacturers, packagers, assemblers, distributors, vendors, and resellers. Entities that provide supply chain governance include the Federal Acquisition Security Council (FASC). Supply chain incidents include compromises or breaches that involve information technology products, system components, development processes or personnel, distribution processes, or warehousing facilities. Organizations determine the appropriate information to share and consider the value gained from informing external organizations about supply chain incidents, including the ability to improve processes or to identify the root cause of an incident.

IR-7 INCIDENT RESPONSE ASSISTANCE

[Existing] [Priority 3]

Control:

Provide an incident response support resource, integral to the organizational incident response capability, that offers advice and assistance to users of the system for the handling and reporting of incidents.

Discussion: Incident response support resources provided by organizations include help desks, assistance groups, automated ticketing systems to open and track incident response tickets, and access to forensics services or consumer redress services, when required.

Related Controls: AT-2, AT-3, IR-4, IR-6, IR-8, SA-9.

Control Enhancements:

(1) INCIDENT RESPONSE ASSISTANCE | AUTOMATION SUPPORT FOR AVAILABILITY OF INFORMATION AND SUPPORT

[Priority 3]

Control:

Increase the availability of incident response information and support using automated mechanisms described in the discussion.

Discussion: Automated mechanisms can provide a push or pull capability for users to obtain incident response assistance. For example, individuals may have access to a website to query the assistance capability, or the assistance capability can proactively send incident response information to users (general distribution or targeted) as part of increasing understanding of current response capabilities and support.

If the automated mechanisms include external assistance that will give unescorted physical or logical access to CJI, it is imperative to ensure that the appropriate controls/procedures (CJIS Security Addendum/Outsourcing Standard) are in place. Examples would include Cyber Incident Response Vendors (IT Security/Law Firms).

Related Controls: None.

IR-8 INCIDENT RESPONSE PLAN

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop an incident response plan that:
    1. Provides the organization with a roadmap for implementing its incident response capability;

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

2. Describes the structure and organization of the incident response capability;
3. Provides a high-level approach for how the incident response capability fits into the overall organization;
4. Meets the unique requirements of the organization, which relate to mission, size, structure, and functions;
5. Defines reportable incidents;
6. Provides metrics for measuring the incident response capability within the organization;
7. Defines the resources and management support needed to effectively maintain and mature an incident response capability;
8. Addresses the sharing of incident information;
9. Is reviewed and approved by the organization's/agency's executive leadership annually; and
10. Explicitly designates responsibility for incident response to organizational personnel with incident reporting responsibilities and CSO or CJIS WAN Official.

b. Distribute copies of the incident response plan to organizational personnel with incident handling responsibilities;

c. Update the incident response plan to address system and organizational changes or problems encountered during plan implementation, execution, or testing;

d. Communicate incident response plan changes to organizational personnel with incident handling responsibilities; and

e. Protect the incident response plan from unauthorized disclosure and modification.

Discussion: It is important that organizations develop and implement a coordinated approach to incident response. Organizational mission and business functions determine the structure of incident response capabilities. As part of the incident response capabilities, organizations consider the coordination and sharing of information with external organizations, including external service providers and other organizations involved in the supply chain. For incidents involving personally identifiable information (i.e., breaches), include a process to determine whether notice to oversight organizations or affected individuals is appropriate and provide that notice accordingly.

Related Controls: AC-2, CP-2, CP-4, IR-4, IR-7, PE-6, PL-2, SA-15, SI-12, SR-8.

Control:

Include the following in the Incident Response Plan for breaches involving personally identifiable information:

a. A process to determine if notice to individuals or other organizations, including oversight organizations, is needed;
b. An assessment process to determine the extent of the harm, embarrassment, inconvenience, or unfairness to affected individuals and any mechanisms to mitigate such harms; and
c. Identification of applicable privacy requirements.

Discussion: Organizations may be required by law, regulation, or policy to follow specific procedures relating to breaches, including notice to individuals, affected organizations, and oversight bodies; standards of harm; and mitigation or other specific requirements.

Figure 5 – Incident Response Process Initiated by an Incident in a Local Police Department

A state ISO received a notification from a local police department that suspicious network activity from a known botnet was detected on their network. The state ISO began the process of collecting all pertinent information about this incident, e.g., incident date/time, points-of-contact, systems affected, nature of the incident, actions taken, etc. and requested that the local police department confirm that their malware signatures were up to date. The state ISO contacted both the FBI CJIS ISO and state CSO to relay the preliminary details of this incident. The FBI CJIS ISO instructed the involved parties to continue their investigation and to submit an incident response form once all the information had been gathered. The FBI CJIS ISO contacted the lead for the FBI CSIRC to inform them that an incident response form was forthcoming. The state ISO gathered the remainder of the information from the local police department and submitted a completed incident response form to the FBI CJIS ISO who subsequently provided it to the FBI CSIRC. The FBI CSIRC notified the Department of Justice Computer Incident Response Team (DOJCIRT). The state ISO continued to monitor the situation, passing relevant details to the FBI CJIS ISO, ultimately determining that the botnet was eliminated from the local police department's infrastructure. Subsequent investigations determined that the botnet was restricted to the department's administrative infrastructure and thus no CJI was compromised.

5.4 AUDIT AND ACCOUNTABILITY (AU)

AU-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to organizational personnel with audit and accountability responsibilities:
    1. Agency and system-level audit and accountability policy that:
        (a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
        (b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
    2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the audit and accountability policy and the associated audit and accountability controls;
b. Designate organizational personnel with information security responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the audit and accountability policy and procedures; and
c. Review and update the current audit and accountability:
    1. Policy annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and
    2. Procedures annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Audit and accountability policy and procedures address the controls in the AU family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of audit and accountability policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to audit and accountability policy and procedures include assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

AU-2 EVENT LOGGING

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Identify the types of events that the system is capable of logging in support of the audit function: authentication, file use, user/group management, events sufficient to establish what occurred, the sources of events, outcomes of events, and operational transactions (e.g., NCIC, III);

b. Coordinate the event logging function with other organizational entities requiring audit-related information to guide and inform the selection criteria for events to be logged;

c. Specify the following event types for logging within the system:

   All successful and unsuccessful:

   1. System log-on attempts
   2. Attempts to use:
      a. Access permission on a user account, file, directory, or other system resource;
      b. Create permission on a user account, file, directory, or other system resource;
      c. Write permission on a user account, file, directory, or other system resource;
      d. Delete permission on a user account, file, directory, or other system resource;
      e. Change permission on a user account, file, directory, or other system resource.
   3. Attempts to change account passwords
   4. Actions by privileged accounts (i.e., root, Oracle, DBA, admin, etc.)
   5. Attempts for users to:
      a. Access the audit log file;
      b. Modify the audit log file;
      c. Destroy the audit log file.

d. Provide a rationale for why the event types selected for logging are deemed to be adequate to support after-the-fact investigations of incidents; and

e. Review and update the event types selected for logging annually.

Discussion: An event is an observable occurrence in a system. The types of events that require logging are those events that are significant and relevant to the security of systems and the privacy of individuals. Event logging also supports specific monitoring and auditing needs. Event types include password changes, failed logons or failed accesses related to systems, security or privacy attribute changes, administrative privilege usage, PIV credential usage, data action changes, query parameters, or external credential usage. In determining the set of event types that require logging, organizations consider the monitoring and auditing appropriate for each of the controls to be implemented. For completeness, event logging includes all protocols that are operational and supported by the system.

To balance monitoring and auditing requirements with other system needs, event logging requires identifying the subset of event types that are logged at a given point in time. For example, organizations may determine that systems need the capability to log every file access successful and unsuccessful, but not activate that capability except for specific circumstances due to the potential burden on system performance. The types of events that organizations desire to be logged may change. Reviewing and updating the set of logged events is necessary to help ensure that the events remain relevant and continue to support the needs of the organization.

Organizations consider how the types of logging events can reveal information about individuals that may give rise to privacy risk and how best to mitigate such risks. For example, there is the potential to reveal personally identifiable information in the audit trail, especially if the logging event is based on patterns or time of usage.

Event logging requirements, including the need to log specific event types, may be referenced in other controls and control enhancements. These include AC-2(4), AC-3(10), AC-6(9), AC-17(1), CM-3f, CM-5(1), IA-3(3.b), MA-4(1), MP-4(2), PE-3, PM-21, PT-7, RA-8, SC-7(9), SC-7(15), SI-3(8), SI-4(22), SI-7(8), and SI-10(1). Organizations include event types that are required by applicable laws, executive orders, directives, policies, regulations, standards, and guidelines. Audit records can be generated at various levels, including at the packet level as information traverses the network. Selecting the appropriate level of event logging is an important part of a monitoring and auditing capability and can identify the root causes of problems. When defining event types, organizations consider the logging necessary to cover related event types, such as the steps in distributed, transaction-based processes and the actions that occur in service-oriented architectures.

AU-3 CONTENT OF AUDIT RECORDS

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Ensure that audit records contain information that establishes the following:

a. What type of event occurred;

b. When the event occurred;

c. Where the event occurred;

d. Source of the event;

e. Outcome of the event; and

f. Identity of any individuals, subjects, or objects/entities associated with the event.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: Audit record content that may be necessary to support the auditing function includes event descriptions (item a), time stamps (item b), source and destination addresses (item c), user or process identifiers (items d and f), success or fail indications (item e), and filenames involved (items a, c, e, and f). Event outcomes include indicators of event success or failure and event-specific results, such as the system security and privacy posture after the event occurred. Organizations consider how audit records can reveal information about individuals that may give rise to privacy risks and how best to mitigate such risks. For example, there is the potential to reveal personally identifiable information in the audit trail, especially if the trail records inputs or is based on patterns or time of usage.

Related Controls: AU-2, AU-8, AU-12, MA-4, SA-8, SI-7, SI-11.

Control Enhancements:

(1) CONTENT OF AUDIT RECORDS | ADDITIONAL AUDIT INFORMATION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Generate audit records containing the following additional information:

a. Session, connection, transaction, and activity duration;
b. Source and destination addresses;
c. Object or filename involved; and
d. Number of bytes received and bytes sent (for client-server transactions) in the audit records for audit events identified by type, location, or subject.
e. The III portion of the log shall clearly identify:
    1. The operator
    2. The authorized receiving agency
    3. The requestor
    4. The secondary recipient

Discussion: The ability to add information generated in audit records is dependent on system functionality to configure the audit record content. Organizations may consider additional information in audit records including, but not limited to, access control or flow control rules invoked and individual identities of group account users. Organizations may also consider limiting additional audit record information to only information that is explicitly needed for audit requirements. This facilitates the use of audit trails and audit logs by not including information in audit records that could potentially be misleading, make it more difficult to locate information of interest, or increase the risk to individuals' privacy.

Related Controls: None.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

(3) CONTENT OF AUDIT RECORDS | LIMIT PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE INFORMATION ELEMENTS

[Priority 2]

Control:

Limit personally identifiable information contained in audit records to the following elements identified in the privacy risk assessment: minimum PII necessary to achieve the purpose for which it is collected (see Section 4.3).

Discussion: Limiting personally identifiable information in audit records when such information is not needed for operational purposes helps reduce the level of privacy risk created by a system.

Related Controls: RA-3.

AU-4 AUDIT LOG STORAGE CAPACITY

[Priority 2]

Control:

Allocate audit log storage capacity to accommodate the collection of audit logs to meet retention requirements (AU-11).

Discussion: Organizations consider the types of audit logging to be performed and the audit log processing requirements when allocating audit log storage capacity. Allocating sufficient audit log storage capacity reduces the likelihood of such capacity being exceeded and resulting in the potential loss or reduction of audit logging capability.

Related Controls: AU-2, AU-5, AU-6, AU-7, AU-9, AU-11, AU-12, SI-4.

AU-5 RESPONSE TO AUDIT LOGGING PROCESS FAILURES

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Alert organizational personnel with audit and accountability responsibilities and system/network administrators within one (1) hour in the event of an audit logging process failure; and

b. Take the following additional actions: restart all audit logging processes and verify system(s) are logging properly.

Discussion: Audit logging process failures include software and hardware errors, failures in audit log capturing mechanisms, and reaching or exceeding audit log storage capacity. Organization- defined actions include overwriting oldest audit records, shutting down the system, and stopping the generation of audit records. Organizations may choose to define additional actions for audit logging process failures based on the type of failure, the location of the failure, the severity of the failure, or a combination of such factors. When the audit logging process failure is related to storage, the response is carried out for the audit log storage repository (i.e., the distinct system component where the audit logs are stored), the system on which the audit logs reside, the total audit log storage capacity of the organization (i.e., all audit log storage repositories combined), or all three.

Related Controls: AU-2, AU-4, AU-7, AU-9, AU-11, AU-12, SI-4, SI-12.

AU-6 AUDIT RECORD REVIEW, ANALYSIS, AND REPORTING

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Review and analyze system audit records weekly for indications of inappropriate or unusual activity and the potential impact of the inappropriate or unusual activity;

b. Report findings to organizational personnel with audit review, analysis, and reporting responsibilities and organizational personnel with information security and privacy responsibilities; and

c. Adjust the level of audit record review, analysis, and reporting within the system when there is a change in risk based on law enforcement information, intelligence information, or other credible sources of information.

Discussion: Audit record review, analysis, and reporting covers information security- and privacy- related logging performed by organizations, including logging that results from the monitoring of account usage, remote access, wireless connectivity, mobile device connection, configuration settings, system component inventory, use of maintenance tools and non-local maintenance, physical access, temperature and humidity, equipment delivery and removal, communications at system interfaces, and use of mobile code or Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP). Findings can be reported to organizational entities that include the incident response team, help desk, and security or privacy offices. If organizations are prohibited from reviewing and analyzing audit records or unable to conduct such activities, the review or analysis may be carried out by other organizations granted such authority. The frequency, scope, and/or depth of the audit record review, analysis, and reporting may be adjusted to meet organizational needs based on new information received.

Related Controls: AC-2, AC-3, AC-5, AC-6, AC-7, AC-17, AU-7, CA-2, CA-7, CM-2, CM-5, CM-6, CM-10, CM-11, IA-2, IA-3, IA-5, IA-8, IR-5, MA-4, MP-4, PE-3, PE-6, RA-5, SA-8, SC-7, SI-3, SI-4, SI-7.

Control Enhancements:

(1) AUDIT RECORD REVIEW, ANALYSIS, AND REPORTING | AUTOMATED PROCESS INTEGRATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Integrate audit record review, analysis, and reporting processes using automated mechanisms.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: Organizational processes that benefit from integrated audit record review, analysis, and reporting include incident response, continuous monitoring, contingency planning, investigation and response to suspicious activities, and Inspector General audits.

(3) AUDIT RECORD REVIEW, ANALYSIS, AND REPORTING | CORRELATE AUDIT RECORD REPOSITORIES

[Priority 2]

Control:

Analyze and correlate audit records across different repositories to gain organization-wide situational awareness.

Discussion: Organization-wide situational awareness includes awareness across all three levels of risk management (i.e., organizational level, mission/business process level, and information system level) and supports cross-organization awareness.

Related Controls: AU-12, IR-4.

AU-7 AUDIT RECORD REDUCTION AND REPORT GENERATION

[Priority 3]

Control:

Provide and implement an audit record reduction and report generation capability that:

a. Supports on-demand audit record review, analysis, and reporting requirements and after- the-fact investigations of incidents; and

b. Does not alter the original content or time ordering of audit records.

Discussion: Audit record reduction is a process that manipulates collected audit log information and organizes it into a summary format that is more meaningful to analysts. Audit record reduction and report generation capabilities do not always emanate from the same system or from the same organizational entities that conduct audit logging activities. The audit record reduction capability includes modern data mining techniques with advanced data filters to identify anomalous behavior in audit records. The report generation capability provided by the system can generate customizable reports. Time ordering of audit records can be an issue if the granularity of the timestamp in the record is insufficient.

Related Controls: AC-2, AU-2, AU-3, AU-4, AU-5, AU-6, AU-12, CM-5, IA-5, IR-4, SI-4.

Control Enhancements:

(1) AUDIT RECORD REDUCTION AND REPORT GENERATION | AUTOMATIC PROCESSING

[Priority 3]

Control:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Provide and implement the capability to process, sort, and search audit records for events of interest based on the following content: information included in AU-3.

Discussion: Events of interest can be identified by the content of audit records, including system resources involved, information objects accessed, identities of individuals, event types, event locations, event dates and times, Internet Protocol addresses involved, or event success or failure. Organizations may define event criteria to any degree of granularity required, such as locations selectable by a general networking location or by specific system component.

AU-8 TIME STAMPS

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Use internal system clocks to generate time stamps for audit records;

b. Record time stamps for audit records that meet hundredths of a second (i.e., hh:mm:ss:00) interval and that use Coordinated Universal Time, have a fixed local time offset from Coordinated Universal Time, or that include the local time offset as part of the time stamp.

Discussion: Time stamps generated by the system include date and time. Time is commonly expressed in Coordinated Universal Time (UTC), a modern continuation of Greenwich Mean Time (GMT), or local time with an offset from UTC. Granularity of time measurements refers to the degree of synchronization between system clocks and reference clocks (e.g., clocks synchronizing within hundreds of milliseconds or tens of milliseconds). Organizations may define different time granularities for different system components. Time service can be critical to other security capabilities such as access control and identification and authentication, depending on the nature of the mechanisms used to support those capabilities.

Related Controls: AU-3, AU-12.

AU-9 PROTECTION OF AUDIT INFORMATION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Protect audit information and audit logging tools from unauthorized access, modification, and deletion; and

b. Alert organizational personnel with audit and accountability responsibilities, organizational personnel with information security and privacy responsibilities, and system/network administrators upon detection of unauthorized access, modification, or deletion of audit information.

Discussion: Audit information includes all information needed to successfully audit system activity, such as audit records, audit log settings, audit reports, and personally identifiable information. Audit logging tools are those programs and devices used to conduct system audit and logging activities. Protection of audit information focuses on technical protection and limits the ability to access and execute audit logging tools to authorized individuals. Physical protection of audit information is addressed by both media protection controls and physical and environmental protection controls.

Control Enhancements:

(4) PROTECTION OF AUDIT INFORMATION | ACCESS BY SUBSET OF PRIVILEGED USERS

[Priority 2]

Control:

Authorize access to management of audit logging functionality to only organizational personnel with audit and accountability responsibilities, organizational personnel with information security and privacy responsibilities, and system/network administrators.

Discussion: Individuals or roles with privileged access to a system and who are also the subject of an audit by that system may affect the reliability of the audit information by inhibiting audit activities or modifying audit records. Requiring privileged access to be further defined between audit-related privileges and other privileges limits the number of users or roles with audit-related privileges.

Related Controls: AC-5.

AU-11 AUDIT RECORD RETENTION

[Existing] [Priority 4]

Control:

Retain audit records for a minimum of one (1) year or until it is determined they are no longer needed for administrative, legal, audit, or other operational purposes to provide support for after-the-fact investigations of incidents and to meet regulatory and organizational information retention requirements.

Discussion: Organizations retain audit records until it is determined that the records are no longer needed for administrative, legal, audit, or other operational purposes. This includes the retention and availability of audit records relative to Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests, subpoenas, and law enforcement actions. Organizations develop standard categories of audit records relative to such types of actions and standard response processes for each type of action.

Related Controls: AU-2, AU-4, AU-5, AU-6, AU-9, MP-6, RA-5, SI-12.

AU-12 AUDIT RECORD GENERATION

[Priority 2]

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Control:

a. Provide audit record generation capability for the event types the system is capable of auditing as defined in AU-2a on all systems generating required audit logs;

b. Allow organizational personnel with audit record generation responsibilities, organizational personnel with information security and privacy responsibilities, and system/network administrators to select the event types that are to be logged by specific components of the system; and

c. Generate audit records for the event types defined in AU-2c that include the audit record content defined in AU-3.

Discussion: Audit records can be generated from many different system components. The event types specified in AU-2c are the event types for which audit logs are to be generated and are a subset of all event types for which the system can generate audit records.

5.5 ACCESS CONTROL (AC)

Access control provides the planning and implementation of mechanisms to restrict reading, writing, processing, and transmission of CJIS information and the modification of information systems, applications, services and communication configurations allowing access to CJIS information.

Refer to Section 5.13.6 for additional access control requirements related to mobile devices used to access CJI.

AC-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to: organizational personnel with access control responsibilities
    1. Agency-level access control policy that:
        (a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
        (b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
    2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the access control policy and the associated access controls;
b. Designate an individual with security responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the access control policy and procedures; and
c. Review and update the current access control:
    1. Policy annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and
    2. Procedures annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Access control policy and procedures address the controls in the AC family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of access control policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies reflecting the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to access control policy and procedures include assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

Related Controls: IA-1, PS-8, SI-12.

AC-2 ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT

Control:

a. Define and document the types of accounts allowed and specifically prohibited for use within the system;

    1. One day when accounts are no longer required;
    2. One day when users are terminated or transferred; and

i. Authorize access to the system based on:
    1. A valid access authorization;

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

2. Intended system usage; and
3. Attributes as listed in AC-2(d)(3);

j. Review accounts for compliance with account management requirements at least annually;

k. Establish and implement a process for changing shared or group account authenticators (if deployed) when individuals are removed from the group; and

l. Align account management processes with personnel termination and transfer processes.

Discussion: Examples of system account types include individual, shared, group, system, guest, anonymous, emergency, developer, temporary, and service. Identification of authorized system users and the specification of access privileges reflect the requirements in other controls in the security plan. Users requiring administrative privileges on system accounts receive additional scrutiny by organizational personnel responsible for approving such accounts and privileged access, including system owner, mission or business owner, senior agency information security officer, or senior agency official for privacy. Types of accounts that organizations may wish to prohibit due to increased risk include shared, group, emergency, anonymous, temporary, and guest accounts. Where access involves personally identifiable information, security programs collaborate with the senior agency official for privacy to establish the specific conditions for group and role membership; specify authorized users, group and role membership, and access authorizations for each account; and create, adjust, or remove system accounts in accordance with organizational policies. Policies can include such information as account expiration dates or other factors that trigger the disabling of accounts. Organizations may choose to define access privileges or other attributes by account, type of account, or a combination of the two. Examples of other attributes required for authorizing access include restrictions on time of day, day of week, and point of origin. In defining other system account attributes, organizations consider system-related requirements and mission/business requirements. Failure to consider these factors could affect system availability.

Temporary and emergency accounts are intended for short-term use. Organizations establish temporary accounts as part of normal account activation procedures when there is a need for short-term accounts without the demand for immediacy in account activation. Organizations establish emergency accounts in response to crisis situations and with the need for rapid account activation. Therefore, emergency account activation may bypass normal account authorization processes. Emergency and temporary accounts are not to be confused with infrequently used accounts, including local logon accounts used for special tasks or when network resources are unavailable (may also be known as accounts of last resort). Such accounts remain available and are not subject to automatic disabling or removal dates. Conditions for disabling or deactivating accounts include when shared/group, emergency, or temporary accounts are no longer required and when individuals are transferred or terminated. Changing shared/group authenticators when members leave the group is intended to ensure that former group members do not retain access to the shared or group account. Some types of system accounts may require specialized training.

(1) ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT | AUTOMATED SYSTEM ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT

[Priority 1]

Control:

Support the management of system accounts using automated mechanisms including email, phone, and text notifications.

Discussion: Automated system account management includes using automated mechanisms to create, enable, modify, disable, and remove accounts; notify account managers when an account is created, enabled, modified, disabled, or removed, or when users are terminated or transferred; monitor system account usage; and report atypical system account usage.

Automated mechanisms can include internal system functions and email, telephonic, and text messaging notifications.

Related Controls: None.

(2) ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT | AUTOMATED TEMPORARY AND EMERGENCY ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT

[Priority 1]

Control:

Automatically remove temporary and emergency accounts within 72 hours.

Discussion: Management of temporary and emergency accounts includes the removal or disabling of such accounts automatically after a predefined time period rather than at the convenience of the system administrator. Automatic removal or disabling of accounts provides a more consistent implementation.

Related Controls: None.

(3) ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT | DISABLE ACCOUNTS

[Priority 1]

Control:

Disable accounts within one (1) week when the accounts:

a. Have expired;
b. Are no longer associated with a user or individual;
c. Are in violation of organizational policy; or
d. Have been inactive for 90 calendar days.

Discussion: Disabling expired, inactive, or otherwise anomalous accounts supports the concepts of least privilege and least functionality which reduce the attack surface of the system.

Related Controls: None.

(4) ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT | AUTOMATED AUDIT ACTIONS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Automatically audit account creation, modification, enabling, disabling, and removal actions.

Discussion: Account management audit records are defined in accordance with AU-2 and reviewed, analyzed, and reported in accordance with AU-6.

Related Controls: AU-2, AU-6.

(5) ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT | INACTIVITY LOGOUT

[Priority 1]

Control:

Require that users log out when a work period has been completed.

Discussion: Inactivity logout is behavior- or policy-based and requires users to take physical action to log out when they are expecting inactivity longer than the defined period. Automatic enforcement of inactivity logout is addressed by AC-11.

Related Controls: AC-11.

(13) ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT | DISABLE ACCOUNTS FOR HIGH-RISK INDIVIDUALS

[Priority 1]

Control:

Disable accounts of individuals within 30 minutes of discovery of direct threats to the confidentiality, integrity, or availability of CJI.

Discussion: Users who pose a significant security and/or privacy risk include individuals for whom reliable evidence indicates either the intention to use authorized access to systems to cause harm or through whom adversaries will cause harm. Such harm includes adverse impacts to organizational operations, organizational assets, individuals, other organizations, or the Nation. Close coordination among system administrators, legal staff, human resource managers, and authorizing officials is essential when disabling system accounts for high-risk individuals.

Related Controls: AU-6, SI-4.

AC-3 ACCESS ENFORCEMENT

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Enforce approved authorizations for logical access to information and system resources in accordance with applicable access control policies.

Discussion: Access control policies control access between active entities or subjects (i.e., users or processes acting on behalf of users) and passive entities or objects (i.e., devices, files, records, domains) in organizational systems. In addition to enforcing authorized access at the system level and recognizing that systems can host many applications and services in support of mission and business functions, access enforcement mechanisms can also be employed at the application and service level to provide increased information security and privacy. In contrast to logical access controls that are implemented within the system, physical access controls are addressed by the controls in the Physical and Environmental Protection (PE) family.

Control Enhancements:

(14) ACCESS ENFORCEMENT | INDIVIDUAL ACCESS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Provide automated or manual processes to enable individuals to have access to elements of their personally identifiable information.

Discussion: Individual access affords individuals the ability to review personally identifiable information about them held within organizational records, regardless of format. Access helps individuals to develop an understanding about how their personally identifiable information is being processed. It can also help individuals ensure that their data is accurate. Access mechanisms can include request forms and application interfaces. For federal agencies, [PRIVACT] processes can be located in systems of record notices and on agency websites. Access to certain types of records may not be appropriate (e.g., for federal agencies, law enforcement records within a system of records may be exempt from disclosure under the [PRIVACT]) or may require certain levels of authentication assurance.

Organizational personnel consult with the senior agency official for privacy and legal counsel to determine appropriate mechanisms and access rights or limitations.

Related Controls: IA-8.

AC-4 INFORMATION FLOW ENFORCEMENT

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Enforce approved authorizations for controlling the flow of information within the system and between connected systems by preventing CJI from being transmitted unencrypted across the public network, blocking outside traffic that claims to be from within the agency, and not passing any web requests to the public network that are not from the agency-controlled or internal boundary protection devices (e.g., proxies, gateways, firewalls, or routers).

Discussion: Information flow control regulates where information can travel within a system and between systems (in contrast to who is allowed to access the information) and without regard to subsequent accesses to that information. Flow control restrictions include blocking external traffic that claims to be from within the organization, keeping export-controlled information from being transmitted in the clear to the Internet, restricting web requests that are not from the internal web proxy server, and limiting information transfers between organizations based on data structures and content. Transferring information between organizations may require an agreement specifying how the information flow is enforced (see CA-3). Transferring information between systems in different security or privacy domains with different security or privacy policies introduces the risk that such transfers violate one or more domain security or privacy policies. In such situations, information owners/stewards provide guidance at designated policy enforcement points between connected systems. Organizations consider mandating specific architectural solutions to enforce specific security and privacy policies. Enforcement includes prohibiting information transfers between connected systems (i.e., allowing access only), verifying write permissions before accepting information from another security or privacy domain or connected system, employing hardware mechanisms to enforce one-way information flows, and implementing trustworthy regrading mechanisms to reassign security or privacy attributes and labels.

Organizations commonly employ information flow control policies and enforcement mechanisms to control the flow of information between designated sources and destinations within systems and between connected systems. Flow control is based on the characteristics of the information and/or the information path. Enforcement occurs, for example, in boundary protection devices that employ rule sets or establish configuration settings that restrict system services, provide a packet-filtering capability based on header information, or provide a message-filtering capability based on message content. Organizations also consider the trustworthiness of filtering and/or inspection mechanisms (i.e., hardware, firmware, and software components) that are critical to information flow enforcement. Control enhancements 3 through 32 primarily address cross- domain solution needs that focus on more advanced filtering techniques, in-depth analysis, and stronger flow enforcement mechanisms implemented in cross-domain products, such as high- assurance guards. Such capabilities are generally not available in commercial off-the-shelf products. Information flow enforcement also applies to control plane traffic (e.g., routing and DNS).

AC-5 SEPARATION OF DUTIES

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Identify and document separation of duties based on specific duties, operations, or information systems, as necessary, to mitigate risk to CJI; and

b. Define system access authorizations to support separation of duties.

Discussion: Separation of duties addresses the potential for abuse of authorized privileges and helps to reduce the risk of malevolent activity without collusion. Separation of duties includes dividing mission or business functions and support functions among different individuals or roles, conducting system support functions with different individuals, and ensuring that security personnel who administer access control functions do not also administer audit functions.

Because separation of duty violations can span systems and application domains, organizations consider the entirety of systems and system components when developing policy on separation of duties. Separation of duties is enforced through the account management activities in AC-2, access control mechanisms in AC-3, and identity management activities in IA-2, IA-4, and IA-12.

AC-6 LEAST PRIVILEGE

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Employ the principle of least privilege, allowing only authorized accesses for users (or processes acting on behalf of users) that are necessary to accomplish assigned organizational tasks.

Discussion: Organizations employ least privilege for specific duties and systems. The principle of least privilege is also applied to system processes, ensuring that the processes have access to systems and operate at privilege levels no higher than necessary to accomplish organizational missions or business functions. Organizations consider the creation of additional processes, roles, and accounts as necessary to achieve least privilege. Organizations apply least privilege to the development, implementation, and operation of organizational systems.

Related Controls: AC-2, AC-3, AC-5, CM-5, CM-11, PL-2, SA-8, SA-15.

Control Enhancements:

(1) LEAST PRIVILEGE | AUTHORIZE ACCESS TO SECURITY FUNCTIONS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Authorize access for personnel including security administrators, system and network administrators, and other privileged users with access to system control, monitoring, or administration functions (e.g., system administrators, information security personnel, maintainers, system programmers, etc.) to:

a. Established system accounts, configured access authorizations (i.e., permissions, privileges), set events to be audited, set intrusion detection parameters, and other security functions; and

b. Security-relevant information in hardware, software, and firmware.

Discussion: Security functions include establishing system accounts, configuring access authorizations (i.e., permissions, privileges), configuring settings for events to be audited, and establishing intrusion detection parameters. Security-relevant information includes filtering rules for routers or firewalls, configuration parameters for security services, cryptographic key management information, and access control lists. Authorized personnel include security administrators, system administrators, system security officers, system programmers, and other privileged users.

Related Controls: AC-17, AC-18, AC-19, AU-9, PE-2.

(2) LEAST PRIVILEGE | NON-PRIVILEGED ACCESS FOR NONSECURITY FUNCTIONS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Require that users of system accounts (or roles) with access to privileged security functions or security-relevant information (e.g., audit logs), use non-privileged accounts or roles, when accessing non-security functions.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: Requiring the use of non-privileged accounts when accessing non-security functions limits exposure when operating from within privileged accounts or roles. The inclusion of roles addresses situations where organizations implement access control policies, such as role-based access control, and where a change of role provides the same degree of assurance in the change of access authorizations for the user and the processes acting on behalf of the user as would be provided by a change between a privileged and non- privileged account.

Related Controls: AC-17, AC-18, AC-19, PL-4.

(5) LEAST PRIVILEGE | PRIVILEGED ACCOUNTS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Restrict privileged accounts on the system to privileged users.

Discussion: Privileged accounts, including super user accounts, are typically described as system administrator for various types of commercial off-the-shelf operating systems. Restricting privileged accounts to specific personnel or roles prevents day-to-day users from accessing privileged information or privileged functions. Organizations may differentiate in the application of restricting privileged accounts between allowed privileges for local accounts and for domain accounts provided that they retain the ability to control system configurations for key parameters and as otherwise necessary to sufficiently mitigate risk.

Related Controls: IA-2, MA-3, MA-4.

(7) LEAST PRIVILEGE | REVIEW OF USER PRIVILEGES

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Review annually the privileges assigned to non-privileged and privileged users to validate the need for such privileges; and

b. Reassign or remove privileges, if necessary, to correctly reflect organizational mission and business needs.

Discussion: The need for certain assigned user privileges may change over time to reflect changes in organizational mission and business functions, environments of operation, technologies, or threats. A periodic review of assigned user privileges is necessary to determine if the rationale for assigning such privileges remains valid. If the need cannot be revalidated, organizations take appropriate corrective actions.

Related Controls: CA-7.

(9) LEAST PRIVILEGE | LOG USE OF PRIVILEGED FUNCTIONS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Log the execution of privileged functions.

Discussion: The misuse of privileged functions, either intentionally or unintentionally by authorized users or by unauthorized external entities that have compromised system accounts, is a serious and ongoing concern and can have significant adverse impacts on organizations. Logging and analyzing the use of privileged functions is one way to detect such misuse and, in doing so, help mitigate the risk from insider threats and the advanced persistent threat.

Related Controls: AU-2, AU-3, AU-12.

(10) LEAST PRIVILEGE | PROHIBIT NON-PRIVILEGED USERS FROM EXECUTING PRIVILEGED FUNCTIONS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Prevent non-privileged users from executing privileged functions.

Discussion: Privileged functions include disabling, circumventing, or altering implemented security or privacy controls, establishing system accounts, performing system integrity checks, and administering cryptographic key management activities. Non-privileged users are individuals who do not possess appropriate authorizations. Privileged functions that require protection from non-privileged users include circumventing intrusion detection and prevention mechanisms or malicious code protection mechanisms. Preventing non- privileged users from executing privileged functions is enforced by AC-3.

Related Controls: None.

AC-7 UNSUCCESSFUL LOGON ATTEMPTS

[Existing] [Priority 3]

Control:

a. Enforce a limit of five (5) consecutive invalid logon attempts by a user during a 15-minute time period; and

b. Automatically lock the account or node until released by an administrator when the maximum number of unsuccessful attempts is exceeded.

Discussion: The need to limit unsuccessful logon attempts and take subsequent action when the maximum number of attempts is exceeded applies regardless of whether the logon occurs via a local or network connection. Due to the potential for denial of service, automatic lockouts initiated by systems are usually temporary and automatically release after a predetermined, organization-defined time period. If a delay algorithm is selected, organizations may employ different algorithms for different components of the system based on the capabilities of those components. Responses to unsuccessful logon attempts may be implemented at the operating system and the application levels. Organization-defined actions that may be taken when the number of allowed consecutive invalid logon attempts is exceeded include prompting the user to answer a secret question in addition to the username and password, invoking a lockdown mode with limited user capabilities (instead of full lockout), allowing users to only logon from specified Internet Protocol (IP) addresses, requiring a CAPTCHA to prevent automated attacks, or applying user profiles such as location, time of day, IP address, device, or Media Access Control (MAC) address. If automatic system lockout or execution of a delay algorithm is not implemented in support of the availability objective, organizations consider a combination of other actions to help prevent brute force attacks. In addition to the above, organizations can prompt users to respond to a secret question before the number of allowed unsuccessful logon attempts is exceeded. Automatically unlocking an account after a specified period of time is generally not permitted. However, exceptions may be required based on operational mission or need.

Related Controls: AC-2, AU-2, AU-6, IA-5.

AC-8 SYSTEM USE NOTIFICATION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Display a system use notification message to users before granting access to the system that provides privacy and security notices consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines and state that:
    1. Users are accessing a restricted information system;
    2. System usage may be monitored, recorded, and subject to audit;
    3. Unauthorized use of the system is prohibited and subject to criminal and civil penalties; and
    4. Use of the system indicates consent to monitoring and recording;
b. Retain the notification message or banner on the screen until users acknowledge the usage conditions and take explicit actions to log on to or further access the system; and
c. For publicly accessible systems:
    1. Display system use information consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines, before granting further access to the publicly accessible system;
    2. Display references, if any, to monitoring, recording, or auditing that are consistent with privacy accommodations for such systems that generally prohibit those activities; and
    3. Include a description of the authorized uses of the system.

Discussion: System use notifications can be implemented using messages or warning banners displayed before individuals log in to systems. System use notifications are used only for access via logon interfaces with human users. Notifications are not required when human interfaces do not exist. Based on an assessment of risk, organizations consider whether or not a secondary system use notification is needed to access applications or other system resources after the initial network logon. Organizations consider system use notification messages or banners displayed in multiple languages based on organizational needs and the demographics of system users. Organizations consult with the privacy office for input regarding privacy messaging and the Office of the General Counsel or organizational equivalent for legal review and approval of warning banner content.

AC-11 DEVICE LOCK

[Existing] [Priority 4]

Control:

a. Prevent further access to the system by initiating a device lock after a maximum of 30 minutes of inactivity and requiring the user to initiate a device lock before leaving the system unattended.

   NOTE: In the interest of safety, devices that are: (1) part of a criminal justice conveyance; or (2) used to perform dispatch functions and located within a physically secure location; or (3) terminals designated solely for the purpose of receiving alert notifications (i.e., receive only terminals or ROT) used within physically secure location facilities that remain staffed when in operation, are exempt from this requirement.

b. Retain the device lock until the user reestablishes access using established identification and authentication procedures.

Discussion: Device locks are temporary actions taken to prevent logical access to organizational systems when users stop work and move away from the immediate vicinity of those systems but do not want to log out because of the temporary nature of their absences. Device locks can be implemented at the operating system level or at the application level. A proximity lock may be used to initiate the device lock (e.g., via a Bluetooth-enabled device or dongle). User-initiated device locking is behavior or policy-based and, as such, requires users to take physical action to initiate the device lock. Device locks are not an acceptable substitute for logging out of systems, such as when organizations require users to log out at the end of workdays.

Related Controls: AC-2, AC-7, IA-11, PL-4.

Control Enhancements:

(1) DEVICE LOCK | PATTERN-HIDING DISPLAYS

[Existing] [Priority 4]

Control:

Conceal, via the device lock, information previously visible on the display with a publicly viewable image.

Discussion: The pattern-hiding display can include static or dynamic images, such as patterns used with screen savers, photographic images, solid colors, clock, battery life indicator, or a blank screen with the caveat that controlled unclassified information is not displayed.

Related Controls: None.

AC-12 SESSION TERMINATION

[Priority 3]

Control:

Automatically terminate a user session after a user has been logged out.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: Session termination addresses the termination of user-initiated logical sessions (in contrast to SC-10, which addresses the termination of network connections associated with communications sessions [i.e., network disconnect]). A logical session (for local, network, and remote access) is initiated whenever a user (or process acting on behalf of a user) accesses an organizational system. Such user sessions can be terminated without terminating network sessions. Session termination ends all processes associated with a user's logical session except for those processes that are specifically created by the user (i.e., session owner) to continue after the session is terminated. Conditions or trigger events that require automatic termination of the session include organization-defined periods of user inactivity, targeted responses to certain types of incidents, or time-of-day restrictions on system use.

Related Controls: MA-4, SC-10, SC-23.

AC-14 PERMITTED ACTIONS WITHOUT IDENTIFICATION OR AUTHENTICATION

[Priority 4]

Control:

a. Identify any specific user actions that can be performed on the system without identification or authentication consistent with organizational mission and business functions; and

b. Document and provide supporting rationale in the security plan for the system, user actions not requiring identification or authentication.

Discussion: Specific user actions may be permitted without identification or authentication if organizations determine that identification and authentication are not required for the specified user actions. Organizations may allow a limited number of user actions without identification or authentication, including when individuals access public websites or other publicly accessible federal systems, when individuals use mobile phones to receive calls, or when facsimiles are received. Organizations identify actions that normally require identification or authentication but may, under certain circumstances, allow identification or authentication mechanisms to be bypassed. Such bypasses may occur, for example, via a software-readable physical switch that commands bypass of the logon functionality and is protected from accidental or unmonitored use. Permitting actions without identification or authentication does not apply to situations where identification and authentication have already occurred and are not repeated but rather to situations where identification and authentication have not yet occurred. Organizations may decide that there are no user actions that can be performed on organizational systems without identification and authentication, and therefore, the value for the assignment operation can be "none."

Related Controls: AC-8, IA-2, PL-2.

AC-17 REMOTE ACCESS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Establish and document usage restrictions, configuration/connection requirements, and implementation guidance for each type of remote access allowed; and

b. Authorize each type of remote access to the system prior to allowing such connections.

Discussion: Remote access is access to organizational systems (or processes acting on behalf of users) that communicate through external networks such as the Internet. Types of remote access include dial-up, broadband, and wireless. Organizations use encrypted virtual private networks (VPNs) to enhance confidentiality and integrity for remote connections. The use of encrypted VPNs provides sufficient assurance to the organization that it can effectively treat such connections as internal networks if the cryptographic mechanisms used are implemented in accordance with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Still, VPN connections traverse external networks, and the encrypted VPN does not enhance the availability of remote connections. VPNs with encrypted tunnels can also affect the ability to adequately monitor network communications traffic for malicious code. Remote access controls apply to systems other than public web servers or systems designed for public access. Authorization of each remote access type addresses authorization prior to allowing remote access without specifying the specific formats for such authorization. While organizations may use information exchange and system connection security agreements to manage remote access connections to other systems, such agreements are addressed as part of CA-3. Enforcing access restrictions for remote access is addressed via AC-3.

Related Controls: AC-2, AC-3, AC-4, AC-18, AC-19, AC-20, CA-3, CM-10, IA-2, IA-3, IA-8, MA-4, PE- 17, PL-2, PL-4, SC-10, SC-12, SC-13, SI-4.

Control Enhancements:

(1) REMOTE ACCESS | MONITORING AND CONTROL

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Employ automated mechanisms to monitor and control remote access methods.

Discussion: Monitoring and control of remote access methods allows organizations to detect attacks and help ensure compliance with remote access policies by auditing the connection activities of remote users on a variety of system components, including servers, notebook computers, workstations, smart phones, and tablets. Audit logging for remote access is enforced by AU-2. Audit events are defined in AU-2a.

Related Controls: AU-2, AU-6, AU-12.

(2) REMOTE ACCESS | PROTECTION OF CONFIDENTIALITY AND INTEGRITY USING ENCRYPTION

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Implement cryptographic mechanisms to protect the confidentiality and integrity of remote access sessions.

Discussion: Virtual private networks can be used to protect the confidentiality and integrity of remote access sessions. Transport Layer Security (TLS) is an example of a cryptographic protocol that provides end-to-end communications security over networks and is used for Internet communications and online transactions.

Related Controls: SC-8, SC-12, SC-13.

(3) REMOTE ACCESS | MANAGED ACCESS CONTROL POINTS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Route remote accesses through authorized and managed network access control points.

Discussion: Organizations consider the Trusted Internet Connections (TIC) initiative requirements for external network connections since limiting the number of access control points for remote access reduces attack surfaces.

Related Controls: SC-7.

(4) REMOTE ACCESS | PRIVILEGED COMMANDS AND ACCESS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Authorize the execution of privileged commands and access to security-relevant information via remote access only in a format that provides assessable evidence and for the following needs: compelling operational needs; and
b. Document the rationale for remote access in the security plan for the system.

Discussion: Remote access to systems represents a significant potential vulnerability that can be exploited by adversaries. As such, restricting the execution of privileged commands and access to security-relevant information via remote access reduces the exposure of the organization and the susceptibility to threats by adversaries to the remote access capability.

Related Controls: AC-6, SC-12, SC-13.

AC-18 WIRELESS ACCESS

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Establish configuration requirements, connection requirements, and implementation guidance for each type of wireless access; and
b. Authorize each type of wireless access to the system prior to allowing such connections.

Discussion: Wireless technologies include microwave, packet radio (ultra-high frequency or very high frequency), 802.11x, and Bluetooth. Wireless networks use authentication protocols that provide authenticator protection and mutual authentication.

(1) WIRELESS ACCESS | AUTHENTICATION AND ENCRYPTION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Protect wireless access to the system using authentication of authorized users and agency-controlled devices, and encryption.

Discussion: Wireless networking capabilities represent a significant potential vulnerability that can be exploited by adversaries. To protect systems with wireless access points, strong authentication of users and devices along with strong encryption can reduce susceptibility to threats by adversaries involving wireless technologies.

Related Controls: SC-8, SC-12, SC-13.

(3) WIRELESS ACCESS | DISABLE WIRELESS NETWORKING

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Disable, when not intended for use, wireless networking capabilities embedded within system components prior to issuance and deployment.

Discussion: Wireless networking capabilities that are embedded within system components represent a significant potential vulnerability that can be exploited by adversaries. Disabling wireless capabilities when not needed for essential organizational missions or functions can reduce susceptibility to threats by adversaries involving wireless technologies.

Related Controls: None.

AC-19 ACCESS CONTROL FOR MOBILE DEVICES

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Establish configuration requirements, connection requirements, and implementation guidance for organization-controlled mobile devices, to include when such devices are outside of controlled areas; and

b. Authorize the connection of mobile devices to organizational systems.

Discussion: A mobile device is a computing device that has a small form factor such that it can easily be carried by a single individual; is designed to operate without a physical connection; possesses local, non-removable or removable data storage; and includes a self-contained power source. Mobile device functionality may also include voice communication capabilities, on-board sensors that allow the device to capture information, and/or built-in features for synchronizing local data with remote locations. Examples include smart phones and tablets. Mobile devices are typically associated with a single individual. The processing, storage, and transmission capability of the mobile device may be comparable to or merely a subset of notebook/desktop systems, depending on the nature and intended purpose of the device. Protection and control of mobile devices is behavior or policy-based and requires users to take physical action to protect and control such devices when outside of controlled areas. Controlled areas are spaces for which organizations provide physical or procedural controls to meet the requirements established for protecting information and systems. Due to the large variety of mobile devices with different characteristics and capabilities, organizational restrictions may vary for the different classes or types of such devices. Usage restrictions and specific implementation guidance for mobile devices include configuration management, device identification and authentication, implementation of mandatory protective software, scanning devices for malicious code, updating virus protection software, scanning for critical software updates and patches, conducting primary operating system (and possibly other resident software) integrity checks, and disabling unnecessary hardware.

Usage restrictions and authorization to connect may vary among organizational systems. For example, the organization may authorize the connection of mobile devices to its network and impose a set of usage restrictions, while a system owner may withhold authorization for mobile device connection to specific applications or impose additional usage restrictions before allowing mobile device connections to a system. Adequate security for mobile devices goes beyond the requirements specified in AC-19. Many safeguards for mobile devices are reflected in other controls. AC-20 addresses mobile devices that are not organization-controlled.

(5) ACCESS CONTROL FOR MOBILE DEVICES | FULL DEVICE OR CONTAINER-BASED ENCRYPTION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Employ full-device encryption to protect the confidentiality and integrity of information on full- and limited-feature operating system mobile devices authorized to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Container-based encryption provides a more fine-grained approach to data and information encryption on mobile devices, including encrypting selected data structures such as files, records, or fields.

Related Controls: SC-12, SC-13, SC-28.

AC-20 USE OF EXTERNAL SYSTEMS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Establish agency-level policies governing the use of external systems consistent with the trust relationships established with other organizations owning, operating, and/or maintaining external systems, allowing authorized individuals to:
    1. Access the system from external systems; and
    2. Process, store, or transmit organization-controlled information using external systems; or
b. Prohibit the use of personally-owned information systems including mobile devices (i.e.,

bring your own device [BYOD]) and publicly accessible systems for accessing, processing, storing, or transmitting CJI.

Discussion: External systems are systems that are used by but not part of organizational systems, and for which the organization has no direct control over the implementation of required controls or the assessment of control effectiveness. External systems include personally-owned systems, components, or devices; privately owned computing and communications devices in commercial or public facilities; systems owned or controlled by nonfederal organizations; systems managed by contractors; and federal information systems that are not owned by, operated by, or under the direct supervision or authority of the organization. External systems also include systems owned or operated by other components within the same organization and systems within the organization with different authorization boundaries. Organizations have the option to prohibit the use of any type of external system or prohibit the use of specified types of external systems, (e.g., prohibit the use of any external system that is not organizationally owned or prohibit the use of personally-owned systems).

For some external systems (i.e., systems operated by other organizations), the trust relationships that have been established between those organizations and the originating organization may be such that no explicit terms and conditions are required. Systems within these organizations may not be considered external. These situations occur when, for example, there are pre-existing information exchange agreements (either implicit or explicit) established between organizations or components or when such agreements are specified by applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, or standards. Authorized individuals include organizational personnel, contractors, or other individuals with authorized access to organizational systems and over which organizations have the authority to impose specific rules of behavior regarding system access. Restrictions that organizations impose on authorized individuals need not be uniform, as the restrictions may vary depending on trust relationships between organizations.

Therefore, organizations may choose to impose different security restrictions on contractors than on state, local, or tribal governments.

External systems used to access public interfaces to organizational systems are outside the scope of AC-20. Organizations establish specific terms and conditions for the use of external systems in accordance with organizational security policies and procedures. At a minimum, terms and conditions address the specific types of applications that can be accessed on organizational systems from external systems and the highest security category of information that can be processed, stored, or transmitted on external systems. If the terms and conditions with the owners of the external systems cannot be established, organizations may impose restrictions on organizational personnel using those external systems.

Control Enhancements:

(1) USE OF EXTERNAL SYSTEMS | LIMITS ON AUTHORIZED USE

[Priority 1]

Control:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Permit authorized individuals to use an external system to access the system or to process, store, or transmit organization-controlled information only after:

a. Verification of the implementation of controls on the external system as specified in the organization's security and privacy policies and security and privacy plans; or
b. Retention of approved system connection or processing agreements with the organizational entity hosting the external system.

Discussion: Limiting authorized use recognizes circumstances where individuals using external systems may need to access organizational systems. Organizations need assurance that the external systems contain the necessary controls so as not to compromise, damage, or otherwise harm organizational systems. Verification that the required controls have been implemented can be achieved by external, independent assessments, attestations, or other means, depending on the confidence level required by organizations.

Related Controls: CA-2.

(2) USE OF EXTERNAL SYSTEMS | PORTABLE STORAGE DEVICES — RESTRICTED USE

[Priority 1]

Control:

Restrict the use of organization-controlled portable storage devices by authorized individuals on external systems.

Discussion: Limits on the use of organization-controlled portable storage devices in external systems include restrictions on how the devices may be used and under what conditions the devices may be used.

Related Controls: MP-7.

AC-21 INFORMATION SHARING

[Existing] [Priority 3]

Control:

a. Enable authorized users to determine whether access authorizations assigned to a sharing partner match the information's access and use restrictions ~~for~~ as defined in an executed information exchange agreement; and
b. Employ attribute-based access control (see AC-2(d)(3)) or manual processes as defined in information exchange agreements to assist users in making information sharing and collaboration decisions.

Discussion: Information sharing applies to information that may be restricted in some manner based on some formal or administrative determination. Examples of such information include, contract-sensitive information, classified information related to special access programs or compartments, privileged information, proprietary information, and personally identifiable information. Security and privacy risk assessments as well as applicable laws, regulations, and policies can provide useful inputs to these determinations. Depending on the circumstances, sharing partners may be defined at the individual, group, or organizational level. Information may be defined by content, type, security category, or special access program or compartment. Access restrictions may include non-disclosure agreements (NDA). Information flow techniques and security attributes may be used to provide automated assistance to users making sharing and collaboration decisions.

AC-22 PUBLICLY ACCESSIBLE CONTENT

[Priority 4]

Control:

a. Designate individuals authorized to make information publicly accessible;

b. Train authorized individuals to ensure that publicly accessible information does not contain nonpublic information;

c. Review the proposed content of information prior to posting onto the publicly accessible system to ensure that nonpublic information is not included; and

d. Review the content on the publicly accessible system for nonpublic information quarterly and remove such information, if discovered.

Discussion: In accordance with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, policies, regulations, standards, and guidelines, the public is not authorized to have access to nonpublic information, including information protected under the [PRIVACT] and proprietary information. Publicly accessible content addresses systems that are controlled by the organization and accessible to the public, typically without identification or authentication. Posting information on non-organizational systems (e.g., non-organizational public websites, forums, and social media) is covered by organizational policy. While organizations may have individuals who are responsible for developing and implementing policies about the information that can be made publicly accessible, publicly accessible content addresses the management of the individuals who make such information publicly accessible.

5.6 IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION (IA)

Identification is a unique, auditable representation of an identity within an information system usually in the form of a simple character string for each individual user, machine, software component, or any other entity. Authentication refers to mechanisms or processes to verify the identity of a user, process, or device, as a prerequisite to allowing access to a system's resources.

IA-0 USE OF ORIGINATING AGENCY IDENTIFIERS IN TRANSACTIONS AND INFORMATION EXCHANGES

[Existing]

An FBI authorized originating agency identifier (ORI) shall be used in each transaction on CJIS systems in order to identify the sending agency and to ensure the proper level of access for each transaction. The original identifier between the requesting agency and the CSA/SIB/Channeler shall be the ORI, and other agency identifiers, such as user identification or personal identifier, an access device mnemonic, or the Internet Protocol (IP) address.

Agencies may act as a servicing agency and perform transactions on behalf of authorized agencies requesting the service. Servicing agencies performing inquiry transactions on behalf of another agency may do so using the requesting agency's ORI. Servicing agencies may also use their own ORI to perform inquiry transactions on behalf of a requesting agency if the means and procedures are in place to provide an audit trail for the current specified retention period. Because the agency performing the transaction may not necessarily be the same as the agency requesting the transaction, the CSA/SIB/Channeler shall ensure that the ORI for each transaction can be traced, via audit trail, to the specific agency which is requesting the transaction.

Audit trails can be used to identify the requesting agency if there is a reason to inquire into the details surrounding why an agency ran an inquiry on a subject. Agencies assigned a limited access ORI shall not use the full access ORI of another agency to conduct an inquiry transaction.

NOTE: This control will be included in AC-3 Access Enforcement when modernized.

IA-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to authorized personnel:
   1. Agency/Entity identification and authentication policy that:
      (a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
      (b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
   2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the identification and authentication policy and the associated identification and authentication controls;
b. Designate an individual with security responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the identification and authentication policy and procedures; and
c. Review and update the current identification and authentication:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

1. Policy annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and
2. Procedures annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

DISCUSSION: Identification and authentication policy and procedures address the controls in the IA family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of identification and authentication policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to identification and authentication policy and procedures include assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

IA-2 IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION (ORGANIZATIONAL USERS)

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Uniquely identify and authenticate organizational users and associate that unique identification with processes acting on behalf of those users.

DISCUSSION: Organizations can satisfy the identification and authentication requirements by complying with the requirements in [HSPD 12]. Organizational users include employees or individuals who organizations consider to have an equivalent status to employees (e.g., contractors and guest researchers). Unique identification and authentication of users applies to all accesses other than those that are explicitly identified in AC-14 and that occur through the authorized use of group authenticators without individual authentication. Since processes execute on behalf of groups and roles, organizations may require unique identification of individuals in group accounts or for detailed accountability of individual activity.

Organizations employ passwords, physical authenticators, or biometrics to authenticate user identities or, in the case of multi-factor authentication, some combination thereof. Access to organizational systems is defined as either local access or network access. Local access is any access to organizational systems by users or processes acting on behalf of users, where access is obtained through direct connections without the use of networks. Network access is access to organizational systems by users (or processes acting on behalf of users) where access is obtained through network connections (i.e., nonlocal accesses). Remote access is a type of network access that involves communication through external networks. Internal networks include local area networks and wide area networks.

The use of encrypted virtual private networks for network connections between organization-controlled endpoints and non-organization-controlled endpoints may be treated as internal networks with respect to protecting the confidentiality and integrity of information traversing the network. Identification and authentication requirements for non-organizational users are described in IA-8.

Control Enhancements:

(1) IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION (ORGANIZATIONAL USERS) | MULTI-FACTOR AUTHENTICATION TO PRIVILEGED ACCOUNTS

[Priority 1]

Control:

Implement multi-factor authentication for access to privileged accounts.

DISCUSSION: Multi-factor authentication requires the use of two or more different factors to achieve authentication. The authentication factors are defined as follows: something you know (e.g., a personal identification number [PIN]), something you have (e.g., a physical authenticator such as a cryptographic private key), or something you are (e.g., a biometric). Multi-factor authentication solutions that feature physical authenticators include hardware authenticators that provide time-based or challenge-response outputs and smart cards such as the U.S. Government Personal Identity Verification (PIV) card or the Department of Defense (DoD) Common Access Card (CAC). In addition to authenticating users at the system level (i.e., at logon), organizations may employ authentication mechanisms at the application level, at their discretion, to provide increased security. Regardless of the type of access (i.e., local, network, remote), privileged accounts are authenticated using multi-factor options appropriate for the level of risk. Organizations can add additional security measures, such as additional or more rigorous authentication mechanisms, for specific types of access.

Related Controls: AC-5, AC-6.

(2) IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION (ORGANIZATIONAL USERS) | MULTI-FACTOR AUTHENTICATION TO NON-PRIVILEGED ACCOUNTS

[Priority 1]

Control:

Implement multi-factor authentication for access to non-privileged accounts.

such as a cryptographic private key), or something you are (e.g., a biometric). Multi-factor authentication solutions that feature physical authenticators include hardware authenticators that provide time-based or challenge-response outputs and smart cards such as the U.S. Government Personal Identity Verification card or the DoD Common Access Card. In addition to authenticating users at the system level, organizations may also employ authentication mechanisms at the application level, at their discretion, to provide increased information security. Regardless of the type of access (i.e., local, network, remote), non-privileged accounts are authenticated using multi-factor options appropriate for the level of risk. Organizations can provide additional security measures, such as additional or more rigorous authentication mechanisms, for specific types of access.

Related Controls: AC-5.

(8) IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION (ORGANIZATIONAL USERS) | ACCESS TO ACCOUNTS — REPLAY RESISTANT

[Priority 1]

Control:

Implement replay-resistant authentication mechanisms for access to privileged and non-privileged accounts.

DISCUSSION: Authentication processes resist replay attacks if it is impractical to achieve successful authentications by replaying previous authentication messages. Replay-resistant techniques include protocols that use nonces or challenges such as time synchronous or cryptographic authenticators.

Related Controls: None.

(12) IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION (ORGANIZATIONAL USERS) | ACCEPTANCE OF PIV CREDENTIALS

[Priority 1]

Control:

Accept and electronically verify Personal Identity Verification-compliant credentials.

DISCUSSION: Acceptance of Personal Identity Verification (PIV)-compliant credentials applies to organizations implementing logical access control and physical access control systems. PIV-compliant credentials are those credentials issued by federal agencies that conform to FIPS Publication 201 and supporting guidance documents. The adequacy and reliability of PIV card issuers are authorized using [SP 800-79-2]. Acceptance of PIV-compliant credentials includes derived PIV credentials, the use of which is addressed in [SP 800-166]. The DOD Common Access Card (CAC) is an example of a PIV credential.

IA-3 DEVICE IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Uniquely identify and authenticate agency-managed devices before establishing network connections. In the instance of local connection, the device must be approved by the agency and the device must be identified and authenticated prior to connection to an agency asset.

DISCUSSION: Devices that require unique device-to-device identification and authentication are defined by type, device, or a combination of type and device. Organization-defined device types include devices that are not owned by the organization. Systems use shared known information (e.g., Media Access Control [MAC], Transmission Control Protocol/Internet Protocol [TCP/IP] addresses) for device identification or organizational authentication solutions (e.g., Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE) 802.1x and Extensible Authentication Protocol [EAP], RADIUS server with EAP-Transport Layer Security [TLS] authentication, Kerberos) to identify and authenticate devices on local and wide area networks. Organizations determine the required strength of authentication mechanisms based on the security categories of systems and mission or business requirements. Because of the challenges of implementing device authentication on a large scale, organizations can restrict the application of the control to a limited number/type of devices based on mission or business needs.

IA-4 IDENTIFIER MANAGEMENT

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Manage system identifiers by:

a. Receiving authorization from organizational personnel with identifier management responsibilities to assign an individual, group, role, service, or device identifier;

b. Selecting an identifier that identifies an individual, group, role, service, or device;

c. Assigning the identifier to the intended individual, group, role, service, or device; and

d. Preventing reuse of identifiers for one (1) year.

DISCUSSION: Common device identifiers include Media Access Control (MAC) addresses, Internet Protocol (IP) addresses, or device-unique token identifiers. The management of individual identifiers is not applicable to shared system accounts. Typically, individual identifiers are the usernames of the system accounts assigned to those individuals. In such instances, the account management activities of AC-2 use account names provided by IA-4. Identifier management also addresses individual identifiers not necessarily associated with system accounts. Preventing the reuse of identifiers implies preventing the assignment of previously used individual, group, role, service, or device identifiers to different individuals, groups, roles, services, or devices.

(4) IDENTIFIER MANAGEMENT | IDENTIFY USER STATUS

[Priority 2]

Control:

Manage individual identifiers by uniquely identifying each individual as agency or nonagency.

DISCUSSION: Characteristics that identify the status of individuals include contractors, foreign nationals, and non-organizational users. Identifying the status of individuals by these characteristics provides additional information about the people with whom organizational personnel are communicating. For example, it might be useful for a government employee to know that one of the individuals on an email message is a contractor.

Related Controls: None.

IA-5 AUTHENTICATOR MANAGEMENT

[Priority 1]

Control:

Manage system authenticators by:

a. Verifying, as part of the initial authenticator distribution, the identity of the individual, group, role, service, or device receiving the authenticator;

b. Establishing initial authenticator content for any authenticators issued by the organization;

c. Ensuring that authenticators have sufficient strength of mechanism for their intended use;

d. Establishing and implementing administrative procedures for initial authenticator distribution, for lost or compromised or damaged authenticators, and for revoking authenticators;

e. Changing default authenticators prior to first use;

f. Changing or refreshing authenticators annually or when there is evidence of authenticator compromise;

g. Protecting authenticator content from unauthorized disclosure and modification;

h. Requiring individuals to take, and having devices implement, specific controls to protect authenticators; and

i. Changing authenticators for group or role accounts when membership to those accounts changes.

j. AAL2 Specific Requirements

Control:

All credential service providers (CSPs) authenticating claimants at Authenticator Assurance Level 2 (AAL2) SHALL be assessed on the following criteria:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

(1) Authentication SHALL occur by the use of either a multi-factor authenticator or a combination of two single-factor authenticators.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: A multi-factor authenticator requires two factors to execute a single authentication event, such as a cryptographically- secure device with an integrated biometric sensor that is required to activate the device. Nine different authenticator types are recognized, representing something you know (a memorized secret), something you have (a physical authenticator), or combinations of physical authenticators with either memorized secrets or biometric modalities (something you are). Multi-factor (MF) authentication is required at AAL2. MF authentication at AAL2 may be performed using the following AAL2 permitted authenticator types: MF OTP Device, MF Crypto Software, or MF Crypto Device; or a memorized secret used in combination with the following permitted single-factor authenticators: Look-Up Secret, Out-of-Band authenticator, SF OTP Device, SF Crypto Software, or SF Crypto Device.

(2) If the multi-factor authentication process uses a combination of two single-factor authenticators, then it SHALL include a Memorized Secret authenticator and a possession-based authenticator.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Multifactor authentication requires the use of two different authentication factors. See IA-5 j (1) for permitted authenticator types at AAL2.

(3) Cryptographic authenticators used at AAL2 SHALL use approved cryptography.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Cryptography is considered approved if it is specified or adopted in a FIPS or NIST recommendation. Since verifiers and cryptographic authenticators must use the same algorithms to successfully authenticate, assessment of the verifier also assesses the authenticators that may be used.

(4) At least one authenticator used at AAL2 SHALL be replay resistant.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Replay resistance is a characteristic of most, although not all, physical authenticators. A given output of the authenticator is required to be accepted for only one authentication transaction. For example, the output of a time-based OTP device or an out-of-band device is considered replay resistant if it can only be used for at most one authentication transaction during its validity period. If it can be used for more than one during this period, it is not replay resistant.

(5) Communication between the claimant and verifier SHALL be via an authenticated protected channel.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Communication between claimant or user and verifier or agency is required to be via an encrypted channel that authenticates the verifier to provide confidentiality of the authenticator output and resistance to Man-in-the-Middle (MitM) attacks. This is typically accomplished using the Transport Level Security (TLS) protocol. Mutual authentication of the communication channel is not required unless that is part of the process of authenticating the claimant. Accordingly, the verifier is only responsible the use of an appropriately secure communications protocol.

(6) Verifiers operated by government agencies at AAL2 SHALL be validated to meet the requirements of FIPS 140 Level 1.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Verifiers operated by or on behalf of government agencies are required to be validated to meet FIPS 140 requirements. The FIPS 140 requirements generally apply to cryptographic modules (both hardware and software).

(7) Authenticators procured by government agencies SHALL be validated to meet the requirements of FIPS 140 Level 1.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The FIPS 140 requirements generally apply to cryptographic modules (both hardware and software). While authenticators are not directly the responsibility of the CSP (particularly in the case of bring- your-own authenticators), the CSP is still responsible for ensuring that a sufficiently strong and FIPS 140 validated authenticator is being used. Binding of CSP-supplied authenticators that are known to meet validation criteria is sufficient.

(8) If a device such as a smartphone is used in the authentication process, then the unlocking of that device (typically done using a PIN or biometric) SHALL NOT be considered one of the authentication factors.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This requirement applies to multi-factor authenticators resident on a smartphone or similar device; single-factor authenticators on such devices would only provide a single (physical) authentication factor. Unlocking of a device such as a smartphone may be done for any number of reasons unrelated to authentication, and such devices are normally in an unlocked state for a period of time thereafter. Human action such as entry of a memorized secret or presentation of a biometric factor needs to be provided that is directly associated with the authentication event. Generally, it is not possible for a verifier to know that the device had been locked or if the unlock process met the requirements for the relevant authenticator type.

(9) If a biometric factor is used in authentication at AAL2, then the performance requirements stated in IA-5 m Biometric Requirements SHALL be met.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Detailed conformance criteria applicable to the use of biometrics are contained in section IA-5 m Biometric Requirements. Since verification of biometric factors is not deterministic due to measurement errors in collection of the biometric information, evaluation of performance, and, most importantly, false accept rate, is important to ensure security of the authentication process.

(10) Reauthentication of the subscriber SHALL be repeated at least once per 12 hours during an extended usage session.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Reauthentication is required to mitigate the risks associated with an authenticated endpoint that has been abandoned by the subscriber or has been misappropriated by an attacker while authenticated. At AAL2, providing a memorized secret or biometric factor is sufficient for reauthentication prior to the expiration time.

(11) Reauthentication of the subscriber SHALL be repeated following any period of inactivity lasting 30 minutes or longer.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Reauthentication is required to mitigate the risks associated with an authenticated endpoint that has been abandoned by the subscriber or has been misappropriated by an attacker while authenticated. At AAL2, providing a memorized secret or biometric factor is sufficient for reauthentication prior to the expiration time.

(12) The CSP SHALL employ appropriately tailored security controls from the moderate baseline of security controls defined in the CJISSECPOL.

The CSP SHALL ensure that the minimum assurance-related controls for moderate-impact systems are satisfied.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: NIST SP 800-53 provides a comprehensive catalog of controls, three security control baselines (low, moderate, and high impact), and guidance for tailoring the appropriate baseline to specific needs and risk environments for federal information systems. These controls are the operational, technical, and management safeguards to maintain the integrity, confidentiality, and security of federal information systems and are intended to be used in conjunction with the NIST risk management framework outlined in SP 800-37 and SP 800-63-3 section 5 Digital Identity Risk Management. NIST SP 800-53 presents security control baselines determined by the security categorization of the information system (low, moderate or high) from NIST FIPS 199 Standards for Security Categorization of Federal Information and Information Systems. For IAL2, the moderate baseline controls (see https://nvd.nist.gov/800-53/Rev4/impact/moderate) may be considered the starting point for the selection, enhancement, and tailoring of the security controls presented. Guidance on tailoring the control baselines to best meet the organization's risk environment, systems and operations is presented in SP 800- 53 section 3.2. Tailoring Baseline Security Controls.

While SP 800-53 and other NIST Special Publications in the SP-800-XXX series apply to federal agencies for the implementation of the Federal information Security Management Act (FISMA), non-federal entities providing services for federal information services also are subject to FISMA and should similarly use SP 800-53 and associated publications for appropriate controls. Non-federal entities may be subject to and conformant with other applicable controls systems and processes for information system security (e.g., FEDRAMP, ISO/IEC 27001). SP-63A allows the application of equivalent controls from such standards and processes to meet conformance with this criterion.

(13) The CSP SHALL comply with records retention policies i n accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: It is recommended that CSPs document any specific retention policies they are subject to, in accordance with applicable laws, regulations, or policies, including any National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) records retention schedules that may apply.

The CSP is responsible for the proper handling, protection, and retention or disposal of any sensitive data it collects, even after it ceases to provide identity proofing and enrollment services. A CSP may document its policies and procedures for the management of the data is collects in a data handling plan or other document.

(14) If the CSP opts to retain records in the absence of any mandatory requirements, then the CSP SHALL conduct a risk management process, including assessments of privacy and security risks to determine how long records should be retained and SHALL inform subscribers of that retention policy.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This is a conditional requirement and depends on the basis for CSP records retention. Absent clear jurisdictional requirements, risk management processes, including privacy and security risk assessment, need to be performed for records retention decisions. The records retention duration is required to be derived from a risk-based decision process.

k. Privacy requirements that apply to all CSPs, verifiers, and RPs.

(1) The CSP SHALL employ appropriately tailored privacy controls from the CJISSECPOL.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This requirement establishes overall privacy posture of the CSP.

(2) If the CSP processes attributes for purposes other than identity proofing, authentication, or attribute assertions (collectively “identity service”), related fraud mitigation, or to comply with law or legal process, then the CSP SHALL implement measures to maintain predictability and manageability commensurate with the associated privacy risk.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Predictability and manageability measures include providing clear notice, obtaining subscriber consent, and enabling selective use or disclosure of attributes. Predictability is meant to build trust and provide accountability and requires full understanding (and disclosure) of how the attribute information will be used. Manageability also builds trust by demonstrating a CSPs ability to control attribute information throughout processing – collection, maintenance, retention.

l. General requirements applicable to AAL2 authentication process.

(1) CSPs SHALL provide subscriber instructions on how to appropriately protect a physical authenticator against theft or loss.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Instruction should address aspects of protecting the specific type of authenticator being used.

(2) The CSP SHALL provide a mechanism to revoke or suspend the authenticator immediately upon notification from subscriber that loss or theft of the authenticator is suspected.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The CSP needs to have a documented procedure to allow subscribers to report lost or stolen physical authenticators, and to revoke or suspend such authenticators promptly when reported. Subscribers need to be instructed (see GEN-1) the procedure for reporting loss or theft.

(3) If required by the authenticator type descriptions in IA-5(1), then the verifier SHALL implement controls to protect against online guessing attacks.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Throttling or rate limiting is key to resistance against online guessing attacks. This is generally required for memorized secrets or when the authenticator output of a look-up secret, OOB, or OTP authenticator may have less than 64 bits of entropy.

(4) If required by the authenticator type descriptions in IA-5(1) and the description of a given authenticator does not specify otherwise, then the verifier SHALL limit consecutive failed authentication attempts on a single account to no more than 100.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Throttling or rate limiting is key to resistance against online guessing attacks. It is important that it be implemented in a non-abrupt manner as described in the specification so that it is not usable as a denial-of-service mechanism by an attacker. Additional techniques MAY be used to reduce the likelihood that an attacker will lock the legitimate claimant out as a result of rate limiting. These include:

- Requiring the claimant to complete a CAPTCHA before attempting authentication.
- Requiring the claimant to wait following a failed attempt for a period of time that increases as the account approaches its maximum allowance for consecutive failed attempts (e.g., 30 seconds up to an hour).
- Accepting only authentication requests that come from a white list of IP addresses from which the subscriber has been successfully authenticated before. Leveraging other risk-based or adaptive authentication techniques to identify user behavior that falls within, or out of, typical norms. These might, for example, include use of IP address, geolocation, timing of request patterns, or browser metadata.

(5) If signed attestations are used, then they SHALL be signed using a digital signature that provides at least the minimum security strength specified in the latest revision of 112 bits as of the date of this publication.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Attestations are sometimes provided by cryptographic authenticators to securely indicate their capabilities, e.g., that they are hardware-based or that they have characteristics such as two-factor capability. For the attestations to be useful, these signatures need to use algorithms and keys that are sufficiently strong.

(6) If the verifier and CSP are separate entities (as shown by the dotted line in Figure 8 Digital Identity Model), then communications between the verifier and CSP SHALL occur through a mutually-authenticated secure channel (such as a client-authenticated TLS connection).

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In cases where the verifier and CSP are separate, it is important that this not create additional security vulnerabilities as compared with an integrated verifier/CSP combination. This requirement ensures that there is not an opportunity to perform eavesdropping or active attacks on the channel between them.

(7) If the CSP provides the subscriber with a means to report loss, theft, or damage to an authenticator using a backup or alternate authenticator, then that authenticator SHALL be either a memorized secret or a physical authenticator.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: It is important that the loss of control of an authenticator be quickly reported to the CSP. To balance between the need to easily and promptly report this and the risk of a fraudulent report, a backup authenticator, either a memorized secret or physical authenticator, should be usable by the subscriber to make this report. Only a single, single-factor authenticator is required.

(8) If the CSP chooses to verify an address of record (i.e., email, telephone, postal) and suspend authenticator(s) reported to have been compromised, then...The suspension

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SHALL be reversible if the subscriber successfully authenticates to the CSP using a valid (i.e., not suspended) authenticator and requests reactivation of an authenticator suspended in this manner.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Reversibility of suspension is intended to minimize the impact of inadvertent loss reports from the subscriber and in some cases from an attacker who may be attempting to deny service to the subscriber.

(9) If and when an authenticator expires, it SHALL NOT be usable for authentication.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Expiration is used by some CSPs to limit the security exposure from an authenticator that is lost but the loss has not been detected/reported and revoked.

(10) The CSP SHALL have a documented process to require subscribers to surrender or report the loss of any physical authenticator containing attribute certificates signed by the CSP as soon as practical after expiration or receipt of a renewed authenticator.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The requirement for surrender or destruction of expired authenticators minimizes the possibility that authentication with an expired authenticator will be attempted. PKI-based authenticators that are collected or known to be destroyed also do not need to be included in certificate revocation lists.

(11) CSPs SHALL revoke the binding of authenticators immediately upon notification when an online identity ceases to exist (e.g., subscriber's death, discovery of a fraudulent subscriber), when requested by the subscriber, or when the CSP determines that the subscriber no longer meets its eligibility requirements.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Prompt revocation ensures that unauthorized parties are not able to use the authenticator to make unauthorized access to the subscriber account. Revocation at subscriber request can affect only a single authenticator; the other classes of revocation generally affect all authenticators associated with the subscriber's account.

(12) The CSP SHALL have a documented process to require subscribers to surrender or report the loss of any physical authenticator containing certified attributes signed by the CSP within five (5) days after revocation or termination takes place.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This requirement blocks the use of the authenticator's certified attributes in offline situations between revocation/termination and expiration of the certification. Prompt revocation ensures that unauthorized parties are not able to use the authenticator to make unauthorized access to the subscriber account. Collection or destruction also minimizes the dependence on (and growth of) certificate revocation lists, which are not always 100% effective in accomplishing revocation, particularly in offline situations.

m. Biometric Requirements

(1) Biometrics SHALL be used only as part of multi-factor authentication with a physical authenticator (something you have).

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: For a variety of reasons listed here, a biometric factor is not considered to be an authenticator by itself. The risks associated with biometric factors are largely mitigated by binding the biometric with a specific physical authenticator.

- The biometric False Match Rate (FMR) does not provide confidence in the authentication of the subscriber by itself. In addition, FMR does not account for spoofing attacks.
- Biometric comparison is probabilistic, whereas the other authentication factors are deterministic.
- Biometric template protection schemes provide a method for revoking biometric credentials that is comparable to other authentication factors (e.g., PKI certificates and passwords). However, the availability of such solutions is limited, and standards for testing these methods are under development.
- Biometric characteristics do not constitute secrets. They can be obtained online or by taking a picture of someone with a camera phone (e.g., facial images) with or without their knowledge, lifted from objects someone touches (e.g., latent fingerprints), or captured with high resolution images (e.g., iris patterns). While presentation attack detection (PAD) technologies (e.g., liveness detection) can mitigate the risk of these types of attacks, additional trust in the sensor or biometric processing is required to ensure that PAD is operating in accordance with the needs of the CSP and the subscriber.

(2) An authenticated protected channel between sensor (or an endpoint containing a sensor that resists sensor replacement) and verifier SHALL be established.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This requirement ensures that biometric data that flows across the network to the verifier is protected from disclosure and that an attacker cannot substitute a “skimmer” or other fraudulent replacement for the biometric sensor. If the biometric factor is verified directly on a multi-factor authenticator and the sensor is tightly integrated with it, that local connection does not require an authenticated protected channel.

(3) The sensor or endpoint SHALL be authenticated prior to capturing the biometric sample from the claimant.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This requirement ensures that the biometric data being verified is obtained from the expected sensor rather than from a device that may be spoofing biometric information. This is generally not required when the biometric factor is verified in an endpoint that is tightly integrated with the sensor in a manner that resists sensor replacement.

(4) The biometric system SHALL operate with an FMR [ISO/IEC 2382-37] of 1 in 1000 or better. This FMR SHALL be achieved under conditions of a conformant attack (i.e., zero-effort impostor attempt) as defined in [ISO/IEC 30107-1].

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Since biometric comparison is an approximate match, an operating point threshold is chosen by the verifier that balances false matches and false non-matches. To operate adequately as a verifier, a 1 in 1000 or better false match rate is required.

(5) The biometric system SHALL allow no more than 5 consecutive failed authentication attempts or 10 consecutive failed attempts if PAD demonstrating at least 90% resistance to presentation attacks is implemented.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: With a false accept rate of as much as 1 in 1000 zero-effort attempts, the ability to make a large number of biometric authentication attempts would result in an unacceptably high probability of mis-authentication. This limit is comparable to that provided by several commercial products (mobile devices) currently on the market.

(6) Once the limit on authentication failures has been reached, the biometric authenticator SHALL either:

i. Impose a delay of at least 30 seconds before the next attempt, increasing exponentially with each successive attempt, or

ii. disable the biometric user authentication and offer another factor (e.g., a different biometric modality or a PIN/Passcode if it is not already a required factor) if such an alternative method is already available.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Following a number of consecutive biometric match failures that exceeds the limit in IA-5 m (5), subsequent attempts need to be either aggressively delayed (e.g., 1 minute before the following failed attempt, 2 minutes before the second following attempt) or another authentication or biometric modality associated with the same physical authenticator needs to be used.

(7) The verifier SHALL make a determination of sensor and endpoint performance, integrity, and authenticity.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The verifier needs to have a basis for determining that biometric verification meets the necessary performance requirements. This may be accomplished by authenticating the sensor or endpoint, by a certification by an approved accreditation authority, or by runtime interrogation of a signed attestation.

(8) If biometric comparison is performed centrally, then use of the biometric as an authentication factor SHALL be limited to one or more specific devices that are identified using approved cryptography.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The ability to use a biometric factor on an arbitrary device greatly increases the value of breached biometric data. For this reason, the use of the biometric factor is limited to specific devices for each subscriber. A separate key is required since the main authentication key is only unlocked upon successful comparison of the biometric factor.

(9) If biometric comparison is performed centrally, then a separate key SHALL be used for identifying the device.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Since the main authentication key has not yet been unlocked, a separate key is required for identifying the specific device(s) that the biometric may be used with.

(10) If biometric comparison is performed centrally, then biometric revocation, referred to as biometric template protection in ISO/IEC 24745, SHALL be implemented.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Central databases of biometric templates are an attractive target for attackers. The ability to securely revoke biometric factors is required in response to that threat.

(11) If biometric comparison is performed centrally, all transmission of biometrics SHALL be over the authenticated protected channel.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Because of the replay potential of biometric data, biometric information needs to be distributed in a manner that minimizes the opportunity for attackers to intercept the data either by eavesdropping on MitM attacks.

(12) Biometric samples and any biometric data derived from the biometric sample such as a probe produced through signal processing SHALL be zeroized immediately after any training or research data has been derived.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: If the biometric factor is used for any supplemental purpose, it is important that it not be a mechanism for breach of subscribers' biometric data.

n. Authenticator binding refers to the establishment of an association between a specific authenticator and a subscriber's account, enabling the authenticator to be used — possibly in conjunction with other authenticators — to authenticate for that account.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

(1) Authenticators SHALL be bound to subscriber accounts by either issuance by the CSP as part of enrollment or associating a subscriber-provided authenticator that is acceptable to the CSP.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In the past, many physical authenticators were provided by the CSP. More recently, there has been a trend toward BYO authenticators, which can be both cost-effective for CSPs and convenient for the subscriber. This requirement ensures that such BYO authenticators are subject to approval by the CSP, primarily to ensure that they meet security requirements.

(2) Throughout the digital identity lifecycle, CSPs SHALL maintain a record of all authenticators that are or have been associated with each identity.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to authenticate subscribers successfully, the CSP needs to maintain a record of authenticators bound to each subscriber's account. In addition, a record of authenticators formerly bound to each account needs to be kept for forensic purposes.

(3) The CSP or verifier SHALL maintain the information required for throttling authentication attempts.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to successfully support the throttling of authentication attempts (see requirement IA-5 1 (3)), the CSP needs to maintain information on the number of consecutive failed authentication attempts.

(4) The CSP SHALL also verify the type of user-provided authenticator so verifiers can determine compliance with requirements at each AAL.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to determine compliance with AAL-specific requirements, the CSP needs to reliably determine some authenticator characteristics, such as whether the authenticator is hardware-based, whether it is a single-factor or multi-factor authenticator, and performance characteristics of associated biometric sensors. Mechanisms to do this include attestation certificates from the manufacturer and examination of the authenticator (particularly at account issuance). In the absence of this information, the CSP needs to assume that the authenticator is the weakest type that is consistent with the authentication protocol being used.

(5) The record created by the CSP SHALL contain the date and time the authenticator was bound to the account.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: For forensic purposes it is useful to have a record of the period of time each authenticator is bound to the subscriber's account.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

(6) When any new authenticator is bound to a subscriber account, the CSP SHALL ensure that the binding protocol and the protocol for provisioning the associated key(s) are done at AAL2.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: If the process of binding an authenticator is not strong enough, an authenticator that is fraudulently bound to the account could be used by an attacker to gain access to a subscriber's account. The authentication factor being bound to the account needs to be included in the authentication process for the session in which the authenticator is bound.

(7) Protocols for key provisioning SHALL use authenticated protected channels or be performed in person to protect against MitM attacks.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: For the same reasons that MitM attacks are of concern during authentication, they could occur during provisioning, which could result in the binding of an attacker's key to the account rather than the subscriber's key.

(8) Binding of multi-factor authenticators SHALL require multi-factor authentication (or equivalent) at identity proofing.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to prevent a subscriber with only single-factor authentication from up-leveling to multi-factor, binding of a multi-factor authenticator requires that the subscriber be multi-factor authenticated at the time the new authenticator is bound

(9) At enrollment, the CSP SHALL bind at least one, and SHOULD bind at least two, physical (something you have) authenticators to the subscriber's online identity, in addition to a memorized secret or one or more biometrics.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Executive order 13681 requires the use of multi-factor authentication for the release of personal data. Therefore, it is important that the CSP associate sufficient authentication factors at enrollment to make this possible. While all identifying information is self-asserted at IAL1, preservation of online material or an online reputation makes it undesirable to lose control of an account due to the loss of an authenticator. The second authenticator makes it possible to securely recover from an authenticator loss. For this reason, a CSP SHOULD bind at least two physical authenticators to the subscriber's credential at IAL1 as well.

(10) At enrollment, authenticators at AAL2 and IAL2 SHALL be bound to the account.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to support higher identity assurance, correspondingly high authenticator assurance levels are required to ensure the proper use of the identity.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

(11) If enrollment and binding are being done remotely and cannot be completed in a single electronic transaction, then the applicant SHALL identify themselves in each new binding transaction by presenting a temporary secret which was either established during a prior transaction, or sent to the applicant's phone number, email address, or postal address of record.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The issuance or binding of authenticators may occur well after the enrollment process, following adjudication and eligibility determinations. It is necessary to securely associate the applicant that appears for identity proofing with the person appearing for authenticator issuance/binding in order to avoid mis-issuance of authenticators. At this point it is not possible to fully authenticate the applicant, but the use of a temporary secret provides the necessary protection for this one-time transaction.

(12) If enrollment and binding are being done remotely and cannot be completed in a single electronic transaction, then long-term authenticator secrets are delivered to the applicant within a protected session.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Long-term secrets need to be protected against disclosure while they are sent to the applicant. This applies primarily to symmetric keys, such as for OTP authenticators, that are sent to the applicant by the CSP. "Protected session" in this context refers to an authenticated protected.

(13) If enrollment and binding are being done in person and cannot be completed in a single physical encounter, the applicant SHALL identify themselves in person by either using a secret as described in IA-5 n (12) above, or through use of a biometric that was recorded during a prior encounter.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The issuance or binding of authenticators may occur well after the enrollment process, following adjudication and eligibility determinations. It is necessary to securely associate the applicant that appears for identity proofing with the person appearing for authenticator issuance/binding in order to avoid mis-issuance of authenticators. At this point it is not possible to fully authenticate the applicant, but the use of a temporary secret provides the necessary protection for this one-time transaction.

(14) If enrollment and binding are being done in person and cannot be completed in a single physical encounter, temporary secrets SHALL NOT be reused.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The issuance or binding of authenticators may occur well after the enrollment process, following adjudication and eligibility determinations. It is necessary to securely associate the applicant that appears for identity proofing with the person appearing for authenticator issuance/binding in order to avoid mis-issuance of authenticators. A new secret for this purpose is required for each subsequent encounter.

(15) If enrollment and binding are being done in person and cannot be completed in a single physical encounter and the CSP issues long-term authenticator secrets during a physical transaction, they SHALL be loaded locally onto a physical device that is issued in person to the applicant or delivered in a manner that confirms the address of record.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: To avoid misappropriation of long-term authenticator secrets at enrollment, the CSP is required to load the secrets onto authenticators directly, or deliver them to the new subscriber in a manner that confirms the address of record, typically by sending a short-term secret to that address that the new subscriber uses to obtain the long-term secret.

(16) Before adding a new authenticator to a subscriber's account, the CSP SHALL first require the subscriber to authenticate at AAL2 (or a higher AAL) at which the new authenticator will be used.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to maintain the significance of AALs and prevent attackers from leveraging lower AAL authentication to gain access to higher AAL resources, subscribers binding additional authenticators need to do so at the maximum AAL at which they will be used.

(17) If the subscriber's account has only one authentication factor bound to it, the CSP SHALL require the subscriber to authenticate at AAL1 in order to bind an additional authenticator of a different authentication factor.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This is a special-case, one-time only exception to IA-5(n)(17) to allow a single-factor account not subject to identity proofing (IAL1) to be upgraded to a multi-factor account. This provides a mechanism for such accounts to increase their authentication security.

(18) If a subscriber loses all authenticators of a factor necessary to complete multi-factor authentication and has been identity proofed at IAL2, that subscriber SHALL repeat the identity proofing process described in IA-12.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Repeating the identity proofing process is an onerous requirement when a subscriber is no longer able to complete multi-factor authentication, but it is necessary to avoid the security problems typically present in "account recovery" situations. This is the primary reason that the binding of multiple authenticators is recommended, particularly in the case of physical authenticators. The entire identity proofing process need not be repeated if the CSP has maintained enough records of the evidence presented to repeat the verification phase of identity proofing.

(19) If a subscriber loses all authenticators of a factor necessary to complete multi-factor authentication and has been identity proofed at IAL2 or IAL3, the CSP SHALL require the claimant to authenticate using a n authenticator of the remaining factor, if any, to confirm binding to the existing identity.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: While use of an authenticator at a different factor is only a single authentication factor (and therefore only AAL1), authentication in conjunction with the repeated identity proofing process provides assurance that the claimant is who they claim to be.

(20) If the CSP opts to allow binding of a new memorized secret with the use of two physical authenticators, then it requires entry of a confirmation code sent to an address of record.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Loss of a memorized secret is different from the loss of a physical authenticator because it is not mitigated by the binding of multiple authenticators. This alternate method of associating a new memorized secret may be used by CSPs to avoid the need for repeating identity proofing (Refer to IA-12).

(21) If the CSP opts to allow binding of a new memorized secret with the use of two physical authenticators, then the confirmation code SHALL consist of at least 6 random alphanumeric characters generated by an approved random bit generator [SP 800-90Ar1].

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The confirmation code is required to have sufficient entropy and to be generated in a manner that cannot be predicted by an attacker.

(22) If the CSP opts to allow binding of a new memorized secret with the use of two physical authenticators, then the confirmation code SHALL be valid for a maximum of 7 days but MAY be made valid up to 21 days via an exception process to accommodate addresses outside the direct reach of the U.S. Postal Service. Confirmation codes sent by means other than physical mail SHALL be valid for a maximum of 5 minutes.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The confirmation code has a limited lifetime to mitigate the risk of loss or misappropriation in transit.

o. Session Management: The following requirements apply to applications where a session is maintained between the subscriber and relying party to allow multiple interactions without repeating the authentication event each time.

Once an authentication event has taken place, it is often desirable to allow the subscriber to continue using the application across multiple subsequent interactions without requiring them to repeat the authentication event. This requirement is particularly true for federation scenarios where the authentication event necessarily involves several components and parties coordinating across a network.

(1) Session Binding Requirements: A session occurs between the software that a subscriber is running — such as a browser, application, or operating system (i.e., the session subject) — and the RP or CSP that the subscriber is accessing (i.e., the session host).

a. A session is maintained by a session secret which SHALL be shared between the subscriber's software and the service being accessed.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This secret binds the two ends of the session, allowing the subscriber to continue using the service over time.

b. The secret SHALL be presented directly by the subscriber's software or possession of the secret SHALL be proven using a cryptographic mechanism.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The session secret is considered a short-term secret, so direct presentation of a shared secret is permitted, even at AAL2 or AAL3.

c. The secret used for session binding SHALL be generated by the session host in direct response to an authentication event.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The session secret needs to be directly associated with authentication so that it isn't inadvertently provided to the wrong session.

d. A session SHALL NOT be considered at a higher AAL than the authentication event.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Each session has an associated maximum AAL at which it can be used that is derived from the authentication AAL; this is associated with the session and its secret by the CSP/RP.

e. Secrets used for session binding SHALL be generated by the session host during an interaction, typically immediately following authentication.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: It is the responsibility of the host (RP/CSP/Verifier) to generate session secrets, not the subscriber.

f. Secrets used for session binding SHALL be generated by an approved random bit generator [SP 800-90Ar1].

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The use of a high-quality random bit generator is important to ensure that an attacker cannot guess the session secret.

g. Secrets used for session binding SHALL contain at least 64 bits of entropy.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The use of a high-quality random bit generator is important to ensure that an attacker cannot guess the session secret.

h. Secrets used for session binding SHALL be erased or invalidated by the session subject when the subscriber logs out.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: At a minimum, the CSP/RP needs to ensure that the session secret can no longer to be used following logout. If possible, the secret should be erased on the subscriber endpoint as well.

i. Secrets used for session binding SHALL be sent to and received from the device using an authenticated protected channel.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Session secrets, particularly when directly presented, need to be protected against eavesdropping and MitM attacks. This is typically accomplished using the Transport Level Security (TLS) protocol.

j. Secrets used for session binding SHALL time out and not be accepted after the times specified in IA-5 j (13) as appropriate for the AAL.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This requirement is in support of the reauthentication requirements in AAL2-, AAL3-, and REAUTH-*. The proper way to ensure that a session is logged out is to invalidate the session secrets associated with that session. A new session secret will need to be generated and associated with any session that is about to be established from the same endpoint.

k. Secrets used for session binding SHALL NOT be available to insecure communications between the host and subscriber's endpoint.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: User endpoints such as browsers that support both secure and insecure communications typically have mechanisms to flag information (e.g., cookies) that are only available to secure sessions. These mechanisms are required to be used for session management secrets. See also IA-5 o (7).

l. Authenticated sessions SHALL NOT fall back to an insecure transport, such as from https to http, following authentication.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In some cases, endpoints supporting https provide, primary for legacy purposes, the ability to connect via http as well. If not done properly, this can make the site vulnerable to a "downgrade attack" where a session switches from https to http. This must not happen for authenticated sessions. If session secrets are managed properly, this downgrade interferes with the continuity of the session.

m. URLs or POST content SHALL contain a session identifier that SHALL be verified by the RP to ensure that actions taken outside the session do not affect the protected session.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Unique session identifiers in the URL or POST content are used to ensure that sessions are not vulnerable to cross-site request forgery (CSRF). Note that the session identifier is separate and different from the session secret; under no circumstances should the session secret be included in a URL.

n. Browser cookies SHALL be tagged to be accessible only on secure (HTTPS) sessions.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Browser cookies have an optional "secure" flag to ensure that they are not accidentally transmitted over a non-secure channel. This flag must be set for session secrets.

o. Browser cookies SHALL be accessible to the minimum practical set of hostnames and paths.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Browser cookies have a scope parameter that limits the sites from to which the cookie can be sent; this should be specified as specifically as possible to limit access to the session secret as narrowly as practical.

p. Expiration of browser cookies SHALL NOT be depended upon to enforce session timeouts.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: While browser cookies have an expiration time, enforcement of session timeouts must occur at the RP/CSP and not at the user endpoint. Cookie expiration may, however, be used to limit accumulation of cookies in the browser.

q. The presence of an OAuth access token SHALL NOT be interpreted by the RP as presence of the subscriber, in the absence of other signals.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Access tokens, used in federated identity systems, may be valid after the authentication session has ended and the subscriber has left.

(2) Reauthentication Requirements

a. Continuity of authenticated sessions SHALL be based upon the possession of a session secret issued by the verifier at the time of authentication and optionally refreshed during the session.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This is a reiteration of requirement IA-5 o (1).

b. Session secrets SHALL be non-persistent, i.e., they SHALL NOT be retained across a restart of the associated application or a reboot of the host device.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Session secrets are not to be maintained across a restart of the associated application or a reboot of the host device in order to minimize the likelihood that a misappropriated logged in device can be exploited.

c. Periodic reauthentication of sessions (at least every 12 hours per session) SHALL be performed to confirm the continued presence of the subscriber at an authenticated session.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to protect against a subscriber leaving a logged-in endpoint, timeouts are defined for session inactivity and overall session length. The timer for these timeouts is reset by a reauthentication transaction. Higher AALs have more stringent (shorter) reauthentication timeouts. Following expiration of the session timer, the subscriber is required to start a new session by authenticating.

d. A session SHALL NOT be extended past the guidelines in IA-5 o (2) a – j based on presentation of the session secret alone.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The existence and possession of a session secret does not consider whether the subscriber continued to be in control of the session endpoint. To mitigate this risk, the session secret is only valid for a limited period of time. While the session secret is "something you have", it is not an authenticator.

e. Prior to session expiration, the reauthentication time limit SHALL be extended by prompting the subscriber for the authentication factor(s) of a memorized secret or biometric.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Before the session times out, the subscriber should be given an opportunity to reauthenticate to extend the session. The subscriber may be prompted when an idle timeout is about to expire, to allow them to cause activity and thereby avoid the need to reauthenticate.

Note: At AAL2, a memorized secret or biometric, and not a physical authenticator, is required because the session secret is something you have, and an additional authentication factor is required to continue the session.

f. If federated authentication is being used, then since the CSP and RP often employ separate session management technologies, there SHALL NOT be any assumption of correlation between these sessions.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: When an RP session expires and the RP requires reauthentication, it is entirely possible that the session at the CSP has not expired and that a new assertion could be generated from this session at the CSP without reauthenticating the user.

g. An RP requiring reauthentication through a federation protocol SHALL — if possible within the protocol — specify the maximum (see IA-5 j (10)) acceptable authentication age to the CSP.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In some applications, RPs may require a "fresh" authentication to meet its authentication risk requirements. By specifying maximum age, the RP can proactively request the CSP to obtain a new authentication to meet that requirement.

h. If federated authentication if being used and an RP has specific authentication age (see IA-5 j [10]) requirements that it has communicated to the CSP, then the CSP SHALL reauthenticate the subscriber if they have not been authenticated within that time period.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: When the RP communicates its authentication freshness requirements to the CSP, the CSP is expected to reauthenticate the subscriber to support a session that meets those requirements.

i. If federated authentication is being used, the CSP SHALL communicate the authentication event time to the RP to allow the RP to decide if the assertion is sufficient for reauthentication and to determine the time for the next reauthentication event.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: When federation authentication is being used, the authentication assertion from the CSP needs to contain the authentication event time to allow the RP to request reauthentication at an appropriate interval if it has specific authentication age requirements.

DISCUSSION: Authenticators include passwords, cryptographic devices, biometrics, certificates, one-time password devices, and ID badges. Device authenticators include certificates and passwords. Initial authenticator content is the actual content of the authenticator (e.g., the initial password). In contrast, the requirements for authenticator content contain specific criteria or characteristics (e.g., minimum password length). Developers may deliver system components with factory default authentication credentials (i.e., passwords) to allow for initial installation and configuration. Default authentication credentials are often well known, easily discoverable, and present a significant risk. The requirement to protect individual authenticators may be implemented via control PL-4 or PS-6 for authenticators in the possession of individuals and by controls AC-3, AC-6, and SC-28 for authenticators stored in organizational systems, including passwords stored in hashed or encrypted formats or files containing encrypted or hashed passwords accessible with administrator privileges.

Systems support authenticator management by organization-defined settings and restrictions for various authenticator characteristics (e.g., minimum password length, validation time window for time synchronous one-time tokens, and number of allowed rejections during the verification stage of biometric authentication). Actions can be taken to safeguard individual authenticators, including maintaining possession of authenticators, not sharing authenticators with others, and immediately reporting lost, stolen, or compromised authenticators. Authenticator management includes issuing and revoking authenticators for temporary access when no longer needed.

Related Controls: AC-3, AC-6, CM-6, IA-2, IA-4, IA-7, IA-8, MA-4, PE-2, PL-4, SC-12, SC-13.

Control Enhancements:

(1) AUTHENTICATOR MANAGEMENT | AUTHENTICATOR TYPES

[Priority 1]

Control:

(a) Memorized Secret Authenticators and Verifiers:

1. Maintain a list of commonly-used, expected, or compromised passwords and update the list quarterly and when organizational passwords are suspected to have been compromised directly or indirectly;
2. Require immediate selection of a new password upon account recovery;
3. Allow user selection of long passwords and passphrases, including spaces and all printable characters;
4. Employ automated tools to assist the user in selecting strong password authenticators;
5. Enforce the following composition and complexity rules when agencies elect to follow basic password standards:

    (a) Not be a proper name.

    (b) Not be the same as the Userid.

    (c) Expire within a maximum of 90 calendar days.

    (d) Not be identical to the previous ten (10) passwords.

    (e) Not be displayed when entered.

    NOTE: Basic Password Standards do not meet the new authenticator requirements. However, agencies that are operating under those standards may continue to do so until September 30, 2024.

6. If chosen by the subscriber, memorized secrets SHALL be at least 8 characters in length.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Memorized secret length is the most reliable metric determining strength against online and offline guessing attacks. The objective is primarily to defend against online attacks (with throttling of guesses) and to provide some protection against offline attacks, with the primary defense for such attacks being secure storage of the verifier.

7. If chosen by the CSP or verifier using an approved random number generator, memorized secrets SHALL be at least 6 characters in length.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Memorized secret length is the most reliable metric determining strength against online and offline guessing attacks. The objective is primarily to defend against online attacks (with throttling of guesses) and to provide some protection against offline attacks, with the primary defense for such attacks being secure storage of the verifier.

8. Truncation of the secret SHALL NOT be performed.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Memorized secrets that are longer than expected by the verifier might (but must not) be simply truncated to an acceptable length. This gives a false impression of security to the user if the verifier only checks a subset of the memorized secret.

9. Memorized secret verifiers SHALL NOT permit the subscriber to store a "hint" that is accessible to an unauthenticated claimant.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The availability of memorized secret hints greatly weakens the strength of memorized secret authenticators.

10. Verifiers SHALL NOT prompt subscribers to use specific types of information (e.g., "What was the name of your first pet?") when choosing memorized secrets.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Prompts for specific information (often called Knowledge-based Authentication or Security Questions) encourage use of the same memorized secrets at multiple sites, which causes a vulnerability to "password stuffing" attacks. This guidance applies to account recovery situations as well as normal authentication.

11. When processing requests to establish and change memorized secrets, verifiers SHALL compare the prospective secrets against a list that contains values known to be commonly used, expected, or compromised.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The maintenance of a list of common memorized secrets that cannot be used by users protects provides protection against online attacks that might otherwise succeed before throttling mechanisms take effect to defend against these attacks. This is an alternative to the use of composition rules (requirements for particular character types, etc.) and can provide more customized protection against common memorized secrets. This list may include, but is not limited to:

    - Passwords obtained from previous breach corpuses.
    - Dictionary words.
    - Repetitive or sequential characters (e.g., 'aaaaaa', '1234abcd').
    - Context-specific words, such as the name of the service, the username, and derivatives thereof.

12. If a chosen secret is found in the list, the CSP or verifier SHALL advise the subscriber that they need to select a different secret.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The use of common memorized secrets greatly increases the vulnerability of the account to both online (guessing) and offline (cracking) attacks. This is an alternative to the use of composition rules (requirements for particular character types, etc.) and can provide more customized protection against common memorized secrets.

13. If a chosen secret is found in the list, the CSP or verifier SHALL provide the reason for rejection.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: When a subscriber chooses a weak memorized secret, it is likely that they will choose another weak memorized secret that may or may not be on the blocklist. In addition to explaining to the user the reason for the rejection of their selection, it is helpful to provide coaching on better choices. Tools like password-strength meters are often useful in this situation.

14. If a chosen secret is found in the list, the CSP or verifier SHALL require the subscriber to choose a different value.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: When a subscriber chooses a weak memorized secret, the memorized secret change process is not complete until the subscriber has chosen a different value.

15. Verifiers SHALL implement a rate-limiting mechanism that effectively limits failed authentication attempts that can be made on the subscriber's account to no more than five.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Rate limiting restricts the ability of an attacker to make many online guessing attacks on the memorized secret. Other requirements (e.g., minimum length of memorized secrets) depend on the existence of rate limiting, so effective rate limiting is an essential capability. Ideally, a rate limiting mechanism should restrict the attacker as much as possible without creating an opportunity for a denial-of-service attack against the subscriber.

16. Verifiers SHALL force a change of memorized secret if there is evidence of compromise of the authenticator.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Although requiring routine periodic changes to memorized secrets is not recommended, it is important that verifiers have the capability to prompt memorized secrets on an emergency basis if there is evidence of a possible successful attack.

17. The verifier SHALL use approved encryption when requesting memorized secrets in order to provide resistance to eavesdropping and MitM attacks.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: As defined in Appendix A of the CJIS Security Policy, cryptography is considered approved if it is specified or adopted in a FIPS or NIST recommendation.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

18. The verifier SHALL use an authenticated protected channel when requesting memorized secrets in order to provide resistance to eavesdropping and MitM attacks.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Communication between claimant and verifier is required to be via an encrypted channel that authenticates the verifier to provide confidentiality of the authenticator output and resistance to MitM attacks. This is typically accomplished using the Transport Level Security (TLS) protocol.

19. Verifiers SHALL store memorized secrets in a form that is resistant to offline attacks.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Storage of memorized secret verifiers in a hashed form that is not readily reversed is a key protection against offline attacks. In no case should a verifier store memorized secrets in cleartext form. Criteria IA-5(1)(a)(20) – (22) provide more detail on how this is done.

20. Memorized secrets SHALL be salted and hashed using a suitable one-way key derivation function.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Key derivation functions take a password, a salt, and a cost factor as inputs then generate a password hash. Their purpose is to make each password guessing trial by an attacker who has obtained a password hash file expensive and therefore the cost of a guessing attack high or prohibitive. Use of a key derivation with a salt, preferably with a time- and memory-hard key derivation function, provides the best protection against attackers that are able to obtain a copy of the verifier database.

21. The salt SHALL be at least 32 bits in length and be chosen arbitrarily to minimize salt value collisions among stored hashes.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Salt values need to be large enough to make it impractical for an attacker to precompute hashed verifier values (so called rainbow tables). While rainbow tables are typically quite large, this requirement would increase their size by a factor of about 4.3 billion. If not chosen arbitrarily, the attacker might be able to anticipate the salt values that would be used, which would eliminate much of this advantage.

22. Both the salt value and the resulting hash SHALL be stored for each subscriber using a memorized secret authenticator

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to verify a memorized secret, it needs to be salted and hashed for comparison with the stored verifier (resulting hash). To do this, the salt value needs to be available, and since it is different for each user, needs to be stored with the verifier. It is impractical to verify a memorized secret if this is not done.

23. If an additional iteration of a key derivation function using a salt value known only to the verifier is performed, then this secret salt value SHALL be generated with an approved random bit generator and of sufficient length.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: An additional keyed hashing iteration using a key value that is secret and stored separately from the verifiers provides excellent protection against even attackers ("password crackers") with substantial computing resources, provided the key is not also compromised. Accordingly, it is important that this salt, which is common to multiple users, be generated in a manner that is not vulnerable to compromise.

24. If an additional iteration of a key derivation function using a salt value known only to the verifier is performed, then this secret salt value SHALL provide at least the minimum-security strength.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: An additional keyed hashing iteration using a key value that is secret and stored separately from the verifiers provides excellent protection against even attackers ("password crackers") with substantial computing resources, provided the key is not also compromised. Accordingly, it is important that this salt, which is common to multiple users, be of sufficient size to make cryptographic and brute-force attacks impractical.

    Currently, the requirement is that the key be at least 112 bits in length.

25. If an additional iteration of a key derivation function using a salt value known only to the verifier is performed, then this secret salt value SHALL be stored separately from the memorized secrets.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: An additional keyed hashing iteration using a key value that is secret and stored separately from the verifiers provides excellent protection against even attackers ("password crackers") with substantial computing resources, provided the key is not also compromised. Accordingly, it is important that this salt, which is common to multiple users, be stored separately so that it is unlikely to be compromised along with the verifier database. One way to do this is to perform this last hashing iteration on a physically separate processor, since it only requires a value to hash as input and provides the hashed value in response.

DISCUSSION: Password-based authentication applies to passwords regardless of whether they are used in single-factor or multi-factor authentication. Long passwords or passphrases are preferable over shorter passwords. Enforced composition rules provide marginal security benefits while decreasing usability. However, organizations may choose to establish certain rules for password generation (e.g., minimum character length for long passwords) under certain circumstances and can enforce this requirement in IA-5(1)(a)(5). Account recovery can occur, for example, in situations when a password is forgotten. Cryptographically protected passwords include salted one-way cryptographic hashes of passwords. The list of commonly used, compromised, or expected passwords includes passwords obtained from previous breach corpuses, dictionary words, and repetitive or sequential characters. The list includes context-specific words, such as the name of the service, username, and derivatives thereof.

(b) Look-Up Secret Authenticators and Verifiers

1. CSPs creating look-up secret authenticators SHALL use an approved random bit generator to generate the list of secrets.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The use of a high-quality random bit generator is important to ensure that an attacker cannot guess the look-up secret

2. Look-up secrets SHALL have at least 20 bits of entropy.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Look-up secrets need to have enough entropy to ensure that brute-force guessing attacks do not succeed.

3. If look-up secrets are distributed online, then they SHALL be distributed over a secure channel in accordance with the post-enrollment binding requirements in IA-5 ‘n’ 17 through 25.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Look-up secrets need to be distributed in a manner that minimizes the opportunity for attackers to intercept the secrets either by eavesdropping or MitM attacks.

4. Verifiers of look-up secrets SHALL prompt the claimant for the next secret from their authenticator or for a specific (e.g., numbered) secret.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In most cases claimants will be prompted for the next unused memorized secret in a list but may be challenged to use a specific secret from a list.

5. A given secret from an authenticator SHALL be used successfully only once.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Many threats, such as key logging, are enabled if the look-up secret can be used more than once.

6. If a look-up secret is derived from a grid (bingo) card, then each cell of the grid SHALL be used only once.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Grid (bingo) cards are sometimes used to provide a rudimentary challenge-response authentication involving the claimant. However, an attacker such as a key logger that has persistent access to the endpoint can derive the contents of the grid, and potentially authenticate successfully, if grid entries are reused in subsequent authentication transactions.

   Absent the ability to reuse grid squares, grid (bingo) cards will probably no longer be attractive as authenticators.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

7. Verifiers SHALL store look-up secrets in a form that is resistant to offline attacks.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Storage of look-up secret verifiers in a hashed form that is not readily reversed is a key protection against offline attacks. In no case should a verifier store look-up secrets in cleartext form.

8. If look-up secrets have at least 112 bits of entropy, then they SHALL be hashed with an approved one-way function

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Use of an approved one-way function effectively protects the look-up secrets from disclosure if the verifier is compromised. Salting of secrets with this amount of entropy is not required because it is not practical to mount brute-force or cryptographic attacks against secrets this large.

9. If look-up secrets have less than 112 bits of entropy, then they SHALL be salted and hashed using a suitable one-way key derivation function.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Key derivation functions take a look-up secret, a salt, and a cost factor as inputs then generate a hash. Their purpose is to make each look-up secret guessing trial by an attacker who has obtained a look-up secret hash file expensive and therefore the cost of a guessing attack high or prohibitive. Use of a key derivation with a salt, preferably with a time- and memory-hard key derivation function, provides the best protection against attackers that are able to obtain a copy of the verifier database.

10. If look-up secrets have less than 112 bits of entropy, then the salt SHALL be at least 32 bits in length and be chosen arbitrarily to minimize salt value collisions among stored hashes.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Salt values need to be large enough to make it impractical for an attacker to precompute hashed verifier values (so called rainbow tables). While rainbow tables are typically quite large, this requirement would increase their size by a factor of about 4.3 billion. If not chosen arbitrarily, the attacker might be able to anticipate the salt values that would be used, which would eliminate much of this advantage.

11. If look-up secrets have less than 112 bits of entropy, then both the salt value and the resulting hash SHALL be stored for each look-up secret.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to verify a look-up secret, it needs to be salted and hashed for comparison with the stored verifier (resulting hash). To do this, the salt value needs to be available, and since it is different for each secret, needs to be stored with the verifier. It is impractical to verify a look-up secret if this is not done.

12. If look-up secrets that have less than 64 bits of entropy, then the verifier SHALL implement a rate-limiting mechanism that effectively limits the number of failed authentication attempts that can be made on the subscriber's account.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Rate limiting restricts the ability of an attacker to make many online guessing attacks on the look-up secret. Other requirements (e.g., minimum length of look-up secrets) depend on the existence of rate limiting, so effective rate limiting is an essential capability. Ideally, a rate limiting mechanism should restrict the attacker as much as possible without creating an opportunity for a denial-of-service attack against the subscriber.

13. The verifier SHALL use approved encryption when requesting look-up secrets in order to provide resistance to eavesdropping and MitM attacks.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Cryptography is considered approved if it is specified or adopted in a FIPS or NIST recommendation.

14. The verifier SHALL use an authenticated protected channel when requesting look-up secrets in order to provide resistance to eavesdropping and MitM attacks.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Communication between claimant and verifier is required to be via an encrypted channel that authenticates the verifier to provide confidentiality of the authenticator output and resistance to MitM attacks. This is typically accomplished using the Transport Level Security (TLS) protocol.

(c) Out-of-Band Authenticators and Verifiers

1. The out-of-band authenticator SHALL establish a separate channel with the verifier in order to retrieve the out-of-band secret or authentication request.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: A channel is considered to be out-of-band with respect to the primary communication channel (even if it terminates on the same device) provided the device does not leak information from one channel to the other without the authorization of the claimant.

2. Communication over the secondary channel SHALL be encrypted unless sent via the public switched telephone network (PSTN).

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The secondary channel requires protection to ensure that authentication secrets are not leaked to attackers. Legacy use of the PSTN as an OOB authentication medium is exempt from this requirement, although other requirements apply.

3. Methods that do not prove possession of a specific device, such as voice-over-IP (VoIP) or email, SHALL NOT be used for out-of-band authentication.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Communication with VoIP phone numbers and email do not establish the possession of a specific device, so they are not suitable for use in out-of-band authentication which is used as a physical authenticator (something you have).

4. If PSTN is not being used for out-of-band communication, then the out-of-band authenticator SHALL uniquely authenticate itself by establishing an authenticated protected channel with the verifier.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Communication between out-of-band device and verifier is required to be via an encrypted channel to provide confidentiality of the authenticator output and resistance to MitM attacks. This is typically accomplished using the Transport Level Security (TLS) protocol.

5. If PSTN is not being used for out-of-band communication, then the out-of-band authenticator SHALL communicate with the verifier using approved cryptography.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Cryptography is considered approved if it is specified or adopted in a FIPS or NIST recommendation.

6. If PSTN is not being used for out-of-band communication, then the key used to authenticate the out-of-band device SHALL be stored in suitably secure storage available to the authenticator application (e.g., keychain storage, TPM, TEE, secure element).

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The secret key associated with an out-of-band device or authenticator application is critical to the determination of "something you have" and needs to be well protected.

7. If the PSTN is used for out-of-band authentication and a secret is sent to the out-of-band device via the PSTN, then the out-of-band authenticator SHALL uniquely authenticate itself to a mobile telephone network using a SIM card or equivalent that uniquely identifies the device.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Since the PSTN does not support the establishment of authenticated protected channels, the alternative method of authenticating the device via the PSTN is supported. Note that there are other specific requirements for use of the PSTN that also apply (see IA-5 (1) c (19) through (20)).

8. If the out-of-band authenticator sends an approval message over the secondary communication channel, it SHALL either accept transfer of a secret from the primary channel to be sent to the verifier via the secondary communications channel, or present a secret received via the secondary channel from the verifier and prompt the claimant to verify the consistency of that secret with the primary channel, prior to accepting a yes/no response from the claimant which it sends to the verifier.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Most out-of-band verifiers operate by sending a secret over the secondary channel that the subscriber transfers to the primary channel (e.g., the capability to copy and paste from one app to another). Other methods are possible, however, specifically transferring from primary to secondary and user comparison of secrets sent to both channels (with approval being sent to the verifier over the secondary channel). It is good practice to display descriptive information relating to the authentication on the claimant's out-of-band device, to provide additional assurance that the transaction being approved by the subscriber is the correct one, and not from an attacker who exploits the subscriber's approval.

9. The verifier SHALL NOT store the identifying key itself, but SHALL use a verification method (e.g., an approved hash function or proof of possession of the identifying key) to uniquely identify the authenticator.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order for the out-of-band authenticator to be considered "something you have", it must be securely authenticated as a unique device or instance of a software-based authentication application. This is required to be done through proof of possession of a key by the authenticator, rather than presentation of the key itself. This provides verifier compromise resistance with respect to the authentication key.

10. Depending on the type of out-of-band authenticator, one of the following SHALL take place: transfer of a secret to the primary channel, transfer of a secret to the secondary channel, or verification of secrets by the claimant.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Three different methods of associating the primary and secondary channel sessions are permitted. The intent of these methods is to establish approval for a specific authentication transaction, and to minimize the likelihood that an attacker with knowledge of when the subscriber authenticates can obtain approval for a rogue authentication.

11. If the out-of-band authenticator operates by transferring the secret to the primary channel, then the verifier SHALL transmit a random secret to the out-of-band authenticator and then wait for the secret to be returned on the primary communication channel.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This is the most common form of out-of-band authentication where an authentication secret is transmitted to the out-of-band device and entered by the user for transmission on the primary channel.

12. If the out-of-band authenticator operates by transferring the secret to the secondary channel, then the verifier SHALL display a random authentication secret to the claimant via the primary channel and then wait for the secret to be returned on the secondary channel from the claimant's out-of-band authenticator.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This is a less typical authentication flow but is also acceptable in that the secret securely associates possession and control of the out-of-band authenticator with the session being authenticated.

13. If the out-of-band authenticator operates by verification of secrets by the claimant, then the verifier SHALL display a random authentication secret to the claimant via the primary channel, send the same secret to the out-of-band authenticator via the secondary channel for presentation to the claimant, and then wait for an approval (or disapproval) message via the secondary channel.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This is a somewhat more user-friendly authentication flow because it does not require the claimant to read and manually enter the authentication secret, but it carries the additional risk that the claimant will approve the authentication without actually comparing the secrets received from the independent channels. Approval is required to be obtained from the out-of-band authenticator rather than the primary channel because that at least establishes control of the authenticator.

14. The authentication SHALL be considered invalid if not completed within 10 minutes.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Secrets used in out-of-band authentication are short-term secrets and need to have a definite lifetime. This requirement also relieves the verifier from the responsibility of log-term storage of the secrets.

15. Verifiers SHALL accept a given authentication secret only once during the validity period.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to prevent an attacker who gains access to an authentication secret generated by the subscriber from using it, it is important that the secret only be valid for a single authentication. This requirement only applies when a secret is being transferred between the primary channel and the out-of-band authenticator.

16. The verifier SHALL generate random authentication secrets with at least 20 bits of entropy.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Consistent with other short-term authentication secrets, 20 bits of entropy are required to provide resistance against brute force attacks. 6-digit numeric secrets (19.93 bits of entropy) are sufficiently close to 20 bits to be acceptable.

17. The verifier SHALL generate random authentication secrets using an approved random bit generator.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The use of a high-quality random bit generator is important to ensure that an attacker cannot guess the out-of-band secret. Approved random bit generators are generally included in a FIPS 140-2 certified encryption module.

18. If the authentication secret has less than 64 bits of entropy, the verifier SHALL implement a rate-limiting mechanism that effectively limits the number of failed authentication attempts that can be made on the subscriber's account as described in IA-5 l (3) through (4).

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Rate limiting limits the opportunity for attackers to mount a brute-force attack on the out-of-band verifier. Since the out-of-band secret has a limited lifetime, it is sufficient to limit the number of attempts allowed during the (maximum) 10-minute lifetime of the secret.

19. If out-of-band verification is to be made using the PSTN, then the verifier SHALL verify that the pre-registered telephone number being used is associated with a specific physical device.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Some telephone numbers, such as those that are associated with VoIP services, are not associated with a specific device and can receive calls and text messages without establishing possession and control of a specific device. Such telephone numbers are not suitable for OOB authentication. Services exist to distinguish telephone numbers that are associated with a device from those that aren't.

20. If out-of-band verification is to be made using the PSTN, then changing the pre-registered telephone number is considered to be the binding of a new authenticator and SHALL only occur as described in IA-5 n (17) through (25).

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The binding of a new authenticator requires that the subscriber authenticate at the same or a higher AAL (currently AAL2) than that at which the authenticator will be used, and that a notification be sent to the subscriber. This is required to prevent attackers from changing the phone number of a PSTN-based out-of-band authenticator to one they control.

21. If PSTN is used for out-of-band authentication, then the CSP SHALL offer subscribers at least one alternate authenticator that is not RESTRICTED and can be used to authenticate at the required AAL.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Use of the PSTN for out-of-band authentication involves additional risk, resulting in its being designated as a restricted authenticator. CSPs are required to provide subscribers with a meaningful alternative.

22. If PSTN is used for out-of-band authentication, then the CSP SHALL Provide meaningful notice to subscribers regarding the security risks of the RESTRICTED authenticator and availability of alternative(s) that are not RESTRICTED.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Use of the PSTN for out-of-band authentication involves additional risk, resulting in its being designated as a restricted authenticator. CSPs are required to explain these risks to subscribers and offer more secure alternatives.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Currently, authenticators leveraging the public switched telephone network, including phone- and Short Message Service (SMS)-based one-time passwords (OTPs) are restricted. Other authenticator types may be added as additional threats emerge. Note that, among other requirements, even when using phone- and SMS-based OTPs, the agency also must verify that the OTP is being directed to a phone and not an IP address, such as with VoIP, as these accounts are not typically protected with multi-factor authentication.

23. If PSTN is used for out-of-band authentication, then the CSP SHALL address any additional risk to subscribers in its risk assessment.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Use of the PSTN for out-of-band authentication involves additional risk, resulting in its being designated as a restricted authenticator. These risks need to be documented.

24. If PSTN is used for out-of-band authentication, then the CSP SHALL develop a migration plan for the possibility that the RESTRICTED authenticator is no longer acceptable at some point in the future and include this migration plan in its digital identity acceptance statement.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Use of the PSTN for out-of-band authentication involves additional risk, resulting in its being designated as a restricted authenticator. A plan for eliminating them in the future needs to be documented.

(d) OTP Authenticators and Verifiers

1. The secret key and its algorithm SHALL provide at least the minimum security strength of 112 bits as of the date of this publication.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The secret key used by an OTP authenticator needs to be sufficiently complex to resist online and offline attacks. An attacker may have the ability to observe the authenticator output at some point during its operation; it needs to be impractical for the secret key to be derived from a set of these observations.

2. The nonce SHALL be of sufficient length to ensure that it is unique for each operation of the device over its lifetime.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: If the nonce isn't long enough, the output of the authenticator will repeat, which represents an easily avoided vulnerability.

3. OTP authenticators — particularly software-based OTP generators —SHALL NOT facilitate the cloning of the secret key onto multiple devices.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Like other physical authenticators, the use of OTP authenticators is premised upon the authenticator secret being present in a single authenticator so that it proves possession of a specific device. Mechanisms that would facilitate cloning the secret onto multiple devices include the ability to enroll more than one device producing the same OTP output and backup mechanisms, especially when software-based authenticators are used. Verifiers are expected to make their best effort at determining that bring-your-own authenticators not issued by them meet this requirement and to have policies not allowing the use of non-compliant authenticators.

4. The authenticator output SHALL have at least 6 decimal digits (approximately 20 bits) of entropy.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Consistent with other short-term authentication secrets, 20 bits of entropy are required to provide resistance against brute force attacks. 6-digit numeric secrets (19.93 bits of entropy) are sufficiently close to 20 bits to be acceptable.

5. If the nonce used to generate the authenticator output is based on a real-time clock, then the nonce SHALL be changed at least once every 2 minutes.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The authenticator output needs to be changed often enough that there is reasonable assurance that it is in the possession of the claimant and that it is not susceptible to OTP-guessing attacks.

6. The OTP value associated with a given nonce SHALL be accepted only once.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: A fundamental premise of a "one-time" authenticator is that it can be used successfully only once during its validity period.

7. The symmetric keys used by authenticators are also present in the verifier and SHALL be strongly protected against compromise.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Verifiers typically contain symmetric keys for all subscribers using OTP authenticators. This makes them a particularly rich target for attackers. While the protection of these keys is implementation- dependent and there is therefore no specific requirement for how the keys are protected, measures to prevent the exfiltration of the keys are needed. An example of such a measure is the storage of keys and generation of authenticator outputs in a separate device accessible only by the verifier.

8. If a single-factor OTP authenticator is being associated with a subscriber account, then the verifier or associated CSP SHALL use approved cryptography to either generate and exchange or to obtain the secrets required to duplicate the authenticator output.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: It is critical that authentication secrets be generated and transferred or negotiated securely. This includes the use of secure random number generators and protocols for transferring or negotiating (e.g., Diffie-Hellman) secret values. Cryptography is considered approved if it is specified or adopted in a FIPS or NIST recommendation.

9. The verifier SHALL use approved encryption when collecting the OTP.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Cryptography is considered approved if it is specified or adopted in a FIPS or NIST recommendation.

10. The verifier SHALL use an authenticated protected channel when collecting the OTP.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Communication between claimant and verifier is required to be via an encrypted channel that authenticates the verifier to provide confidentiality of the authenticator output and resistance to MitM attacks. This is typically accomplished using the Transport Level Security (TLS) protocol.

11. If a time-based OTP is used, it SHALL have a defined lifetime (recommended 30 seconds) that is determined by the expected clock drift — in either direction — of the authenticator over its lifetime, plus allowance for network delay and user entry of the OTP.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The clocks on time-based authenticators are subject to drift because of cost and environmental factors such as temperature. Accordingly, verifiers need to accept authenticator outputs before and particularly after the intended validity period to allow use by authenticators that are not in synchronization.

12. Verifiers SHALL accept a given time-based OTP only once during the validity period.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In order to prevent an attacker who gains access to an OTP authenticator output from using it, it is important that the secret only be valid for a single authentication.

13. If the authenticator output has less than 64 bits of entropy, the verifier SHALL implement a rate-limiting mechanism that effectively limits the number of failed authentication attempts that can be made on the subscriber's account as described in IA-5 l (3) through (4).

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: OTPs whose output has less entropy are more vulnerable to online guessing attacks. To mitigate these attacks, rate limiting is required. Online guessing attacks are less of a concern for time-based OTP authenticators because of the limited validity window, but a limit on the number of guesses during a given validity period is effective in resisting automated attacks.

14. If the authenticator is multi-factor, then each use of the authenticator SHALL require the input of the additional factor.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: To ensure that a multi-factor authenticator cannot be stolen and used repeatedly following activation, a separate activation is required for each use of the authenticator. It is preferable for a multi-factor authenticator not to indicate that the wrong memorized secret or biometric were presented, but rather to produce an authenticator output that is invalid, although this is not required. This provides protection against guessing or presentation attacks on the authenticator itself.

15. If the authenticator is multi-factor and a memorized secret is used by the authenticator for activation, then that memorized secret SHALL be a randomly chosen numeric secret at least 6 decimal digits in length or other memorized secret meeting the requirements of IA-5 (1)(a).

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The requirement for memorized secrets used as activation factors is the same as that for memorized secrets used as distinct authenticators (see IA-5 (1)(a)).

16. If the authenticator is multi-factor, then use of a memorized secret for activation SHALL be rate limited as specified in IA-5 l (3) through (4).

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Rate limiting is required to provide protection against brute-force guessing attacks, particularly if the authenticator gives an indication when an incorrect secret is entered.

17. If the authenticator is multi-factor and is activated by a biometric factor, then that factor SHALL meet the requirements of IA-5 m, including limits on the number of consecutive authentication failures.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: General requirements for biometric activation factors include false accept rate criteria and the number of consecutive authentication failures that are allowed.

18. If the authenticator is multi-factor, then the unencrypted key and activation secret or biometric sample — and any biometric data derived from the biometric sample such as a probe produced through signal processing — SHALL be zeroized immediately after an OTP has been generated.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: It is important that the unencrypted key and associated data be zeroized to minimize the likelihood that it can be misappropriated by an attacker following a successful authentication. Each authentication requires a re-presentation of the activation factor (see IA-5(1)(d)14). Verifiers are expected to make their best effort at determining that bring-your-own authenticators not issued by them meet this requirement and to have policies not allowing the use of non-compliant authenticators.

19. If the authenticator is multi-factor, the verifier or CSP SHALL establish, via the authenticator source, that the authenticator is a multi-factor device.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: From the standpoint of a verifier, a multi-factor OTP authenticator appears the same as a single-factor OTP authenticator. In order to establish that the authenticator meets the multi-factor requirements, the verifier or CSP can issue the authenticator, examine it in some way, or rely on an assertion from the manufacturer.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

20. In the absence of a trusted statement that it is a multi-factor device, the verifier SHALL treat the authenticator as single-factor, in accordance with IA-5 (1) (d) (1) through (13).

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Authenticators of unknown provenance or that are not known by the CSP or verifier to meet all of the requirements for multi-factor OTP authenticators can be used, but only as single-factor authenticators.

(e) Cryptographic Authenticators and Verifiers (including single- and multi-factor cryptographic authenticators, both hardware- and software-based)

1. If the cryptographic authenticator is software based, the key SHALL be stored in suitably secure storage available to the authenticator application.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Although dependent on the computing device on which the authenticator is operating, authenticator software needs to avail itself of the most secure storage available, considering issues like ability to extract the secret from the device and its potential to be included in backup data. Verifiers are expected to make their best effort at determining that bring-your-own authenticators not issued by them meet this requirement and to have policies not allowing the use of non-compliant authenticators.

2. If the cryptographic authenticator is software based, the key SHALL be strongly protected against unauthorized disclosure by the use of access controls that limit access to the key to only those software components on the device requiring access.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Although dependent on the computing device on which the authenticator is operating, authenticator software needs to store secret keys in a manner that limits access to keys to the maximum extent possible so that they cannot be accessed by other (possibly rogue) applications and/or users. Verifiers are expected to make their best effort at determining that bring-your-own authenticators not issued by them meet this requirement and to have policies not allowing the use of non-compliant authenticators.

3. If the cryptographic authenticator is software based, it SHALL NOT facilitate the cloning of the secret key onto multiple devices.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Like other physical authenticators, the use of cryptographic authenticators is premised upon the authenticator secret being present in a single authenticator so that it proves possession of a specific device. Mechanisms that would facilitate cloning the secret onto multiple devices include the ability to enroll more than one device with the same key and backup mechanisms, especially when software-based authenticators are used. Verifiers are expected to make their best effort at determining that bring-your-own authenticators not issued by them meet this requirement and to have policies not allowing the use of non-compliant authenticators.

4. If the authenticator is single-factor and hardware-based, secret keys unique to the device SHALL NOT be exportable (i.e., cannot be removed from the device).

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Cryptographic device authenticators are constructed so as not to allow the secret key to be obtained from the device. These devices are enrolled for authentication using the public cryptographic key, but the private key is never shared. This requirement addresses primarily functionality allowing the key to be exported; FIPS 140 requirements cover the resistance of the device to various forms of attack.

5. If the authenticator is hardware-based, the secret key and its algorithm SHALL provide at least the minimum-security length of 112 bits as of the date of this publication.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The secret key used by a cryptographic authenticator needs to be sufficiently complex to resist online and offline attacks. An attacker may have the ability to observe the authenticator output at some point during its operation; it needs to be impractical for the secret key to be derived from a set of these observations. Since verifiers and cryptographic authenticators must use the same algorithms to successfully authenticate, assessment of the verifier also assesses the authenticators that may be used.

6. If the authenticator is hardware-based, the challenge nonce SHALL be at least 64 bits in length.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This requirement applies to hardware-based cryptographic authenticators. The challenge nonce is required to be large enough that it will not be reused during the lifetime of the authenticator in order to provide replay protection. Since verifiers and cryptographic authenticators must use the same algorithms to successfully authenticate, assessment of the nonce generated by the verifier also assesses the authenticators that may be used.

7. If the authenticator is hardware-based, approved cryptography SHALL be used.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Cryptography is considered approved if it is specified or adopted in a FIPS or NIST recommendation. Since verifiers and cryptographic authenticators must use the same algorithms to successfully authenticate, assessment of the verifier also assesses the authenticators that may be used.

8. Cryptographic keys stored by the verifier SHALL be protected against modification.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Protection against modification is required for all keys to ensure that an attacker can't substitute keys they control, which would permit them to authenticate successfully. This protection could be provided by operating system access controls, or through integrity checks of the stored keys with separately stored hashes.

9. If symmetric keys are used, cryptographic keys stored by the verifier SHALL be protected against disclosure.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Protection against disclosure is required for symmetric keys because their disclosure also would permit an attacker to authenticate successfully. This protection could be provided through operating system access controls.

10. The challenge nonce SHALL be at least 64 bits in length.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This requirement applies to verifiers of cryptographic authentication. The challenge nonce is generated by the verifier and used by a cryptographic authenticator to compute the authenticator output. The challenge needs to be sufficiently long that it will not need to repeat during the lifetime of the authenticator, so the authenticator output, if available to an attacker, cannot be replayed.

11. The challenge nonce SHALL either be unique over the authenticator's lifetime or statistically unique (i.e., generated using an approved random bit generator).

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The challenge nonce is generated by the verifier used by a cryptographic authenticator to compute the authenticator output. The nonce cannot repeat during the lifetime of the authenticator, so the authenticator output, if available to an attacker, cannot be replayed. This can be accomplished by either deterministic means (e.g., an algorithm choosing values guaranteed not to repeat) or statistically (random values chosen from a range giving a very low probability that the same nonce will ever be seen twice).

12. The verification operation SHALL use approved cryptography.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Cryptography is considered approved if it is specified or adopted in a FIPS or NIST recommendation. Since verifiers and cryptographic authenticators must use the same algorithms to successfully authenticate, assessment of the verifier also assesses the authenticators that may be used.

13. If a multi-factor cryptographic software authenticator is being used, then each authentication requires the presentation of the activation factor.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The activation factor, either a memorized secret or a biometric, is required to be presented each time an authentication operation is requested by the authenticator to ensure that an activated authenticator cannot be used by an attacker.

14. If the authenticator is multi-factor, then any memorized secret used by the authenticator for activation SHALL be a randomly chosen numeric secret at least 6 decimal digits in length or other memorized secret meeting the requirements of IA-5 (1) (a).

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The requirement for memorized secrets used as activation factors is the same as that for memorized secrets used as distinct authenticators (see IA-5(1)a).

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

15. If the authenticator is multi-factor, then use of a memorized secret for activation SHALL be rate limited as specified in IA-5 l (3) through (4).

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Rate limiting is required to provide protection against brute-force guessing attacks, particularly if the authenticator gives an indication when an incorrect secret is entered.

16. If the authenticator is multi-factor and is activated by a biometric factor, then that factor SHALL meet the requirements of IA-5 m, including limits on the number of consecutive authentication failures.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: General requirements for biometric activation factors include false accept rate criteria and the number of consecutive authentication failures that are allowed.

17. If the authenticator is multi-factor, then the unencrypted key and activation secret or biometric sample — and any biometric data derived from the biometric sample such as a probe produced through signal processing — SHALL be zeroized immediately after an authentication transaction has taken place.

    SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: It is important that the unencrypted key and associated data be zeroized to minimize the likelihood that it can be misappropriated by an attacker following a successful authentication. Verifiers are expected to make their best effort at determining that bring-your-own authenticators not issued by them meet this requirement and to have policies not allowing the use of non-compliant authenticators.

Control Enhancements:

(2) AUTHENTICATOR MANAGEMENT | PUBLIC KEY BASED AUTHENTICATION

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

(a) For public key-based authentication:

1. Enforce authorized access to the corresponding private key; and
2. Map the authenticated identity to the account of the individual or group; and

(b) When public key infrastructure (PKI) is used:

1. Validate certificates by constructing and verifying a certification path to an accepted trust anchor, including checking certificate status information; and
2. Implement a local cache of revocation data to support path discovery and validation.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

DISCUSSION: Public key cryptography is a valid authentication mechanism for individuals, machines, and devices. For PKI solutions, status information for certification paths includes certificate revocation lists or certificate status protocol responses. For PIV cards, certificate validation involves the construction and verification of a certification path to the Common Policy Root trust anchor, which includes certificate policy processing. Implementing a local cache of revocation data to support path discovery and validation also supports system availability in situations where organizations are unable to access revocation information via the network. A local cache of revocation data is also known as a certificate revocation list. This list contains a list of revoked certificates and can be periodically downloaded to ensure certificates can still be checked for revocation when network access is not available or access to the Online Certificate Status Protocol (OCSP) server is not available. Without configuring a local cache of revocation data, there is the potential to allow access to users who are no longer authorized (users with revoked certificates).

(6) AUTHENTICATOR MANAGEMENT | PROTECTION OF AUTHENTICATORS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Protect authenticators commensurate with the security category of the information to which use of the authenticator permits access.

DISCUSSION: For systems that contain multiple security categories of information without reliable physical or logical separation between categories, authenticators used to grant access to the systems are protected commensurate with the highest security category of information on the systems. Security categories of information are determined as part of the security categorization process.

Related Controls: RA-2.

IA-6 AUTHENTICATION FEEDBACK

[Existing] [Priority 3] Control:

Obscure feedback of authentication information during the authentication process to protect the information from possible exploitation and use by unauthorized individuals.

DISCUSSION: Authentication feedback from systems does not provide information that would allow unauthorized individuals to compromise authentication mechanisms. For some types of systems, such as desktops or notebooks with relatively large monitors, the threat (referred to as shoulder surfing) may be significant. For other types of systems, such as mobile devices with small displays, the threat may be less significant and is balanced against the increased likelihood of typographic input errors due to small keyboards. Thus, the means for obscuring authentication feedback is selected accordingly. Obscuring authentication feedback includes displaying asterisks when users type passwords into input devices or displaying feedback for a very limited time before obscuring it.

IA-7 CRYPTOGRAPHIC MODULE AUTHENTICATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Implement mechanisms for authentication to a cryptographic module that meet the requirements of applicable laws, executive orders, directives, policies, regulations, standards, and guidelines for such authentication.

DISCUSSION: Authentication mechanisms may be required within a cryptographic module to authenticate an operator accessing the module and to verify that the operator is authorized to assume the requested role and perform services within that role.

IA-8 IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION (NON-ORGANIZATIONAL USERS)

[Priority 2]

Control:

Uniquely identify and authenticate non-organizational users or processes acting on behalf of non-organizational users.

DISCUSSION: Non-organizational users include system users other than organizational users explicitly covered by IA-2. Non-organizational users are uniquely identified and authenticated for accesses other than those explicitly identified and documented in AC-14. Identification and authentication of non-organizational users accessing federal systems may be required to protect federal, proprietary, or privacy-related information (with exceptions noted for national security systems). Organizations consider many factors—including security, privacy, scalability, and practicality—when balancing the need to ensure ease of use for access to federal information and systems with the need to protect and adequately mitigate risk.

(1) IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION (NON-ORGANIZATIONAL USERS) | ACCEPTANCE OF PIV CREDENTIALS FROM OTHER AGENCIES

[Priority 2]

Control:

Accept and electronically verify Personal Identity Verification-compliant credentials from other federal, state, local, tribal, or territorial (SLTT) agencies.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

DISCUSSION: Acceptance of Personal Identity Verification (PIV) credentials from other federal or SLTT agencies applies to both logical and physical access control systems. PIV credentials are those credentials issued by federal or SLTT agencies that conform to FIPS Publication 201 and supporting guidelines.

Related Controls: PE-3.

(2) IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION (NON-ORGANIZATIONAL USERS) | ACCEPTANCE OF EXTERNAL AUTHENTICATORS

[Priority 2]

Control:

(a) Accept only external authenticators that are NIST-compliant; and

(b) Document and maintain a list of accepted external authenticators.

DISCUSSION: Acceptance of only NIST-compliant external authenticators applies to organizational systems that are accessible to the public (e.g., public-facing websites). External authenticators are issued by nonfederal government entities and are compliant with the CJISSECPOL. Approved external authenticators meet or exceed the minimum Federal Government-wide technical, security, privacy, and organizational maturity requirements. Meeting or exceeding Federal requirements allows Federal Government relying parties to trust external authenticators in connection with an authentication transaction at a specified authenticator assurance level.

Related Controls: None.

(4) IDENTIFICATION AND AUTHENTICATION (NON-ORGANIZATIONAL USERS) | USE OF DEFINED PROFILES

[Priority 2]

Control:

Conform to the following profiles for identity management: Security Assertion Markup Language (SAML) or OpenID Connect.

DISCUSSION: Organizations define profiles for identity management based on open identity management standards. To ensure that open identity management standards are viable, robust, reliable, sustainable, and interoperable as documented, the Federal Government assesses and scopes the standards and technology implementations against applicable laws, executive orders, directives, policies, regulations, standards, and guidelines.

IA-11 RE-AUTHENTICATION

Require users to re-authenticate when: roles, authenticators, or credentials change, security categories of systems change, the execution of privileged functions occur, or every 12 hours.

IA-12 IDENTITY PROOFING

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Identity proof users that require accounts for logical access to systems based on appropriate identity assurance level requirements as specified in applicable standards and guidelines;

b. Resolve user identities to a unique individual; and

c. Collect, validate, and verify identity evidence.

DISCUSSION: Identity proofing is the process of collecting, validating, and verifying a user's identity information for the purposes of establishing credentials for accessing a system. Identity proofing is intended to mitigate threats to the registration of users and the establishment of their accounts. Organizations may be subject to laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, or policies that address the collection of identity evidence. Organizational personnel consult with the senior agency official for privacy and legal counsel regarding such requirements.

Control Enhancements:

(2) IDENTITY PROOFING | IDENTITY EVIDENCE

[Priority 2]

Control:

Require evidence of individual identification be presented to the registration authority.

DISCUSSION: Identity evidence, such as documentary evidence or a combination of documents and biometrics, reduces the likelihood of individuals using fraudulent identification to establish an identity or at least increases the work factor of potential adversaries. The forms of acceptable evidence are consistent with the risks to the systems, roles, and privileges associated with the user's account.

Related Controls: None.

(3) IDENTITY PROOFING | IDENTITY EVIDENCE VALIDATION AND VERIFICATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

a. Require that the presented identity evidence be validated and verified through agency-defined resolution, validation, and verification methods.

DISCUSSION: Validation and verification of identity evidence increases the assurance that accounts and identifiers are being established for the correct user and authenticators are being bound to that user. Validation refers to the process of confirming that the evidence is genuine and authentic, and the data contained in the evidence is correct, current, and related to an individual. Verification confirms and establishes a linkage between the claimed identity and the actual existence of the user presenting the evidence. Acceptable methods for validating and verifying identity evidence are consistent with the risks to the systems, roles, and privileges associated with the users account.

b. Identity proofing SHALL NOT be performed to determine suitability or entitlement to gain access to services or benefits.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The sole objective of identity proofing is to ensure the applicant is who they claim to be to a stated level of certitude.

c. 1. Collection of PII SHALL be limited to the minimum necessary to resolve to a unique identity in a given context.

2. Collection of PII SHALL be limited to the minimum necessary to validate the existence of the claimed identity and associate the claimed identity with the applicant providing identity evidence for appropriate identity resolution, validation, and verification.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The goal of identity resolution is to uniquely distinguish an individual within a given population or context. Effective identity resolution uses the smallest set of attributes necessary to resolve to a unique individual. It provides the CSP an important starting point in the overall identity proofing process, to include the initial detection of potential fraud, but in no w a y represents a complete and successful identity proofing transaction.

Collection of PII may include attributes are used to correlate identity evidence to authoritative sources and to provide RPs with attributes used to make authorization decisions. There may be many different sets that suffice as the minimum, so it is recommended that CSPs choose this set to balance privacy and the user's usability needs, as well as the likely attributes needed in future uses of the digital identity.

Examples of attributes that may be used for minimum identity attribute sets include:

- Name (first, last. middle) with combinations and variations,
- Address (#, Street, City, County, State, Zip code) with combinations and variations,
- Date of birth (DDMMYYYY) with combinations and variations,
- Email address,
- Phone number.

For population sets that are more defined than the general population (e.g., military veterans, Native Americans), these minimum attribute sets may be tailored to that specific community.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Additionally, it is recommended that CSPs document which alternative attributes it will accept in cases where an applicant cannot provide the minimum necessary attributes (e.g., applicant does not have a home address or phone number).

d. The CSP SHALL provide explicit notice to the applicant at the time of collection regarding the purpose for collecting and maintaining a record of the attributes necessary for identity proofing, including whether such attributes are voluntary or mandatory to complete the identity proofing process, and the consequences for not providing the attributes.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Notice of proofing may contain at a minimum:

- Attribute information that is mandatory
- Attribute information that is voluntary
- What will be done with the information collected
- How the information will be protected
- Consequence of not providing mandatory attribute information (e.g., suspension/termination of the identity proofing process).

This notice may be delivered as an online screen (for remote identity proofing), a poster or printed notice at in-person proofing locations, or an oral notice delivered at the time of information collection.

e. If CSPs process attributes for purposes other than identity proofing, authentication, or attribute assertions (collectively "identity service"), related fraud mitigation, or to comply with law or legal process, then CSPs SHALL implement measures to maintain predictability and manageability commensurate with the privacy risk arising from the additional processing.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Predictability and manageability measures include providing clear notice, obtaining subscriber consent, or enabling selective use or disclosure of attributes.

Predictability is meant to build trust and provide accountability and requires full understanding (and disclosure) of how the attribute information will be used. Manageability also builds trust by demonstrating a CSPs ability to control attribute information throughout processing – collection, maintenance, retention.

f. If the CSP employs consent as part of its measures to maintain predictability and manageability, …then it SHALL NOT make consent for the additional processing a condition of the identity service.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Consent involves collecting and recording an affirmative response from the applicant that they agree to the additional processing of their attributes. In order to make this consent meaningful, it is recommended that CSPs first disclose to its applicants which attributes are being collected and processed and why.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

g. The CSP SHALL provide mechanisms for redress of applicant complaints or problems arising from the identity proofing.

These [redress] mechanisms SHALL be easy for applicants to find and use.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The Privacy Act requires federal CSPs that maintain a system of records to follow procedures to enable applicants to access and, if incorrect, amend their records. Any Privacy Act Statement should include a reference to the applicable SORN(s), which provide the applicant with instructions on how to make a request for access or correction. It is recommended that non-federal CSPs have comparable procedures, including contact information for any third parties if they are the source of the information.

It is recommended that CSPs make the availability of any alternative methods for completing the identity proofing and enrollment processes clear to users (e.g., in person at a customer service center, if available) in the event an applicant is unable to properly complete the initial identity proofing and enrollment process requirements online.

Note: If the ID proofing process is not successful, it is recommended that CSPs inform the applicant of the procedures to address the issue but avoid informing the applicant of the specifics of why the registration failed.

To be effective, the use of a CSP's redress mechanism results in a timely correction of errors, resolution of the dispute or complaint, and the process should not be overly burdensome or complex.

It is recommended that the CSP document and publish, in a manner which is easy for Applicants to find and use, its mechanisms for redress of Applicant complaints or problems arising from the identity proofing processes.

h. The CSP SHALL assess the [redress] mechanisms for their efficacy in achieving resolution of complaints or problems.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: "Effective" in this requirement means that use of the redress mechanism will result in a timely correction of errors, resolution of the dispute or complaint, and the process shall not be overly burdensome or complex.

It is recommended that CSPs maintain a record or log of all cases – including outcomes – where applicants have sought redress for complaints or problems arising from the identity proofing and provide for the periodic review of these records.

i. The identity proofing and enrollment processes SHALL be performed according to an applicable written policy or practice statement that specifies the particular steps taken to verify identities.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Having documented procedures is a prerequisite for transparency, accountability, quality control, auditability, and ease of interoperability among federated communities. The documentation, dissemination, review and update to identity and authentication processes is a core control under IA-1 Identification and Authentication Policy and Procedures.

j. The practice statement SHALL include control information detailing how the CSP handles proofing errors that result in an applicant not being successfully enrolled.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: "Proofing errors" in this context refer to circumstances that result in the inability or failure to complete the identity proofing and enrollment processes. Such circumstances may include:

- Applicant abandons the identity proofing and enrollment processes;
- Applicant fails to provide mandatory attribute information;
- Identity evidence of required strength is not provided;
- Identity evidence is rejected following inspection;
- Identity evidence and information do not correlate;
- Information from identity evidence is not validated by issuing or authoritative sources at the required strength;
- Identity evidence verification of binding to the applicant fails; and
- Applicant fails to confirm enrollment code within code validity period.

Depending on the circumstances above, it is recommended that the documentation include the number of retries allowed, proofing alternatives (e.g., in-person if remote fails), or fraud countermeasures when anomalies are detected. Additional controls for handling identity proofing errors include:

- Advising the applicant of identity proofing failure and recourse options; and,
- Recording the errors in enrollment records/audit logs, along with any mitigating actions.

k. The CSP SHALL maintain a record, including audit logs, of all steps taken to verify the identity of the applicant as long as the identity exists in the information system.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Ideally, the CSP's identity system includes the capability to securely record and log key security-related activities associated with the identity proofing process.

Examples of key steps that may be recorded in enrollment logs include:

- Identity information collected;
- Identity evidence provided;
- Identity evidence validated;
- Identity evidence validation source;

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

- Identity evidence binding verification method;
- Identity evidence verification result;
- Enrollment code confirmation result;
- enrollment result; and
- Authenticator enrollment binding

l. The CSP SHALL record the types of identity evidence presented in the proofing process.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Ideally, the CSP's identity system includes the capability to securely record and log specific activities associated with the identity proofing process. For each piece of evidence collected or captured, the record should include:

1. Evidence type;
2. Determined strength;
3. Issuing source; and
4. Method of collection/capture*.

* Methods of collection and capture may include camera, flatbed scanner, bar code scanner.

m. The CSP SHALL conduct a risk management process, including assessments of privacy and security risks to determine:

1. Any steps that it will take to verify the identity of the applicant beyond any mandatory requirements specified herein;
2. The PII, including any biometrics, images, scans, or other copies of the identity evidence that the CSP will maintain as a record of identity proofing (Note: Specific federal requirements may apply); and
3. The schedule of retention for these records (Note: CSPs may be subject to specific retention policies in accordance with applicable laws, regulations, or policies, including any National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) records retention schedules that may apply).

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In accordance with its risk management processes, CSPs should conduct – and document the results of – privacy and security risk assessments. It is recommended that the scope of this assessment includes risks associated with:

- Any steps the CSP takes to verify applicant identities beyond what is required by the CJISSECPOL
- The CSP's collection, processing, and protection of PII, including any biometrics, images, scans, or other copies of the identity evidence that the CSP will maintain as a record of identity proofing;
- Retention and/or disposal of any records; and
- Adherence to any applicable federal requirements, laws, regulations or policies.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

n. All PII collected as part of the enrollment process SHALL be protected to ensure confidentiality, integrity, and attribution of the information source.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Unauthorized disclosure of PII can result in tangible and intangible harms to both the CSP as well as the subjects of the PII. After assessing the risks associated with collecting PII as part of its enrollment process, it is recommended that the CSP employ functional and technical mechanisms that adequately protect the confidentiality, integrity, and attribution of the PII under its control.

Such mechanisms may include:

- Limiting access to PII data;
- Privacy protecting policies;
- The use of encryption for data at rest and during transmission; and
- Integrity protection mechanisms such as hashes and record access logging.

o. "The entire proofing transaction, including transactions that involve a third party, SHALL occur over authenticated protected channels. "

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: An encrypted communication channel uses approved cryptography where the connection initiator (client) has authenticated the recipient (server). Authenticated protected channels provide confidentiality and MitM attack protection and are frequently used in the user authentication process. Transport Layer Security* (TLS) is an example of an authenticated protected channel where the certificate presented by the recipient is verified by the initiator. Unless otherwise specified, authenticated protected channels do not require the server to authenticate the client.

Authentication of the server is often accomplished through a certificate chain leading to a trusted root rather than individually with each server.

*TLS version 1.2 or greater is recommended.

p. "If the CSP uses fraud mitigation measures, then the CSP SHALL conduct a privacy risk assessment for these mitigation measures. "

Such assessments SHALL include any privacy risk mitigations (e.g., risk acceptance or transfer, limited retention, use limitations, notice) or other technological mitigations (e.g., cryptography), and be documented per requirement IA-12(3) k – m above.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This is a conditional requirement. CSPs may choose to obtain additional confidence in the identity proofing process beyond the requirements for IAL2 through additional fraud mitigation measures. Such measures may include:

- inspecting metadata information, such as by checking geolocation data associated with a mobile device used to send a photo or receive an SMS;
- examining the applicant's device characteristics;
- evaluating behavioral characteristics, such as typing mannerisms, gait, or voice characteristics; and

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

- checking against authoritative sources, such as the Death Master File.

Employing one or more of these fraud mitigation techniques may result in the collection of additional PII about an applicant. Additional PII increases the potential impact of the unauthorized disclosure of this data. As part of the privacy risk assessment on these additional fraud mitigation measures, it is recommended that CSPs consider, at a minimum, the additional data (PII) that is processed, the implications of retaining this additional PII, and ways the associated risks can be minimized without negating the effects of the additional measures.

These additional fraud mitigation measures are not intended to substitute or replace the mandatory requirements. CSPs employing these measures are still responsible for meeting all applicable requirements.

q. In the event a CSP ceases to conduct identity proofing and enrollment processes, then the CSP SHALL be responsible for fully disposing of or destroying any sensitive data including PII, or its protection from unauthorized access for the duration of retention.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This is a conditional requirement for CSPs that cease to perform identity proofing and enrollment functions. The CSP is responsible for the proper handling, protection, and retention or disposal of any sensitive data it collects, even after it ceases to provide identity proofing and enrollment services. A CSP may document its policies and procedures to the management of the data it collects in a data handling plan or other document. Additionally, it is recommended that CSPs document any specific retention policies they are subject to, in accordance with applicable laws, regulations, or policies, including any National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) records retention schedules that may apply.

Specifically, it is recommended that the CSP defines and documents the practices it has in place for fully disposing of or destroying any sensitive data including PII, or its continued protection from unauthorized access for the duration of any period of retention.

r. Regardless of whether the CSP is a federal agency or non-federal entity, the following requirements apply to the federal agency offering or using the proofing service:

1. The agency SHALL consult with their Senior Agency Official for Privacy (SAOP) to conduct an analysis determining whether the collection of PII to conduct identity proofing triggers Privacy Act requirements.
2. The agency SHALL publish a System of Records Notice (SORN) to cover such collection, as applicable.
3. The agency SHALL consult with their SAOP to conduct an analysis determining whether the collection of PII to conduct identity proofing triggers E-Government Act of 2002 requirements.
4. The agency SHALL publish a Privacy Impact Assessment (PIA) to cover such collection, as applicable.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: This requirement applies to Federal agencies whether providing authentication services directly or through a commercial provider. This requirement directs Agencies to consult with their Senior Agency Official for Privacy (SAOP) and conduct an analysis to determine whether the collection of PII to issue or maintain authenticators triggers the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974 or the requirements of the E-Government Act of 2002. Based on this consultation and analysis, the agency may need to publish a System of Records Notice (SORN) and/or a Privacy Impact Assessment (PIA) to cover such collections, as applicable. While this requirement specifically applies only to federal agencies, CSPs that provide services to federal agencies may be expected to provide information about their identity services in support of an Agency's privacy analysis and PIA.

s. An enrollment code SHALL be comprised of one of the following:
   1 Minimally, a random six character alphanumeric or equivalent entropy. For example, a code generated using an approved random number generator or a serial number for a physical hardware authenticator; OR 2 A machine-readable optical label, such as a QR Code, that contains data of similar or higher entropy as a random six character alphanumeric.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The use of an enrollment code for address confirmation is a requirement for IAL2 remote identity proofing and enrollment. CSPs that perform in-person identity at IAL2 may voluntarily choose to use enrollment codes for such binding, but this is not required. Enrollment codes may also be used for in-person proofing and enrollment processes if an authenticator(s) is not registered to the subscribers' account at the time of in-person identity proofing and, therefore, the authenticator binding would need to occur at a later time. Enrollment codes may be used for authenticator binding to subscribers' accounts in such circumstances.

Enrollment code use for IAL2 remote identity proofing allows the CSP to confirm that the applicant controls a validated address of record. Authenticator binding may not be completed in the same session for in-person identity proofing. Enrollment codes may be used for binding an authenticator to subscribers' accounts at a later time in such circumstances. The requirements presented in this criterion apply to all enrollment codes that may be used by the CSP for any purpose.

Enrollment code use has the additional requirement for code validity periods. The validity period is determined by the type of address where the enrollment code is sent, as follows:

- 10 days, when sent to a postal address of record within the contiguous United States;
- 30 days, when sent to a postal address of record outside the contiguous United States;
- 10 minutes, when sent to a telephone of record (SMS or voice);
- 24 hours, when sent to an email address of record;
- 7 days if provided directly to the applicant during an in-person proofing session for authenticator binding at IAL2.

These validity periods are presented again in requirement IA-12 (5) g which presents the mandatory requirement for enrollment code confirmation for IAL2 remote identity proofing.

t. Training requirements for personnel validating evidence SHALL be based on the policies, guidelines, or requirements of the CSP or RP.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The training requirement pertains to personnel performing the validation of identity evidence but does not specify training content. The CSP policies, guidelines, or requirements for validating identity evidence for identity proofing would be appropriate for the type of training intended by this requirement. Such content may include:

- the CSP's policy for types of evidence it collects and validates in order to meet the requirements of designated IALs;
- validation of security features for the types of identity evidence collected;
- detection of evidence alteration, falsification, or forgery for the types of identity evidence collected. Procedures for the validation of identity evidence information with issuing and authoritative sources.

This training may be accomplished through written training material, oral instruction, on-the-job training and mentoring, or other means. CSPs may perform some of the requirements for identity evidence validation through automated services and equipment. Therefore, personnel training would be based on the CSPs policies and procedures for the manual performance of evidence validation.

u. This criterion applies to CSPs that provide identity proofing and enrollment services to minors (under the age of 18):

If the CSP provides identity proofing and enrollment services to minors (under the age of 18), then…the CSP SHALL give special consideration to the legal restrictions of interacting with minors unable to meet the evidence requirements of identity proofing [to ensure compliance with the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act of 1998 (COPPA), and other laws, as applicable]. "

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In general, minors will not possess the types of evidence required to meet the CSP's minimum requirements for a given IAL. ICSPs that provide identity services to minors will need to determine and document the special considerations it applies to minors. Such special considerations may include the use of trusted referees and an expanded list of acceptable evidence types to include evidence a minor would likely possess, such as school IDs.

Requirements 'v' and 'w' apply to the collection of biometric characteristics for in-person (physical or supervised remote) identity proofing and are mandatory at IAL3. These criteria also apply to CSPs that optionally choose to collect biometric characteristics through in-person identity proofing and enrollment at IAL2.

v. The CSP SHALL have the operator view the biometric source (e.g., fingers, face) for presence of non-natural materials and perform such inspections as part of the proofing process.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Applicants may try to defraud the identity proofing process by using fake fingers or by applying non-natural materials - such as latex, silicon, or glue – to their fingers, faces, or other sources of biometrics. It is recommended that identity proofing operators be trained to recognize such practices and to examine all biometric sources used in the identity proofing for the presence of foreign materials.

It is recommended that the CSP documents and applies technologies and procedures which ensure that the proofing operator reviews the biometric source (e.g., fingers, face) for presence of non-natural materials and perform such inspections as part of the proofing process.

Requirements ‘v’ and ‘w’ apply to the collection of biometric characteristics for in-person (physical or supervised remote) identity proofing and are mandatory at IAL3. These criteria also apply to CSPs that collect biometric characteristics through in-person identity-proofing identity proofing and enrollment at IAL2.

w. The CSP SHALL collect biometrics in such a way that ensures that the biometric is collected from the applicant, and not another subject. All biometric performance requirements in IA-5 m (1) through (12) apply.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Applicants may try to defraud the identity proofing process by having another person present themselves for biometric collection. The risk of this happening is increased if the identity proofing process is not completed in a single session and during supervised remote identity proofing processes.

Documenting the technologies and procedures the CSP employs to ensure that biometric samples are taken from the applicant him/herself and not another person facilitates the assessment against this requirement.

x. The CSP SHALL support in-person or remote identity proofing, or both.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: IAL2 allows for remote or in-person identity proofing. IAL2 supports a wide range of acceptable identity proofing techniques in order to increase user adoption, decrease false negatives (legitimate applicants that cannot successfully complete identity proofing), and detect to the best extent possible the presentation of fraudulent identities by a malicious applicant.

Remote proofing presents challenges to achieving the desired outcomes described above that can be overcome through the use specific processes and technologies. Potential processes and controls that CSPs may employ to mitigate risks associated with remote identity proofing at IAL2 include:

1. A remote operator is present during at least part of the identity proofing session and can provide positive confirmation that the requirements for IAL2 identity proofing are met. Employing real-time remote operators provides the capability for the identity proofing process to be completed in a single session and allows the remote operator to direct the applicant for proper presentation and examination of identity evidence and biometrics collection.
2. The CSP employs automated technologies and services (e.g., liveness detection, identity evidence verification and validation, and presentation attack detection, if applicable) which can ensure the requirements for IAL2 identity proofing are met and protect against spoofing attacks. This process also provides the capability for the identity proofing process to be completed in a single session.
3. The CSP employs an off-line operator to evaluate the evidence and images collected during a previous identity proofing process. In this scenario, the identity proofing process requires more than one session with the applicant and is not completed until the operator provides a positive confirmation that all requirements for IAL2 identity proofing are met.

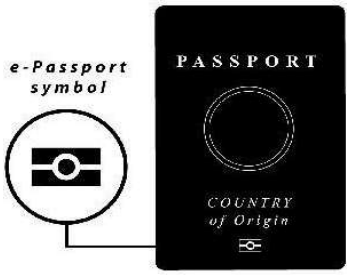
Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

y. The CSP SHALL collect the following from the applicant:
   1. One piece of SUPERIOR or STRONG evidence if the evidence's issuing source, during its identity proofing event, confirmed the claimed identity by collecting two or more forms of SUPERIOR or STRONG evidence and the CSP validates the evidence directly with the issuing source; OR
   2. Two pieces of STRONG evidence; OR
   3. One piece of STRONG evidence plus two pieces of FAIR evidence

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The goal of identity validation is to collect the most appropriate identity evidence (e.g., a passport or driver's license) from the applicant and determine its authenticity, validity, and accuracy. Identity validation is made up of three process steps: 1) collecting the appropriate identity evidence, 2) confirming the evidence is genuine and authentic, and 3) confirming the data contained on the identity evidence is valid, current, and related to a real-life subject.

Figure 9 - Notional Strength of Evidence Types of this document presents notional strengths for types of evidence that may be presented for identity proofing purposes. Documenting the types and strengths of evidence the CSP collects for each proofing encounter demonstrates conformance for this requirement. (Also see IA-12 (3) l.)

Examples of methods and how they can be used to capture identity evidence images or extract data for validation include:



- Cameras to capture images of identity evidence for the purposes of evidence validation;
- Document scanner to capture images of identity evidence for the purpose of evidence validation; and
- Bar-code scanner to capture and extract information from standardized barcodes embedded on identity evidence.

High resolution images of at least 300 ppi are necessary for proper evidence examination and validation.

z. The CSP SHALL validate each piece of evidence with a process that can achieve the same strength as the evidence presented (see 'y' above). For example, if two forms of STRONG identity evidence are presented, each piece of evidence will be validated at a strength of STRONG.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The goal of identity validation is to collect the most appropriate identity evidence (e.g., a passport, driver's license) from the applicant and determine its authenticity, validity, and accuracy. Identity validation is made up of three process steps: 1) collect the appropriate identity evidence, 2) confirm the evidence is genuine and authentic, and 3) confirm the data contained on the identity evidence is valid, current, and related to a real-life subject.

Evidence validation for authenticity involves examining the evidence for:

- Confirmation of required information completeness and format for the identity evidence type.
- Detection of evidence tampering or the creation of counterfeit or fraudulent evidence.
- Confirmation of security features. See Figure 10 - Types of Identity Evidence Security Features to this document for types of commonly used security features for identity evidence.

Most of the capabilities to confirm security features on identity evidence are dependent upon physically viewing the evidence directly, tactile feel of the evidence, and viewing the evidence under specialized lighting or through the use of specialized equipment (see Figure 10 - Types of Identity Evidence Security Features). Therefore, the validation of evidence that may be submitted remotely for remote identity proofing methods is particularly challenging. For this reason, CSPs opting to provide remote identity proofing may find it most effective to use automated evidence validation products and services. If automated evidence validation solutions are not used, CSPs may choose to apply similar procedures for IAL2 remote proofing as are required for IAL3 supervised remote proofing. These procedures provide that a trained operator can remotely supervise the evidence collection process, require the applicant to turn or tilt evidence or apply lighting to be able to confirm security features on evidence that is presented for the identity proofing encounter in a recorded video or webcast. Alternatively, a CSP may use an automated interface for the capture of identity evidence images that similarly can direct the applicant to turn, tilt or provide lighting on evidence presented for identity proofing purposes.

The next step in identity evidence validation for authenticity and integrity is to verify the correctness of information from the identity evidence against the issuing source for the evidence or an authoritative source that has linkage to the issuing source. Results of these checks for authenticity and integrity should be recorded.

Figure 11 - Validating Identity Evidence lists strengths, ranging from unacceptable to superior, of identity validation performed by the CSP to validate the evidence presented for the current proofing session and the information contained therein.

Strength	Method(s) Performed by the CSP
Unacceptable	• Evidence validation was not performed, or validation of the evidence failed.
Weak	• All personal details from the evidence have been confirmed as valid by comparison with information held or published by an authoritative source.
Fair	• Attributes contained in the evidence have been confirmed as valid by comparison with information held or published by the issuing source or authoritative source(s), OR • The evidence has been confirmed as genuine using appropriate technologies, confirming the integrity of physical security features and that the evidence is not fraudulent or inappropriately modified, OR • The evidence has been confirmed as genuine by trained personnel, OR • The evidence has been confirmed as genuine by confirmation of the integrity of cryptographic security features.

Strong	• The evidence has been confirmed as genuine: o using appropriate technologies, confirming the integrity of physical security features and that the evidence is not fraudulent or inappropriately modified, OR o by trained personnel and appropriate technologies, confirming the integrity of the physical security features and that the evidence is not fraudulent or inappropriately modified, OR o by confirmation of the integrity of cryptographic security features. • All personal details and evidence details have been confirmed as valid by comparison with information held or published by the issuing source or authoritative source(s).
Superior	• The evidence has been confirmed as genuine by trained personnel and appropriate technologies including the integrity of any physical and cryptographic security features. • All personal details and evidence details from the evidence have been confirmed as valid by comparison with information held or published by the issuing source or authoritative source(s).

aa. The CSP SHALL verify identity evidence as follows:

At a minimum, the applicant's binding to identity evidence must be verified by a process that is able to achieve a strength of STRONG.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The goal of identity verification is to confirm and establish a linkage between the validated evidence for the claimed identity and the real-life applicant presenting the evidence

Verification Strength	Verification Method	Description
Superior	Biometric Verification	Biometric comparison against biometric characteristics on the strongest piece(s) of evidence against live biometric capture for remote or in-person identity proofing. May be used for identity verification for FAIR, STRONG, and SUPERIOR strength.
Strong	In-Person Physical Verification	Physical comparison of applicant to facial-image photograph on strongest piece(s) of validated evidence. May be used for identity verification for FAIR and STRONG strength.
Strong	Remote Physical Verification	Physical comparison of applicant to facial-image photograph on strongest piece(s) of validated evidence. May be used for identity verification for FAIR and STRONG strength.

For IAL2 this linkage is achieved through a physical or biometric comparison of the facial image (i.e., photograph) on the strongest piece of evidence to the applicant or by a biometric comparison between information on the evidence and a biometric characteristic obtained from the applicant, most likely facial image.

Physical comparison is a comparison by a person (i.e., CSP-trained personnel) of the applicant to the photograph (i.e., facial image) on any of the strongest piece(s) of validated identity evidence collected. This comparison can be an in-person comparison for in-person identity proofing processes or may be conducted remotely for remote identity proofing. In both cases, the operator must perform a physical comparison of the applicant to the facial image photograph on the evidence. That is, the in-person proofing personnel will physically compare the facial image of the live applicant to the facial image photograph on the strongest piece of validated evidence. For remote physical comparison, the applicants' facial image may be captured by high resolution video or camera for physical comparison to the facial image photograph on the identity evidence.

For identity proofing verification, biometric comparison is an automated comparison of a biometric characteristic recorded on the strongest piece of identity evidence compared to the corresponding biometric characteristic of the applicant captured live during the identity proofing session.

Remote identity proofing requires the collection of both an image of the identity evidence and a live capture of the facial image of the applicant for physical or biometric comparison. The CSP must employ liveness and presentation attack detection capabilities to ensure that the applicant's facial image or other biometric characteristic used for comparison is "live" and not a spoofing or presentation attack. Potential methods for remote identity proofing processes to mitigate such spoofing and presentation attacks are presented below.

- A remote operator is present during the identity proofing session (similar to supervised remote in-person proofing) and can conduct a real-time physical comparison between an image of the identity evidence and a live video of the applicant. In order to confirm the video stream is live and not pre-recorded, the Operator could direct the applicant to move their head in specific ways, or even ask the applicant a question. Once a positive confirmation is recorded from the operator, and all other requirements are met, the identity proofing can be completed in a single session.
- The CSP employs automated capabilities which are specifically designed to compare the image of the identity evidence with the applicant, and which also employ liveness detection technologies. Pending a positive confirmation from the automated comparison, and the satisfaction of all other requirements, the identity proofing can be completed in a single session.

The CSP employs liveness detection technology during the capture of the facial image, and an off-line operator performs the physical comparison of images captured during the identity proofing session. The identity proofing process requires more than one session with the applicant and is not completed until the operator provides a positive confirmation of the comparison and the other requirements are met.

bb. For IAL2 remote proofing: The collection of biometric characteristics for physical or biometric comparison of the applicant to the strongest piece of identity evidence provided to support the claimed identity performed remotely SHALL adhere to all requirements as specified in IA-5 m.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: See IA-5 m (1) – (12) for conformance criteria for the implementation and conformance assessment of requirements for the use of biometrics.

cc. Knowledge-based verification (KBV) SHALL NOT be used for in-person (physical or supervised remote) identity verification.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: identity verification is performed against the strongest piece of identity evidence submitted and validated. For IAL2 the strongest piece of evidence will always be either STRONG or SUPERIOR evidence. KBV (sometimes referred to as knowledge-based authentication) is only permitted as a verification method for evidence at the FAIR strength level; therefore, verification of FAIR evidence binding will never be required for IAL2.

dd. The CSP SHALL employ appropriately tailored security controls, to include control enhancements, from the moderate or high baseline of security controls defined in the CJISSECPOL.

The CSP SHALL ensure that the minimum assurance-related controls for moderate-impact systems are satisfied.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

ee. Supervised Remote Identity Proofing: Supervised remote identity proofing is intended to provide controls for comparable levels of confidence and security to in-person IAL3 identity proofing for identity proofing processes that are performed remotely. Supervised remote identity proofing is optional for CSPs; that is, if a CSP chooses to use supervised remote identity proofing, then the following requirements, (1) through (8), would apply. It should be noted that the term "supervised remote identity proofing" has specialized meaning and is used only to refer to the specialized equipment and the following control requirements, (1) through (8). In addition to those requirements presented in this document, as well as the applicable identity validation and verification requirements, CSPs that provide supervised remote identity proofing services must demonstrate conformance with the requirements contained in this section. The following requirements for supervised remote proofing apply specifically to IAL3. I f the equipment/facilities used for supervised remote proofing are used for IAL2 identity proofing, the following requirements, (1) through (8), for supervised remote proofing do not apply. In this case, the requirements for conventional remote identity proofing are applicable.

1. Supervised remote identity proofing and enrollment transactions SHALL meet the following requirements, in addition to the IAL3 validation and verification requirements specified in IA-12(3)s.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Supervised remote identity proofing involves the use of a CSP-controlled station at a remote location that is connected to a trained operator at a central location. The goal of this arrangement is to permit identity proofing of individuals in remote locations where it is not practical for them to travel to the CSP for in-person identity proofing.

2. The CSP SHALL monitor the entire identity proofing session, from which the applicant SHALL NOT depart — for example, by a continuous high-resolution video transmission of the applicant.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The integrity of supervised remote identity proofing depends upon the applicant being continuously present during the entire session. An applicant who steps away from an in-process session may do so to alter their biometric source or substitute a different person to complete the identity proofing process.

3. The CSP SHALL have a live operator participate remotely with the applicant for the entirety of the identity proofing session.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Having a trained operator supervise and participate in a remote identity proofing session reduces the opportunity for an applicant to defraud the process. As described in Appendix A Terms and Definitions, the operator is a person who has received specific training on enrollment and identity proofing procedures and the detection of potential fraud by an applicant.

4. The CSP SHALL require all actions taken by the applicant during the identity proofing session to be clearly visible to the remote operator.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: The camera(s) a CSP employs to monitor the actions taken by a remote applicant during the identity proofing session should be positioned in such a way that the upper body, hands, and face of the applicant are always visible. Additionally, the components of the remote identity proofing station (including such things as keyboard, fingerprint capture device, signature pad, and scanner, as applicable) should be arranged such that all interactions with these devices is within the field of view.

5. The CSP SHALL require that all digital validation of evidence (e.g., via chip or wireless technologies) be performed by integrated scanners and sensors.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Technologies exist that allow for the digital validation of identity evidence via electronic means (such as RFID to read the data off e-passports and chip readers for smartcards). The scanners and sensors employed to access these features should be integrated into the remote identity proofing stations in order to reduce the likelihood of being tampered with, removed, or replaced. To be integrated means the devices themselves are a component of the workstation (i.e., smartcard readers or fingerprint sensors built into a laptop) or the devices, and their connections, are secured in a protective case or locked box.

6. The CSP SHALL require operators to have undergone a training program to detect potential fraud and to properly perform a supervised remote proofing session.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: A comprehensive training program for supervised remote identity proofing operators may include some or all the following:

   - Purpose and objectives of the identity proofing and enrollment process, as employed by the CSP;
   - Supervised remote identity proofing process workflow;
   - Identity evidence validation processes;
   - Threats associated with the identity proofing process and how to detect potential fraud; and
   - System and process troubleshooting and problem resolution.

7. The CSP SHALL employ physical tamper detection and resistance features appropriate for the environment in which it is located.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: For example, a kiosk located in a restricted area or one where it is monitored by a trusted individual requires less tamper detection than one that is located in a semi-public area such as a shopping mall concourse.

8. The CSP SHALL ensure that all communications occur over a mutually authenticated protected channel.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Mutually authenticated protected channels employ approved cryptography to encrypt communications between ff. Trusted Referee: The use of trusted referees is optional for CSPs; that is, if a CSP chooses to use trusted referees for identity proofing and enrollment, then the following requirements, (1) through (3), would apply. The use of trusted referees is intended to assist in the identity proofing and enrollment for populations that are unable to meet IAL2 identity proofing requirements, or otherwise would be challenged to perform identity proofing and enrollment process requirements. Such populations may include, but are not limited to:

- disabled individuals;
- elderly individuals;
- homeless individuals,
- individuals with little or no access to online services or computing devices;
- unbanked and individuals with little or no credit history;
- victims of identity theft;
- children under 18; and
- immigrants.

In addition to those requirements presented in the General section of this document, as well as the applicable IAL requirements, CSPs that use trusted referees in their identity proofing services must demonstrate conformance with the requirements contained in this section.

1. If the CSP uses trusted referees, then…The CSP SHALL establish written policy and procedures as to how a trusted referee is determined and the lifecycle by which the trusted referee retains their status as a valid referee, to include any restrictions, as well as any revocation and suspension requirements.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In instances where an individual cannot meet the identity evidence requirements specified in IA-12 (3) y – ee and IA-12 (5) b - i, the agency may use a trusted referee to assist in identity proofing the applicant. It is intended that CSPs using trusted referees for identity proofing and enrollment will document the procedures and controls in an applicable written policy or practice statement as described in IA-12 (3) h.

2. If the CSP uses trusted referees, then…The CSP SHALL proof the trusted referee at the same IAL as the applicant proofing.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Trusted referees, who participate in the identity proofing process on behalf of an applicant need to be identity proofed themselves to the same level as that of the applicant. If CSPs allows the use of Trusted Referees, its documented policies should state this requirement.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

3. If the CSP uses trusted referees, then…The CSP SHALL determine the minimum evidence required to bind the relationship between the trusted referee and the applicant.

   SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: In addition to proofing a Trusted Referee to the same (or greater) IAL as that of the applicant, CSPs will need to determine its process for proving a legitimate relationship to the applicant. The CSP should consider and document the types of evidence (i.e., power of attorney) it will accept to "bind" the relationship between Trusted Referee and an applicant. This minimum evidence may vary based on IAL.

Related Controls: None.

(5) IDENTITY PROOFING | ADDRESS CONFIRMATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Require that a registration code or notice of proofing be delivered through an out-of-band channel to verify the users address (physical or digital) of record.

DISCUSSION: To make it more difficult for adversaries to pose as legitimate users during the identity proofing process, organizations can use out-of-band methods to ensure that the individual associated with an address of record is the same individual that participated in the registration. Confirmation can take the form of a temporary enrollment code or a notice of proofing. The delivery address for these artifacts is obtained from records and not self-asserted by the user. The address can include a physical or digital address. A home address is an example of a physical address. Email addresses and telephone numbers are examples of digital addresses.

b. The CSP SHALL confirm address of record.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Valid records to confirm address are issuing source(s) or authoritative source(s). Ideally, the CSP will confirm an address of record through validation of the address contained on any supplied, valid piece of identity evidence. However, the CSP may confirm address of record by validating information supplied by the applicant that is not contained on any supplied piece of identity evidence. Postal addresses are preferred, however these guidelines support any type of address that can be validated against an issuing or authoritative source, whether physical or digital. Acceptable addresses of record include postal addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers. The types of addresses of record a CSP accepts will determine, in part, the method it employs to validate them. For instance, postal addresses can be validated by confirming it against a piece of supplied, valid identity evidence. Email addresses may be confirmed by sending an email to the provided address.

c. Valid records to confirm address SHALL be issuing source(s) or authoritative source(s).

   Self-asserted address data that has not been confirmed in records SHALL NOT be used for confirmation.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: An address of record is a "validated and verified location (physical or digital) where an individual can receive communications using approved mechanisms." IAL2 requires confirming an applicant's address of record. This can be accomplished in two ways: 1) validation of the address contained on a valid piece of identity evidence, or 2) by employing a mechanism such as enrollment codes to validate an address not contained on a supplied piece of identity evidence.

Addresses that are supplied by an applicant, either verbally or on a non-valid piece of identity evidence, are not valid for confirming an applicant's address of record.

d. Note that IAL2-7 applies only to in-person proofing at IAL2.

   If the CSP performs in-person proofing for IAL2 and provides an enrollment code directly to the subscriber for binding to an authenticator at a later time, then the enrollment code…SHALL be valid for a maximum of seven (7) days.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Upon successful completion of the identity proofing process the CSP will typically register one or more authenticators to t h e subscribers' account or may optionally choose to bind an authenticator(s) at a later time. If the CSP chooses to use an enrollment code provided directly to the applicant to authenticate for such later binding, the validity period for the enrollment code is a maximum of seven days (see IA-12 (3) s).

Note that conformance criteria IA-12 (5) 'e' through 'i' apply to remote identity proofing processes at IAL2.

e. For remote identity proofing at IAL2:

   The CSP SHALL send an enrollment code to a confirmed address of record for the applicant.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Enrollment codes used for IAL2 remote identity proofing may be sent to any confirmed address of record – postal, mobile phone number for SMS, or email addresses.

f. For remote identity proofing at IAL2:

   The applicant SHALL present a valid enrollment code to complete the identity proofing process.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Per IA-12 (5) e above, sending an enrollment code to a confirmed address of record, as captured during the identity proofing process, is required to complete the remote identity proofing process and provides additional confidence in the binding of that address to the applicant.

Valid enrollment codes mean that the correct enrollment code is submitted by the applicant within prescribed validity periods. Enrollment code validity periods depend on the type of address where the code is sent as shown in IA-12 (5) g below.

Information captured in the CSP's enrollment records or system logs facilitate assessment against this requirement. Ideally, this information would include details about the validity of the enrollment code (date and time applicant entered code; confirmation it was the correct code; and confirmation it was not expired).

g. Note that the following enrollment code validity periods apply to enrollment codes sent to confirmed addresses of record for IAL2 remote in-person proofing only.

   Enrollment codes shall have the following maximum validities:

   1. 10 days, when sent to a postal address of record within the contiguous United States;
   2. 30 days, when sent to a postal address of record outside the contiguous United States;
   3. 10 minutes, when sent to a telephone of record (SMS or voice);
   4. 24 hours, when sent to an email address of record.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Enrollment codes sent to addresses of record are only valid for a limited amount of time, depending on the type of address of record to which they are sent. Applicants that present enrollment codes that are no longer valid (aka, expired) cannot use this code to complete their identity proofing process.

h. If the enrollment code sent to the confirmed address of record as part of the remote identity proofing process at IAL2 is also intended to be an authentication factor, then…it SHALL be reset upon first use.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: Enrollment codes sent as an authentication factor for address confirmation may only be used once.

i. If the CSP performs remote proofing at IAL2 and optionally sends notification of proofing in addition to sending the required enrollment code, then…The CSP SHALL ensure the enrollment code and notification of proofing are sent to different addresses of record.

SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE: For example, if the CSP sends an enrollment code to a phone number validated in records, a proofing notification may be sent to the postal address validated in records or obtained from validated and verified evidence, such as a driver's license.

5.7 CONFIGURATION MANAGEMENT (CM)

CM-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to organizational personnel with configuration management responsibilities:

1. Agency-level configuration management policy that:

(a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and

(b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and

2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the configuration management policy and the associated configuration management controls;

b. Designate organizational personnel with information security responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the configuration management policy and procedures; and

c. Review and update the current configuration management:

1. Policy annually and following any hardware or software changes to systems which process, store, or transmit CJI; and

2. Procedures annually and following any hardware or software changes to systems which process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Configuration management policy and procedures address the controls in the CM family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of configuration management policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission/business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to configuration management policy and procedures include, but are not limited to, assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

CM-2 BASELINE CONFIGURATION

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and maintain under configuration control, a current baseline configuration of the system;

b. Develop, document, and maintain a current and complete topological drawing depicting the interconnectivity of the agency network to criminal justice information systems and services; and

c. Review and update the baseline configuration and topological drawing of the system:

1. At least annually;

2. When required due to security-relevant changes to the system and/or security incidents occur; and

3. When system components are installed or upgraded.

Discussion: Baseline configurations for systems and system components include connectivity, operational, and communications aspects of systems. Baseline configurations are documented, formally reviewed, and agreed-upon specifications for systems or configuration items within those systems. Baseline configurations serve as a basis for future builds, releases, or changes to systems and include security and privacy control implementations, operational procedures, information about system components, network topology, and logical placement of components in the system architecture. Maintaining baseline configurations requires creating new baselines as organizational systems change over time. Baseline configurations of systems reflect the current enterprise architecture. See Appendix C for sample topological/network diagrams.

Control Enhancements:

(2) BASELINE CONFIGURATION | AUTOMATION SUPPORT FOR ACCURACY AND CURRENCY

[Priority 1]

Control:

Maintain the currency, completeness, accuracy, and availability of the baseline configuration of the system using automated mechanisms such as configuration management tools, hardware, software, firmware inventory tools, and network management tools.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: Automated mechanisms that help organizations maintain consistent baseline configurations for systems include configuration management tools, hardware, software, firmware inventory tools, and network management tools. Automated tools can be used at the organization level, mission and business process level, or system level on workstations, servers, notebook computers, network components, or mobile devices. Tools can be used to track version numbers on operating systems, applications, types of software installed, and current patch levels. Automation support for accuracy and currency can be satisfied by the implementation of CM-8(2) for organizations that combine system component inventory and baseline configuration activities.

Related Controls: CM-7, IA-3, RA-5.

(3) BASELINE CONFIGURATION | RETENTION OF PREVIOUS CONFIGURATIONS

[Priority 1]

Control:

Retain at least one (1) previous version of baseline configurations of the system to support rollback.

Discussion: Retaining previous versions of baseline configurations to support rollback include hardware, software, firmware, configuration files, configuration records, and associated documentation.

Related Controls: None.

(7) BASELINE CONFIGURATION | CONFIGURE SYSTEMS AND COMPONENTS FOR HIGH-RISK AREAS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Issue devices (e.g., mobile devices) with CJISSECPOL compliant configurations to individuals traveling to locations that the organization deems to be of significant risk; and

b. Apply the following controls to the systems or components when the individuals return from travel: examine the device for signs of physical tampering, purge and reimage disk drives and/or devices as required, and ensure all security controls are in place and functional.

Discussion: When it is known that systems or system components will be in high-risk areas external to the organization, additional controls may be implemented to counter the increased threat in such areas. For example, organizations can take actions for notebook computers used by individuals departing on and returning from travel. Actions include determining the locations that are of concern, defining the required configurations for the components, ensuring that components are configured as intended before travel is initiated, and applying controls to the components after travel is completed. Specially configured notebook computers include computers with sanitized hard drives, limited applications, and more stringent configuration settings. Controls applied to mobile devices upon return from travel include examining the mobile device for signs of physical tampering and purging and reimaging disk drives. Protecting information that resides on mobile devices is addressed in the MP (Media Protection) family.

Related Controls: MP-4, MP-5.

CM-3 CONFIGURATION CHANGE CONTROL

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Determine and document the types of changes to the system that are configuration-controlled;

b. Review proposed configuration-controlled changes to the system and approve or disapprove such changes with explicit consideration for security and privacy impact analyses;

c. Document configuration change decisions associated with the system;

d. Implement approved configuration-controlled changes to the system;

e. Retain records of configuration-controlled changes to the system for two (2) years;

f. Monitor and review activities associated with configuration-controlled changes to the system; and

g. Coordinate and provide oversight for configuration change control activities through personnel with configuration management responsibilities, a Configuration Control Board, or Change Advisory Board that convenes regularly or when hardware or software changes (i.e., updates, upgrades, replacements, etc.) to the information system are required.

Discussion: Configuration change control for organizational systems involves the systematic proposal, justification, implementation, testing, review, and disposition of system changes, including system upgrades and modifications. Configuration change control includes changes to baseline configurations, configuration items of systems, operational procedures, configuration settings for system components, remediate vulnerabilities, and unscheduled or unauthorized changes. Processes for managing configuration changes to systems include Configuration Control Boards or Change Advisory Boards that review and approve proposed changes. For changes that impact privacy risk, the senior agency official for privacy updates privacy impact assessments and system of records notices. For new systems or major upgrades, organizations consider including representatives from the development organizations on the Configuration Control Boards or Change Advisory Boards. Auditing of changes includes activities before and after changes are made to systems and the auditing activities required to implement such changes. See also SA-10.

(2) CONFIGURATION CHANGE CONTROL | TESTING, VALIDATION, AND DOCUMENTATION OF CHANGES

[Priority 2]

Control:

Test, validate, and document changes to the system before finalizing the implementation of the changes.

Discussion: Changes to systems include modifications to hardware, software, or firmware components and configuration settings defined in CM-6. Organizations ensure that testing does not interfere with system operations that support organizational mission and business functions. Individuals or groups conducting tests understand security and privacy policies and procedures, system security and privacy policies and procedures, and the health, safety, and environmental risks associated with specific facilities or processes. Operational systems may need to be taken offline, or replicated to the extent feasible, before testing can be conducted. If systems must be taken offline for testing, the tests are scheduled to occur during planned system outages whenever possible. If the testing cannot be conducted on operational systems, organizations employ compensating controls.

Related Controls: None.

(4) CONFIGURATION CHANGE CONTROL | SECURITY AND PRIVACY REPRESENTATIVES

[Priority 2]

Control:

Require organizational personnel with information security and privacy responsibilities to be members of the Configuration Control Board or Change Advisory Board.

Discussion: Information security and privacy representatives include system security officers, senior agency information security officers, senior agency officials for privacy, or system privacy officers. Representation by personnel with information security and privacy expertise is important because changes to system configurations can have unintended side effects, some of which may be security- or privacy-relevant. Detecting such changes early in the process can help avoid unintended, negative consequences that could ultimately affect the security and privacy posture of systems. The configuration change control element referred to in the second organization-defined parameter reflects the change control elements defined by organizations in CM-3g.

CM-4 IMPACT ANALYSES

[Priority 3]

Control:

Analyze changes to the system to determine potential security and privacy impacts prior to change implementation.

Discussion: Organizational personnel with security or privacy responsibilities conduct impact analyses. Individuals conducting impact analyses possess the necessary skills and technical expertise to analyze the changes to systems as well as the security or privacy ramifications. Impact analyses include reviewing security and privacy plans, policies, and procedures to understand control requirements; reviewing system design documentation and operational procedures to understand control implementation and how specific system changes might affect the controls; reviewing the impact of changes on organizational supply chain partners with stakeholders; and determining how potential changes to a system create new risks to the privacy of individuals and the ability of implemented controls to mitigate those risks. Impact analyses also include risk assessments to understand the impact of the changes and determine if additional controls are required.

Related Controls: CA-7, CM-3, CM-8, CM-9, MA-2, RA-3, RA-5, SA-5, SA-8, SA-10, SI-2.

Control Enhancements:

(2) IMPACT ANALYSES | VERIFICATION OF CONTROLS

[Priority 3]

Control:

After-system changes, verify that the impacted controls are implemented correctly, operating as intended, and producing the desired outcome with regard to meeting the security and privacy requirements for the system.

Discussion: Implementation in this context refers to installing changed code in the operational system that may have an impact on security or privacy controls.

Related Controls: SA-11.

CM-5 ACCESS RESTRICTIONS FOR CHANGE

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Define, document, approve, and enforce physical and logical access restrictions associated with changes to the system.

Discussion: Changes to the hardware, software, or firmware components of systems or the operational procedures related to the system can potentially have significant effects on the security of the systems or individuals' privacy. Therefore, organizations permit only qualified and authorized individuals to access systems for purposes of initiating changes. Access restrictions include physical and logical access controls (see AC-3 and PE-3), software libraries, workflow automation, media libraries, abstract layers (i.e., changes implemented into external interfaces rather than directly into systems), and change windows (i.e., changes occur only during specified times).

Related Controls: AC-3, AC-5, AC-6, CM-9, PE-3, SC-28, SI-2, SI-10.

CM-6 CONFIGURATION SETTINGS

[Priority 1]

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Control:

a. Establish and document configuration settings for components employed within the system that reflect the most restrictive mode consistent with operational requirements using established best practices and guidelines such as Defense Information Systems Agency (DISA) Secure Technical Implementation Guidelines (STIGs), Center for Internet Security (CIS) Benchmarks, or Federal Information Processing Standards;

b. Implement the configuration settings;

c. Identify, document, and approve any deviations from established configuration settings for system components that store, process, or transmit CJI based on operational requirements; and

d. Monitor and control changes to the configuration settings in accordance with organizational policies and procedures.

Discussion: Configuration settings are the parameters that can be changed in the hardware, software, or firmware components of the system that affect the security and privacy posture or functionality of the system. Information technology products for which configuration settings can be defined include mainframe computers, servers, workstations, operating systems, mobile devices, input/output devices, protocols, and applications. Parameters that impact the security posture of systems include registry settings; account, file, or directory permission settings; and settings for functions, protocols, ports, services, and remote connections. Privacy parameters are parameters impacting the privacy posture of systems, including the parameters required to satisfy other privacy controls. Privacy parameters include settings for access controls, data processing preferences, and processing and retention permissions. Organizations establish organization-wide configuration settings and subsequently derive specific configuration settings for systems. The established settings become part of the configuration baseline for the system.

Common secure configurations (also known as security configuration checklists, lockdown and hardening guides, and security reference guides) provide recognized, standardized, and established benchmarks that stipulate secure configuration settings for information technology products and platforms as well as instructions for configuring those products or platforms to meet operational requirements. Common secure configurations can be developed by a variety of organizations, including information technology product developers, manufacturers, vendors, federal agencies, consortia, academia, industry, and other organizations in the public and private sectors.

Implementation of a common secure configuration may be mandated at the organization level, mission and business process level, system level, or at a higher level, including by a regulatory agency. Common secure configurations include the United States Government Configuration Baseline [USGCB] and security technical implementation guides (STIGs), which affect the implementation of CM-6 and other controls such as AC-19 and CM-7. The Security Content Automation Protocol (SCAP) and the defined standards within the protocol provide an effective method to uniquely identify, track, and control configuration settings.

CM-7 LEAST FUNCTIONALITY

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Configure the system to provide only essential capabilities to meet operational requirements; and

b. Prohibit or restrict the use of specified functions, ports, protocols, software, and/or services which are not required.

Discussion: Systems provide a wide variety of functions and services. Some of the functions and services routinely provided by default may not be necessary to support essential organizational missions, functions, or operations. Additionally, it is sometimes convenient to provide multiple services from a single system component, but doing so increases risk over limiting the services provided by that single component. Where feasible, organizations limit component functionality to a single function per component. Organizations consider removing unused or unnecessary software and disabling unused or unnecessary physical and logical ports and protocols to prevent unauthorized connection of components, transfer of information, and tunneling. Organizations employ network scanning tools, intrusion detection and prevention systems, and end-point protection technologies, such as firewalls and host-based intrusion detection systems, to identify and prevent the use of prohibited functions, protocols, ports, and services. Least functionality can also be achieved as part of the fundamental design and development of the system (see SA- 8 and SC-2).

Related Controls: AC-3, AC-4, CM-2, CM-5, CM-6, CM-11, RA-5, SA-4, SA-5, SA-8, SA-9, SA-15, SC- 2, SC-7, SI-4.

Control Enhancements:

(1) LEAST FUNCTIONALITY | PERIODIC REVIEW

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Review the system annually, as the system changes, or incidents occur to identify unnecessary and/or nonsecure functions, ports, protocols, software, and services; and

b. Disable or remove functions, ports, protocols, software, and/or services within the system deemed to be unnecessary and/or unsecure.

Discussion: Organizations review functions, ports, protocols, and services provided by systems or system components to determine the functions and services that are candidates for elimination. Such reviews are especially important during transition periods from older technologies to newer technologies (e.g., transition from IPv4 to IPv6). These technology transitions may require implementing the older and newer technologies simultaneously during the transition period and returning to minimum essential functions, ports, protocols, and services at the earliest opportunity. Organizations can either decide the relative security of the function, port, protocol, and/or service or base the security decision on the assessment of other entities. Unsecure protocols include Bluetooth, FTP, and peer-to-peer networking.

Related Controls: AC-18.

(2) LEAST FUNCTIONALITY | PREVENT PROGRAM EXECUTION

[Priority 1]

Control:

Prevent program execution in accordance with rules of behavior and/or rules authorizing the terms and conditions of software program usage.

Discussion: Prevention of program execution addresses organizational policies, rules of behavior, and/or access agreements that restrict software usage and the terms and conditions imposed by the developer or manufacturer, including software licensing and copyrights. Restrictions include prohibiting auto-execute features, restricting roles allowed to approve program execution, permitting or prohibiting specific software programs, or restricting the number of program instances executed at the same time.

Related Controls: CM-8, PL-4, PS-6.

(5) LEAST FUNCTIONALITY | AUTHORIZED SOFTWARE — ALLOW-BY-EXCEPTION

[Priority 1]

Control:

a. Identify software programs authorized to execute on the system;

b. Employ a deny-all, permit-by-exception policy to allow the execution of authorized software programs on the system; and

c. Review and update the list of authorized software programs annually.

Discussion: Authorized software programs can be limited to specific versions or from a specific source. To facilitate a comprehensive authorized software process and increase the strength of protection for attacks that bypass application level authorized software, software programs may be decomposed into and monitored at different levels of detail. These levels include applications, application programming interfaces, application modules, scripts, system processes, system services, kernel functions, registries, drivers, and dynamic link libraries. The concept of permitting the execution of authorized software may also be applied to user actions, system ports and protocols, IP addresses/ranges, websites, and MAC addresses. Organizations consider verifying the integrity of authorized software programs using digital signatures, cryptographic checksums, or hash functions. Verification of authorized software can occur either prior to execution or at system startup. The identification of authorized URLs for websites is addressed in SC-7.

Related Controls: CM-2, CM-6, CM-8, CM-10, SA-10, SI-7.

CM-8 SYSTEM COMPONENT INVENTORY

[Priority 1]

Control:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

a. Develop and document an inventory of system components that:

1. Accurately reflects the system;

2. Includes all components within the system;

3. Does not include duplicate accounting of components or components assigned to any other system;

4. Is at the level of granularity deemed necessary for tracking and reporting; and

5. Includes the following minimum information to achieve system component accountability: date of installation, model, serial number, manufacturer, supplier information, component type, software owner, software version number, software license information, and hardware and physical location; and

b. Review and update the system component inventory annually.

Discussion: System components are discrete, identifiable information technology assets that include hardware, software, and firmware. Organizations may choose to implement centralized system component inventories that include components from all organizational systems. In such situations, organizations ensure that the inventories include system-specific information required for component accountability. The information necessary for effective accountability of system components includes the system name, software owners, software version numbers, hardware inventory specifications, software license information, and for networked components, the machine names and network addresses across all implemented protocols (e.g., IPv4, IPv6). Inventory specifications include date of receipt, cost, model, serial number, manufacturer, supplier information, component type, and physical location.

Preventing duplicate accounting of system components addresses the lack of accountability that occurs when component ownership and system association is not known, especially in large or complex connected systems. Effective prevention of duplicate accounting of system components necessitates use of a unique identifier for each component. For software inventory, centrally managed software that is accessed via other systems is addressed as a component of the system on which it is installed and managed. Software installed on multiple organizational systems and managed at the system level is addressed for each individual system and may appear more than once in a centralized component inventory, necessitating a system association for each software instance in the centralized inventory to avoid duplicate accounting of components. Scanning systems implementing multiple network protocols (e.g., IPv4 and IPv6) can result in duplicate components being identified in different address spaces.

Related Controls: CM-2, CM-7, CM-9, CM-10, CM-11, CP-2, CP-9, MA-2, MA-6, SA-4, SA-5, SI-2.

Control Enhancements:

(1) SYSTEM COMPONENT INVENTORY | UPDATES DURING INSTALLATION AND REMOVAL

[Priority 1]

Control:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Update the inventory of system components as part of component installations, removals, ans system updates.

Discussion: Organizations can improve the accuracy, completeness, and consistency of system component inventories if the inventories are updated as part of component installations or removals or during general system updates. If inventories are not updated at these key times, there is a greater likelihood that the information will not be appropriately captured and documented. System updates include hardware, software, and firmware components.

Related Controls: None.

(3) SYSTEM COMPONENT INVENTORY | AUTOMATED UNAUTHORIZED COMPONENT DETECTION

[Priority 1]

Control:

a. Detect the presence of unauthorized hardware, software, and firmware components within the system using automated mechanisms continuously or at least weekly; and

b. Take the following actions when unauthorized components are detected: disable or isolate the unauthorized components and notify organizational personnel with security responsibilities.

Discussion: Automated unauthorized component detection is applied in addition to the monitoring for unauthorized remote connections and mobile devices. Monitoring for unauthorized system components may be accomplished on an ongoing basis or by the periodic scanning of systems for that purpose. Automated mechanisms may also be used to prevent the connection of unauthorized components. Automated mechanisms can be implemented in systems or in separate system components. When acquiring and implementing automated mechanisms, organizations consider whether such mechanisms depend on the ability of the system component to support an agent or supplicant in order to be detected since some types of components do not have or cannot support agents (e.g., IoT devices, sensors). Isolation can be achieved, for example, by placing unauthorized system components in separate domains or subnets or quarantining such components. This type of component isolation is commonly referred to as "sandboxing."

CM-9 CONFIGURATION MANAGEMENT PLAN

[Priority 2]

Control:

Develop, document, and implement a configuration management plan for the system that:

a. Addresses roles, responsibilities, and configuration management processes and procedures;

c. Defines the configuration items for the system and places the configuration items under configuration management;
d. Is reviewed and approved by organizational personnel with information security responsibilities and organizational personnel with configuration management responsibilities; and
e. Protects the configuration management plan from unauthorized disclosure and modification.

Discussion: Configuration management activities occur throughout the system development life cycle. As such, there are developmental configuration management activities (e.g., the control of code and software libraries) and operational configuration management activities (e.g., control of installed components and how the components are configured). Configuration management plans satisfy the requirements in configuration management policies while being tailored to individual systems. Configuration management plans define processes and procedures for how configuration management is used to support system development life cycle activities.

Configuration management plans are generated during the development and acquisition stage of the system development life cycle. The plans describe how to advance changes through change management processes; update configuration settings and baselines; maintain component inventories; control development, test, and operational environments; and develop, release, and update key documents.

Organizations can employ templates to help ensure the consistent and timely development and implementation of configuration management plans. Templates can represent a configuration management plan for the organization with subsets of the plan implemented on a system by system basis. Configuration management approval processes include the designation of key stakeholders responsible for reviewing and approving proposed changes to systems, and personnel who conduct security and privacy impact analyses prior to the implementation of changes to the systems. Configuration items are the system components, such as the hardware, software, firmware, and documentation to be configuration managed. As systems continue through the system development life cycle, new configuration items may be identified, and some existing configuration items may no longer need to be under configuration control.

CM-10 SOFTWARE USAGE RESTRICTIONS

a. Use software and associated documentation in accordance with contract agreements and copyright laws;
b. Track the use of software and associated documentation protected by quantity licenses to control copying and distribution; and
c. Control and document the use of peer-to-peer file sharing technology to ensure that this capability is not used for the unauthorized distribution, display, performance, or reproduction of copyrighted work.

Discussion: Software license tracking can be accomplished by manual or automated methods, depending on organizational needs. Examples of contract agreements include software license agreements and non-disclosure agreements.

CM-11 USER-INSTALLED SOFTWARE

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Establish agency-level policies governing the installation of software by users;

b. Enforce software installation policies through automated methods; and

c. Monitor policy compliance through automated methods at least weekly.

Discussion: If provided the necessary privileges, users can install software in organizational systems. To maintain control over the software installed, organizations identify permitted and prohibited actions regarding software installation. Permitted software installations include updates and security patches to existing software and downloading new applications from organization-approved "app stores." Prohibited software installations include software with unknown or suspect pedigrees or software that organizations consider potentially malicious. Policies selected for governing user-installed software are organization-developed or provided by some external entity. Policy enforcement methods can include procedural methods and automated methods.

CM-12 INFORMATION LOCATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Identify and document the location of CJI and the specific system components on which the information is processed, stored, or transmitted;
b. Identify and document the users who have access to the system and system components where the information is processed and stored; and
c. Document changes to the location (i.e., system or system components) where the information is processed and stored.

Discussion: Information location addresses the need to understand where information is being processed and stored. Information location includes identifying where specific information types and information reside in system components and how information is being processed so that information flow can be understood, and adequate protection and policy management provided for such information and system components. The security category of the information is also a factor in determining the controls necessary to protect the information and the system component where the information resides. The location of the information and system components is also a factor in the architecture and design of the system (see SA-4, SA-8).

(1) INFORMATION LOCATION | AUTOMATED TOOLS TO SUPPORT INFORMATION LOCATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Use automated tools to identify CJI on software and hardware system components to ensure controls are in place to protect organizational information and individual privacy.

Discussion: The use of automated tools helps to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of the information location capability implemented within the system. Automation also helps organizations manage the data produced during information location activities and share such information across the organization. The output of automated information location tools can be used to guide and inform system architecture and design decisions.

5.8 MEDIA PROTECTION (MP)

Documented and implemented media protection policies and procedures ensure that access to digital and non-digital media in all forms is restricted to authorized individuals using authorized methods and processes.

MP-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to authorized individuals:
    1. Agency-level media protection policy that:
        (a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among agency entities, and compliance; and
        (b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
    2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the media protection policy and the associated media protection controls;
b. Designate an individual with security responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the media protection policy and procedures; and
c. Review and update the current media protection:
    1. Policy at least annually and following any security incidents involving digital and/or non-digital media; and
    2. Procedures at least annually and following any security incidents involving digital and/or non-digital media.

Discussion: Media protection policy and procedures address the controls in the MP family that are implemented within systems and agencies. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of media protection policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the agency level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of agencies. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to media protection policy and procedures include assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an agency policy or procedure.

MP-2 MEDIA ACCESS

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Restrict access to digital and non-digital media to authorized individuals.

Discussion: System media includes digital and non-digital media. Digital media includes flash drives, diskettes, magnetic tapes, external or removable hard disk drives (e.g., solid state, magnetic), compact discs, and digital versatile discs. Non-digital media includes paper and microfilm. Denying access to hard copies of case file information stored in a locked filing cabinet is an example of restricting access to non-digital media. Limiting access to the design specifications stored on compact discs in the media library to individuals on the system development team is an example of restricting access to digital media.

Related Controls: AC-19, AU-9, CP-2, CP-9, CP-10, MA-5, MP-4, MP-6, PE-2, PE-3, SC-12, SC-13, SI-12.

MP-3 MEDIA MARKING

[Priority 3]

Control:

a. Mark system media indicating the distribution limitations, handling caveats, and applicable security markings (if any) of the information; and

b. Exempt digital and non-digital media containing CJI from marking if the media remain within physically secure locations or controlled areas.

Discussion: Security marking refers to the application or use of human-readable security attributes. Digital media includes diskettes, magnetic tapes, external or removable hard disk drives (e.g., solid state, magnetic), flash drives, compact discs, and digital versatile discs. Non-digital media includes paper and microfilm. Controlled unclassified information (CUI) is defined by the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) along with the appropriate safeguarding and dissemination requirements for such information and is codified in [32 CFR 2002]. Security markings are generally not required for media that contains information determined by agencies to be in the public domain or to be publicly releasable. Some agencies may require markings for public information indicating that the information is publicly releasable. System media marking reflects applicable laws, executive orders, directives, policies, regulations, standards, and guidelines. Executive Order 13556 mandates the marking of CUI. The following categories of CJI fall under the designated NARA categories which direct marking as indicated.

1. Biometric Data—data derived from one or more intrinsic physical or behavioral traits of humans typically for the purpose of uniquely identifying individuals from within a population. Used to identify individuals, to include: fingerprints, palm prints, iris scans, and facial recognition data. NARA CUI Category: Sensitive Personally Identifiable Information. NARA Banner Marking: CUI

2. Identity History Data—textual data that corresponds with an individual's biometric data, providing a history of criminal and/or civil events for the identified individual. NARA CUI Category: Criminal History Records Information. NARA Banner Marking: CUI//SP-CHRI
3. Biographic Data—information about individuals associated with a unique case, and not necessarily connected to identity data. Biographic data does not provide a history of an individual, only information related to a unique case. NARA CUI Category: General Law Enforcement. NARA Banner Marking: CUI
4. Property Data—information about vehicles and property associated with crime when accompanied by any personally identifiable information (PII). NARA CUI Category: General Law Enforcement. NARA Banner Marking: CUI
5. Case/Incident History—information about the history of criminal incidents. NARA CUI Category: General Law Enforcement. NARA Banner Marking: CUI

[32 CFR 2002] states the CUI Program prohibits using markings or practices not included in this part or the CUI Registry. If legacy markings remain on information, the legacy markings are void and no longer indicate that the information is protected or that it is or qualifies as CUI.

Related Controls: CP-9, MP-5, SI-12.

MP-4 MEDIA STORAGE

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Physically control and securely store digital and non-digital media within physically secure locations or controlled areas and encrypt CJI on digital media when physical and personnel restrictions are not feasible; and
b. Protect system media types defined in MP-4a until the media are destroyed or sanitized using approved equipment, techniques, and procedures.

Discussion: System media includes digital and non-digital media. Digital media includes flash drives, diskettes, magnetic tapes, external or removable hard disk drives (e.g., solid state, magnetic), compact discs, and digital versatile discs. Non-digital media includes paper and microfilm. Physically controlling stored media includes conducting inventories, ensuring procedures are in place to allow individuals to check out and return media to the library, and maintaining accountability for stored media. Secure storage includes a locked drawer, desk, or cabinet or a controlled media library. The type of media storage is commensurate with the security category or classification of the information on the media. Controlled areas are spaces that provide physical and procedural controls to meet the requirements established for protecting information and systems. Fewer controls may be needed for media that contains information determined to be in the public domain, publicly releasable, or have limited adverse impacts on agencies, operations, or individuals if accessed by other than authorized personnel. In these situations, physical access controls provide adequate protection.

MP-5 MEDIA TRANSPORT

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Protect and control digital and non-digital media to help prevent compromise of the data during transport outside of the physically secure locations or controlled areas using encryption, as defined in SC-13 and SC-28 of this Policy. Physical media will be protected at the same level as the information would be protected in electronic form. Restrict the activities associated with transport of electronic and physical media to authorized personnel;

b. Maintain accountability for system media during transport outside of the physically secure location or controlled areas;

c. Document activities associated with the transport of system media; and

d. Restrict the activities associated with the transport of system media to authorized personnel.

Discussion: System media includes digital and non-digital media. Digital media includes flash drives, diskettes, magnetic tapes, external or removable hard disk drives (e.g., solid state and magnetic), compact discs, and digital versatile discs. Non-digital media includes microfilm and paper. Controlled areas are spaces for which agencies provide physical or procedural controls to meet requirements established for protecting information and systems. Controls to protect media during transport include cryptography and locked containers. Cryptographic mechanisms can provide confidentiality and integrity protections depending on the mechanisms implemented. Activities associated with media transport include releasing media for transport, ensuring that media enters the appropriate transport processes, and the actual transport. Authorized transport and courier personnel may include individuals external to the agency. Maintaining accountability of media during transport includes restricting transport activities to authorized personnel and tracking and/or obtaining records of transport activities as the media moves through the transportation system to prevent and detect loss, destruction, or tampering. Agencies establish documentation requirements for activities associated with the transport of system media in accordance with agency assessments of risk. Agencies maintain the flexibility to define record-keeping methods for the different types of media transport as part of a system of transport-related records.

MP-6 MEDIA SANITIZATION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Sanitize or destroy digital and non-digital media prior to disposal, release out of agency control, or release for reuse using overwrite technology at least three times or degauss digital media prior to disposal or release for reuse by unauthorized individuals. Inoperable digital media will be destroyed (cut up, shredded, etc.). Physical media will be securely disposed of when no longer needed for investigative or security purposes, whichever is later. Physical media will be destroyed by crosscut shredding or incineration; and

b. Employ sanitization mechanisms with the strength and integrity commensurate with the security category or classification of the information.

Discussion: Media sanitization applies to all digital and non-digital system media subject to disposal or reuse, whether or not the media is considered removable. Examples include digital media in scanners, copiers, printers, notebook computers, workstations, network components, mobile devices, and non-digital media (e.g., paper and microfilm). The sanitization process removes information from system media such that the information cannot be retrieved or reconstructed. Sanitization techniques—including clearing, purging, cryptographic erase, de-identification of personally identifiable information, and destruction—prevent the disclosure of information to unauthorized individuals when such media is reused or released for disposal. Agencies determine the appropriate sanitization methods, recognizing that destruction is sometimes necessary when other methods cannot be applied to media requiring sanitization.

Agencies use discretion on the employment of approved sanitization techniques and procedures for media that contains information deemed to be in the public domain or publicly releasable or information deemed to have no adverse impact on agencies or individuals if released for reuse or disposal. Sanitization of non-digital media includes destruction, removing a classified appendix from an otherwise unclassified document, or redacting selected sections or words from a document by obscuring the redacted sections or words in a manner equivalent in effectiveness to removing them from the document. NSA standards and policies control the sanitization process for media that contains classified information. NARA policies control the sanitization process for controlled unclassified information.

Related Controls: AC-3, AC-7, AU-11, MA-2, MA-3, MA-4, MA-5, SI-12, SR-11.

MP-7 MEDIA USE

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Restrict the use of digital and non-digital media on agency owned systems that have been approved for use in the storage, processing, or transmission of criminal justice information by using technical, physical, or administrative controls (examples below); and

b. Prohibit the use of personally owned digital media devices on all agency owned or controlled systems that store, process, or transmit criminal justice information; and

c. Prohibit the use of digital media devices on all agency owned or controlled systems that store, process, or transmit criminal justice information when such devices have no identifiable owner.

Examples of technical controls: port disabling, access control lists (ACL), security groups, group policy objects (GPO), mobile device management (MDM).

Example of physical control: locked server cage, disconnect CD-ROM drive in PC, remove USB port.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Example of administrative controls: the agency's electronic media policy defining how flash drives are to be used within the agency rules of behavior.

Discussion: System media includes both digital and non-digital media. Digital media includes diskettes, magnetic tapes, flash drives, compact discs, digital versatile discs, and removable hard disk drives. Non-digital media includes paper and microfilm. Media use protections also apply to mobile devices with information storage capabilities. In contrast to MP-2, which restricts user access to media, MP-7 restricts the use of certain types of media on systems, for example, restricting or prohibiting the use of flash drives or external hard disk drives. Agencies use technical and nontechnical controls to restrict the use of system media. Agencies may restrict the use of portable storage devices, for example, by using physical cages on workstations to prohibit access to certain external ports or disabling or removing the ability to insert, read, or write to such devices. Agencies may also limit the use of portable storage devices to only approved devices, including devices provided by the agency, devices provided by other approved agencies, and devices that are not personally owned. Finally, agencies may restrict the use of portable storage devices based on the type of device, such as by prohibiting the use of writeable, portable storage devices and implementing this restriction by disabling or removing the capability to write to such devices. Requiring identifiable owners for storage devices reduces the risk of using such devices by allowing agencies to assign responsibility for addressing known vulnerabilities in the devices.

Figure 12 – A Local Police Department's Media Management Policies

A local police department implemented a replacement CAD system that integrated to their state's CSA and was authorized to process CJI. The police department contracted with an off-site media manager to store backups of their data in the contractor's vaults, but the contractor was not authorized to process or store CJI. To ensure the confidentially of the police department's data while outside its perimeter, they encrypted all data going to the contractor with an encryption product that is FIPS 140-2 certified. The police department rotated and reused media through the contractor's vaults periodically, and when it required destruction, the police department incinerated the media to irreversibly destroy any data on it.

5.9 PHYSICAL AND ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION (PE)

PE-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to organizational personnel with physical and environmental protection responsibilities:
   1. Agency-level physical and environmental protection policy that:
      (a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
      (b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
   2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the physical and environmental protection policy and the associated physical and environmental protection controls;

b. Designate organizational personnel with information security responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the physical and environmental protection policy and procedures; and

c. Review and update the current physical and environmental protection:
   1. Policy annually and following any physical, environmental, or security related incidents involving CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and
   2. Procedures annually and following any physical, environmental, or security related incidents involving CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Physical and environmental protection policy and procedures address the controls in the PE family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of physical and environmental protection policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. Control:

a. Develop, approve, and maintain a list of individuals with authorized access to the facility where the system resides;

b. Issue authorization credentials for facility access;

c. Review the access list detailing authorized facility access by individuals annually and when personnel changes occur; and

d. Remove individuals from the facility access list when access is no longer required.

Discussion: Physical access authorizations apply to employees and visitors. Individuals with permanent physical access authorization credentials are not considered visitors. Authorization credentials include ID badges, identification cards, and smart cards. Control:

a. Enforce physical access authorizations by:
    1. Verifying individual access authorizations before granting access to the facility; and
    2. Controlling ingress and egress to the facility using agency-implemented procedures and controls;
b. Maintain physical access audit logs for the physically secure location and agency-defined sensitive areas;

c. Control access to areas within the facility designated as non-publicly accessible by implementing physical access devices including, but not limited to keys, locks, combinations, biometric readers, placards, and/or card readers;

d. Escort visitors and control visitor activity in all physically secure locations;

h. If the above conditions cannot be met refer to the requirements listed in PE-17.

Discussion: Physical access control applies to employees and visitors. Individuals with permanent physical access authorizations are not considered visitors. Physical access controls for publicly accessible areas may include physical access control logs/records, guards, or physical access devices and barriers to prevent movement from publicly accessible areas to non-public areas.

Organizations determine the types of guards needed, including professional security staff, system users, or administrative staff. Physical access devices include keys, locks, combinations, biometric readers, and card readers. Physical access control systems comply with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, policies, regulations, standards, and guidelines. Organizations have flexibility in the types of audit logs employed. Audit logs can be procedural, automated, or some combination thereof. Physical access points can include facility access points, interior access points to systems that require supplemental access controls, or both. Components of systems may be in areas designated as publicly accessible with organizations controlling access to the components.

PE-4 ACCESS CONTROL FOR TRANSMISSION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Control physical access to information system distribution and transmission lines and devices within organizational facilities using agency-implemented procedures and controls.

Discussion: Security controls applied to system distribution and transmission lines prevent accidental damage, disruption, and physical tampering. Such controls may also be necessary to prevent eavesdropping or modification of unencrypted transmissions. Security controls used to control physical access to system distribution and transmission lines include disconnected or locked spare jacks, locked wiring closets, protection of cabling by conduit or cable trays, and wiretapping sensors.

PE-5 ACCESS CONTROL FOR OUTPUT DEVICES

[Existing] [Priority 3]

Control:

Control physical access to output from monitors, printers, scanners, audio devices, facsimile machines, and copiers to prevent unauthorized individuals from obtaining the output.

Discussion: Controlling physical access to output devices includes placing output devices in locked rooms or other secured areas with keypad or card reader access controls and allowing access to authorized individuals only, placing output devices in locations that can be monitored by personnel, installing monitor or screen filters, and using headphones. Examples of output devices include monitors, printers, scanners, audio devices, facsimile machines, and copiers.

Related Controls: PE-2, PE-3, PE-4.

PE-6 MONITORING PHYSICAL ACCESS

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Monitor physical access to the facility where the system resides to detect and respond to physical security incidents;
b. Review physical access logs quarterly and upon occurrence of any physical, environmental, or security-related incidents involving CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and
c. Coordinate results of reviews and investigations with the organizational incident response capability.

Discussion: Physical access monitoring includes publicly accessible areas within organizational facilities. Examples of physical access monitoring include the employment of guards, video surveillance equipment (i.e., cameras), and sensor devices. Reviewing physical access logs can help identify suspicious activity, anomalous events, or potential threats. The reviews can be supported by audit logging controls, such as AU-2, if the access logs are part of an automated system. Organizational incident response capabilities include investigations of physical security incidents and responses to the incidents. Incidents include security violations or suspicious physical access activities. Suspicious physical access activities include accesses outside of normal work hours, repeated accesses to areas not normally accessed, accesses for unusual lengths of time, and out-of-sequence accesses.

Related Controls: AU-2, AU-6, AU-9, AU-12, CA-7, CP-10, IR-4, IR-8.

Control Enhancements:

(1) MONITORING PHYSICAL ACCESS | INTRUSION ALARMS AND SURVEILLANCE EQUIPMENT

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Monitor physical access to the facility where the system resides using physical intrusion alarms and surveillance equipment.

Discussion: Physical intrusion alarms can be employed to alert security personnel when unauthorized access to the facility is attempted. Alarm systems work in conjunction with physical barriers, physical access control systems, and security guards by triggering a response when these other forms of security have been compromised or breached. Physical intrusion alarms can include different types of sensor devices, such as motion sensors, contact sensors, and broken glass sensors. Surveillance equipment includes video cameras installed at strategic locations throughout the facility.

Related Controls: None.

PE-8 VISITOR ACCESS RECORDS

[Priority 4]

Control:

a. Maintain visitor access records to the facility where the system resides for one (1) year;
b. Review visitor access records quarterly; and
c. Report anomalies in visitor access records to organizational personnel with physical and environmental protection responsibilities and organizational personnel with information security responsibilities.

Discussion: Visitor access records include the names and organizations of individuals visiting, visitor signatures, forms of identification, dates of access, entry and departure times, purpose of visits, and the names and organizations of individuals visited. Access record reviews determine if access authorizations are current and are still required to support organizational mission and business functions. Access records are not required for publicly accessible areas.

Related Controls: PE-2, PE-3, PE-6.

Control Enhancements:

(3) VISITOR ACCESS RECORDS | LIMIT PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE INFORMATION ELEMENTS.

[Priority 4]

Control:

Limit personally identifiable information contained in visitor access records to the minimum PII necessary to achieve the purpose for which it is collected (see Section 4.3).

Note: Access to visitor access records is restricted to authorized agency personnel.

Discussion: Organizations may have requirements that specify the contents of visitor access records. Limiting personally identifiable information in visitor access records when such information is not needed for operational purposes helps reduce the level of privacy risk created by a system.

Related Controls: RA-3, SA-8.

Note: This control only applies to data centers as defined in Appendix A Terms and Definitions.

Discussion: Organizations determine the types of protection necessary for the power equipment and cabling employed at different locations that are both internal and external to organizational facilities and environments of operation. Types of power equipment and cabling include internal cabling and uninterruptable power sources in offices or data centers, generators and power cabling outside of buildings, and power sources for self-contained components such as satellites, vehicles, and other deployable systems.

Control:

a. Provide the capability of shutting off power to all information systems in emergency situations;

b. Place emergency shutoff switches or devices in easily accessible locations to facilitate access for authorized personnel; and

c. Protect emergency power shutoff capability from unauthorized activation.

Note: This control only applies to data centers as defined in Appendix A Terms and Definitions.

Discussion: Emergency power shutoff primarily applies to organizational facilities that contain concentrations of system resources, including data centers, mainframe computer rooms, server rooms, and areas with computer-controlled machinery.

Related Controls: PE-15.

PE-11 EMERGENCY POWER

[Priority 2]

Control:

Provide an uninterruptible power supply to facilitate an orderly shutdown of the information system or transition of the information system to an alternate power source in the event of a primary power source loss.

Note: This control only applies to data centers as defined in Appendix A Terms and Definitions.

Discussion: An uninterruptible power supply (UPS) is an electrical system or mechanism that provides emergency power when there is a failure of the main power source. A UPS is typically used to protect computers, data centers, telecommunication equipment, or other electrical equipment where an unexpected power disruption could cause injuries, fatalities, serious mission or business disruption, or loss of data or information. A UPS differs from an emergency power system or backup generator in that the UPS provides near-instantaneous protection from unanticipated power interruptions from the main power source by providing energy stored in batteries, supercapacitors, or flywheels. The battery duration of a UPS is relatively short but provides sufficient time to start a standby power source, such as a backup generator, or properly shut down the system.

Related Controls: AT-3, CP-2, CP-7.

PE-12 EMERGENCY LIGHTING

[Priority 2]

Control:

Employ and maintain automatic emergency lighting for the system that activates in the event of a power outage or disruption and that covers emergency exits and evacuation routes within the facility.

Note: This control only applies to data centers as defined in Appendix A Terms and Definitions.

Discussion: The provision of emergency lighting applies primarily to organizational facilities that contain concentrations of system resources, including data centers, server rooms, and mainframe computer rooms. Emergency lighting provisions for the system are described in the contingency plan for the organization. If emergency lighting for the system fails or cannot be provided, organizations consider alternate processing sites for power-related contingencies.

Related Controls: CP-2, CP-7.

PE-13 FIRE PROTECTION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Employ and maintain fire detection and suppression systems that are supported by an independent energy source.

Note: This control only applies to data centers as defined in Appendix A Terms and Definitions.

Discussion: The provision of fire detection and suppression systems applies primarily to organizational facilities that contain concentrations of system resources, including data centers, server rooms, and mainframe computer rooms. Fire detection and suppression systems that may require an independent energy source include sprinkler systems and smoke detectors. An independent energy source is an energy source, such as a microgrid, that is separate, or can be separated, from the energy sources providing power for the other parts of the facility.

(1) FIRE PROTECTION | DETECTION SYSTEMS — AUTOMATIC ACTIVATION AND NOTIFICATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Employ fire detection systems that activate automatically and notify organizational personnel with physical and environmental protection responsibilities and police, fire, or emergency medical personnel in the event of a fire.

Note: This control only applies to data centers as defined in Appendix A Terms and Definitions.

Discussion: Organizations can identify personnel, roles, and emergency responders if individuals on the notification list need to have access authorizations or clearances (e.g., to enter to facilities where access is restricted due to the classification or impact level of information within the facility). Notification mechanisms may require independent energy sources to ensure that the notification capability is not adversely affected by the fire.

Related Controls: None.

PE-14 ENVIRONMENTAL CONTROLS

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Maintain adequate HVAC levels within the facility where the system resides at recommended system manufacturer levels; and

b. Monitor environmental control levels continuously.

Note: This control only applies to data centers as defined in Appendix A Terms and Definitions.

Discussion: The provision of environmental controls applies primarily to organizational facilities that contain concentrations of system resources (e.g., data centers, mainframe computer rooms, and server rooms). Insufficient environmental controls, especially in very harsh environments, can have a significant adverse impact on the availability of systems and system components that are needed to support organizational mission and business functions.

Related Controls: AT-3, CP-2.

PE-15 WATER DAMAGE PROTECTION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Protect the system from damage resulting from water leakage by providing master shutoff or isolation valves that are accessible, working properly, and known to key personnel.

Note: This control only applies to data centers as defined in Appendix A Terms and Definitions.

Discussion: The provision of water damage protection primarily applies to organizational facilities that contain concentrations of system resources, including data centers, server rooms, and mainframe computer rooms. Isolation valves can be employed in addition to or in lieu of master shutoff valves to shut off water supplies in specific areas of concern without affecting entire organizations.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Related Controls: AT-3, PE-10.

PE-16 DELIVERY AND REMOVAL

[Existing] [Priority 3]

Control:

a. Authorize and control information system-related components entering and exiting the facility; and

b. Maintain records of the system components.

Discussion: Enforcing authorizations for entry and exit of system components may require restricting access to delivery areas and isolating the areas from the system and media libraries.

Related Controls: CM-3, CM-8, MA-2, MA-3, MP-5, SR-2, SR-3, SR-6.

PE-17 ALTERNATE WORK SITE

[Existing] [Priority 3]

Control:

a. Determine and document all alternate facilities or locations allowed for use by employees;

b. Employ the following controls at alternate work sites:

    1. Limit access to the area during CJI processing times to only those personnel authorized by the agency to access or view CJI.

    2. Lock the area, room, or storage container when unattended.

    3. Position information system devices and documents containing CJI in such a way as to prevent unauthorized individuals from access and view.

    4. Follow the encryption requirements found in SC-13 and SC-28 for electronic storage (i.e., data at-rest) of CJI.

c. Assess the effectiveness of controls at alternate work sites; and

d. Provide a means for employees to communicate with information security and privacy personnel in case of incidents.

Discussion: Alternate work sites include government facilities or the private residences of employees. While distinct from alternative processing sites, alternate work sites can provide readily available alternate locations during contingency operations. Organizations can define different sets of controls for specific alternate work sites or types of sites depending on the work-related activities conducted at the sites. Implementing and assessing the effectiveness of organization-defined controls and providing a means to communicate incidents at alternate work sites supports the contingency planning activities of organizations.

5.10 SYSTEMS AND COMMUNICATIONS PROTECTION (SC)

Examples of systems and communications safeguards range from boundary and transmission protection to securing an agency's virtualized environment. In addition, applications, services, or information systems must have the capability to ensure system integrity through the detection and protection against unauthorized changes to software and information. This section details the requirements for protecting systems and communications infrastructures.

SC-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to organizational personnel with system and communications protection responsibilities:
    1. Agency-level system and communications protection policy that:
        (a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
        (b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
    2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the system and communications protection policy and the associated system and communications protection controls;
b. Designate organizational personnel with information security responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the system and communications protection policy and procedures; and
c. Review and update the current system and communications protection:
    1. Policy annually and following any changes and security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and
    2. Procedures annually and following any changes and security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: System and communications protection policy and procedures address the controls in the SC family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of system and communications protection policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to system and communications protection policy and procedures include assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

Related Controls: PS-8, SA-8, SI-12.

SC-2 SEPARATION OF SYSTEM AND USER FUNCTIONALITY

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Separate user functionality, including user interface services, from system management functionality.

Discussion: System management functionality includes functions that are necessary to administer databases, network components, workstations, or servers. These functions typically require privileged user access. The separation of user functions from system management functions is physical or logical. Organizations may separate system management functions from user functions by using different computers, instances of operating systems, central processing units, or network addresses; by employing virtualization techniques; or some combination of these or other methods. Separation of system management functions from user functions includes web administrative interfaces that employ separate authentication methods for users of any other system resources. Separation of system and user functions may include isolating administrative interfaces on different domains and with additional access controls. The separation of system and user functionality can be achieved by applying the systems security engineering design principles in SA-8.

Related Controls: AC-6, SA-4, SA-8, SC-7, SC-22, SC-39.

SC-4 INFORMATION IN SHARED SYSTEM RESOURCES

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Prevent unauthorized and unintended information transfer via shared system resources.

Discussion: Preventing unauthorized and unintended information transfer via shared system resources stops information produced by the actions of prior users or roles (or the actions of processes acting on behalf of prior users or roles) from being available to current users or roles (or current processes acting on behalf of current users or roles) that obtain access to shared system resources after those resources have been released back to the system. Information in shared system resources also applies to encrypted representations of information. In other contexts, control of information in shared system resources is referred to as object reuse and residual information protection. Information in shared system resources does not address information remanence, which refers to the residual representation of data that has been nominally deleted; covert channels (including storage and timing channels), where shared system resources are manipulated to violate information flow restrictions; or components within systems for which there are only single users or roles.

Related Controls: AC-3, AC-4, SA-8.

SC-5 DENIAL-OF-SERVICE PROTECTION

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Protect against or limit the effects of the following types of denial-of-service events: distributed denial of service, DNS Denial of Service, etc.; and

b. Employ the following controls to achieve the denial-of-service objective: boundary protection devices and intrusion detection or prevention devices.

Discussion: Denial-of-service events may occur due to a variety of internal and external causes, such as an attack by an adversary or a lack of planning to support organizational needs with respect to capacity and bandwidth. Such attacks can occur across a wide range of network protocols (e.g., IPv4, IPv6). A variety of technologies are available to limit or eliminate the origination and effects of denial-of-service events. For example, boundary protection devices can filter certain types of packets to protect system components on internal networks from being directly affected by or the source of denial-of-service attacks. Employing increased network capacity and bandwidth combined with service redundancy also reduces the susceptibility to denial-of-service events.

Related Controls: CP-2, IR-4, SC-7.

SC-7 BOUNDARY PROTECTION

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Monitor and control communications at the external managed interfaces to the system and at key internal managed interfaces within the system;

b. Implement subnetworks for publicly accessible system components that are physically or logically separated from internal organizational networks; and

c. Connect to external networks or systems only through managed interfaces consisting of boundary protection devices arranged in accordance with an organizational security and privacy architecture.

Discussion: Managed interfaces include gateways, routers, firewalls, guards, network-based malicious code analysis, virtualization systems, or encrypted tunnels implemented within a security architecture. Subnetworks that are physically or logically separated from internal networks are referred to as demilitarized zones or DMZs. Restricting or prohibiting interfaces within organizational systems includes restricting external web traffic to designated web servers within managed interfaces, prohibiting external traffic that appears to be spoofing internal addresses, and prohibiting internal traffic that appears to be spoofing external addresses. [SP 800-

189] provides additional information on source address validation techniques to prevent ingress and egress of traffic with spoofed addresses. Commercial telecommunications services are provided by network components and consolidated management systems shared by customers. These services may also include third party-provided access lines and other service elements. Such services may represent sources of increased risk despite contract security provisions. Boundary protection may be implemented as a common control for all or part of an organizational network such that the boundary to be protected is greater than a system-specific boundary (i.e., an authorization boundary).

Control Enhancements:

(3) BOUNDARY PROTECTION | ACCESS POINTS

[Priority 1]

Control:

Limit the number of external network connections to the system.

Discussion: Limiting the number of external network connections facilitates monitoring of inbound and outbound communications traffic. A Trusted Internet Connection (TIC) initiative is an example of a federal guideline that requires limits on the number of external network connections. Limiting the number of external network connections to the system is important during transition periods from older to newer technologies (e.g., transitioning from IPv4 to IPv6 network protocols). Such transitions may require implementing the older and newer technologies simultaneously during the transition period and thus increase the number of access points to the system.

Related Controls: None.

(4) BOUNDARY PROTECTION | EXTERNAL TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICES

[Priority 1]

Control:

a. Implement a managed interface for each external telecommunication service;

b. Establish a traffic flow policy for each managed interface;

c. Protect the confidentiality and integrity of the information being transmitted across each interface;

d. Document each exception to the traffic flow policy with a supporting mission or business need and duration of that need;

e. Review exceptions to the traffic flow policy annually, after any incident, and after any major changes impacting the information system, while removing exceptions that are no longer supported by an explicit mission or business need;

f. Prevent unauthorized exchange of control plane traffic with external networks;

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

g. Publish information to enable remote networks to detect unauthorized control plane traffic from internal networks; and

h. Filter unauthorized control plane traffic from external networks.

Discussion: External telecommunications services can provide data and/or voice communications services. Examples of control plane traffic include Border Gateway Protocol (BGP) routing, Domain Name System (DNS), and management protocols. See [SP 800-189] for additional information on the use of the resource public key infrastructure (RPKI) to protect BGP routes and detect unauthorized BGP announcements.

Related Controls: AC-3, SC-8, SC-20, SC-21, SC-22.

(5) BOUNDARY PROTECTION | DENY BY DEFAULT — ALLOW BY EXCEPTION

[Priority 1]

Control:

Deny network communications traffic by default and allow network communications traffic by exception at boundary devices for information systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Denying by default and allowing by exception applies to inbound and outbound network communications traffic. A deny-all, permit-by-exception network communications traffic policy ensures that only those system connections that are essential and approved are allowed. Deny by default, allow by exception also applies to a system that is connected to an external system.

Related Controls: None.

(7) BOUNDARY PROTECTION | SPLIT TUNNELING FOR REMOTE DEVICES

[Priority 1]

Control:

Prevent split tunneling for remote devices connecting to organizational systems.

Discussion: Split tunneling is the process of allowing a remote user or device to establish a non-remote connection with a system and simultaneously communicate via some other connection to a resource in an external network. This method of network access enables a user to access remote devices and simultaneously, access uncontrolled networks. Split tunneling might be desirable by remote users to communicate with local system resources, such as printers or file servers. However, split tunneling can facilitate unauthorized external connections, making the system vulnerable to attack and to exfiltration of organizational information. Split tunneling can be prevented by disabling configuration settings that allow such capability in remote devices and by preventing those configuration settings from being configurable by users. Prevention can also be achieved by the detection of split tunneling (or of configuration settings that allow split tunneling) in the remote device, and by prohibiting the connection if the remote device is using split tunneling. A virtual private network (VPN) can be used to securely provision a split tunnel. A securely provisioned VPN includes locking connectivity to exclusive, managed, and named environments, or to a specific set of pre-approved addresses, without user control.

(8) BOUNDARY PROTECTION | ROUTE TRAFFIC TO AUTHENTICATED PROXY SERVERS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Route all internal communications traffic that may be proxied, except traffic specifically exempted by organizational personnel with information security responsibilities, to all untrusted networks through authenticated proxy servers at managed interfaces.

Discussion: External networks are networks outside of organizational control. A proxy server is a server (i.e., system or application) that acts as an intermediary for clients requesting system resources from non-organizational or other organizational servers. System resources that may be requested include files, connections, web pages, or services. Client requests established through a connection to a proxy server are assessed to manage complexity and provide additional protection by limiting direct connectivity. Web content filtering devices are one of the most common proxy servers that provide access to the Internet. Proxy servers can support the logging of Transmission Control Protocol sessions and the blocking of specific Uniform Resource Locators, Internet Protocol addresses, and domain names. Web proxies can be configured with organization-defined lists of authorized and unauthorized websites. Note that proxy servers may inhibit the use of virtual private networks (VPNs) and create the potential for "man-in-the-middle" attacks (depending on the implementation).

Related Controls: AC-3.

(24) BOUNDARY PROTECTION | PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE INFORMATION

[Priority 1]

Control:

For systems that process personally identifiable information:

a. Apply the following processing rules to data elements of personally identifiable information: all applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines;

b. Monitor for permitted processing at the external interfaces to the system and at key internal boundaries within the system;

c. Document each processing exception; and

d. Review and remove exceptions that are no longer supported.

Discussion: Managing the processing of personally identifiable information is an important aspect of protecting an individual's privacy. Applying, monitoring for, and documenting exceptions to processing rules ensure that personally identifiable information is processed only in accordance with established privacy requirements.

Related Controls: None.

SC-8 TRANSMISSION CONFIDENTIALITY AND INTEGRITY

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Control:

Protect the confidentiality and integrity of transmitted information.

Metadata derived from unencrypted CJI shall be protected in the same manner as CJI and shall not be used for any advertising or other commercial purposes by any cloud service provider or other associated entity.

Discussion: Protecting the confidentiality and integrity of transmitted information applies to internal and external networks as well as any system components that can transmit information, including servers, notebook computers, desktop computers, mobile devices, printers, copiers, scanners, facsimile machines, and radios. Unprotected communication paths are exposed to the possibility of interception and modification. Protecting the confidentiality and integrity of information can be accomplished by physical or logical means. Physical protection can be achieved by using protected distribution systems. A protected distribution system is a wireline or fiber-optics telecommunications system that includes terminals and adequate electromagnetic, acoustical, electrical, and physical controls to permit its use for the unencrypted transmission of classified information. Logical protection can be achieved by employing encryption techniques. Organizations that rely on commercial providers who offer transmission services as commodity services rather than as fully dedicated services may find it difficult to obtain the necessary assurances regarding the implementation of needed controls for transmission confidentiality and integrity. In such situations, organizations determine what types of confidentiality or integrity services are available in standard, commercial telecommunications service packages. If it is not feasible to obtain the necessary controls and assurances of control effectiveness through appropriate contracting vehicles, organizations can implement appropriate compensating controls. The agency may permit limited use of metadata derived from unencrypted CJI when specifically approved by the agency and its “intended use” is detailed within the service agreement. Such authorized uses of metadata may include but are not limited to the following: spam and spyware filtering, data loss prevention, spillage reporting, transaction logs (events and content–similar to the AU controls), data usage/indexing metrics, and diagnostic/syslog data.

Control Enhancements:

(1) TRANSMISSION CONFIDENTIALITY AND INTEGRITY | CRYPTOGRAPHIC PROTECTION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Implement cryptographic mechanisms to prevent unauthorized disclosure and detect unauthorized changes or access to CJI during transmission.

Discussion: Encryption protects information from unauthorized disclosure and modification during transmission. Cryptographic mechanisms that protect the confidentiality and integrity of information during transmission include TLS and IPSec. Cryptographic mechanisms used to protect information integrity include cryptographic hash functions that have applications in digital signatures, checksums, and message authentication codes.

Related Controls: SC-12, SC-13.

SC-10 NETWORK DISCONNECT

[Priority 3]

Control:

Terminate the network connection associated with a communications session at the end of the session or after one (1) hour of inactivity.

NOTE: In the interest of safety, devices that are: (1) part of a criminal justice conveyance; or (2) used to perform dispatch functions and located within a physically secure location; or (3) terminals designated solely for the purpose of receiving alert notifications (i.e., receive only terminals or ROT) and used within physically secure location facilities that remain staffed when in operation, are exempt from this requirement.

Discussion: Network disconnect applies to internal and external networks. Terminating network connections associated with specific communications sessions includes de-allocating TCP/IP address or port pairs at the operating system level and de-allocating the networking assignments at the application level if multiple application sessions are using a single operating system-level network connection. Periods of inactivity may be established by organizations and include time periods by type of network access or for specific network accesses.

SC-12 CRYPTOGRAPHIC KEY ESTABLISHMENT AND MANAGEMENT

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Establish and manage cryptographic keys when cryptography is employed within the system in accordance with the following key management requirements: encryption key generation, distribution, storage, access, and destruction is controlled by the agency.

Discussion: Cryptographic key management and establishment can be performed using manual procedures or automated mechanisms with supporting manual procedures. Organizations define key management requirements in accordance with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines and specify appropriate options, parameters, and levels. Organizations manage trust stores to ensure that only approved trust anchors are part of such trust stores. This includes certificates with visibility external to organizational systems and certificates related to the internal operations of systems. [NIST CMVP] and [NIST CAVP] provide additional information on validated cryptographic modules and algorithms that can be used in cryptographic key management and establishment.

SC-13 CRYPTOGRAPHIC PROTECTION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Determine the use of encryption for CJI in-transit when outside a physically secure location; and

b. Implement the following types of cryptography required for each specified cryptographic use: cryptographic modules which are Federal Information Processing Standard (FIPS) 140-3 certified, or FIPS validated algorithm for symmetric key encryption and decryption (FIPS 197 [AES]), with a symmetric cipher key of at least 128-bit strength for CJI in-transit.

NOTE: Subsequent versions of approved cryptographic modules that are under current review for FIPS 140-3 compliancy can be used in the interim until certification is complete. FIPS 140-2 certificates will not be acceptable after September 21, 2026.

Discussion: Cryptography can be employed to support a variety of security solutions, including the protection of classified information and controlled unclassified information, the provision and implementation of digital signatures, and the enforcement of information separation when authorized individuals have the necessary clearances but lack the necessary formal access approvals. Cryptography can also be used to support random number and hash generation. Generally applicable cryptographic standards include FIPS-validated cryptography and NSA-approved cryptography. For example, organizations that need to protect classified information may specify the use of NSA-approved cryptography. Organizations that need to provision and implement digital signatures may specify the use of FIPS-validated cryptography. Cryptography is implemented in accordance with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines.

SC-15 COLLABORATIVE COMPUTING DEVICES AND APPLICATIONS

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Prohibit remote activation of collaborative computing devices and applications; and

b. Provide an explicit indication of use to users physically present at the devices.

Discussion: Collaborative computing devices and applications include remote meeting devices and applications, networked white boards, cameras, and microphones. The explicit indication of use includes signals to users when collaborative computing devices and applications are activated.

SC-17 PUBLIC KEY INFRASTRUCTURE CERTIFICATES

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Issue public key certificates under an agency-level certificate authority or obtain public key certificates from an approved service provider; and

b. Include only approved trust anchors in trust stores or certificate stores managed by the organization.

Discussion: Public key infrastructure (PKI) certificates are certificates with visibility external to organizational systems and certificates related to the internal operations of systems, such as application-specific time services. In cryptographic systems with a hierarchical structure, a trust anchor is an authoritative source (i.e., a certificate authority) for which trust is assumed and not derived. A root certificate for a PKI system is an example of a trust anchor. A trust store or certificate store maintains a list of trusted root certificates.

Related Controls: IA-5, SC-12.

SC-18 MOBILE CODE

[Priority 3]

Control:

a. Define acceptable and unacceptable mobile code and mobile code technologies; and

b. Authorize, monitor, and control the use of mobile code within the system.

Discussion: Mobile code includes any program, application, or content that can be transmitted across a network (e.g., embedded in an email, document, or website) and executed on a remote system. Decisions regarding the use of mobile code within organizational systems are based on the potential for the code to cause damage to the systems if used maliciously. Mobile code technologies include Java applets, JavaScript, HTML5, WebGL, and VBScript. Usage restrictions and implementation guidelines apply to both the selection and use of mobile code installed on servers and mobile code downloaded and executed on individual workstations and devices, including notebook computers and smart phones. Mobile code policy and procedures address specific actions taken to prevent the development, acquisition, and introduction of unacceptable mobile code within organizational systems, including requiring mobile code to be digitally signed by a trusted source.

SC-20 SECURE NAME/ADDRESS RESOLUTION SERVICE (AUTHORITATIVE SOURCE)

[Priority 2]

Control:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

a. Provide additional data origin authentication and integrity verification artifacts along with the authoritative name resolution data the system returns in response to external name/address resolution queries; and

b. Provide the means to indicate the security status of child zones and (if the child supports secure resolution services) to enable verification of a chain of trust among parent and child domains, when operating as part of a distributed, hierarchical namespace.

Discussion: Providing authoritative source information enables external clients, including remote Internet clients, to obtain origin authentication and integrity verification assurances for the host/service name to network address resolution information obtained through the service. Systems that provide name and address resolution services include domain name system (DNS) servers. Additional artifacts include DNS Security Extensions (DNSSEC) digital signatures and cryptographic keys. Authoritative data includes DNS resource records. The means for indicating the security status of child zones include the use of delegation signer resource records in the DNS. Systems that use technologies other than the DNS to map between host and service names and network addresses provide other means to assure the authenticity and integrity of response data.

Related Controls: SC-8, SC-12, SC-13, SC-21, SC-22.

SC-21 SECURE NAME/ADDRESS RESOLUTION SERVICE (RECURSIVE OR CACHING RESOLVER)

[Priority 2]

Control:

Request and perform data origin authentication and data integrity verification on the name/address resolution responses the system receives from authoritative sources.

Discussion: Each client of name resolution services either performs this validation on its own or has authenticated channels to trusted validation providers. Systems that provide name and address resolution services for local clients include recursive resolving or caching domain name system (DNS) servers. DNS client resolvers either perform validation of DNSSEC signatures, or clients use authenticated channels to recursive resolvers that perform such validations. Systems that use technologies other than the DNS to map between host and service names and network addresses provide some other means to enable clients to verify the authenticity and integrity of response data.

Related Controls: SC-20, SC-22.

SC-22 ARCHITECTURE AND PROVISIONING FOR NAME/ADDRESS RESOLUTION SERVICE

[Priority 2]

Control:

Ensure the systems that collectively provide name/address resolution service for an organization are fault-tolerant and implement internal and external role separation.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: Systems that provide name and address resolution services include domain name system (DNS) servers. To eliminate single points of failure in systems and enhance redundancy, organizations employ at least two authoritative domain name system servers—one configured as the primary server and the other configured as the secondary server. Additionally, organizations typically deploy the servers in two geographically separated network subnetworks (i.e., not located in the same physical facility). For role separation, DNS servers with internal roles only process name and address resolution requests from within organizations (i.e., from internal clients). DNS servers with external roles only process name and address resolution information requests from clients external to organizations (i.e., on external networks, including the Internet). Organizations specify clients that can access authoritative DNS servers in certain roles (e.g., by address ranges and explicit lists).

Related Controls: SC-2, SC-20, SC-21.

SC-23 SESSION AUTHENTICITY

[Priority 2]

Control:

Protect the authenticity of communications sessions.

Discussion: Protecting session authenticity addresses communications protection at the session level, not at the packet level. Such protection establishes grounds for confidence at both ends of communications sessions in the ongoing identities of other parties and the validity of transmitted information. Authenticity protection includes protecting against “man-in-the-middle” attacks, session hijacking, and the insertion of false information into sessions.

Related Controls: SC-8, SC-10.

SC-28 PROTECTION OF INFORMATION AT REST

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Protect the confidentiality and integrity of the following information at rest: CJI when outside physically secure locations using cryptographic modules which are certified FIPS 140-3 with a symmetric cipher key of at least 128-bit strength, or FIPS 197 with a symmetric cipher key of at least 256-bit strength.

Metadata derived from unencrypted CJI shall be protected in the same manner as CJI and shall not be used for any advertising or other commercial purposes by any cloud service provider or other associated entity.

The storage of CJI, regardless of encryption status, shall only be permitted in cloud environments (e.g., government or third-party/commercial datacenters, etc.) which reside within the physical boundaries of APB-member country (i.e., United States, U.S. territories, Indian Tribes, and Canada) and are under legal authority of an APB-member agency (i.e., United States–federal/state/territory, Indian Tribe, or the Royal Canadian Mounted Police).

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Note: This restriction does not apply to exchanges of CJI with foreign government agencies under international exchange agreements (e.g., the Preventing and Combating Serious Crime agreements, fugitive extracts, and exchanges made for humanitarian and criminal investigatory purposes in particular circumstances).

Discussion: Information at rest refers to the state of information when it is not in process or in transit and is located on system components. Such components include internal or external hard disk drives, storage area network devices, or databases. However, the focus of protecting information at rest is not on the type of storage device or frequency of access but rather on the state of the information. Information at rest addresses the confidentiality and integrity of information and covers user information and system information. System-related information that requires protection includes configurations or rule sets for firewalls, intrusion detection and prevention systems, filtering routers, and authentication information. Organizations may employ different mechanisms to achieve confidentiality and integrity protections, including the use of cryptographic mechanisms and file share scanning. Integrity protection can be achieved, for example, by implementing write-once-read-many (WORM) technologies. When adequate protection of information at rest cannot otherwise be achieved, organizations may employ other controls, including frequent scanning to identify malicious code at rest and secure offline storage in lieu of online storage. The agency may permit limited use of metadata derived from unencrypted CJI when specifically approved by the agency and its "intended use" is detailed within the service agreement. Such authorized uses of metadata may include but are not limited to the following: spam and spyware filtering, data loss prevention, spillage reporting, transaction logs (events and content–similar to the AU controls), data usage/indexing metrics, and diagnostic/syslog data.

Control Enhancements:

(1) PROTECTION OF INFORMATION AT REST | CRYPTOGRAPHIC PROTECTION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Implement cryptographic mechanisms to prevent unauthorized disclosure and modification of the following information at rest on information systems and digital media outside physically secure locations: CJI.

Discussion: The selection of cryptographic mechanisms is based on the need to protect the confidentiality and integrity of organizational information. The strength of mechanism is commensurate with the security category or classification of the information. Organizations have the flexibility to encrypt information on system components or media or encrypt data structures, including files, records, or fields.

SC-39 PROCESS ISOLATION

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

Maintain a separate execution domain for each executing system process.

Discussion: Systems can maintain separate execution domains for each executing process by assigning each process a separate address space. Each system process has a distinct address space so that communication between processes is performed in a manner controlled through the security functions, and one process cannot modify the executing code of another process. Maintaining separate execution domains for executing processes can be achieved, for example, by implementing separate address spaces. Process isolation technologies, including sandboxing or virtualization, logically separate software and firmware from other software, firmware, and data. Process isolation helps limit the access of potentially untrusted software to other system resources. The capability to maintain separate execution domains is available in commercial operating systems that employ multi-state processor technologies.

Figure 13 – System and Communications Protection and Information Integrity Use Cases

Use Case 1 – A Local Police Department's Information Systems & Communications Protections

A local police department implemented a replacement CAD system within a physically secure location that was authorized to process CJI using a FIPS 140-2 encrypted VPN tunnel over the Internet to the state's CSA. In addition to the policies, physical and personnel controls already in place, the police department employed firewalls both at their border and at key points within their network, intrusion detection systems, a patch-management strategy that included automatic patch updates where possible, virus scanners, spam and spyware detection mechanisms that update signatures automatically, and subscribed to various security alert mailing lists and addressed vulnerabilities raised through the alerts as needed.

Use Case 2 – Faxing from a Single/Multi-function Device over a Traditional Telephone Line

A dispatcher from county A runs a NCIC query on an individual. The results are printed and then sent to an adjoining county using a single/multi-function device with facsimile capability. For faxing, the device is only connected to a traditional telephone line as is the device at the receiving county. Encryption of a document containing CJI is not required because the document travels over a traditional telephone line.

Use Case 3 – Faxing from a Multi-function Device over a Network

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

A dispatcher from city A runs a NCIC query on an individual. The results are printed and the dispatcher uses a multi-function copier to fax the file to a city in another state. The dispatcher enters the fax number of the receiver and sends the document. The document containing CJI is automatically converted to a digital file and routed to the receiver over the agency network and the Internet. Because the device uses a network and the Internet for transmitting documents containing CJI, encryption in transit using FIPS 140-2 certified 128 bit symmetric encryption is required.

5.11 Policy Area 11: Formal Audits

Formal audits are conducted to ensure compliance with applicable statutes, regulations and policies.

5.11.1 Audits by the FBI CJIS Division

5.11.1.1 Triennial Compliance Audits by the FBI CJIS Division

The FBI CJIS Division is authorized to conduct audits, once every three (3) years as a minimum, to assess agency compliance with applicable statutes, regulations and policies. The CJIS Audit Unit (CAU) shall conduct a triennial audit of each CSA in order to verify compliance with applicable statutes, regulations and policies. This audit shall include a sample of CJAs and, in coordination with the SIB, the NCJAs. Audits may be conducted on a more frequent basis if the audit reveals that an agency has not complied with applicable statutes, regulations and policies. The FBI CJIS Division shall also have the authority to conduct unannounced security inspections and scheduled audits of Contractor facilities.

5.11.1.2 Triennial Security Audits by the FBI CJIS Division

The FBI CJIS Division is authorized to conduct security audits of the CSA and SIB networks and systems, once every three (3) years as a minimum, to assess agency compliance with the CJIS Security Policy. This audit shall include a sample of CJAs and NCJAs. Audits may be conducted on a more frequent basis if the audit reveals that an agency has not complied with the CJIS Security Policy.

5.11.2 Audits by the CSA

Each CSA shall:

1. At a minimum, triennially audit all CJAs and NCJAs which have direct access to the state system in order to ensure compliance with applicable statutes, regulations and policies.
2. In coordination with the SIB, establish a process to periodically audit all NCJAs, with access to CJI, in order to ensure compliance with applicable statutes, regulations and policies.
3. Have the authority to conduct unannounced security inspections and scheduled audits of Contractor facilities.
4. Have the authority, on behalf of another CSA, to conduct a CSP compliance audit of contractor facilities and provide the results to the requesting CSA. If a subsequent CSA requests an audit of the same contractor facility, the CSA may provide the results of the previous audit unless otherwise notified by the requesting CSA that a new audit be performed.

Note: This authority does not apply to the audit requirement outlined in the Security and Management Control Outsourcing Standard for Non-Channeler and Channelers related to outsourcing noncriminal justice administrative functions.

5.11.3 Special Security Inquiries and Audits

All agencies having access to CJI shall permit an inspection team to conduct an appropriate inquiry and audit of any alleged security violations. The inspection team shall be appointed by the APB and shall include at least one representative of the CJIS Division. All results of the inquiry and audit shall be reported to the APB with appropriate recommendations.

5.11.4 Compliance Subcommittees

The Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Advisory Policy Board (APB) established the Compliance Evaluation Subcommittee (CES) to evaluate the results of audits conducted by the CJIS Audit Unit (CAU). The CES makes specific recommendations to the APB concerning compliance with applicable policies and regulations. The most current information regarding the CAU audits that are within the purview of the CES and detailed CES sanctions process procedures are available at CJIS.gov (Law Enforcement Enterprise Portal) CJIS Special Interest Groups CES Section and CJIS Section of FBI.gov.

The National Crime Prevention and Privacy Compact (Compact) Council at Article VI established the Compact Council (Council). The Compact Council Sanctions Committee is responsible for ensuring the use of the Interstate Identification Index System for noncriminal justice purposes complies with the Compact and with rules, standards, and procedures established by the Compact Council. As such, the Sanctions Committee reviews the results of audits conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) of participants in the FBI's Criminal Justice Services (CJIS) Division programs. The Sanctions Committee reviews the audit results and the participant's response to determine a course of action necessary to bring the participant into compliance and make recommendations to the Compact Council or the FBI. Additional information on the Compact Council Sanctions process is available on the Compact Council's web-site.

A local police department implemented a replacement CAD system that integrated to their state's CSA and was authorized to process CJI. Shortly after the implementation, their state's CSA conducted an audit of their policies, procedures, and systems that process CJI. The police department supplied all architectural and policy documentation, including detailed network diagrams, to the auditors in order to assist them in the evaluation. The auditors discovered a deficiency in the police department's systems and marked them "out" in this aspect of the FBI CJIS Security Policy. The police department quickly addressed the deficiency and took corrective action, notifying the auditors of their actions.

5.12 Policy Area 12: Personnel Security

Having proper security measures against the insider threat is a critical component for the CJIS Security Policy. This section's security terms and requirements apply to all personnel who have unescorted access to unencrypted CJI. Regardless of the implementation model – physical data center, virtual cloud solution, or a hybrid model – unescorted access to unencrypted CJI must be determined by the agency taking into consideration if those individuals have unescorted logical or physical access to any information system resulting in the ability, right, or privilege to view, modify, or make use of unencrypted CJI.

5.12.1 Personnel Screening Requirements for Individuals Requiring Unescorted Access to Unencrypted CJI

1. To verify identification, state of residency and national fingerprint-based record checks shall be conducted prior to granting access to CJI for all personnel who have unescorted access to unencrypted CJI or unescorted access to physically secure locations or controlled areas (during times of CJI processing). However, if the person resides in a different state than that of the assigned agency, the agency shall conduct state (of the agency) and national fingerprint-based record checks and execute a NLETS CHRI IQ/FQ/AQ query using purpose code C, E, or J depending on the circumstances. When appropriate, the screening shall be consistent with:

    a. 5 CFR 731.106; and/or

    b. Office of Personnel Management policy, regulations, and guidance; and/or

    c. agency policy, regulations, and guidance.

    Supplemental Guidance:

    a. Federal entities bypassing state repositories in compliance with federal law may not be required to conduct a state fingerprint-based record check.

    b. See Appendix J for applicable guidance regarding noncriminal justice agencies performing adjudication of civil fingerprint submissions.

    c. Fingerprint-based record checks may not be required for all cloud provider personnel depending upon the type of service offering and access to encryption keys.

    d. See Appendix G.3 for guidance on personnel screening requirements specific to cloud environments.

2. All requests for access shall be made as specified by the CSO. The CSO, or their designee, is authorized to approve access to CJI. All CSO designees shall be from an authorized criminal justice agency.

3. If a record of any kind exists, access to CJI shall not be granted until the CSO or his/her designee reviews the matter to determine if access is appropriate.

    a. If a felony conviction of any kind exists, the Interface Agency shall deny access to CJI. However, the Interface Agency may ask for a review by the CSO in extenuating circumstances where the severity of the offense and the time that has passed would support a possible variance.

b. Applicants with a record of misdemeanor offense(s) may be granted access if the CSO, or his or her designee, determines the nature or severity of the misdemeanor offense(s) do not warrant disqualification. The Interface Agency may request the CSO review a denial of access determination. This same procedure applies if the person is found to be a fugitive or has an arrest history without conviction.

c. If a record of any kind is found on a contractor, the CGA shall be formally notified and system access shall be delayed pending review of the criminal history record information. The CGA shall in turn notify the contractor's security officer.

4. If the person appears to be a fugitive or has an arrest history without conviction, the CSO or his/her designee shall review the matter to determine if access to CJI is appropriate.
5. If the person already has access to CJI and is subsequently arrested and or convicted, continued access to CJI shall be determined by the CSO. This does not implicitly grant hiring/firing authority with the CSA, only the authority to grant access to CJI. For offenses other than felonies, the CSO has the latitude to delegate continued access determinations to his or her designee.
6. If the CSO or his/her designee determines that access to CJI by the person would not be in the public interest, access shall be denied and the person's appointing authority shall be notified in writing of the access denial.
7. The granting agency shall maintain a list of personnel who have been authorized unescorted access to unencrypted CJI and shall, upon request, provide a current copy of the access list to the CSO.

It is recommended individual background re-investigations be conducted every five years unless Rap Back is implemented.

5.12.2 Personnel Termination

Upon termination of personnel by an interface agency, the agency shall immediately terminate access to local agency systems with access to CJI. Furthermore, the interface agency shall provide notification or other action to ensure access to state and other agency systems is terminated. If the employee is an employee of a NCJA or a Contractor, the employer shall notify all Interface Agencies that may be affected by the personnel change.

5.12.3 Personnel Transfer

The agency shall review CJI access authorizations when personnel are reassigned or transferred to other positions within the agency and initiate appropriate actions such as closing and establishing accounts and changing system access authorizations.

5.12.4 Personnel Sanctions

The agency shall employ a formal sanctions process for personnel failing to comply with established information security policies and procedures.

Use Case 1 – A Local Police Department's Personnel Security Controls

A local police department implemented a replacement CAD system that integrated to their state's CSA and was authorized to process CJI. In addition to the physical and technical controls already in place, the police department implemented a variety of personnel security controls to reduce the insider threat. The police department used background screening consistent with the FBI CJIS Security Policy to vet those with unescorted access to areas in which CJI is processed, including the IT administrators employed by a contractor and all janitorial staff. The police department established sanctions against any vetted person found to be in violation of stated policies. The police department re-evaluated each person's suitability for access to CJI every five years.

Use Case 2 – Infrastructure as a Service (IaaS) Cloud Service Implementation

This model provides the consumer the capability to provision processing, storage, networks, and other fundamental computing resources where the consumer is able to deploy and run arbitrary software, including operating systems and applications.

When using the IaaS service model the consumer may have control over operating systems, storage, and deployed applications; and possibly limited control of select networking components (e.g., host firewalls), but does not manage or control the underlying cloud infrastructure – as defined in Appendix G.3.

A local agency implements an IaaS solution in a cloud environment leveraging an agency-implemented secure virtual private cloud which has been identified to meet the appropriate security controls in the CJIS Security Policy. The agency maintains sole access to the encryption keys. In this scenario, cloud service provider personnel have no logical or physical access to any information system resulting in the ability, right, or privilege to view, modify, or make use of unencrypted CJI; therefore, no fingerprint-based background checks are required to comply with the CJIS Security Policy. Refer to Appendix G.3 Cloud Computing for additional implementation guidance.

Use Case 3 – Platform as a Service (PaaS) Cloud Service Implementation

This model provides the consumer the capability to deploy consumer-created or acquired applications created using programming languages, libraries, services, and tools supported by the provider onto the cloud infrastructure.*

 This capability does not necessarily preclude the use of compatible programming languages, libraries, services, and tools from other sources.*

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

When using the PaaS service model, the consumer may have control over the deployed applications and possibly configuration settings for the application-hosting environment, but does not manage or control the underlying cloud infrastructure including network, servers, operating systems, or storage – as defined in Appendix G.3.

An agency utilizes a cloud service solution involving PaaS to write code, build, or develop a new application. There is no CJI associated with the code development. Although cloud service personnel provide support for the platform (i.e., hardware and software maintenance), no CJI is being accessed during development. The cloud service provider has no unescorted logical or physical access to any information system and no ability, right, or privilege to view, modify, or make use of unencrypted CJI. Refer to Appendix G.3 Cloud Computing for additional implementation guidance.

Use Case 4 – Software as a Service (SaaS) Cloud Service Implementation

The SaaS service model is often referred to as "Software deployed as a hosted service and accessed over the Internet."

The applications are accessible from various client devices through either a thin client interface, such as a web browser (e.g., web-based email), or a program interface.

When using the SaaS service model, it should be understood that the consumer does not manage or control the underlying cloud infrastructure including network, servers, operating systems, storage, or even individual application capabilities, with the possible exception of limited user-specific application configuration settings – as defined in Appendix G.3

An agency utilizes a SaaS provider for their records management system (RMS). The SaaS provider hosts their solution on a cloud provider. The SaaS provider directly supports the agency for updates and management of the solution and has unescorted logical or physical access to the information system resulting in the ability, right, or privilege to view, modify, or make use of unencrypted CJI within the RMS. The cloud provider, however, does not have unescorted logical or physical access to any information system resulting in the ability, right, or privilege to view, modify, or make use of unencrypted CJI as the SaaS provider maintains the encryption keys. In this scenario, the agency would be required to comply with Section 5.12 for employees of the SaaS provider with access to CJI but would not need to do so for employees of the cloud provider used by the SaaS provider. Refer to Appendix G.3 Cloud Computing for additional implementation guidance.

5.13 Policy Area 13: Mobile Devices

This policy area describes considerations and requirements for mobile devices including smartphones and tablets. Mobile devices are not limited to a single form factor or communications medium. The requirements in this section augment those in other areas of the Policy to address the gaps introduced by using mobile devices.

The agency shall: (i) establish usage restrictions and implementation guidance for mobile devices; and (ii) authorize, monitor, control wireless access to the information system. Wireless technologies, in the simplest sense, enable one or more devices to communicate without physical connections—without requiring network or peripheral cabling.

Appendix G provides reference material and additional information on mobile devices.

5.13.1 Wireless Communications Technologies

Examples of wireless communication technologies include, but are not limited to: 802.11, cellular, Bluetooth, satellite, microwave, and land mobile radio (LMR). Wireless technologies require at least the minimum security applied to wired technology and, based upon the specific technology or implementation, wireless technologies may require additional security controls as described below.

5.13.1.1 802.11 Wireless Protocols

Wired Equivalent Privacy (WEP) and Wi-Fi Protected Access (WPA) cryptographic algorithms, used by all pre-802.11i protocols, do not meet the requirements for FIPS 140-2 and shall not be used.

Agencies shall implement the following controls for all agency-managed wireless access points with access to an agency's network that processes unencrypted CJI:

1. Perform validation testing to ensure rogue APs (Access Points) do not exist in the 802.11 Wireless Local Area Network (WLAN) and to fully understand the wireless network security posture.
2. Maintain a complete inventory of all Access Points (APs) and 802.11 wireless devices.
3. Place APs in secured areas to prevent unauthorized physical access and user manipulation.
4. Test AP range boundaries to determine the precise extent of the wireless coverage and design the AP wireless coverage to limit the coverage area to only what is needed for operational purposes.
5. Enable user authentication and encryption mechanisms for the management interface of the AP.
6. Ensure that all APs have strong administrative passwords and ensure that all passwords are changed in accordance with Section 5.6.2.1.
7. Ensure the reset function on APs is used only when needed and is only invoked by authorized personnel. Restore the APs to the latest security settings, when the reset functions are used, to ensure the factory default settings are not utilized.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

8. Change the default service set identifier (SSID) in the APs. Disable the broadcast SSID feature so that the client SSID must match that of the AP. Validate that the SSID character string does not contain any agency identifiable information (division, department, street, etc.) or services.
9. Enable all security features of the wireless product, including the cryptographic authentication, firewall, and other available privacy features.
10. Ensure that encryption key sizes are at least 128-bits and the default shared keys are replaced by unique keys.
11. Ensure that the ad hoc mode has been disabled.
12. Disable all nonessential management protocols on the APs.
13. Ensure all management access and authentication occurs via FIPS compliant secure protocols (e.g., SFTP, HTTPS, SNMP over TLS, etc.). Disable non-FIPS compliant secure access to the management interface.
14. Enable logging (if supported) and review the logs on a recurring basis per local policy. At a minimum, logs shall be reviewed monthly.
15. Insulate, virtually (e.g., virtual local area network (VLAN) and ACLs) or physically (e.g., firewalls), the wireless network from the operational wired infrastructure. Limit access between wireless networks and the wired network to only operational needs.
16. When disposing of access points that will no longer be used by the agency, clear access point configuration to prevent disclosure of network configuration, keys, passwords, etc.

5.13.1.2 Cellular Devices

Cellular telephones, smartphones (i.e., Blackberry, iPhones, etc.), tablets, personal digital assistants (PDA), and "aircards" are examples of cellular handheld devices or devices that are capable of employing cellular technology. Additionally, cellular handheld devices typically include Bluetooth, infrared, and other wireless protocols capable of joining infrastructure networks or creating dynamic ad hoc networks.

Threats to cellular handheld devices stem mainly from their size, portability, and available wireless interfaces and associated services. Examples of threats to cellular handheld devices include:

1. Loss, theft, or disposal.
2. Unauthorized access.
3. Malware.
4. Spam.
5. Electronic eavesdropping.
6. Electronic tracking (threat to security of data and safety of the criminal justice professional).
7. Cloning (not as prevalent with later generation cellular technologies).
8. Server-resident data.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

5.13.1.2.1 Cellular Service Abroad

Certain internal functions on cellular devices may be modified or compromised by the cellular carrier during international use as the devices are intended to have certain parameters configured by the cellular provider which is considered a "trusted" entity by the device.

When devices are authorized to access CJI outside the U.S., agencies shall perform an inspection to ensure that all controls are in place and functioning properly in accordance with the agency's policies prior to and after deployment outside of the U.S.

5.13.1.2.2 Voice Transmissions Over Cellular Devices

Any cellular device used to transmit CJI via voice is exempt from the encryption and authentication requirements.

5.13.1.3 Bluetooth

Bluetooth is an open standard for short-range radio frequency (RF) communication. Bluetooth is used primarily to establish wireless personal area networks (WPAN). Bluetooth technology has been integrated into many types of business and consumer devices, including cell phones, laptops, automobiles, medical devices, printers, keyboards, mice, headsets, and biometric capture devices.

Bluetooth technology and associated devices are susceptible to general wireless networking threats (e.g., denial of service [DoS] attacks, eavesdropping, man-in-the-middle [MITM] attacks, message modification, and resource misappropriation) as well as specific Bluetooth-related attacks that target known vulnerabilities in Bluetooth implementations and specifications. Organizational security policy shall be used to dictate the use of Bluetooth and its associated devices based on the agency's operational and business processes.

5.13.1.4 Mobile Hotspots

Many mobile devices include the capability to function as a Wi-Fi hotspot that allows other devices to connect through the device to the internet over the devices cellular network.

When an agency allows mobile devices that are approved to access or store CJI to function as a Wi-Fi hotspot connecting to the Internet, they shall be configured:

1. Enable encryption on the hotspot
2. Change the hotspot's default SSID
    a. Ensure the hotspot SSID does not identify the device make/model or agency ownership
3. Create a wireless network password (pre-shared key)
4. Enable the hotspot's port filtering/blocking features if present
5. Only allow connections from agency-controlled devices

Note: Refer to the requirements in Section 5.10.1.2 Encryption for item #1. Refer to the requirements in Section 5.6.2.1.1.1 Basic Password Standards for item #3. Only password attributes #1, #2 and #3 are required.

1. Have a MDM solution to provide the same security as identified in items 1 – 5 above.

5.13.2 Mobile Device Management (MDM)

Mobile Device Management (MDM) facilitates the implementation of sound security controls for mobile devices and allows for centralized oversight of configuration control, application usage, and device protection and recovery, if so desired by the agency.

Due to the potential for inconsistent network access or monitoring capability on mobile devices, methods used to monitor and manage the configuration of full-featured operating systems may not function properly on devices with limited-feature operating systems. MDM systems and applications coupled with device specific technical policy can provide a robust method for device configuration management if properly implemented.

Devices that have had any unauthorized changes made to them (including but not limited to being rooted or jailbroken) shall not be used to process, store, or transmit CJI data at any time. User agencies shall implement the following controls when directly accessing CJI from devices running a limited-feature operating system:

1. Ensure that CJI is only transferred between CJI authorized applications and storage areas of the device.
2. MDM with centralized administration configured and implemented to perform at least the following controls:
    a. Remote locking of device
    b. Remote wiping of device
    c. Setting and locking device configuration
    d. Detection of “rooted” and “jailbroken” devices
    e. Enforcement of folder or disk level encryption
    f. Application of mandatory policy settings on the device
    g. Detection of unauthorized configurations
    h. Detection of unauthorized software or applications
    i. Ability to determine the location of agency-controlled devices
    j. Prevention of unpatched devices from accessing CJI or CJI systems
    k. Automatic device wiping after a specified number of failed access attempts EXCEPTION: An MDM is not required when receiving CJI from an indirect access information system (i.e., the system provides no capability to conduct transactional activities on state and national repositories, applications or services). However, it is incumbent upon the authorized agency to ensure CJI is delivered to the appropriate requesting agency or individual. The CSO will make the final determination of whether access is considered indirect.

5.13.3 Wireless Device Risk Mitigations

Organizations shall, at a minimum, ensure that wireless devices:

1. Apply available critical patches and upgrades to the operating system as soon as they become available for the device and after necessary testing as described in Section 5.10.4.1.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

2. Are configured for local device authentication (see Section 5.13.7.1).
3. Use advanced authentication or CSO approved compensating controls as per Section 5.13.7.2.1.
4. Encrypt all CJI resident on the device.
5. Erase cached information, to include authenticators (see Section 5.6.2.1) in applications, when session is terminated.
6. Employ personal firewalls on full-featured operating system devices or run a Mobile Device Management (MDM) system that facilitates the ability to provide firewall services from the agency level.
7. Employ malicious code protection on full-featured operating system devices or run a MDM system that facilitates the ability to provide anti-malware services from the agency level.

5.13.4 System Integrity

Managing system integrity on limited function mobile operating systems may require methods and technologies significantly different from traditional full-featured operating systems. In many cases, the requirements of Section 5.10 of the CJIS Security Policy cannot be met with a mobile device without the installation of a third-party MDM, application, or supporting service infrastructure.

5.13.4.1 Patching/Updates

Based on the varying connection methods for mobile devices, an always on connection cannot be guaranteed for patching and updating. Devices without always-on cellular connections may not be reachable for extended periods of time by the MDM or solution either to report status or initiate patching.

Agencies shall monitor mobile devices to ensure their patch and update state is current.

5.13.4.2 Malicious Code Protection

Appropriately configured MDM software is capable of checking the installed applications on the device and reporting the software inventory to a central management console in a manner analogous to traditional virus scan detection of unauthorized software and can provide a high degree of confidence that only known software or applications are installed on the device.

Agencies that allow smartphones and tablets to access CJI shall have a process to approve the use of specific software or applications on the devices. Any device natively capable of performing these functions without a MDM solution is acceptable under this section.

5.13.4.3 Personal Firewall

For the purpose of this policy, a personal firewall is an application that controls network traffic to and from a user device, permitting or denying communications based on policy. A personal firewall shall be employed on all mobile devices that have a full-feature operating system (i.e., laptops or tablets with Windows or Linux/Unix operating systems). At a minimum, the personal firewall shall perform the following activities:

1. Manage program access to the Internet.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

2. Block unsolicited requests to connect to the user device.
3. Filter incoming traffic by IP address or protocol.
4. Filter incoming traffic by destination ports.
5. Maintain an IP traffic log.

Mobile devices with limited-feature operating systems (i.e., tablets, smartphones) may not support a personal firewall. However, these operating systems have a limited number of system services installed, carefully controlled network access, and to a certain extent, perform functions similar to a personal firewall on a device with a full-feature operating system. Appropriately configured MDM software is capable of controlling which applications are allowed on the device.

5.13.5 Incident Response

In addition to the requirements in Section 5.3 Incident Response, agencies shall develop additional or enhanced incident reporting and handling procedures to address mobile device operating scenarios. Rapid response to mobile device related incidents can significantly mitigate the risks associated with illicit data access either on the device itself or within online data resources associated with the device through an application or specialized interface.

Special reporting procedures for mobile devices shall apply in any of the following situations:

1. Loss of device control. For example:
    a. Device known to be locked, minimal duration of loss
    b. Device lock state unknown, minimal duration of loss
    c. Device lock state unknown, extended duration of loss
    d. Device known to be unlocked, more than momentary duration of loss
2. Total loss of device
3. Device compromise
4. Device loss or compromise outside the United States

5.13.6 Access Control

Multiple user accounts are not generally supported on limited-feature mobile operating systems. Access control (Section 5.5 Access Control) shall be accomplished by the application that accesses CJI.

5.13.7 Identification and Authentication

Due to the technical methods used for identification and authentication on many limited-feature mobile operating systems, achieving compliance may require many different components.

5.13.7.1 Local Device Authentication

When mobile devices are authorized for use in accessing CJI, local device authentication shall be used to unlock the device for use. The authenticator used shall meet the requirements in section 5.6.2.1 Standard Authenticators.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

5.13.7.2 Advanced Authentication

When accessing CJI from an authorized mobile device, advanced authentication shall be used by the authorized user unless the access to CJI is indirect as described in Section 5.6.2.2.1. If access is indirect, then AA is not required.

5.13.7.2.1 Compensating Controls

CSO approved compensating controls to meet the AA requirement on agency-issued smartphones and tablets with limited-feature operating systems are permitted. Compensating controls are temporary control measures that are implemented in lieu of the required AA control measures when an agency cannot meet a requirement due to legitimate technical or business constraints. Before CSOs consider approval of compensating controls, Mobile Device Management (MDM) shall be implemented per Section 5.13.2. The compensating controls shall:

1. Meet the intent of the CJIS Security Policy AA requirement
2. Provide a similar level of protection or security as the original AA requirement
3. Not rely upon the existing requirements for AA as compensating controls
4. Expire upon the CSO approved date or when a compliant AA solution is implemented.

Additionally, compensating controls may rely upon other, non-AA, existing requirements as compensating controls and/or be combined with new controls to create compensating controls.

The compensating controls for AA are a combination of controls providing acceptable assurance only the authorized user is authenticating and not an impersonator or (in the case of agency-issued device used by multiple users) controls that reduce the risk of exposure if information is accessed by an unauthorized party.

The following minimum controls shall be implemented as part of the CSO approved compensating controls:

- Possession and registration of an agency issued smartphone or tablet as an indication it is the authorized user
- Use of device certificates per Section 5.13.7.3 Device Certificates
- Implemented CJIS Security Policy compliant standard authenticator protection on the secure location where CJI is stored

5.13.7.3 Device Certificates

Device certificates are often used to uniquely identify mobile devices using part of a public key pair on the device in the form of a public key certificate. While there is value to ensuring the device itself can authenticate to a system supplying CJI, and may provide a critical layer of device identification or authentication in a larger scheme, a device certificate alone placed on the device shall not be considered valid proof that the device is being operated by an authorized user.

When certificates or cryptographic keys used to authenticate a mobile device are used in lieu of compensating controls for advanced authentication, they shall be:

1. Protected against being extracted from the device
2. Configured for remote wipe on demand or self-deletion based on a number of unsuccessful login or access attempts
3. Configured to use a secure authenticator (i.e., password, PIN) to unlock the key for use

5.14 SYSTEM AND SERVICES ACQUISITION (SA)

SA-22 UNSUPPORTED SYSTEM COMPONENTS

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Replace system components when support for the components is no longer available from the developer, vendor, or manufacturer; or

b. Provide the following options for alternative sources for continued support for unsupported components: original manufacturer support, or original contracted vendor support.

Discussion: Support for system components includes software patches, firmware updates, replacement parts, and maintenance contracts. An example of unsupported components includes when vendors no longer provide critical software patches or product updates, which can result in an opportunity for adversaries to exploit weaknesses in the installed components.

Exceptions to replacing unsupported system components include systems that provide critical mission or business capabilities where newer technologies are not available or where the systems are so isolated that installing replacement components is not an option.

Alternative sources for support address the need to provide continued support for system components that are no longer supported by the original manufacturers, developers, or vendors when such components remain essential to organizational mission and business functions. If necessary, organizations can establish in-house support by developing customized patches for critical software components or, alternatively, obtain the services of external providers who provide ongoing support for the designated unsupported components through contractual relationships. Such contractual relationships can include open-source software value-added vendors. The increased risk of using unsupported system components can be mitigated, for example, by prohibiting the connection of such components to public or uncontrolled networks or implementing other forms of isolation.

5.15 SYSTEM AND INFORMATION INTEGRITY (SI)

SI-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to all organizational personnel with system and information integrity responsibilities and information system owners:
   1. Agency-level system and information integrity policy that:
      (a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
      (b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
   2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the system and information integrity policy and the associated system and information integrity controls;

b. Designate organizational personnel with system and information integrity responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the system and information integrity policy and procedures; and

c. Review and update the current system and information integrity:
   1. Policy annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and
   2. Procedures annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: System and information integrity policy and procedures address the controls in the SI family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of system and information integrity policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to system and information integrity policy and procedures include assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

SI-2 FLAW REMEDIATION

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Identify, report, and correct system flaws;

b. Test software and firmware updates related to flaw remediation for effectiveness and potential side effects before installation;

c. Install security-relevant software and firmware updates within the number of days listed after the release of the updates;

- Critical – 15 days
- High – 30 days
- Medium – 60 days
- Low – 90 days; and

d. Incorporate flaw remediation into the organizational configuration management process.

Discussion: The need to remediate system flaws applies to all types of software and firmware. Organizations identify systems affected by software flaws, including potential vulnerabilities resulting from those flaws, and report this information to designated organizational personnel with information security and privacy responsibilities. Security-relevant updates include patches, service packs, and malicious code signatures. Organizations also address flaws discovered during assessments, continuous monitoring, incident response activities, and system error handling. By incorporating flaw remediation into configuration management processes, required remediation actions can be tracked and verified.

Organization-defined time periods for updating security-relevant software and firmware may vary based on a variety of risk factors, including the security category of the system, the criticality of the update (i.e., severity of the vulnerability related to the discovered flaw), the organizational risk tolerance, the mission supported by the system, or the threat environment. Some types of flaw remediation may require more testing than other types. Organizations determine the type of testing needed for the specific type of flaw remediation activity under consideration and the types of changes that are to be configuration-managed. In some situations, organizations may determine that the testing of software or firmware updates is not necessary or practical, such as when implementing simple malicious code signature updates. In testing decisions, organizations consider whether security-relevant software or firmware updates are obtained from authorized sources with appropriate digital signatures.

Control:

Determine if system components have applicable security-relevant software and firmware updates installed using vulnerability scanning tools as least quarterly or following any security incidents involving CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Automated mechanisms can track and determine the status of known flaws for system components.

SI-3 MALICIOUS CODE PROTECTION

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Implement signature-based malicious code protection mechanisms at system entry and exit points to detect and eradicate malicious code;

b. Automatically update malicious code protection mechanisms as new releases are available in accordance with organizational configuration management policy and procedures;

c. Configure malicious code protection mechanisms to:

   1. Perform periodic scans of the system at least daily and real-time scans of files from external sources at network entry and exit points and on all servers and endpoint devices as the files are downloaded, opened, or executed in accordance with organizational policy; and

   2. Block or quarantine malicious code, take mitigating action(s), and when necessary, implement incident response procedures; and send alert to system/network administrators and/or organizational personnel with information security responsibilities in response to malicious code detection; and

d. Address the receipt of false positives during malicious code detection and eradication and the resulting potential impact on the availability of the system.

Discussion: System entry and exit points include firewalls, remote access servers, workstations, electronic mail servers, web servers, proxy servers, notebook computers, and mobile devices. Malicious code includes viruses, worms, Trojan horses, and spyware. Malicious code can also be encoded in various formats contained within compressed or hidden files or hidden in files using techniques such as steganography. Malicious code can be inserted into systems in a variety of ways, including by electronic mail, the World Wide Web, and portable storage devices. Malicious code insertions occur through the exploitation of system vulnerabilities. A variety of technologies and methods exist to limit or eliminate the effects of malicious code.

Malicious code protection mechanisms include both signature- and nonsignature-based technologies. Nonsignature-based detection mechanisms include artificial intelligence techniques that use heuristics to detect, analyze, and describe the characteristics or behavior of malicious code and to provide controls against such code for which signatures do not yet exist or for which existing signatures may not be effective. Malicious code for which active signatures do not yet exist or may be ineffective includes polymorphic malicious code (i.e., code that changes signatures when it replicates). Nonsignature-based mechanisms also include reputation-based technologies. In addition to the above technologies, pervasive configuration management, comprehensive software integrity controls, and anti-exploitation software may be effective in preventing the execution of unauthorized code. Malicious code may be present in commercial off-the-shelf software as well as custom-built software and could include logic bombs, backdoors, and other types of attacks that could affect organizational mission and business functions.

In situations where malicious code cannot be detected by detection methods or technologies, organizations rely on other types of controls, including secure coding practices, configuration management and control, trusted procurement processes, and monitoring practices to ensure that software does not perform functions other than the functions intended. Organizations may determine that, in response to the detection of malicious code, different actions may be warranted. For example, organizations can define actions in response to malicious code detection during periodic scans, the detection of malicious downloads, or the detection of maliciousness when attempting to open or execute files.

SI-4 SYSTEM MONITORING

[Priority 1]

Control:

a. Monitor the system to detect:
    1. Attacks and indicators of potential attacks in accordance with the following monitoring objectives:
        a. Intrusion detection and prevention
        b. Malicious code protection
        c. Vulnerability scanning
        d. Audit record monitoring
        e. Network monitoring
        f. Firewall monitoring;

        and
    2. Unauthorized local, network, and remote connections;
b. Identify unauthorized use of the system through the following techniques and methods: event logging (ref. 5.4 Audit and Accountability);
c. Invoke internal monitoring capabilities or deploy monitoring devices:
    1. Strategically within the system to collect organization-determined essential information; and
    2. At ad hoc locations within the system to track specific types of transactions of interest to the organization;

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

d. Analyze detected events and anomalies;

e. Adjust the level of system monitoring activity when there is a change in risk to organizational operations and assets, individuals, other organizations, or the Nation;

f. Obtain legal opinion regarding system monitoring activities; and

g. Provide intrusion detection and prevention systems, malicious code protection software, scanning tools, audit record monitoring software, network monitoring, and firewall monitoring software logs to organizational personnel with information security responsibilities weekly.

Discussion: System monitoring includes external and internal monitoring. External monitoring includes the observation of events occurring at external interfaces to the system. Internal monitoring includes the observation of events occurring within the system. Organizations monitor systems by observing audit activities in real time or by observing other system aspects such as access patterns, characteristics of access, and other actions. The monitoring objectives guide and inform the determination of the events. System monitoring capabilities are achieved through a variety of tools and techniques, including intrusion detection and prevention systems, malicious code protection software, scanning tools, audit record monitoring software, and network monitoring software.

Depending on the security architecture, the distribution and configuration of monitoring devices may impact throughput at key internal and external boundaries as well as at other locations across a network due to the introduction of network throughput latency. If throughput management is needed, such devices are strategically located and deployed as part of an established organization-wide security architecture. Strategic locations for monitoring devices include selected perimeter locations and near key servers and server farms that support critical applications. Monitoring devices are typically employed at the managed interfaces associated with controls SC-7 and AC-17. The information collected is a function of the organizational monitoring objectives and the capability of systems to support such objectives. Specific types of transactions of interest include Hypertext Transfer Protocol (HTTP) traffic that bypasses HTTP proxies. System monitoring is an integral part of organizational continuous monitoring and incident response programs, and output from system monitoring serves as input to those programs. System monitoring requirements, including the need for specific types of system monitoring, may be referenced in other controls (e.g., AC-2g, AC-17(1), CM-3f, CM-6d, MA-3a, MA-4a, SC-5(3)(b), SC-7a, SC-18b). Adjustments to levels of system monitoring are based on law enforcement information, intelligence information, or other sources of information. The legality of system monitoring activities is based on applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines.

(2) SYSTEM MONITORING | AUTOMATED TOOLS AND MECHANISMS FOR REAL-TIME ANALYSIS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Employ automated tools and mechanisms to support near real-time analysis of events.

Discussion: Automated tools and mechanisms include host-based, network-based, transport-based, or storage-based event monitoring tools and mechanisms or security information and event management (SIEM) technologies that provide real-time analysis of alerts and notifications generated by organizational systems. Automated monitoring techniques can create unintended privacy risks because automated controls may connect to external or otherwise unrelated systems. The matching of records between these systems may create linkages with unintended consequences. Organizations assess and document these risks in their privacy impact assessment and make determinations that are in alignment with their privacy program plan.

Related Controls: None.

(4) SYSTEM MONITORING | INBOUND AND OUTBOUND COMMUNICATIONS TRAFFIC

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

a. Determine criteria for unusual or unauthorized activities or conditions for inbound and outbound communications traffic;
b. Monitor inbound and outbound communications traffic continuously for unusual or unauthorized activities or conditions such as: the presence of malicious code or unauthorized use of legitimate code or credentials within organizational systems or propagating among system components, signaling to external systems, and the unauthorized exporting of information.

Discussion: Unusual or unauthorized activities or conditions related to system inbound and outbound communications traffic includes internal traffic that indicates the presence of malicious code or unauthorized use of legitimate code or credentials within organizational systems or propagating among system components, signaling to external systems, and the unauthorized exporting of information. Evidence of malicious code or unauthorized use of legitimate code or credentials is used to identify potentially compromised systems or system components.

Related Controls: None.

(5) SYSTEM MONITORING | SYSTEM-GENERATED ALERTS

[Existing] [Priority 1]

Control:

Alert organizational personnel with system monitoring responsibilities when the following system-generated indications of compromise or potential compromise occur: inappropriate or unusual activities with security or privacy implications.

Discussion: Alerts may be generated from a variety of sources, including audit records or inputs from malicious code protection mechanisms, intrusion detection or prevention mechanisms, or boundary protection devices such as firewalls, gateways, and routers. Alerts can be automated and may be transmitted telephonically, by electronic mail messages, or by text messaging. Organizational personnel on the alert notification list can include system administrators, mission or business owners, system owners, information owners/stewards, senior agency information security officers, senior agency officials for privacy, system security officers, or privacy officers. In contrast to alerts generated by the system, alerts generated by organizations in SI-4(12) focus on information sources external to the system, such as suspicious activity reports and reports on potential insider threats.

Related Controls: AU-4, AU-5, PE-6.

SI-5 SECURITY ALERTS, ADVISORIES, AND DIRECTIVES

[Existing] [Priority 2]

Control:

a. Receive system security alerts, advisories, and directives from external source(s) (e.g., CISA, Multi-State Information Sharing & Analysis Center [MS-ISAC], U.S. Computer Emergency Readiness Team [USCERT], hardware/software providers, federal/state advisories, etc.) on an ongoing basis;

b. Generate internal security alerts, advisories, and directives as deemed necessary;

c. Disseminate security alerts, advisories, and directives to: organizational personnel implementing, operating, maintaining, and using the system; and

d. Implement security directives in accordance with established time frames, or notify the issuing organization of the degree of noncompliance.

Discussion: The Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) generates security alerts and advisories to maintain situational awareness throughout the federal government. Security directives are issued by OMB or other designated organizations with the responsibility and authority to issue such directives. Compliance with security directives is essential due to the critical nature of many of these directives and the potential (immediate) adverse effects on organizational operations and assets, individuals, other organizations, and the Nation should the directives not be implemented in a timely manner. External organizations include supply chain partners, external mission or business partners, external service providers, and other peer or supporting organizations.

SI-7 SOFTWARE, FIRMWARE, AND INFORMATION INTEGRITY

[Priority 1]

Control:

a. Employ integrity verification tools to detect unauthorized changes to software, firmware, and information systems that contain or process CJI; and

b. Take the following actions when unauthorized changes to the software, firmware, and information are detected: notify organizational personnel responsible for software, firmware, and/or information integrity and implement incident response procedures as appropriate.

Discussion: Unauthorized changes to software, firmware, and information can occur due to errors or malicious activity. Software includes operating systems (with key internal components, such as kernels or drivers), middleware, and applications. Firmware interfaces include Unified Extensible Firmware Interface (UEFI) and Basic Input/Output System (BIOS). Information includes personally identifiable information and metadata that contains security and privacy attributes associated with information. Integrity-checking mechanisms—including parity checks, cyclical redundancy checks, cryptographic hashes, and associated tools—can automatically monitor the integrity of systems and hosted applications.

Control Enhancements:

(1) SOFTWARE, FIRMWARE, AND INFORMATION INTEGRITY | INTEGRITY CHECKS

[Priority 1]

Control:

Perform an integrity check of software, firmware, and information systems that contain or process CJI at agency-defined transitional states or security relevant events at least weekly or in an automated fashion.

Discussion: Security-relevant events include the identification of new threats to which organizational systems are susceptible and the installation of new hardware, software, or firmware. Transitional states include system startup, restart, shutdown, and abort.

Related Controls: None.

(7) SOFTWARE, FIRMWARE, AND INFORMATION INTEGRITY | INTEGRATION OF DETECTION AND RESPONSE

[Priority 1]

Control:

Incorporate the detection of the following unauthorized changes into the organizational incident response capability: unauthorized changes to established configuration setting or the unauthorized elevation of system privileges.

Discussion: Integrating detection and response helps to ensure that detected events are tracked, monitored, corrected, and available for historical purposes. Maintaining historical records is important for being able to identify and discern adversary actions over an extended time period and for possible legal actions. Security-relevant changes include unauthorized changes to established configuration settings or the unauthorized elevation of system privileges.

SI-8 SPAM PROTECTION

[Existing] [Priority 3]

Control:

a. Employ spam protection mechanisms at system entry and exit points to detect and act on unsolicited messages; and

b. Update spam protection mechanisms when new releases are available in accordance with organizational configuration management policy and procedures.

Discussion: System entry and exit points include firewalls, remote-access servers, electronic mail servers, web servers, proxy servers, workstations, notebook computers, and mobile devices. Spam can be transported by different means, including email, email attachments, and web accesses. Spam protection mechanisms include signature definitions.

Related Controls: SC-5, SC-7, SI-3, SI-4.

Control Enhancements:

(2) SPAM PROTECTION | AUTOMATIC UPDATES

[Priority 3]

Control:

Automatically update spam protection mechanisms at least daily.

Discussion: Using automated mechanisms to update spam protection mechanisms helps to ensure that updates occur on a regular basis and provide the latest content and protection capabilities.

Related Controls: None.

SI-10 INFORMATION INPUT VALIDATION

[Priority 1]

Control:

Check the validity of the following information inputs: all inputs to web/application servers, database servers, and any system or application input that might receive or process CJI.

Discussion: Checking the valid syntax and semantics of system inputs—including character set, length, numerical range, and acceptable values—verifies that inputs match specified definitions for format and content. For example, if the organization specifies that numerical values between 1-100 are the only acceptable inputs for a field in a given application, inputs of "387," "abc," or "%K%" are invalid inputs and are not accepted as input to the system. Valid inputs are likely to vary from field to field within a software application. Applications typically follow well-defined protocols that use structured messages (i.e., commands or queries) to communicate between software modules or system components. Structured messages can contain raw or unstructured data interspersed with metadata or control information. If software applications use attacker-supplied inputs to construct structured messages without properly encoding such messages, then the attacker could insert malicious commands or special characters that can cause the data to be interpreted as control information or metadata. Consequently, the module or component that receives the corrupted output will perform the wrong operations or otherwise interpret the data incorrectly. Prescreening inputs prior to passing them to interpreters prevents the content from being unintentionally interpreted as commands. Input validation ensures accurate and correct inputs and prevents attacks such as cross-site scripting and a variety of injection attacks.

Related Controls: None.

SI-11 ERROR HANDLING

[Priority 3]

Control:

a. Generate error messages that provide information necessary for corrective actions without revealing information that could be exploited; and

b. Reveal error messages only to organizational personnel with information security responsibilities.

Discussion: Organizations consider the structure and content of error messages. The extent to which systems can handle error conditions is guided and informed by organizational policy and operational requirements. Exploitable information includes stack traces and implementation details; erroneous logon attempts with passwords mistakenly entered as the username; mission or business information that can be derived from, if not stated explicitly by, the information recorded; and personally identifiable information, such as account numbers, social security numbers, and credit card numbers. Error messages may also provide a covert channel for transmitting information.

Related Controls: AU-2, AU-3, SI-2.

SI-12 INFORMATION MANAGEMENT AND RETENTION

[Existing] [Priority 3]

Control:

Manage and retain information within the system and information output from the system in accordance with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, guidelines and operational requirements.

Discussion: Information management and retention requirements cover the full life cycle of information, in some cases extending beyond system disposal. Information to be retained may also include policies, procedures, plans, reports, data output from control implementation, and other types of administrative information. The National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) provides federal policy and guidance on records retention and schedules. If organizations have a records management office, consider coordinating with records management personnel. Records produced from the output of implemented controls that may require management and retention include, but are not limited to: All XX-1, AC-6(9), AT-4, AU-12, CA-2, CA-3, CA-5, CA-6, CA-7, CA-9, CM-2, CM-3, CM-4, CM-6, CM-8, CM-9, CM-

(1) INFORMATION MANAGEMENT AND RETENTION | LIMIT PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE INFORMATION ELEMENTS

[Existing] [Priority 3]

Control:

Limit personally identifiable information being processed in the information life cycle to the minimum PII necessary to achieve the purpose for which it is collected (see Section 4.3).

Discussion: Limiting the use of personally identifiable information throughout the information life cycle when the information is not needed for operational purposes helps to reduce the level of privacy risk created by a system. The information life cycle includes information creation, collection, use, processing, storage, maintenance, dissemination, disclosure, and disposition. Risk assessments as well as applicable laws, regulations, and policies can provide useful inputs to determining which elements of personally identifiable information may create risk.

Related Controls: None.

(2) INFORMATION MANAGEMENT AND RETENTION | MINIMIZE PERSONALLY IDENTIFIABLE INFORMATION IN TESTING, TRAINING, AND RESEARCH

[Priority 3]

Control:

Use the following techniques to minimize the use of personally identifiable information for research, testing, or training: data obfuscation, randomization, anonymization, or use of synthetic data.

Discussion: Organizations can minimize the risk to an individual's privacy by employing techniques such as de-identification or synthetic data. Limiting the use of personally identifiable information throughout the information life cycle when the information is not needed for research, testing, or training helps reduce the level of privacy risk created by a system. Risk assessments as well as applicable laws, regulations, and policies can provide useful inputs to determining the techniques to use and when to use them.

Related Controls: None.

(3) INFORMATION MANAGEMENT AND RETENTION | INFORMATION DISPOSAL

[Existing] [Priority 3]

Control:

Use the following techniques to dispose of, destroy, or erase information following the retention period: as defined in MP-6.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: Organizations can minimize both security and privacy risks by disposing of information when it is no longer needed. The disposal or destruction of information applies to originals as well as copies and archived records, including system logs that may contain personally identifiable information.

Related Controls: MP-6.

SI-16 MEMORY PROTECTION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Implement the following controls to protect the system memory from unauthorized code execution: data execution prevention and address space layout randomization.

Discussion: Some adversaries launch attacks with the intent of executing code in nonexecutable regions of memory or in memory locations that are prohibited. Controls employed to protect memory include data execution prevention and address space layout randomization. Data execution prevention controls can either be hardware-enforced or software-enforced with hardware enforcement providing the greater strength of mechanism.

5.16 MAINTENANCE (MA)

MA-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to organizational personnel with system maintenance responsibilities:
   1. Agency-level maintenance policy that:
      (a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
      (b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
   2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the maintenance policy and the associated maintenance controls;
b. Designate an individual with security responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the maintenance policy and procedures; and
c. Review and update the current maintenance:
   1. Policy annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and
   2. Procedures annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Maintenance policy and procedures address the controls in the MA family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of maintenance policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to maintenance policy and procedures assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

MA-2 CONTROLLED MAINTENANCE

[Priority 3]

Control:

a. Schedule, document, and review records of maintenance, repair, and replacement on system components in accordance with manufacturer or vendor specifications and/or organizational requirements;

b. Approve and monitor all maintenance activities, whether performed on site or remotely and whether the system or system components are serviced on site or removed to another location;

c. Require that organizational personnel with information security and privacy responsibilities explicitly approve the removal of the system or system components from organizational facilities for off-site maintenance, repair, or replacement;

d. Sanitize equipment to remove information from associated media prior to removal from organizational facilities for off-site maintenance, repair, replacement, or destruction;

e. Check all potentially impacted controls to verify that the controls are still functioning properly following maintenance, repair, or replacement actions; and

f. Include the following information in organizational maintenance records:

    1. Component name
    2. Component serial number
    3. Date/time of maintenance
    4. Maintenance performed
    5. Name(s) of entity performing maintenance including escort if required.

Discussion: Controlling system maintenance addresses the information security aspects of the system maintenance program and applies to all types of maintenance to system components conducted by local or nonlocal entities. Maintenance includes peripherals such as scanners, copiers, and printers. Information necessary for creating effective maintenance records includes the date and time of maintenance, a description of the maintenance performed, names of the individuals or group performing the maintenance, name of the escort, and system components or equipment that are removed or replaced. Organizations consider supply chain-related risks associated with replacement components for systems.

MA-3 MAINTENANCE TOOLS

[Priority 4]

Control:

a. Approve, control, and monitor the use of system maintenance tools; and

b. Review previously approved system maintenance tools prior to each use.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: Approving, controlling, monitoring, and reviewing maintenance tools address security-related issues associated with maintenance tools that are not within system authorization boundaries and are used specifically for diagnostic and repair actions on organizational systems. Organizations have flexibility in determining roles for the approval of maintenance tools and how that approval is documented. A periodic review of maintenance tools facilitates the withdrawal of approval for outdated, unsupported, irrelevant, or no-longer- used tools. Maintenance tools can include hardware, software, and firmware items and may be pre-installed, brought in with maintenance personnel on media, cloud-based, or downloaded from a website. Such tools can be vehicles for transporting malicious code, either intentionally or unintentionally, into a facility and subsequently into systems. Maintenance tools can include hardware and software diagnostic test equipment and packet sniffers. The hardware and software components that support maintenance and are a part of the system (including the software implementing utilities such as “ping,” “ls,” “ipconfig,” or the hardware and software implementing the monitoring port of an Ethernet switch) are not addressed by maintenance tools.

Related Controls: MA-2, PE-16.

Control Enhancements:

(1) MAINTENANCE TOOLS | INSPECT TOOLS

[Priority 4]

Control:

Inspect the maintenance tools used by maintenance personnel for improper or unauthorized modifications.

Discussion: Maintenance tools can be directly brought into a facility by maintenance personnel or downloaded from a vendor’s website. If, upon inspection of the maintenance tools, organizations determine that the tools have been modified in an improper manner or the tools contain malicious code, the incident is handled consistent with organizational policies and procedures for incident handling.

Related Controls: SI-7.

(2) MAINTENANCE TOOLS | INSPECT MEDIA

[Priority 4]

Control:

Check media containing diagnostic and test programs for malicious code before the media are used in the system.

Discussion: If, upon inspection of media containing maintenance, diagnostic, and test programs, organizations determine that the media contains malicious code, the incident is handled consistent with organizational incident handling policies and procedures.

Related Controls: SI-3.

(3) MAINTENANCE TOOLS | PREVENT UNAUTHORIZED REMOVAL

[Priority 4]

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Control:

Prevent the removal of maintenance equipment containing organizational information by:

a. Verifying that there is no organizational information contained on the equipment;
b. Sanitizing or destroying the equipment;
c. Retaining the equipment within the facility; or
d. Obtaining an exemption from organizational personnel with system maintenance responsibilities explicitly authorizing removal of the equipment from the facility.

Discussion: Organizational information includes all information owned by organizations and any information provided to organizations for which the organizations serve as information stewards.

Related Controls: MP-6.

MA-4 NONLOCAL MAINTENANCE

[Priority 3]

Control:

a. Approve and monitor nonlocal maintenance and diagnostic activities;
b. Allow the use of nonlocal maintenance and diagnostic tools only as consistent with organizational policy and documented in the security plan for the system;
c. Employ strong authentication in the establishment of nonlocal maintenance and diagnostic sessions;
d. Maintain records for nonlocal maintenance and diagnostic activities; and
e. Terminate session and network connections when nonlocal maintenance is completed.

Discussion: Nonlocal maintenance and diagnostic activities are conducted by individuals who communicate through either an external or internal network. Local maintenance and diagnostic activities are carried out by individuals who are physically present at the system location and not communicating across a network connection. Authentication techniques used to establish nonlocal maintenance and diagnostic sessions reflect the network access requirements in IA-2. Strong authentication requires authenticators that are resistant to replay attacks and employ multi-factor authentication. Strong authenticators include PKI where certificates are stored on a token protected by a password, passphrase, or biometric. Enforcing requirements in MA-4 is accomplished, in part, by other controls.

Related Controls: AC-2, AC-3, AC-6, AC-17, AU-2, AU-3, IA-2, IA-4, IA-5, IA-8, MA-2, MA-5, PL-2, SC-7, SC-10.

MA-5 MAINTENANCE PERSONNEL

[Priority 3]

Control:

a. Establish a process for maintenance personnel authorization and maintain a list of authorized maintenance organizations or personnel;

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

b. Verify that non-escorted personnel performing maintenance on the system possess the required access authorizations; and

c. Designate organizational personnel with required access authorizations and technical competence to supervise the maintenance activities of personnel who do not possess the required access authorizations.

Discussion: Maintenance personnel refers to individuals who perform hardware or software maintenance on organizational systems, while PE-2 addresses physical access for individuals whose maintenance duties place them within the physical protection perimeter of the systems. Technical competence of supervising individuals relates to the maintenance performed on the systems, while having required access authorizations refers to maintenance on and near the systems. Individuals not previously identified as authorized maintenance personnel—such as information technology manufacturers, vendors, systems integrators, and consultants—may require privileged access to organizational systems, such as when they are required to conduct maintenance activities with little or no notice. Based on organizational assessments of risk, organizations may issue temporary credentials to these individuals. Temporary credentials may be for one-time use or for very limited time periods.

MA-6 TIMELY MAINTENANCE

[Priority 3]

Control:

Obtain maintenance support and/or spare parts for critical system components that process, store, and transmit CJI within agency-defined recovery time and recovery point objectives of failure.

Discussion: Organizations specify the system components that result in increased risk to organizational operations and assets, individuals, other organizations, or the Nation when the functionality provided by those components is not operational. Organizational actions to obtain maintenance support include having appropriate contracts in place.

5.17 PLANNING (PL)

PL-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to organizational personnel with planning responsibilities:

   1. Agency-level planning policy that:

      (c) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and

      (d) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and

   2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the planning policy and the associated planning controls;

b. Designate organizational personnel with information security and privacy responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the planning policy and procedures; and

c. Review and update the current planning:

   1. Policy annually and following; any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI and

   2. Procedures annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Planning policy and procedures for the controls in the PL family implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on their development. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission level or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission/business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to planning policy and procedures include, but are not limited to, assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

PL-2 SYSTEM SECURITY AND PRIVACY PLANS

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop security and privacy plans for the system that:
   1. Are consistent with the organization's enterprise architecture;
   2. Explicitly define the constituent system components;
   3. Describe the operational context of the system in terms of mission and business processes;
   4. Identify the individuals that fulfill system roles and responsibilities;
   5. Identify the information types processed, stored, and transmitted by the system;
   6. Provide the security categorization of the system, including supporting rationale;
   7. Describe any specific threats to the system that are of concern to the organization;
   8. Provide the results of a privacy risk assessment for systems processing personally identifiable information;
   9. Describe the operational environment for the system and any dependencies on or connections to other systems or system components;
   10. Provide an overview of the security and privacy requirements for the system;
   11. Identify any relevant control baselines or overlays, if applicable;
   12. Describe the controls in place or planned for meeting the security and privacy requirements, including a rationale for any tailoring decisions;
   13. Include risk determinations for security and privacy architecture and design decisions;
   14. Include security- and privacy-related activities affecting the system that require planning and coordination with organizational personnel with system security and privacy planning and plan implementation responsibilities; system developers; organizational personnel with information security and privacy responsibilities; and
   15. Are reviewed and approved by the authorizing official or designated representative prior to plan implementation.

b. Distribute copies of the plans and communicate subsequent changes to the plans to organizational personnel with system security and privacy planning and plan implementation responsibilities; system developers; organizational personnel with information security and privacy responsibilities;

c. Review the system security and privacy plans at least annually or when required due to system changes or modifications;

d. Update the plans to address changes to the system and environment of operation or problems identified during plan implementation or control assessments; and

e. Protect the plans from unauthorized disclosure and modification.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: System security and privacy plans are scoped to the system and system components within the defined authorization boundary and contain an overview of the security and privacy requirements for the system and the controls selected to satisfy the requirements. The plans describe the intended application of each selected control in the context of the system with a sufficient level of detail to correctly implement the control and to subsequently assess the effectiveness of the control. The control documentation describes how system-specific and hybrid controls are implemented and the plans and expectations regarding the functionality of the system. System security and privacy plans can also be used in the design and development of systems in support of life cycle-based security and privacy engineering processes. System security and privacy plans are living documents that are updated and adapted throughout the system development life cycle (e.g., during capability determination, analysis of alternatives, requests for proposal, and design reviews). The CJISSECPOL describes the different types of requirements that are relevant to organizations during the system development life cycle and the relationship between requirements and controls.

Organizations may develop a single, integrated security and privacy plan or maintain separate plans. Security and privacy plans relate security and privacy requirements to a set of controls and control enhancements. The plans describe how the controls and control enhancements meet the security and privacy requirements but do not provide detailed, technical descriptions of the design or implementation of the controls and control enhancements. Security and privacy plans contain sufficient information (including specifications of control parameter values for selection and assignment operations explicitly or by reference) to enable a design and implementation that is unambiguously compliant with the intent of the plans and subsequent determinations of risk to organizational operations and assets, individuals, other organizations, and the Nation if the plan is implemented.

Security and privacy plans need not be single documents. The plans can be a collection of various documents, including documents that already exist. Effective security and privacy plans make extensive use of references to policies, procedures, and additional documents, including design and implementation specifications where more detailed information can be obtained. The use of references helps reduce the documentation associated with security and privacy programs and maintains the security- and privacy-related information in other established management and operational areas, including enterprise architecture, system development life cycle, systems engineering, and acquisition. Security and privacy plans need not contain detailed contingency plan or incident response plan information but can instead provide—explicitly or by reference—sufficient information to define what needs to be accomplished by those plans.

Security- and privacy-related activities that may require coordination and planning with other individuals or groups within the organization include assessments, audits, inspections, hardware and software maintenance, acquisition and supply chain risk management, patch management, and contingency plan testing. Planning and coordination include emergency and nonemergency (i.e., planned or non-urgent unplanned) situations. The process defined by organizations to plan and coordinate security- and privacy-related activities can also be included in other documents, as appropriate.

PL-4 RULES OF BEHAVIOR

[Priority 3]

Control:

a. Establish and provide to individuals requiring access to the system, the rules that describe their responsibilities and expected behavior for information and system usage, security, and privacy;

b. Receive a documented acknowledgment from such individuals, indicating that they have read, understand, and agree to abide by the rules of behavior, before authorizing access to information and the system;

c. Review and update the rules of behavior at least annually; and

d. Require individuals who have acknowledged a previous version of the rules of behavior to read and re-acknowledge annually, or when the rules are revised or updated.

Discussion: Rules of behavior represent a type of access agreement for organizational users. Other types of access agreements include nondisclosure agreements, conflict-of-interest agreements, and acceptable use agreements (see PS-6). Organizations consider rules of behavior based on individual user roles and responsibilities and differentiate between rules that apply to privileged users and rules that apply to general users. Establishing rules of behavior for some types of non-organizational users, including individuals who receive information from federal systems, is often not feasible given the large number of such users and the limited nature of their interactions with the systems. Rules of behavior for organizational and non-organizational users can also be established in AC-8. The related controls section provides a list of controls that are relevant to organizational rules of behavior. PL-4b, the documented acknowledgment portion of the control, may be satisfied by the literacy training and awareness and role-based training programs conducted by organizations if such training includes rules of behavior. Documented acknowledgements for rules of behavior include electronic or physical signatures and electronic agreement check boxes or radio buttons.

Related Controls: AC-2, AC-6, AC-8, AC-17, AC-18, AC-19, AC-20, AT-2, AT-3, CM-11, IA-2, IA-4, IA-5, MP-7, PS-6, PS-8, SA-5, SI-12.

Control Enhancements:

(1) RULES OF BEHAVIOR | SOCIAL MEDIA AND EXTERNAL SITE/APPLICATION USAGE RESTRICTIONS

[Priority 3]

Control:

Include in the rules of behavior, restrictions on:

a. Use of social media, social networking sites, and external sites/applications;

b. Posting organizational information on public websites; and

c. Use of organization-provided identifiers (e.g., email addresses) and authentication secrets (e.g., passwords) for creating accounts on external sites/applications.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: Social media, social networking, and external site/application usage restrictions address rules of behavior related to the use of social media, social networking, and external sites when organizational personnel are using such sites for official duties or in the conduct of official business, when organizational information is involved in social media and social networking transactions, and when personnel access social media and networking sites from organizational systems. Organizations also address specific rules that prevent unauthorized entities from obtaining non-public organizational information from social media and networking sites either directly or through inference. Non-public information includes personally identifiable information and system account information.

Related Controls: AC-22.

PL-8 SECURITY AND PRIVACY ARCHITECTURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop security and privacy architectures for the system that:
    1. Describe the requirements and approach to be taken for protecting the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of organizational information;
    2. Describe the requirements and approach to be taken for processing personally identifiable information to minimize privacy risk to individuals;
    3. Describe how the architectures are integrated into and support the enterprise architecture; and
    4. Describe any assumptions about, and dependencies on, external systems and services;
b. Review and update the architectures at least annually or when changes to the system or its environment occur to reflect changes in the enterprise architecture; and
c. Reflect planned architecture changes in security and privacy plans, Concept of Operations (CONOPS), criticality analysis, organizational procedures, and procurements and acquisitions.

Discussion: The security and privacy architectures at the system level are consistent with the organization-wide security and privacy architectures are integral to and developed as part of the enterprise architecture. The architectures include an architectural description, the allocation of security and privacy functionality (including controls), security- and privacy-related information for external interfaces, information being exchanged across the interfaces, and the protection mechanisms associated with each interface. The architectures can also include other information, such as user roles and the access privileges assigned to each role; security and privacy requirements; types of information processed, stored, and transmitted by the system; supply chain risk management requirements; restoration priorities of information and system services; and other protection needs.

[SP 800-160-1] provides guidance on the use of security architectures as part of the system development life cycle process. Security and privacy architectures are reviewed and updated throughout the system development life cycle, from analysis of alternatives through review of the proposed architecture in the RFP responses to the design reviews before and during implementation (e.g., during preliminary design reviews and critical design reviews).

In today's modern computing architectures, it is becoming less common for organizations to control all information resources. There may be key dependencies on external information services and service providers. Describing such dependencies in the security and privacy architectures is necessary for developing a comprehensive mission and business protection strategy. Establishing, developing, documenting, and maintaining under configuration control a baseline configuration for organizational systems is critical to implementing and maintaining effective architectures. The development of the architectures is coordinated with the senior agency information security officer and the senior agency official for privacy to ensure that the controls needed to support security and privacy requirements are identified and effectively implemented. In many circumstances, there may be no distinction between the security and privacy architecture for a system. In other circumstances, security objectives may be adequately satisfied, but privacy objectives may only be partially satisfied by the security requirements. In these cases, consideration of the privacy requirements needed to achieve satisfaction will result in a distinct privacy architecture. The documentation, however, may simply reflect the combined architectures.

PL-9 CENTRAL MANAGEMENT

[Priority 4]

Control:

The CJISSECPOL is centrally managed by the FBI CJIS ISO.

Discussion: Central management refers to organization-wide management and implementation of selected controls and processes. This includes planning, implementing, assessing, authorizing, and monitoring the organization-defined, centrally managed controls and processes. As the central management of controls is generally associated with the concept of common (inherited) controls, such management promotes and facilitates standardization of control implementations and management and the judicious use of organizational resources. Centrally managed controls and processes may also meet independence requirements for assessments in support of initial and ongoing authorizations to operate and as part of organizational continuous monitoring.

Automated tools (e.g., security information and event management tools or enterprise security monitoring and management tools) can improve the accuracy, consistency, and availability of information associated with centrally managed controls and processes. Automation can also provide data aggregation and data correlation capabilities; alerting mechanisms; and dashboards to support risk-based decision-making within the organization.

As part of the control selection processes, organizations determine the controls that may be suitable for central management based on resources and capabilities. It is not always possible to centrally manage every aspect of a control. In such cases, the control can be treated as a hybrid control with the control managed and implemented centrally or at the system level. The controls and control enhancements that are candidates for full or partial central management include but are not limited to: AC-2(1), AC-2(2), AC-2(3), AC-2(4), AC-4(all), AC-17(1), AC-17(2), AC-

Related Controls: PL-8.

PL-10 BASELINE SELECTION

[Priority 3]

Control:

Select a control baseline for the system.

Discussion: Control baselines are predefined sets of controls specifically assembled to address the protection needs of a group, organization, or community of interest. Controls are chosen for baselines to either satisfy mandates imposed by laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines or address threats common to all users of the baseline under the assumptions specific to the baseline. Baselines represent a starting point for the protection of individuals' privacy, information, and information systems with subsequent tailoring actions to manage risk in accordance with mission, business, or other constraints (see PL-11). Federal control baselines are provided in [SP 800-53B]. The selection of a control baseline is determined by the needs of stakeholders. Stakeholder needs consider mission and business requirements as well as mandates imposed by applicable laws, executive orders, directives, policies, regulations, standards, and guidelines. For example, the control baselines in [SP 800-53B] are based on the requirements from [FISMA] and [PRIVACT]. The requirements, along with the NIST standards and guidelines implementing the legislation, direct organizations to select one of the control baselines after the reviewing the information types and the information that is processed, stored, and transmitted on the system; analyzing the potential adverse impact of the loss or compromise of the information or system on the organization's operations and assets, individuals, other organizations, or the Nation; and considering the results from system and organizational risk assessments. [CNSSI 1253] provides guidance on control baselines for national security systems.

Related Controls: PL-2, PL-11, RA-2, RA-3, SA-8.

PL-11 BASELINE TAILORING

[Priority 3]

Control:

Tailor the selected control baseline by applying specified tailoring actions.

Discussion: The concept of tailoring allows organizations to specialize or customize a set of baseline controls by applying a defined set of tailoring actions. Tailoring actions facilitate such specialization and customization by allowing organizations to develop security and privacy plans that reflect their specific mission and business functions, the environments where their systems operate, the threats and vulnerabilities that can affect their systems, and any other conditions or situations that can impact their mission or business success. Tailoring guidance is provided in [SP 800-53B]. Tailoring a control baseline is accomplished by identifying and designating common controls, applying scoping considerations, selecting compensating controls, assigning values to control parameters, supplementing the control baseline with additional controls as needed, and providing information for control implementation. The general tailoring actions in [SP 800-53B] can be supplemented with additional actions based on the needs of organizations. Tailoring actions can be applied to the baselines in [SP 800-53B] in accordance with the security and privacy requirements from [FISMA], [PRIVACT], and [OMB A-130]. Alternatively, other communities of interest adopting different control baselines can apply the tailoring actions in [SP 800-53B] to specialize or customize the controls that represent the specific needs and concerns of those entities.

5.18CONTINGENCY PLANNING (CP)

CP-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to organizational personnel with contingency planning responsibilities:
    1. Agency-level contingency planning policy that:
        (a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
        (b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
    2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the contingency planning policy and the associated contingency planning controls;
b. Designate organizational personnel with information security responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the contingency planning policy and procedures; and
c. Review and update the current contingency planning:
    1. Policy annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI, or training simulations or exercises; and
    2. Procedures annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI, or training simulations or exercises.

Discussion: Contingency planning policy and procedures address the controls in the CP family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of contingency planning policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies that reflect the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to contingency planning policy and procedures include assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

CP-2 CONTINGENCY PLAN

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop a contingency plan for the system that:
    1. Identifies essential mission and business functions and associated contingency requirements;
    2. Provides recovery objectives, restoration priorities, and metrics;
    3. Addresses contingency roles, responsibilities, assigned individuals with contact information;
    4. Addresses maintaining essential mission and business functions despite a system disruption, compromise, or failure;
    5. Addresses eventual, full system restoration without deterioration of the controls originally planned and implemented;
    6. Addresses the sharing of contingency information; and
    7. Is reviewed and approved by agency head or their designee;
b. Distribute copies of the contingency plan to organizational personnel with contingency planning or incident response duties;
c. Coordinate contingency planning activities with incident handling activities;
d. Review the contingency plan for the system annually;
e. Update the contingency plan to address changes to the organization, system, or environment of operation and problems encountered during contingency plan implementation, execution, or testing;
f. Communicate contingency plan changes to organizational personnel with contingency planning or incident response duties;
g. Incorporate lessons learned from contingency plan testing, training, or actual contingency activities into contingency testing and training; and
h. Protect the contingency plan from unauthorized disclosure and modification.

Discussion: Contingency planning for systems is part of an overall program for achieving continuity of operations for organizational mission and business functions. Contingency planning addresses system restoration and implementation of alternative mission or business processes when systems are compromised or breached. Contingency planning is considered throughout the system development life cycle and is a fundamental part of the system design. Systems can be designed for redundancy, to provide backup capabilities, and for resilience. Contingency plans reflect the degree of restoration required for organizational systems since not all systems need to fully recover to achieve the level of continuity of operations desired. System recovery objectives reflect applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, guidelines, organizational risk tolerance, and system impact level.

Actions addressed in contingency plans include orderly system degradation, system shutdown, fallback to a manual mode, alternate information flows, and operating in modes reserved for when systems are under attack. By coordinating contingency planning with incident handling activities, organizations ensure that the necessary planning activities are in place and activated in the event of an incident. Incident response planning is part of contingency planning for organizations and is addressed in the IR (Incident Response) family.

Control Enhancements:

(1) CONTINGENCY PLAN | COORDINATE WITH RELATED PLANS

[Priority 2]

Control:

Coordinate contingency plan development with organizational elements responsible for related plans.

Discussion: Plans that are related to contingency plans include Business Continuity Plans, Disaster Recovery Plans, Critical Infrastructure Plans, Continuity of Operations Plans, Crisis Communications Plans, Insider Threat Implementation Plans, Data Breach Response Plans, Cyber Incident Response Plans, Breach Response Plans, and Occupant Emergency Plans.

Related Controls: None.

(3) CONTINGENCY PLAN | RESUME MISSION AND BUSINESS FUNCTIONS

[Priority 2]

Control:

Plan for the resumption of essential mission and business functions within twenty-four (24) hours of contingency plan activation.

Discussion: Organizations may choose to conduct contingency planning activities to resume mission and business functions as part of business continuity planning or as part of business impact analyses. Organizations prioritize the resumption of mission and business functions. The time period for resuming mission and business functions may be dependent on the severity and extent of the disruptions to the system and its supporting infrastructure.

Related Controls: None.

(8) CONTINGENCY PLAN | IDENTIFY CRITICAL ASSETS

[Priority 2]

Control:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Identify critical system assets supporting essential mission and business functions.

Discussion: Organizations may choose to identify critical assets as part of criticality analysis, business continuity planning, or business impact analyses. Organizations identify critical system assets so that additional controls can be employed (beyond the controls routinely implemented) to help ensure that organizational mission and business functions can continue to be conducted during contingency operations. The identification of critical information assets also facilitates the prioritization of organizational resources. Critical system assets include technical and operational aspects. Technical aspects include system components, information technology services, information technology products, and mechanisms. Operational aspects include procedures (i.e., manually executed operations) and personnel (i.e., individuals operating technical controls and/or executing manual procedures). Organizational program protection plans can assist in identifying critical assets.

Related Controls: CM-8, RA-9.

CP-3 CONTINGENCY TRAINING

[Priority 3]

Control:

a. Provide contingency training to system users consistent with assigned roles and responsibilities:
    1. Within thirty (30) days of assuming a contingency role or responsibility;
    2. When required by system changes; and
    3. Annually thereafter; and
b. Review and update contingency training content annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI, or training simulations or exercises.

Discussion: Contingency training provided by organizations is linked to the assigned roles and responsibilities of organizational personnel to ensure that the appropriate content and level of detail is included in such training. For example, some individuals may only need to know when and where to report for duty during contingency operations and if normal duties are affected; system administrators may require additional training on how to establish systems at alternate processing and storage sites; and organizational officials may receive more specific training on how to conduct mission-essential functions in designated off-site locations and how to establish communications with other governmental entities for purposes of coordination on contingency-related activities. Training for contingency roles or responsibilities reflects the specific continuity requirements in the contingency plan. Events that may precipitate an update to contingency training content include, but are not limited to, contingency plan testing or an actual contingency (lessons learned), assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. At the discretion of the organization, participation in a contingency plan test or exercise, including lessons learned sessions subsequent to the test or exercise, may satisfy contingency plan training requirements.

CP-4 CONTINGENCY PLAN TESTING

[Priority 3]

Control:

a. Test the contingency plan for the system annually using the following tests to determine the effectiveness of the plan and the readiness to execute the plan: checklists, walk-through and tabletop exercises, simulations (parallel or full interrupt), or comprehensive exercises.

b. Review the contingency plan test results; and

c. Initiate corrective actions, if needed.

Discussion: Methods for testing contingency plans to determine the effectiveness of the plans and identify potential weaknesses include checklists, walk-through and tabletop exercises, simulations (parallel or full interrupt), and comprehensive exercises. Organizations conduct testing based on the requirements in contingency plans and include a determination of the effects on organizational operations, assets, and individuals due to contingency operations. Organizations have flexibility and discretion in the breadth, depth, and timelines of corrective actions.

Control Enhancements:

(1) CONTINGENCY PLAN TESTING | COORDINATE WITH RELATED PLANS

[Priority 3]

Control:

Coordinate contingency plan testing with organizational elements responsible for related plans.

Discussion: Plans related to contingency planning for organizational systems include Business Continuity Plans, Disaster Recovery Plans, Continuity of Operations Plans, Crisis Communications Plans, Critical Infrastructure Plans, Cyber Incident Response Plans, and Occupant Emergency Plans. Coordination of contingency plan testing does not require organizations to create organizational elements to handle related plans or to align such elements with specific plans. However, it does require that if such organizational elements are responsible for related plans, organizations coordinate with those elements.

Related Controls: IR-8.

CP-6 ALTERNATE STORAGE SITE

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Establish an alternate storage site, including necessary agreements to permit the storage and

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

retrieval of system backup information; and

b. Ensure that the alternate storage site provides controls equivalent to that of the primary site.

Discussion: Alternate storage sites are geographically distinct from primary storage sites and maintain duplicate copies of information and data if the primary storage site is not available. Similarly, alternate processing sites provide processing capability if the primary processing site is not available. Geographically distributed architectures that support contingency requirements may be considered alternate storage sites. Items covered by alternate storage site agreements include environmental conditions at the alternate sites, access rules for systems and facilities, physical and environmental protection requirements, and coordination of delivery and retrieval of backup media. Alternate storage sites reflect the requirements in contingency plans so that organizations can maintain essential mission and business functions despite compromise, failure, or disruption in organizational systems.

Related Controls: CP-2, CP-7, CP-8, CP-9, CP-10, MP-4, MP-5, PE-3.

Control Enhancements:

(1) ALTERNATE STORAGE SITE | SEPARATION FROM PRIMARY SITE

[Priority 2]

Control:

Identify an alternate storage site that is sufficiently separated from the primary storage site to reduce susceptibility to the same threats.

Discussion: Threats that affect alternate storage sites are defined in organizational risk assessments and include natural disasters, structural failures, hostile attacks, and errors of omission or commission. Organizations determine what is considered a sufficient degree of separation between primary and alternate storage sites based on the types of threats that are of concern. For threats such as hostile attacks, the degree of separation between sites is less relevant.

Related Controls: RA-3.

(3) ALTERNATE STORAGE SITE | ACCESSIBILITY

[Priority 2]

Control:

Identify potential accessibility problems to the alternate storage site in the event of an area-wide disruption or disaster and outline explicit mitigation actions.

Discussion: Area-wide disruptions refer to those types of disruptions that are broad in geographic scope with such determinations made by organizations based on organizational assessments of risk. Explicit mitigation actions include duplicating backup information at other alternate storage sites if access problems occur at originally designated alternate sites or planning for physical access to retrieve backup information if electronic accessibility to the alternate site is disrupted.

Related Controls: RA-3.

CP-7 ALTERNATE PROCESSING SITE

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Establish an alternate processing site, including necessary agreements to permit the transfer and resumption of operations for essential mission and business functions within the time period defined in the system contingency plan(s) when the primary processing capabilities are unavailable;

b. Make available at the alternate processing site, the equipment and supplies required to transfer and resume operations or put contracts in place to support delivery to the site within the organization-defined time period for transfer and resumption; and

c. Provide controls at the alternate processing site that are equivalent to those at the primary site.

Discussion: Alternate processing sites are geographically distinct from primary processing sites and provide processing capability if the primary processing site is not available. The alternate processing capability may be addressed using a physical processing site or other alternatives, such as failover to a cloud-based service provider or other internally or externally provided processing service. Geographically distributed architectures that support contingency requirements may also be considered alternate processing sites. Controls that are covered by alternate processing site agreements include the environmental conditions at alternate sites, access rules, physical and environmental protection requirements, and the coordination for the transfer and assignment of personnel. Requirements are allocated to alternate processing sites that reflect the requirements in contingency plans to maintain essential mission and business functions despite disruption, compromise, or failure in organizational systems.

Related Controls: CP-2, CP-6, CP-8, CP-9, CP-10, MA-6, PE-3, PE-11, PE-12, PE-17.

Control Enhancements:

(1) ALTERNATE PROCESSING SITE | SEPARATION FROM PRIMARY SITE

[Priority 2]

Control:

Identify an alternate processing site that is sufficiently separated from the primary processing site to reduce susceptibility to the same threats.

Discussion: Threats that affect alternate processing sites are defined in organizational assessments of risk and include natural disasters, structural failures, hostile attacks, and errors of omission or commission. Organizations determine what is considered a sufficient degree of separation between primary and alternate processing sites based on the types of threats that are of concern. For threats such as hostile attacks, the degree of separation between sites is less relevant.

Related Controls: RA-3.

(2) ALTERNATE PROCESSING SITE | ACCESSIBILITY

[Priority 2]

Control:

Identify potential accessibility problems to alternate processing sites in the event of an area-wide disruption or disaster and outlines explicit mitigation actions.

Discussion: Area-wide disruptions refer to those types of disruptions that are broad in geographic scope with such determinations made by organizations based on organizational assessments of risk.

Related Controls: RA-3.

(3) ALTERNATE PROCESSING SITE | PRIORITY OF SERVICE

[Priority 2]

Control:

Develop alternate processing site agreements that contain priority-of-service provisions in accordance with availability requirements (including recovery time objectives).

Discussion: Priority of service agreements refer to negotiated agreements with service providers that ensure that organizations receive priority treatment consistent with their availability requirements and the availability of information resources for logical alternate processing and/or at the physical alternate processing site. Organizations establish recovery time objectives as part of contingency planning.

Related Controls: None.

CP-8 TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICES

[Priority 2]

Control:

Establish alternate telecommunications services, including necessary agreements to permit the resumption of system operations for essential mission and business functions within the time period as defined in the system contingency plan(s) when the primary telecommunications capabilities are unavailable at either the primary or alternate processing or storage sites.

Discussion: Telecommunications services (for data and voice) for primary and alternate processing and storage sites are in scope for CP-8. Alternate telecommunications services reflect the continuity requirements in contingency plans to maintain essential mission and business functions despite the loss of primary telecommunications services. Organizations may specify different time periods for primary or alternate sites. Alternate telecommunications services include additional organizational or commercial ground-based circuits or lines, network-based approaches to telecommunications, or the use of satellites. Organizations consider factors such as availability, quality of service, and access when entering into alternate telecommunications agreements.

Related Controls: CP-2, CP-6, CP-7, SC-7.

Control Enhancements:

(1) TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICES | PRIORITY OF SERVICE PROVISIONS

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop primary and alternate telecommunications service agreements that contain priority-of-service provisions in accordance with availability requirements (including recovery time objectives); and
b. Request Telecommunications Service Priority for all telecommunications services used for national security emergency preparedness if the primary and/or alternate telecommunications services are provided by a common carrier.

Discussion: Organizations consider the potential mission or business impact in situations where telecommunications service providers are servicing other organizations with similar priority of service provisions. Telecommunications Service Priority (TSP) is a Federal Communications Commission (FCC) program that directs telecommunications service providers (e.g., wireline and wireless phone companies) to give preferential treatment to users enrolled in the program when they need to add new lines or have their lines restored following a disruption of service, regardless of the cause. The FCC sets the rules and policies for the TSP program, and the Department of Homeland Security manages the TSP program. The TSP program is always in effect and not contingent on a major disaster or attack taking place. Federal sponsorship is required to enroll in the TSP program.

Related Controls: None.

(2) TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICES | SINGLE POINTS OF FAILURE

[Priority 2]

Control:

Obtain alternate telecommunications services to reduce the likelihood of sharing a single point of failure with primary telecommunications services.

Discussion: In certain circumstances, telecommunications service providers or services may share the same physical lines, which increases the vulnerability of a single failure point. It is important to have provider transparency for the actual physical transmission capability for telecommunication services.

CP-9 SYSTEM BACKUP

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Conduct backups of user-level information contained in operational systems for essential business functions as required by the contingency plans;

b. Conduct backups of system-level information contained in the system as required by the contingency plans;

c. Conduct backups of system documentation, including security- and privacy-related documentation as required by the contingency plans; and

d. Protect the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of backup information.

Discussion: System-level information includes system state information, operating system software, middleware, application software, and licenses. User-level information includes information other than system-level information. Mechanisms employed to protect the integrity of system backups include digital signatures and cryptographic hashes. Protection of system backup information while in transit is addressed by MP-5 and SC-8. System backups reflect the requirements in contingency plans as well as other organizational requirements for backing up information. Organizations may be subject to laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, or policies with requirements regarding specific categories of information (e.g., criminal justice information). Organizational personnel consult with the senior agency official for privacy and legal counsel regarding such requirements.

Control Enhancements:

(1) SYSTEM BACKUP | TESTING FOR RELIABILITY AND INTEGRITY

[Priority 2]

Control:

Test backup information as required by the contingency plans to verify media reliability and information integrity.

Discussion: Organizations need assurance that backup information can be reliably retrieved. Reliability pertains to the systems and system components where the backup information is stored, the operations used to retrieve the information, and the integrity of the information being retrieved. Independent and specialized tests can be used for each of the aspects of reliability. For example, decrypting and transporting (or transmitting) a random sample of backup files from the alternate storage or backup site and comparing the information to the same information at the primary processing site can provide such assurance.

Related Controls: CP-4.

(8) SYSTEM BACKUP | CRYPTOGRAPHIC PROTECTION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Implement cryptographic mechanisms to prevent unauthorized disclosure and modification of CJI.

Discussion: The selection of cryptographic mechanisms is based on the need to protect the confidentiality and integrity of backup information. The strength of mechanisms selected is commensurate with the security category or classification of the information. Cryptographic protection applies to system backup information in storage at both primary and alternate locations. Organizations that implement cryptographic mechanisms to protect information at rest also consider cryptographic key management solutions.

Related Controls: SC-12, SC-13, SC-28.

CP-10 SYSTEM RECOVERY AND RECONSTITUTION

[Priority 2]

Control:

Provide for the recovery and reconstitution of the system to a known state within the timeframe as required by the contingency plans after a disruption, compromise, or failure.

Discussion: Recovery is executing contingency plan activities to restore organizational mission and business functions. Reconstitution takes place following recovery and includes activities for returning systems to fully operational states. Recovery and reconstitution operations reflect mission and business priorities; recovery point, recovery time, and reconstitution objectives; and organizational metrics consistent with contingency plan requirements. Reconstitution includes the deactivation of interim system capabilities that may have been needed during recovery operations. Reconstitution also includes assessments of fully restored system capabilities, reestablishment of continuous monitoring activities, system reauthorization (if required), and activities to prepare the system and organization for future disruptions, breaches, compromises, or failures. Recovery and reconstitution capabilities can include automated mechanisms and manual procedures. Organizations establish recovery time and recovery point objectives as part of contingency planning.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Discussion: Transaction-based systems include database management systems and transaction processing systems. Mechanisms supporting transaction recovery include transaction rollback and transaction journaling.

5.19 RISK ASSESSMENT (RA)

RA-1 POLICY AND PROCEDURES

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Develop, document, and disseminate to organizational personnel with risk assessment responsibilities:
   1. Agency Level risk assessment policy that:
      (a) Addresses purpose, scope, roles, responsibilities, management commitment, coordination among organizational entities, and compliance; and
      (b) Is consistent with applicable laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines; and
   2. Procedures to facilitate the implementation of the risk assessment policy and the associated risk assessment controls;

b. Designate organizational personnel with security and privacy responsibilities to manage the development, documentation, and dissemination of the risk assessment policy and procedures; and

c. Review and update the current risk assessment:
   1. Policy annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI; and
   2. Procedures annually and following any security incidents involving unauthorized access to CJI or systems used to process, store, or transmit CJI.

Discussion: Risk assessment policy and procedures address the controls in the RA family that are implemented within systems and organizations. The risk management strategy is an important factor in establishing such policies and procedures. Policies and procedures contribute to security and privacy assurance. Therefore, it is important that security and privacy programs collaborate on the development of risk assessment policy and procedures. Security and privacy program policies and procedures at the organization level are preferable, in general, and may obviate the need for mission- or system-specific policies and procedures. The policy can be included as part of the general security and privacy policy or be represented by multiple policies reflecting the complex nature of organizations. Procedures can be established for security and privacy programs, for mission or business processes, and for systems, if needed. Procedures describe how the policies or controls are implemented and can be directed at the individual or role that is the object of the procedure. Procedures can be documented in system security and privacy plans or in one or more separate documents. Events that may precipitate an update to risk assessment policy and procedures include assessment or audit findings, security incidents or breaches, or changes in laws, executive orders, directives, regulations, policies, standards, and guidelines. Simply restating controls does not constitute an organizational policy or procedure.

RA-2 SECURITY CATEGORIZATION

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Categorize the system and information it processes, stores, and transmits;

b. Document the security categorization results, including supporting rationale, in the security plan for the system; and

c. Verify that the authorizing official or authorizing official designated representative reviews and approves the security categorization decision.

Discussion: Security categories describe the potential adverse impacts or negative consequences to organizational operations, organizational assets, and individuals if organizational information and systems are compromised through a loss of confidentiality, integrity, or availability. Security categorization is also a type of asset loss characterization in systems security engineering processes that is carried out throughout the system development life cycle. Organizations can use privacy risk assessments or privacy impact assessments to better understand the potential adverse effects on individuals. The FBI CJIS Advisory Policy Board (APB) has assigned a security categorization of "moderate" for CJI and systems that process, store, and transmit CJI.

Organizations conduct the security categorization process as an organization-wide activity with the direct involvement of chief information officers, senior agency information security officers, senior agency officials for privacy, system owners, mission and business owners, and information owners or stewards.

Security categorization processes facilitate the development of inventories of information assets and, along with CM-8, mappings to specific system components where information is processed, stored, or transmitted. The security categorization process is revisited throughout the system development life cycle to ensure that the security categories remain accurate and relevant.

RA-3 RISK ASSESSMENT

[Priority 2]

Control:

a. Conduct a risk assessment, including:

   1. Identifying threats to and vulnerabilities in the system;

   2. Determining the likelihood and magnitude of harm from unauthorized access, use, disclosure, disruption, modification, or destruction of the system, the information it processes, stores, or transmits, and any related information; and

   3. Determining the likelihood and impact of adverse effects on individuals arising from the processing of personally identifiable information;

b. Integrate risk assessment results and risk management decisions from the organization and

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

mission or business process perspectives with system-level risk assessments;
c. Document risk assessment results in a risk assessment report;
d. Review risk assessment results at least quarterly;
e. Disseminate risk assessment results to organizational personnel with risk assessment responsibilities and organizational personnel with security and privacy responsibilities; and
f. Update the risk assessment at least quarterly or when there are significant changes to the system, its environment of operation, or other conditions that may impact the security or privacy state of the system.

Discussion: Risk assessments consider threats, vulnerabilities, likelihood, and impact to organizational operations and assets, individuals, other organizations, and the Nation. Risk assessments also consider risk from external parties, including contractors who operate systems on behalf of the organization, individuals who access organizational systems, service providers, and outsourcing entities.

Organizations can conduct risk assessments at all three levels in the risk management hierarchy (i.e., organization level, mission/business process level, or information system level) and at any stage in the system development life cycle. Risk assessments can also be conducted at various steps in the Risk Management Framework, including preparation, categorization, control selection, control implementation, control assessment, authorization, and control monitoring. Risk assessment is an ongoing activity carried out throughout the system development life cycle.

Risk assessments can also address information related to the system, including system design, the intended use of the system, testing results, and supply chain-related information or artifacts. Risk assessments can play an important role in control selection processes, particularly during the application of tailoring guidance and in the earliest phases of capability determination.

RA-5 VULNERABILITY MONITORING AND SCANNING

[Priority 1]

Control:

a. Monitor and scan for vulnerabilities in the system and hosted applications at least monthly and when new vulnerabilities potentially affecting the system are identified and reported;
b. Employ vulnerability monitoring tools and techniques that facilitate interoperability among tools and automate parts of the vulnerability management process by using standards for:
    1. Enumerating platforms, software flaws, and improper configurations;
    2. Formatting checklists and test procedures; and
    3. Measuring vulnerability impact;
c. Analyze vulnerability scan reports and results from vulnerability monitoring;
d. Remediate legitimate vulnerabilities within the number of days listed;
    - Critical–15 days

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

- High–30 days
- Medium–60 days
- Low–90 days; and

e. Share information obtained from the vulnerability monitoring process and control assessments with organizational personnel with risk assessment, control assessment, and vulnerability scanning responsibilities to help eliminate similar vulnerabilities in other systems; and

f. Employ vulnerability monitoring tools that include the capability to readily update the vulnerabilities to be scanned.

Discussion: Security categorization of information and systems guides the frequency and comprehensiveness of vulnerability monitoring (including scans). Organizations determine the required vulnerability monitoring for system components, ensuring that the potential sources of vulnerabilities—such as infrastructure components (e.g., switches, routers, guards, sensors), networked printers, scanners, and copiers—are not overlooked. The capability to readily update vulnerability monitoring tools as new vulnerabilities are discovered and announced and as new scanning methods are developed helps to ensure that new vulnerabilities are not missed by employed vulnerability monitoring tools. The vulnerability monitoring tool update process helps to ensure that potential vulnerabilities in the system are identified and addressed as quickly as possible. Vulnerability monitoring and analyses for custom software may require additional approaches, such as static analysis, dynamic analysis, binary analysis, or a hybrid of the three approaches. Organizations can use these analysis approaches in source code reviews and in a variety of tools, including web-based application scanners, static analysis tools, and binary analyzers.

Vulnerability monitoring includes scanning for patch levels; scanning for functions, ports, protocols, and services that should not be accessible to users or devices; and scanning for flow control mechanisms that are improperly configured or operating incorrectly. Vulnerability monitoring may also include continuous vulnerability monitoring tools that use instrumentation to continuously analyze components. Instrumentation-based tools may improve accuracy and may be run throughout an organization without scanning. Vulnerability monitoring tools that facilitate interoperability include tools that are Security Content Automated Protocol (SCAP)-validated. Thus, organizations consider using scanning tools that express vulnerabilities in the Common Vulnerabilities and Exposures (CVE) naming convention and that employ the Open Vulnerability Assessment Language (OVAL) to determine the presence of vulnerabilities. Sources for vulnerability information include the Common Weakness Enumeration (CWE) listing and the National Vulnerability Database (NVD). Control assessments, such as red team exercises, provide additional sources of potential vulnerabilities for which to scan. Organizations also consider using scanning tools that express vulnerability impact by the Common Vulnerability Scoring System (CVSS).

Vulnerability monitoring includes a channel and process for receiving reports of security vulnerabilities from the public at-large. Vulnerability disclosure programs can be as simple as publishing a monitored email address or web form that can receive reports, including notification authorizing good-faith research and disclosure of security vulnerabilities. Organizations generally expect that such research is happening with or without their authorization and can use public vulnerability disclosure channels to increase the likelihood that discovered vulnerabilities are reported directly to the organization for remediation.

Organizations may also employ the use of financial incentives (also known as "bug bounties") to further encourage external security researchers to report discovered vulnerabilities. Bug bounty programs can be tailored to the organization's needs. Bounties can be operated indefinitely or over a defined period of time and can be offered to the general public or to a curated group. Organizations may run public and private bounties simultaneously and could choose to offer partially credentialed access to certain participants in order to evaluate security vulnerabilities from privileged vantage points.

Control Enhancements:

(2) VULNERABILITY MONITORING AND SCANNING | UPDATE VULNERABILITIES TO BE SCANNED

[Priority 1]

Control:

Update the system vulnerabilities to be scanned within 24 hours prior to running a new scan or when new vulnerabilities are identified and reported.

Discussion: Due to the complexity of modern software, systems, and other factors, new vulnerabilities are discovered on a regular basis. It is important that newly discovered vulnerabilities are added to the list of vulnerabilities to be scanned to ensure that the organization can take steps to mitigate those vulnerabilities in a timely manner.

Related Controls: SI-5.

(5) VULNERABILITY MONITORING AND SCANNING | PRIVILEGED ACCESS

[Priority 1]

Control:

Implement privileged access authorization to information system components containing or processing CJI for vulnerability scanning activities requiring privileged access.

Discussion: In certain situations, the nature of the vulnerability scanning may be more intrusive, or the system component that is the subject of the scanning may contain classified or controlled unclassified information, such as personally identifiable information. Privileged access authorization to selected system components facilitates more thorough vulnerability scanning and protects the sensitive nature of such scanning.

Related Controls: None.

(11) VULNERABILITY MONITORING AND SCANNING | PUBLIC DISCLOSURE PROGRAM

[Priority 1]

Control:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Establish a public reporting channel for receiving reports of vulnerabilities in organizational systems and system components.

Discussion: The reporting channel is publicly discoverable and contains clear language authorizing good-faith research and the disclosure of vulnerabilities to the organization. The organization does not condition its authorization on an expectation of indefinite non- disclosure to the public by the reporting entity but may request a specific time period to properly remediate the vulnerability.

Related Controls: None.

RA-7 RISK RESPONSE

[Priority 2]

Control:

Respond to findings from security and privacy assessments, monitoring, and audits in accordance with organizational risk tolerance.

Discussion: Organizations have many options for responding to risk including mitigating risk by implementing new controls or strengthening existing controls, accepting risk with appropriate justification or rationale, sharing or transferring risk, or avoiding risk. The risk tolerance of the organization influences risk response decisions and actions. Risk response addresses the need to determine an appropriate response to risk before generating a plan of action and milestones entry. For example, the response may be to accept risk or reject risk, or it may be possible to mitigate the risk immediately so that a plan of action and milestones entry is not needed.

However, if the risk response is to mitigate the risk, and the mitigation cannot be completed immediately, a plan of action and milestones entry is generated.

Related Controls: CA-5, RA-2, RA-3, SR-2.

RA-9 CRITICALITY ANALYSIS

[Priority 2]

Control:

Identify critical system components and functions by performing a criticality analysis for information system components containing or processing CJI at the planning, design, development, testing, implementation, and maintenance stages of the system development life cycle.

Discussion: Not all system components, functions, or services necessarily require significant protections. For example, criticality analysis is a key tenet of supply chain risk management and informs the prioritization of protection activities. The identification of critical system components and functions considers applicable laws, executive orders, regulations, directives, policies, standards, system functionality requirements, system and component interfaces, and system and component dependencies. Systems engineers conduct a functional decomposition of a system to identify mission-critical functions and components. The functional decomposition includes the identification of organizational missions supported by the system, decomposition into the specific functions to perform those missions, and traceability to the hardware, software, and firmware components that implement those functions, including when the functions are shared by many components within and external to the system.

The operational environment of a system or a system component may impact the criticality, including the connections to and dependencies on cyber-physical systems, devices, system-of-systems, and outsourced IT services. System components that allow unmediated access to critical system components or functions are considered critical due to the inherent vulnerabilities that such components create. Component and function criticality are assessed in terms of the impact of a component or function failure on the organizational missions that are supported by the system that contains the components and functions.

Criticality analysis is performed when an architecture or design is being developed, modified, or upgraded. If such analysis is performed early in the system development life cycle, organizations may be able to modify the system design to reduce the critical nature of these components and functions, such as by adding redundancy or alternate paths into the system design. Criticality analysis can also influence the protection measures required by development contractors. In addition to criticality analysis for systems, system components, and system services, criticality analysis of information is an important consideration. Such analysis is conducted as part of security categorization in RA-2.

Administration of Criminal Justice — The detection, apprehension, detention, pretrial release, post-trial release, prosecution, adjudication, correctional supervision, or rehabilitation of accused persons or criminal offenders. It also includes criminal identification activities; the collection, storage, and dissemination of criminal history record information; and criminal justice employment. In addition, administration of criminal justice includes "crime prevention programs" to the extent access to criminal history record information is limited to law enforcement agencies for law enforcement programs (e.g., record checks of individuals who participate in Neighborhood Watch or "safe house" programs) and the result of such checks will not be disseminated outside the law enforcement agency.

information: IDPs should assert this attribute to indicate the strength of the authenticator used for the current authentication process; AAL1 (low), AAL2 (medium), and AAL3 (high). AAL2 and AAL3 require multifactor authentication; although the use of multiple factors does not automatically qualify for AAL2.

The Channeler ensures fingerprint submissions are properly and adequately completed, electronically forwards fingerprint submissions to the FBI's CJIS Division for national noncriminal justice criminal history record check, and receives electronic record check results for dissemination to Authorized Recipients. A Channeler is essentially an "expediter" rather than a user of criminal history record check results.

Compensating Controls — Compensating controls are temporary control measures implemented in lieu of the required control measures when an agency cannot meet the AA requirement due to legitimate technical or business constraints. The compensating controls must:

1. Meet the intent of the CJIS Security Policy AA requirement

3. Not rely upon the existing requirements for AA as compensating controls

Additionally, compensating controls may rely upon other, non-AA, existing requirements as compensating controls and/or be combined with new controls to create compensating controls.

APPENDIX C NETWORK TOPOLOGY DIAGRAMS

Network diagrams, i.e., topological drawings, are an essential part of solid network security. Through graphical illustration, a comprehensive network diagram provides the "big picture" – enabling network managers to quickly ascertain the interconnecting nodes of a network for a multitude of purposes, including troubleshooting and optimization. Network diagrams are integral to demonstrating the manner in which each agency ensures criminal justice data is afforded appropriate technical security protections and is protected during transit and at rest.

The following diagrams, labeled Appendix C.1-A through C.1-D, are examples for agencies to utilize during the development, maintenance, and update stages of their own network diagrams. By using these example drawings as a guideline, agencies can form the foundation for ensuring compliance with Section 5.7.1.2 of the CJIS Security Policy.

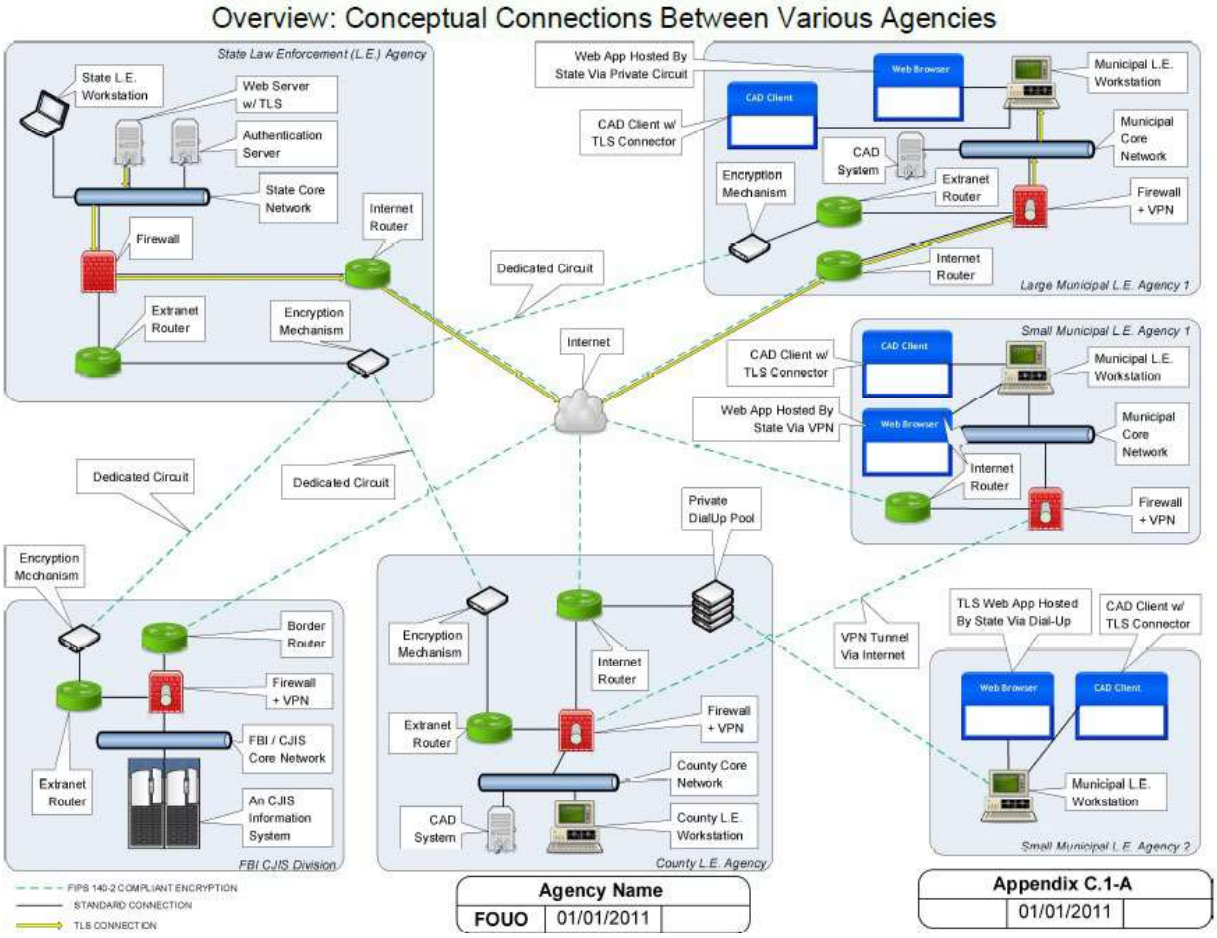
The purpose for including the following diagrams in this Policy is to aid agencies in their understanding of diagram expectations and should not be construed as a mandated method for network topologies. It should also be noted that agencies are not required to use the identical icons depicted in the example diagrams and should not construe any depiction of a particular vendor product as an endorsement of that product by the FBI CJIS Division.

Appendix C.1-A is a conceptual overview of the various types of agencies that can be involved in handling of CJI, and illustrates several ways in which these interconnections might occur. This diagram is not intended to demonstrate the level of detail required for any given agency's documentation, but it provides the reader with some additional context through which to digest the following diagrams. Take particular note of the types of network interfaces in use between agencies, in some cases dedicated circuits with encryption mechanisms, and in other cases VPNs over the Internet. This diagram attempts to show the level of diversity possible within the law enforcement community. These diagrams in no way constitute a standard for network engineering, but rather, for the expected quality of documentation.

The next three topology diagrams, C.1-B through C.1-D, depict conceptual agencies. For C.1-B through C.1-D, the details identifying specific "moving parts" in the diagrams by manufacturer and model are omitted, but it is expected that any agencies producing such documentation will provide diagrams with full manufacturer and model detail for each element of the diagram. Note that the quantities of clients should be documented in order to assist the auditor in understanding the scale of assets and information being protected.

Appendix C.1-B depicts a conceptual state law enforcement agency's network topology and demonstrates a number of common technologies that are in use throughout the law enforcement community (some of which are compulsory per CJIS policy, and some of which are optional) including Mobile Broadband cards, VPNs, Firewalls, Intrusion Detection Devices, VLANs, and so forth. Note that although most state agencies will likely have highly-available configurations, the example diagram shown omits these complexities and only shows the "major moving parts" for clarity but please note the Policy requires the logical location of all components be shown. The level of detail depicted should provide the reader with a pattern to model future documentation from, but should not be taken as network engineering guidance.

Appendix C.1-C depicts a conceptual county law enforcement agency. A number of common technologies are presented merely to reflect the diversity in the community, including proprietary



Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Packet-over-RF infrastructures and advanced authentication techniques, and to demonstrate the fact that agencies can act as proxies for other agencies.

Appendix C.1-D depicts a conceptual municipal law enforcement agency, presumably a small one that lacks any precinct-to-patrol data communications. This represents one of the smallest designs that could be assembled that, assuming all other details are properly considered, would meet the criteria for Section 5.7.1.2. This diagram helps to demonstrate the diversity in size that agencies handling criminal justice data exhibit.

D.1 CJIS User Agreement

CRIMINAL JUSTICE INFORMATION SERVICES (CJIS) DIVISION'S SYSTEM AND PROGRAM USER AGREEMENT

The FBI's CJIS Division provides state-of-the-art systems, programs, and services to the federal, state, local, tribal, regional, territorial, and foreign criminal and noncriminal justice communities. Through a shared management concept, the CJIS Division's systems, programs, and services are administered and maintained by the FBI's CJIS Division and managed in cooperation with the CJIS Advisory Policy Board (APB) and the Council established by the National Crime Prevention and Privacy Compact Act of 1998 (Compact). The CJIS Division's System and Program User Agreement (hereafter referenced as the User Agreement) covers the following: Law Enforcement Enterprise Portal (LEEP); National Crime Information Center (NCIC); National Instant Criminal Background Check System (NICS); National Data Exchange (N-DEx) System; Next Generation Identification (NGI) System; and the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program.

This User Agreement is intended to identify the categories of users, as defined by the CJIS Security Policy (CJISSECPOL), and outlines the roles and responsibilities associated with participating in the CJIS Division's systems, programs, and services available to the above-listed criminal and noncriminal justice communities. This User Agreement identifies additional documentation as a valuable resource available to those individuals responsible for reviewing and signing the User Agreement.

PART 1-USER DEFINITIONS

A CJIS Systems Agency (CSA) is a duly authorized state, federal, international, tribal, or territorial criminal justice agency on the CJIS network providing statewide (or equivalent) service to its criminal justice users with respect to the criminal justice information (CJI) from various systems managed by the FBI's CJIS Division. MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING

BETWEEN

THE FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

AND

(Insert Name of Requesting Organization)

FOR

THE ESTABLISHMENT AND ACCOMMODATION OF
THIRD-PARTY CONNECTIVITY TO THE CRIMINAL JUSTICE INFORMATION SERVICES DIVISION'S WIDE AREA NETWORK

1. PURPOSE: This Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and (insert requesting organization's name), hereinafter referred to as the "parties," memorializes each party's responsibilities with regard to establishing connectivity to records services accessible via the Wide Area Network (WAN) of the FBI's Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Division.

2. BACKGROUND: The requesting organization, (insert requesting organization's name), being approved for access to systems of records accessible via the CJIS WAN, desires connectivity to the CJIS WAN or via a secure Virtual Private Network (VPN) Connection (Internet) to the CJIS WAN. The CJIS Division has created a framework for accommodating such requests based on the type of connection.

In preparing for such non-CJIS-funded connectivity to the CJIS WAN, the parties plan to acquire, configure, and place needed communications equipment at suitable sites and to make electronic connections to the appropriate systems of records via the CJIS WAN.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

To ensure that there is a clear understanding between the parties regarding their respective roles in this process, this MOU memorializes each party's responsibilities regarding the development, operation, and maintenance of third-party connectivity to the CJIS WAN. Unless otherwise contained in an associated contract, the enclosed terms apply. If there is a conflict between terms and provisions contained in both the contract and this MOU, the contract will prevail.

iii. Work with the requesting organization to install the connection termination equipment suite and verify connectivity.
iv. Perform installation and/or routine maintenance on the requesting organization's third-party dedicated CJIS WAN connection termination equipment after coordinating with the requesting organization's designated point of contact (POC) and during a time when the CJIS Division's technical personnel are near the requesting organization's site.
v. Perform periodic monitoring and troubleshooting of the requesting organization's CJIS WAN connection termination equipment. Software patches will be maintained on the dedicated CJIS WAN connected network equipment only. Under the Secure VPN option, no availability or data thru-put rates will be guaranteed.
vi. Provide 24 hours a day, 7 days a week uninterrupted monitoring from the CJIS Division's Network Operations Center.
vii. Provide information regarding potential hardware end-of-life replacement cycles to the requesting organization for its budgeting purposes.
viii. Maintain third-party dedicated CJIS WAN connection termination equipment as if in the CJIS Division's operational environment.
ix. Update the appropriate software on the requesting organization's dedicated connection termination equipment connected to the CJIS WAN (i.e., Cisco

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Internetwork Operating System, SafeNet frame relay encryptor firmware, etc.) pursuant to the requesting organization's authorized maintenance contracts.

- Legal and legislative review of matters pertaining to IAFIS, CJIS WAN and other related services;
- Timely information on all aspects of IAFIS, CJIS WAN, and other related programs by means of technical and operational updates, various newsletters, and other relative documents;

- Training assistance and up-to-date materials provided to each designated agency official, and;

- Audit.

The concept behind a designated interface agency official is to unify responsibility for system user discipline and ensure adherence to system procedures and policies within each interface agency. These individuals are ultimately responsible for planning necessary hardware, software, funding, training, and the administration of policy and procedures including security and integrity for complete access to CJIS related systems and CJIS WAN related data services by authorized agencies.

The following documents and procedures are incorporated by reference and made part of this agreement:

- CJIS Security Policy;

- Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 20;

- Computer Incident Response Capability (CIRC);

- Applicable federal and state laws and regulations.

To ensure continued access as set forth above, the designated interface agency agrees to adhere to all CJIS policies, including, but not limited to, the following:

1. The signatory criminal agency will provide fingerprints for all qualifying arrests either via electronic submission or fingerprint card that meet submission criteria. In addition, the agency will make their records available for interstate exchange for criminal justice and other authorized purposes.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

2. The signatory civil agency with legislative authority will provide all qualifying fingerprints via electronic submission or fingerprint card that meet submission criteria.

3. Appropriate and reasonable quality assurance procedures must be in place to ensure that only complete, accurate, and valid information is maintained in the system.

4. Security – Each agency is responsible for appropriate security measures as applicable to physical security of terminals and telecommunications lines; Interim Distributed Imaging System (IDIS) equipment shall remain stand-alone devices and be used only for authorized purposes; personnel security to meet background screening requirements; technical security to protect against unauthorized use; data security, dissemination, and logging for audit purposes; and actual security of criminal history records. Additionally, each agency must establish an information security structure that provides for an Information Security Officer (ISO) or a security point of contact.

5. Audit – Each agency shall be responsible for complying with the appropriate audit requirements.

6. Training – Each agency shall be responsible for training requirements, including compliance with training mandates.

7. Integrity of the system shall be in accordance with FBI CJIS Division and interface agency policies. Computer incident reporting shall be implemented.

Until states are able to provide remote latent connectivity to their respective latent communities via a state WAN connection, the CJIS Division may provide direct connectivity to IAFIS via a dial-up connection or through the Combined DNA Index System (CODIS) and/or National Integrated Ballistics Information Network (NIBIN) connections. When a state implements a latent management system and is able to provide intrastate connectivity and subsequent forwarding to IAFIS, this agreement may be terminated. Such termination notice will be provided in writing by either the FBI or the state CJIS Systems Agency.

It is the responsibility of the local remote latent user to develop or acquire an IAFIS compatible workstation. These workstations may use the software provided by the FBI or develop their own software, provided it is IAFIS compliant.

The CJIS Division will provide the approved modem and encryptors required for each dial-up connection to IAFIS. The CJIS Communication Technologies Unit will configure and test the encryptors before they are provided to the user. Users requesting remote latent connectivity through an existing CODIS and/or NIBIN connection must receive verification from the FBI that there are a sufficient number of Ethernet ports on the router to accommodate the request.

If at any time search limits are imposed by the CJIS Division, these individual agency connections will be counted toward the total state allotment.

G.1 Virtualization

Virtualization

This appendix documents security considerations for implementing and operating virtual environments that process, store, and/or transmit Criminal Justice Information.

The FBI CJIS ISO has fielded several inquiries from various states requesting guidance on implementing virtual environments within their data centers. With the proliferation of virtual environments across industry in general there is a realistic expectation that FBI CJIS Auditors will encounter virtual environments during the upcoming year. Criminal Justice Agencies (CJAs) and Noncriminal Justice Agencies (NCJAs) alike need to understand and appreciate the foundation of security protection measures required for virtual environments.

From Microsoft's Introduction to Windows Server 2008 http://www.microsoft.com/windowsserver2008/en/us/hyperv.aspx:

> "Server virtualization, also known as hardware virtualization, is a hot topic in the IT world because of the potential for serious economic benefits. Server virtualization enables multiple operating systems to run on a single physical machine as virtual machines (VMs). With server virtualization, you can consolidate workloads across multiple underutilized server machines onto a smaller number of machines. Fewer physical machines can lead to reduced costs through lower hardware, energy, and management overhead, plus the creation of a more dynamic IT infrastructure."

From a trade publication, kernelthread.com http://www.kernelthread.com/publications/virtualization/:

> "Virtualization is a framework or methodology of dividing the resources of a computer into multiple execution environments, by applying one or more concepts or technologies such as hardware and software partitioning, time-sharing, partial or complete machine simulation, emulation, quality of service, and many others."

From an Open Source Software developer http://www.kallasoft.com/pc-hardware-virtualization-basics/:

> "Virtualization refers to virtualizing hardware in software, allowing multiple operating systems, or images, to run concurrently on the same hardware. There are two main types of virtualization software:
> - "Type-1 Hypervisor, which runs 'bare-metal' (on top of the hardware)
> - "Type-2 Hypervisor which requires a separate application to run within an operating system
>
> "Type1 hypervisors usually offer the best in efficiency, while Type-2 hypervisors allow for greater support of hardware that can be provided by the operating system. For the developer, power user, and small business IT professionals, virtualization offers the same basic idea of collapsing multiple physical boxes into one. For instance, a small business can run a web server and an Exchange server without the need for two boxes. Developers and power users can use the ability to contain different development environments without the need to modify their main operating system. Big businesses can also benefit from virtualization by allowing software maintenance to be run and tested on a separate image on hardware without having to take down the main production system."

Industry leaders and niche developers are bringing more products to market every day. The following article excerpts, all posted during September 2008, on www.virtualization.com are examples of industry offerings.

"Microsoft and Novell partnered together for joint virtualization solution. Microsoft and Novell are announcing the availability of a joint virtualization solution optimized for customers running mixed-source environments. The joint offering includes SUSE Linux Enterprise Server configured and tested as an optimized guest operating system running on Windows Sever 2008 Hyper-V, and is fully support by both companies' channel partners. The offering provides customers with the first complete, fully supported and optimized virtualization solution to span Windows and Linux environments."

"Sun Microsystems today account the availability of Sun xVM Server software and Sun xVM Ops Center 2.0, key components in its strategy. Sun also announced the addition of comprehensive services and support for Sun xVM Server software and xVM Ops Center 2.0 to its virtualization suite of services. Additionally, Sun launched xVMserver.org, a new open source community, where developers can download the first source code bundle for SunxVM Server software and contribute to the direction and development of the product."

"NetEx, specialist in high-speed data transport over TCP, today announced Vistual HyperIP bandwidth optimization solutions for VMware environments that deliver a threefold to tenfold increase in data replication performance. Virtual HyperIP is a software-based Data Transport Optimizer that operates on the VMware ESX server and boosts the performance of storage replication applications from vendors such as EMC, NetApp, Symantec, IBM, Data Domain, and FalconStor. Virtual HyperIP mitigates TCP performance issues that are common when moving data over wide –area network (WAN) connections because of bandwidth restrictions, latency due to distance and/or router hop counts, packet loss and network errors. Like the company's award-winning appliance-based HyperIP, Virtual HyperIP eliminates these issues with an innovative software design developed specifically to accelerate traffic over an IP based network."

From several sources, particularly:

http://www.windowsecurity.com/articles/security-virutalization.html
http://csrc.nist.gov/publications/drafts/6--=64rev2/draft-sp800-64-Revision2.pdf

Virtualization provides several benefits:

- Make better use of under-utilized servers by consolidating to fewer machines saving on hardware, environmental costs, management, and administration of the server infrastructure.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

- Legacy applications unable to run on newer hardware and/or operating systems can be loaded into a virtual environment – replicating the legacy environment.
- Provides for isolated portions of a server where trusted and untrusted applications can be ran simultaneously – enabling hot standbys for failover.
- Enables existing operating systems to run on shared memory multiprocessors.
- System migration, backup, and recovery are easier and more manageable.

Virtualization also introduces several vulnerabilities:

- Host Dependent.
- If the host machine has a problem then all the VMs could potentially terminate.
- Compromise of the host makes it possible to take down the client servers hosted on the primary host machine.
- If the virtual network is compromised then the client is also compromised.
- Client share and host share can be exploited on both instances. Potentially this can lead to files being copied to the share that fill up the drive.

These vulnerabilities can be mitigated by the following factors:

- Apply “least privilege” technique to reduce the attack surface area of the virtual environment and access to the physical environment.
- Configuration and patch management of the virtual machine and host, i.e., Keep operating systems and application patches up to date on both virtual machines and hosts.
- Install the minimum applications needed on host machines.
- Practice isolation from host and virtual machine.
- Install and keep updated antivirus on virtual machines and the host.
- Segregation of administrative duties for host and versions.
- Audit logging as well as exporting and storing the logs outside the virtual environment.
- Encrypting network traffic between the virtual machine and host IDS and IPS monitoring.
- Firewall each virtual machine from each other and ensure that only allowed protocols will transact.

G.2 Voice over Internet Protocol

Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP)

Attribution:

The following information has been extracted from NIST Special Publication 800-58, Security Considerations for Voice over IP Systems.

Definitions:

Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) – A set of software, hardware, and standards designed to make it possible to transmit voice over packet switched networks, either an internal Local Area Network, or across the Internet.

Internet Protocol (IP) – A protocol used for communicating data across a packet-switched internetwork using the Internet Protocol Suite, also referred to as TCP/IP. IP is the primary protocol in the Internet Layer of the Internet Protocol Suite and has the task of delivering distinguished protocol datagrams (packets) from the source host to the destination host solely based on their addresses.

Summary:

Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) has been embraced by organizations globally as an addition to, or replacement for, public switched telephone network (PSTN) and private branch exchange (PBX) telephone systems. The immediate benefits are alluring since the typical cost to operate VoIP is less than traditional telephone services and VoIP can be installed in-line with an organization's existing Internet Protocol services. Unfortunately, installing a VoIP network is not a simple "plug-and-play" procedure. There are myriad security concerns, cost issues with new networking hardware requirements, and overarching quality of service (QoS) factors that have to be considered carefully.

What are some of the advantages of VoIP?

a. Cost – a VoIP system is usually cheaper to operate than an equivalent office telephone system with a Private Branch Exchange and conventional telephone service.

b. Integration with other services – innovative services are emerging that allow customers to combine web access with telephone features through a single PC or terminal. For example, a sales representative could discuss products with a customer using the company's web site. In addition, the VoIP system may be integrated with video across the Internet, providing a teleconferencing facility.

What are some of the disadvantages of VoIP?

a. Startup cost – although VoIP can be expected to save money in the long run, the initial installation can be complex and expensive. In addition, a single standard has not yet emerged for many aspects of VoIP, so an organization must plan to support more than one standard, or expect to make relatively frequent changes as the VoIP field develops.

b. Security – the flexibility of VoIP comes at a price: added complexity in securing voice and data. Because VoIP systems are connected to the data network, and share many of the same hardware and software components, there are more ways for intruders to attack a VoIP system than a conventional voice telephone system or PBX.

VoIP Risks, Threats, and Vulnerabilities

This section details some of the potential threats and vulnerabilities in a VoIP environment, including vulnerabilities of both VoIP phones and switches. Threat discussion is included because the varieties of threats faced by an organization determine the priorities in securing its communications equipment. Not all threats are present in all organizations. A commercial firm may be concerned primarily with toll fraud, while a government agency may need to prevent disclosure of sensitive information because of privacy or national security concerns. Information security risks can be broadly categorized into the following three types: confidentiality, integrity, and availability, (which can be remembered with the mnemonic "CIA"). Additional risks relevant to switches are fraud and risk of physical damage to the switch, physical network, or telephone extensions.

Packet networks depend for their successful operation on a large number of configurable parameters: IP and MAC (physical) addresses of voice terminals, addresses of routers and firewalls, and VoIP specific software such as Call Managers and other programs used to place and route calls. Many of these network parameters are established dynamically every time a network component is restarted, or when a VoIP telephone is restarted or added to the network. Because there are so many places in a network with dynamically configurable parameters, intruders have a wide array of potentially vulnerable points to attack.

Vulnerabilities described in this section are generic and may not apply to all systems, but investigations by NIST and other organizations have found these vulnerabilities in a number of VoIP systems. In addition, this list is not exhaustive; systems may have security weaknesses that are not included in the list. For each potential vulnerability, a recommendation is included to eliminate or reduce the risk of compromise.

Confidentiality and Privacy

Confidentiality refers to the need to keep information secure and private. For home computer users, this category includes confidential memoranda, financial information, and security information such as passwords. In a telecommunications switch, eavesdropping on conversations is an obvious concern, but the confidentiality of other information on the switch must be protected to defend against toll fraud, voice and data interception, and denial of service attacks. Network IP addresses, operating system type, telephone extension to IP address mappings, and communication protocols are all examples of information that, while not critical as individual pieces of data, can make an attacker's job easier.

With conventional telephones, eavesdropping usually requires either physical access to tap a line, or penetration of a switch. Attempting physical access increases the intruder's risk of being discovered, and conventional PBXs have fewer points of access than VoIP systems. With VoIP, opportunities for eavesdroppers increase dramatically, because of the many nodes in a packet network.

Switch Default Password Vulnerability

It is common for switches to have a default login/password set, e.g., admin/admin, or root /root. This vulnerability also allows for wiretapping conversations on the network with port mirroring or bridging. An attacker with access to the switch administrative interface can mirror all packets on one port to another, allowing the indirect and unnoticeable interception of all communications. Failing to change default passwords is one of the most common errors made by inexperienced users.

REMEDIATION: If possible, remote access to the graphical user interface should be disabled to prevent the interception of plaintext administration sessions. Some devices provide the option of a direct USB connection in addition to remote access through a web browser interface. Disabling port mirroring on the switch should also be considered.

Classical Wiretap Vulnerability

Attaching a packet capture tool or protocol analyzer to the VoIP network segment makes it easy to intercept voice traffic.

REMEDIATION: A good physical security policy for the deployment environment is a general first step to maintaining confidentiality. Disabling the hubs on IP Phones as well as developing an alarm system for notifying the administrator when an IP Phone has been disconnected will allow for the possible detection of this kind of attack.

ARP Cache Poisoning and ARP Floods

Because many systems have little authentication, an intruder may be able to log onto a computer on the VoIP network segment, and then send ARP commands corrupting ARP caches on sender(s) of desired traffic, then activate IP. An ARP flood attack on the switch could render the network vulnerable to conversation eavesdropping. Broadcasting ARP replies blind is sufficient to corrupt many ARP caches. Corrupting the ARP cache makes it possible to re-route traffic to intercept voice and data traffic.

REMEDIATION: Use authentication mechanisms wherever possible and limit physical access to the VoIP network segment.

Web Server interfaces

Both VoIP switches and voice terminals are likely to have a web server interface for remote or local administration. An attacker may be able to sniff plaintext HTTP packets to gain confidential information. This would require access to the local network on which the server resides.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

REMEDIATION: If possible, do not use an HTTP server. If it is necessary to use a web server for remote administration, use the more secure HTTPS (HTTP over SSL or TLS) protocol.

IP Phone Netmask Vulnerability

A similar effect of the ARP Cache Vulnerability can be achieved by assigning a subnet mask and router address to the phone crafted to cause most or all of the packets it transmits to be sent to an attacker's MAC address. Again, standard IP forwarding makes the intrusion all but undetectable.

REMEDIATION: A firewall filtering mechanism can reduce the probability of this attack. Remote access to IP phones is a severe risk.

Extension to IP Address Mapping Vulnerability

Discovering the IP address corresponding to any extension requires only calling that extension and getting an answer. A protocol analyzer or packet capture tool attached to the hub on the dialing instrument will see packets directly from the target instrument once the call is answered. Knowing the IP address of a particular extension is not a compromise in itself, but makes it easier to accomplish other attacks. For example, if the attacker is able to sniff packets on the local network used by the switch, it will be easy to pick out packets sent and received by a target phone. Without knowledge of the IP address of the target phone, the attacker's job may be much more difficult to accomplish and require much longer, possibly resulting in the attack being discovered.

REMEDIATION: Disabling the hub on the IP Phone will prevent this kind of attack. However, it is a rather simple task to turn the hub back on.

Integrity Issues

Integrity of information means that information remains unaltered by unauthorized users. For example, most users want to ensure that bank account numbers cannot be changed by anyone else, or that passwords are changed only by the user or an authorized security administrator. Telecommunication switches must protect the integrity of their system data and configuration. Because of the richness of feature sets available on switches, an attacker who can compromise the system configuration can accomplish nearly any other goal. For example, an ordinary extension could be re-assigned into a pool of phones that supervisors can listen in on or record conversations for quality control purposes. Damaging or deleting information about the IP network used by a VoIP switch results in an immediate denial of service.

The security system itself provides the capabilities for system abuse and misuse. That is, compromise of the security system not only allows system abuse but also allows the elimination of all traceability and the insertion of trapdoors for intruders to use on their next visit. For this reason, the security system must be carefully protected. Integrity threats include any in which system functions or data may be corrupted, either accidentally or as a result of malicious actions. Misuse may involve legitimate users (i.e., insiders performing unauthorized operations) or intruders.

A legitimate user may perform an incorrect, or unauthorized, operations function (e.g., by mistake or out of malice) and may cause deleterious modification, destruction, deletion, or disclosure of switch software and data. This threat may be caused by several factors including the possibility that the level of access permission granted to the user is higher than what the user needs to remain functional.

Intrusion – An intruder may masquerade as a legitimate user and access an operations port of the switch. There are a number of serious intrusion threats. For example, the intruder may use the permission level of the legitimate user and perform damaging operations functions such as:

- Disclosing confidential data
- Causing service deterioration by modifying the switch software
- Crashing the switch
- Removing all traces of the intrusion (e.g., modifying the security log) so that it may not be readily detected Insecure state – At certain times the switch may be vulnerable due to the fact that it is not in a secure state. For example:

- After a system restart, the old security features may have been reset to insecure settings, and new features may not yet be activated. (For example, all old passwords may have reverted to the default system-password, even though new passwords are not yet assigned.) The same may happen at the time of a disaster recovery.
- At the time of installation the switch may be vulnerable until the default security features have been replaced.

DHCP Server Insertion Attack

It is often possible to change the configuration of a target phone by exploiting the DHCP response race when the IP phone boots. As soon as the IP phone requests a DHCP response, a rogue DHCP server can initiate a response with data fields containing false information.

This attack allows for possible man in the middle attacks on the IP-media gateway, and IP Phones. Many methods exist with the potential to reboot the phone remotely, e.g., “social engineering”, ping flood, MAC spoofing (probably SNMP hooks, etc.).

REMEDIATION: If possible, use static IP addresses for the IP Phones. This will remove the necessity of using a DHCP server. Further, using a state based intrusion detection system can filter out DHCP server packets from IP Phone ports, allowing this traffic only from the legitimate server.

TFTP Server Insertion Attack

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

It is possible to change the configuration of a target phone by exploiting the TFTP response race when the IP phone is resetting. A rogue TFTP server can supply spurious information before the legitimate server is able to respond to a request. This attack allows an attacker to change the configuration of an IP Phone.

REMEDIATION: Using a state based intrusion detection system can filter out DHCP server packets from IP Phone ports, allowing such traffic only from the legitimate server. Organizations looking to deploy VoIP systems should look for IP Phone instruments that can download signed binary files.

Availability and Denial of Service

Availability refers to the notion that information and services be available for use when needed. Availability is the most obvious risk for a switch. Attacks exploiting vulnerabilities in the switch software or protocols may lead to deterioration or even denial of service or functionality of the switch. For example: if unauthorized access can be established to any branch of the communication channel (such as a CCS link or a TCP/IP link), it may be possible to flood the link with bogus messages causing severe deterioration (possibly denial) of service. A voice over IP system may have additional vulnerabilities with Internet connections. Because intrusion detection systems fail to intercept a significant percentage of Internet based attacks, attackers may be able to bring down VoIP systems by exploiting weaknesses in Internet protocols and services.

Any network may be vulnerable to denial of service attacks, simply by overloading the capacity of the system. With VoIP the problem may be especially severe, because of its sensitivity to packet loss or delay.

CPU Resource Consumption Attack without any account information.

An attacker with remote terminal access to the server may be able to force a system restart (shutdown all/restart all) by providing the maximum number of characters for the login and password buffers multiple times in succession. Additionally, IP Phones may reboot as a result of this attack.

In addition to producing a system outage, the restart may not restore uncommitted changes or, in some cases, may restore default passwords, which would introduce intrusion vulnerabilities.

REMEDIATION: The deployment of a firewall disallowing connections from unnecessary or unknown network entities is the first step to overcoming this problem. However, there is still the opportunity for an attacker to spoof his MAC and IP address, circumventing the firewall protection.

Default Password Vulnerability

It is common for switches to have a default login/password set, e.g., admin/admin, or root /root. Similarly, VoIP telephones often have default keypad sequences that can be used to unlock and modify network information.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

This vulnerability would allow an attacker to control the topology of the network remotely, allowing for not only complete denial of service to the network, but also a port mirroring attack to the attacker's location, giving the ability to intercept any other conversations taking place over the same switch. Further, the switch may have a web server interface, providing an attacker with the ability to disrupt the network without advance knowledge of switch operations and commands. In most systems, telephones download their configuration data on startup using TFTP or similar protocols. The configuration specifies the IP addresses for Call Manager nodes, so an attacker could substitute another IP address pointing to a call manager that would allow eavesdropping or traffic analysis.

REMEDIATION: Changing the default password is crucial. Moreover, the graphical user interface should be disabled to prevent the interception of plaintext administration sessions.

Exploitable software flaws

Like other types of software, VoIP systems have been found to have vulnerabilities due to buffer overflows and improper packet header handling. These flaws typically occur because the software is not validating critical information properly. For example, a short integer may be used as a table index without checking whether the parameter passed to the function exceeds 32,767, resulting in invalid memory accesses or crashing of the system.

Exploitable software flaws typically result in two types of vulnerabilities: denial of service or revelation of critical system parameters. Denial of service can often be implemented remotely, by passing packets with specially constructed headers that cause the software to fail. In some cases the system can be crashed, producing a memory dump in which an intruder can find IP addresses of critical system nodes, passwords, or other security-relevant information. In addition, buffer overflows that allow the introduction of malicious code have been found in VoIP software, as in other applications.

REMEDIATION: These problems require action from the software vendor, and distribution of patches to administrators. Intruders monitor announcements of vulnerabilities, knowing that many organizations require days or weeks to update their software. Regular checking for software updates and patches is essential to reducing these vulnerabilities. Automated patch handling can assist in reducing the window of opportunity for intruders to exploit known software vulnerabilities.

Account Lockout Vulnerability

An attacker will be able to provide several incorrect login attempts at the telnet prompt until the account becomes locked out. (This problem is common to most password-protected systems, because it prevents attackers from repeating login attempts until the correct password is found by trying all possible combinations.)

The account is unable to connect to the machine for the set lockout time.

REMEDIATION: If remote access is not available, this problem can be solved with physical access control.

NIST Recommendations.

Because of the integration of voice and data in a single network, establishing a secure VoIP and data network is a complex process that requires greater effort than that required for data-only networks. In particular, start with these general guidelines, recognizing that practical considerations, such as cost or legal requirements, may require adjustments for the organization:

9. Develop appropriate network architecture.

- Separate voice and data on logically different networks if feasible. Different subnets with separate RFC 1918 address blocks should be used for voice and data traffic, with separate DHCP servers for each, to ease the incorporation of intrusion detection and VoIP firewall protection at the voice gateway, which interfaces with the PSTN, disallow H.323, SIP, or other VoIP protocols from the data network. Use strong authentication and access control on the voice gateway system, as with any other critical network component. Strong authentication of clients towards a gateway often presents difficulties, particularly in key management. Here, access control mechanisms and policy enforcement may help.

- A mechanism to allow VoIP traffic through firewalls is required. There are a variety of protocol dependent and independent solutions, including application level gateways (ALGs) for VoIP protocols, Session Border Controllers, or other standards-based solutions when they mature.

- Stateful packet filters can track the state of connections, denying packets that are not part of a properly originated call. (This may not be practical when multimedia protocol inherent security or lower layer security is applied, e.g., H.235 Annex D for integrity provision or TLS to protect SIP signaling).

- Use Ipsec or Secure Shell (SSH) for all remote management and auditing access. If practical, avoid using remote management at all and do IP PBX access from a physically secure system.

- If performance is a problem, use encryption at the router or other gateway, not the individual endpoints, to provide for Ipsec tunneling. Since some VoIP endpoints are not computationally powerful enough to perform encryption, placing this burden at a central point ensures all VoIP traffic emanating from the enterprise network has been encrypted. Newer IP phones are able to provide Advanced Encryption System (AES) encryption at reasonable cost. Note that Federal

Information Processing Standard (FIPS) 140-2, Security Requirements for Cryptographic Modules, is applicable to all Federal agencies that use cryptographic-based security systems to protect sensitive information in computer and telecommunication systems (including voice systems) as defined in Section 5131 of the Information Technology Management Reform Act of 1996, Public Law 104-106.

10. Ensure that the organization has examined and can acceptably manage and mitigate the risks to their information, system operations, and continuity of essential operations when deploying VoIP systems.

VoIP can provide more flexible service at lower cost, but there are significant tradeoffs that must be considered. VoIP systems can be expected to be more vulnerable than conventional telephone systems, in part because they are tied in to the data network, resulting in additional security weaknesses and avenues of attack (see VoIP Risks, Threats, and Vulnerabilities section for more detailed discussion of vulnerabilities of VoIP and their relation to data network vulnerabilities).

Confidentiality and privacy may be at greater risk in VoIP systems unless strong controls are implemented and maintained. An additional concern is the relative instability of VoIP technology compared with established telephony systems. Today, VoIP systems are still maturing and dominant standards have not emerged. This instability is compounded by VoIP's reliance on packet networks as a transport medium. The public switched telephone network is ultra-reliable. Internet service is generally much less reliable, and VoIP cannot function without Internet connections, except in the case of large corporate or other users who may operate a private network. Essential telephone services, unless carefully planned, deployed, and maintained, will be at greater risk if based on VoIP.

11. Special consideration should be given to E-911 emergency services communications, because E-911 automatic location service is not available with VoIP in some cases.

Unlike traditional telephone connections, which are tied to a physical location, VoIP's packet switched technology allows a particular number to be anywhere. This is convenient for users, because calls can be automatically forwarded to their locations. But the tradeoff is that this flexibility severely complicates the provision of E-911 service, which normally provides the caller's location to the 911 dispatch office. Although most VoIP vendors have workable solutions for E-911 service, government regulators and vendors are still working out standards and procedures for 911 services in a VoIP environment. Agencies must carefully evaluate E-911 issues in planning for VoIP deployment.

12. Agencies should be aware that physical controls are especially important in a VoIP environment and deploy them accordingly.

Unless the VoIP network is encrypted, anyone with physical access to the office LAN could potentially connect network monitoring tools and tap into telephone conversations. Although conventional telephone lines can also be monitored when physical access is obtained, in most offices there are many more points to connect with a LAN without arousing suspicion. Even if encryption is used, physical access to VoIP servers and gateways may allow an attacker to do traffic analysis (i.e., determine which parties are communicating). Agencies therefore should ensure that adequate physical security is in place to restrict access to VoIP network components. Physical security measures, including barriers, locks, access control systems, and guards, are the first line of defense. Agencies must make sure that the proper physical countermeasures are in place to mitigate some of the biggest risks such as insertion of sniffers or other network monitoring devices. Otherwise, practically speaking this means that installation of a sniffer could result in not just data but all voice communications being intercepted.

13. VoIP-ready firewalls and other appropriate protection mechanisms should be employed. Agencies must enable, use, and routinely test the security features that are included in VoIP systems.

Because of the inherent vulnerabilities (e.g., susceptibility to packet sniffing) when operating telephony across a packet network, VoIP systems incorporate an array of security features and protocols. Organization security policy should ensure that these features are used. In particular, firewalls designed for VoIP protocols are an essential component of a secure VoIP system.

14. If practical, "softphone" systems, which implement VoIP using an ordinary PC with a headset and special software, should not be used where security or privacy are a concern.

Worms, viruses, and other malicious software are extraordinarily common on PCs connected to the internet, and very difficult to defend against. Well-known vulnerabilities in web browsers make it possible for attackers to download malicious software without a user's knowledge, even if the user does nothing more than visit a compromised web site. Malicious software attached to email messages can also be installed without the user's knowledge, in some cases even if the user does not open the attachment. These vulnerabilities result in unacceptably high risks in the use of "softphones", for most applications. In addition, because PCs are necessarily on the data network, using a softphone system conflicts with the need to separate voice and data networks to the greatest extent practical.

15. If mobile units are to be integrated with the VoIP system, use products implementing Wi-Fi Protected Access (WPA), rather than 802.11 Wired Equivalent Privacy (WEP).

The security features of 802.11 WEP provide little or no protection because WEP can be cracked with publicly available software. The more recent Wi-Fi Protected Access (WPA), a snapshot of the ongoing 802.11i standard, offers significant improvements in security, and can aid the integration of wireless technology with VoIP. NIST strongly recommends that the WPA (or WEP if WPA is unavailable) security features be used as part of an overall defense-in-depth strategy. Despite their weaknesses, the 802.11 security mechanisms can provide a degree of protection against unauthorized disclosure, unauthorized network access, or other active probing attacks. However, the Federal Information Processing Standard (FIPS) 140-2, Security Requirements for Cryptographic Modules, is mandatory and binding for Federal agencies that have determined that certain information must be protected via cryptographic means. As currently defined, neither WEP nor WPA meets the FIPS 140-2 standard. In these cases, it will be necessary to employ higher level cryptographic protocols and applications such as secure shell (SSH), Transport Level Security (TLS) or Internet Protocol Security (Ipsec) with FIPS 140-2 validated cryptographic modules and associated algorithms to protect information, regardless of whether the nonvalidated data link security protocols are used.

16. Carefully review statutory requirements regarding privacy and record retention with competent legal advisors.

Although legal issues regarding VoIP are beyond the scope of this document, readers should be aware that laws and rulings governing interception or monitoring of VoIP lines, and retention of call records, may be different from those for conventional telephone systems. Agencies should review these issues with their legal advisors. See Section 2.5 for more on these issues.

G.3 Cloud Computing

Cloud Computing

Purpose:

This paper is provided to define and describe cloud computing, discuss CJIS Security Policy (CSP) compliance, detail security and privacy, and provide general recommendations.

- NIST SP 800-146, Cloud Computing Synopsis and Recommendations (May 2011)
- CJIS Security Policy, Version 5.0

Definitions and Terms:

Cloud computing – A distributed computing model that permits on-demand network access to a shared pool of configurable computing resources (e.g., networks, servers, storage, applications, and services), software, and information.

Cloud subscriber – A person or organization that is a customer of a cloud

Cloud client – A machine or software application that accesses a cloud over a network connection, perhaps on behalf of a subscriber

Cloud provider – An organization that provides cloud services

Summary:

With many law enforcement agencies looking for ways to attain greater efficiency while grappling with reduced budgets, the idea of cloud computing to maintain data and applications is a viable business solution. But the unique security and legal characteristics of law enforcement agencies means any migration to cloud services may be challenging. Anytime the security of information and transactions must be maintained, as it must be with access to the FBI's CJIS systems and the protection of Criminal Justice Information (CJI), security and policy compliance concerns are bound to arise.

Cloud computing has become a popular and sometimes contentious topic of discussion for both the private and public sectors. This is in part because of the difficulty in describing cloud computing in general terms, because it is not a single kind of system. The "cloud" spans a spectrum of underlying technologies, configuration possibilities, service and deployment models. Cloud computing offers the ability to conveniently rent access to fully featured applications, software development and deployment environments, and computing infrastructure assets - such as network-accessible data storage and processing from a cloud service provider.

One of the benefits of cloud computing is the ability to outsource many of the technical functions agencies may not want to perform for various reasons. Ultimately, the move to cloud computing is a business and security risk decision in which the following relevant factors are given proper consideration:

- readiness of existing applications for cloud deployment
- transition costs
- life-cycle costs
- maturity of service orientation in existing infrastructure
- security and privacy requirements – federal, state, and local

Achieving CJIS Security Policy Compliance:

The question that is often asked is, "Can an Agency be compliant with the CJIS Security Policy and also cloud compute?"

Because the CJIS Security Policy is device and architecture independent (per CSP Section 2.2), the answer is yes, and this can be accomplished— assuming the vendor of the cloud technology is able to meet the existing requirements of the CJIS Security Policy.

There are security challenges that must be addressed if CJI is to be sent into or through, stored within, or accessed from the cloud.

Admittedly, the existing CJIS Security Policy requirements may be difficult for some cloud-computing vendors due to the sheer numbers and the geographic disbursement of their personnel; however, the requirements aren't new to vendors serving the criminal justice community and many vendors have been successfully meeting the Policy requirements for years. Even so, they are the minimum security requirements which will provide an acceptable level of assurance that law enforcement and personally identifiable information (PII) will be protected when shared with other law enforcement agencies across the nation.

General CJIS Security Policy Applicability Questions

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Before tackling these challenges, the cloud subscriber should first be aware of what security and legal requirements they are subject to prior to entering into any agreement with a cloud provider. Asking the following general questions will help frame the process of determining compliance with the existing requirements of the CJIS Security Policy.

- Will access to Criminal Justice Information (CJI) within a cloud environment fall within the category of remote access? (5.5.6 Remote Access)

- Will advanced authentication (AA) be required for access to CJI within a cloud environment? (5.6.2.2 Advanced Authentication, 5.6.2.2.1 Advanced Authentication Policy and Rationale)

- Does/do any cloud service provider's datacenter(s) used in the transmission or storage of CJI meet all the requirements of a physically secure location? (5.9.1 Physically Secure Location)

- Are the encryption requirements being met? (5.10.1.2 Encryption)
    - Who will be providing the encryption as required in the CJIS Security Policy (client or cloud service provider)? Note: individuals with access to the keys can decrypt the stored files and therefore have access to unencrypted CJI.
    - Is the data encrypted while at rest and in transit?

- What are the cloud service provider's incident response procedures? (5.3 Policy Area 3: Incident Response)
    - Will the cloud subscriber be notified of any incident?
    - If CJI is compromised, what are the notification and response procedures?

- Is the cloud service provider a private contractor/vendor?
    - If so, they are subject to the same screening and agreement requirements as any other private contractors hired to handle CJI? (5.1.1.5 Private Contractor User Agreements and CJIS Security Addendum; 5.12.1.2 Personnel Screening for Contractors and Vendors)

- Will the cloud service provider allow the CSA and FBI to conduct compliance and security audits? Note: Cloud facilities such as datacenters in which CJI will be stored or processed should be audited as would any other datacenter housing and processing CJI. (5.11.1 Audits by the FBI CJIS Division; 5.11.2 Audits by the CSA)

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

- How will event and content logging be handled? (5.4 Policy Area 4, Auditing and Accountability)
    - Will the cloud service provider handle the events and content logging required by the CJIS Security Policy and provide that upon request?
    - What are the cloud service provider's responsibilities with regard to media protection and destruction? (5.8 Policy Area 8: Media Protection)

Ultimately, the goal is to remain committed to using technology in its information sharing processes, but not at the sacrifice of the security of the information with which it has been entrusted. As stated in the CJIS Security Policy, device and architecture independence permits the use of cloud computing, but the security requirements do not change.

Cloud Utilization Scenarios

1. Encrypted CJI in a Cloud Environment–Key Management Control, Security Awareness Training, and Personnel Controls

   Prior to permitting CJI to be stored or traverse through a cloud environment, the agency should ensure proper encryption key management control procedures are implemented to determine who has access and control over the encryption keys. Proper key management control is vital to CJI security as those individuals (agency or cloud employees) with access to the keys can decrypt the stored files, and therefore, have unescorted access to unencrypted CJI. This means all those individuals must be subjected to security awareness training (CJIS Security Policy section 5.2) and must meet personnel security (CJIS Security Policy Section 5.12) requirements as individuals with unescorted access to unencrypted CJI.

   Note: As a best security practice, the CJIS ISO Program does not recommend allowing the cloud service provider access to the encryption keys used to protect CJI. However, it may not always be reasonable to expect the agency, criminal justice or noncriminal justice, to accomplish this task.

   Note: When selecting a cloud service provider, the CJIS ISO Program reminds agencies the CJIS Security Policy sets the minimum requirements for the protection of CJI. Additional security assurances from other authorizations such as FedRAMP, StateRAMP, SOC Type 2, etc., may be leveraged, however, they do not guarantee compliance with the CJIS Security Policy.

   a. Scenario 1–Agency Stores CJI in a Cloud:
      A CJA stores encrypted CJI (Backup files and drives) in a cloud service provider's environment. To access CJI, the agency will extract the CJI from the cloud to its local machine, and then decrypt the CJI. The CJI is processed, re-encrypted, and then re-uploaded to the cloud environment for storage. In this scenario, the agency always encrypts the CJI prior to placing it in the cloud and only authorized users of the agency have access to the encryption keys. Since the agency maintains the encryption keys, the cloud service provider employees would not need to undergo fingerprint-based background checks, nor have security awareness training. These requirements are negated, because only authorized personnel with access to the keys have the ability to view this CJI in an unencrypted form.

b. Scenario 2–Agency Accesses CJI While in a Cloud:
A CJA stores CJI (files and drives) in a cloud service provider's environment, but as part of daily operations authorized users will remotely access the encrypted CJI in the cloud. The user will decrypt the CJI while it is in the cloud's virtual environment, process the data, and then re-encrypt the data prior to ending the remote session. The agency maintains the keys and the cloud service provider does not have access to the encryption keys. However, since the CJI is decrypted within the cloud's virtual environment, any administrative personnel employed by the cloud provider having the ability to access the virtual environment must be identified and subjected to security awareness training and personnel security controls as described in the CJIS Security Policy.

c. Scenario 3–CJI Impact from a Cloud Datacenter Critical Systems Crash–Core Dump* Recovery:
A CJA utilizes a cloud service provider (IaaS or PaaS) to store CJI and remotely accesses the environment to process CJI. During normal operation, the cloud provider experiences systems outages within the datacenter in which CJI is processed and stored. The cloud provider's administrators need to repair the systems and restore service using data from a core dump to return to normal operations. The cloud service provider as part of the Service Level Agreement (SLA) with the CJA has been authorized to maintain the encryption keys in order respond to such an event. The cloud administrators with such access have underwent fingerprint-based background checks and security awareness training. This allows the cloud administrators to decrypt CJI so that it is written to the core dump files for restoration following the system outage. CJI, however, is encrypted at all times except when part of the core dump files. As part of the SLA, the cloud service provider has agreed to treat the core dump files as CJI to ensure all protection are in place in compliance with the CJIS Security Policy.

Note: Writing encrypted data to a core dump corrupts the data and makes it unusable because the key no longer decrypts the data. This is problematic when attempting to recover encrypted data written to a core dump. The CJA could have ensured the cloud provider exclude encrypted data (CJI) from the core dump, but chose against it.

* Core Dump - A file of a computer's documented memory of when a program or computer crashed. The file consists of the recorded status of the working memory at an explicit time, usually close to when the system crashed or when the program ended atypically as it presents the risk that the system failure would ensure the loss of the encrypted data.

The Cloud Model Explained:

Cloud computing is a model for enabling ubiquitous, convenient, on-demand network access to a shared pool of configurable computing resources (e.g., networks, servers, storage, applications, and services) that can be rapidly provisioned and released with minimal management effort or service provider interaction.

The cloud model as defined by NIST consists of five essential characteristics, offers the option of three service models, and may be deployed via any of four deployment models as shown in Figure 1 below:

Essential Characteristics:

On-demand self-service

A consumer can unilaterally provision computing capabilities, such as server time and network storage, as needed automatically without requiring human interaction with each service provider.

Broad network access

Capabilities are available over the network and accessed through standard mechanisms that promote use by heterogeneous thin or thick client platforms (e.g., mobile phones, tablets, laptops, and workstations).

Resource pooling

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

The provider's computing resources are pooled to serve multiple consumers using a multi-tenant model, with different physical and virtual resources dynamically assigned and reassigned according to consumer demand. There is a sense of location independence in which the customer generally has no control or knowledge over the exact location of the provided resources but may be able to specify location at a higher level of abstraction (e.g., country, state, or datacenter). Examples of resources include storage, processing, memory, and network bandwidth.

Rapid elasticity

Capabilities can be elastically provisioned and released, in some cases automatically, to scale rapidly outward and inward commensurate with demand. To the consumer, the capabilities available for provisioning often appear to be unlimited and can be appropriated in any quantity at any time.

Measured service

Cloud systems automatically control and optimize resource use by leveraging a metering capability* at some level of abstraction appropriate to the type of service (e.g., storage, processing, bandwidth, and active user accounts). Resource usage can be monitored, controlled, and reported, providing transparency for both the provider and consumer of the utilized service.

 Typically this is done on a pay-per-use or charge-per-use basis.*

Deployment Models:

Private cloud

The cloud infrastructure is provisioned for exclusive use by a single organization comprising multiple consumers (e.g., business units). It may be owned, managed, and operated by the organization, a third party, or some combination of them, and it may exist on or off premises.

Community cloud

The cloud infrastructure is provisioned for exclusive use by a specific community of consumers from organizations that have shared concerns (e.g., mission, security requirements, policy, and compliance considerations). It may be owned, managed, and operated by one or more of the organizations in the community, a third party, or some combination of them, and it may exist on or off premises.

Public cloud

The cloud infrastructure is provisioned for open use by the general public. It may be owned, managed, and operated by a business, academic, or government organization, or some combination of them. It exists on the premises of the cloud provider.

Hybrid cloud

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

The cloud infrastructure is a composition of two or more distinct cloud infrastructures (private, community, or public) that remain unique entities, but are bound together by standardized or proprietary technology that enables data and application portability (e.g., cloud bursting for load balancing between clouds).

Service Models:

Cloud providers offer different levels of service, i.e.; Infrastructure as a Service (IaaS), Platform as a Service (PaaS), and Software as a Service (SaaS). The way CJI is placed and accessed in the cloud determines if the personnel security requirements in Section 5.12 apply. Access to encryption keys and management of the resources vary depending on what type of service is used. The SaaS offering is the most likely service wherein the cloud service provider may have access to unencrypted CJI due to software updates, patches, and management. However, through management and control of encryption keys, all service offerings may be implemented in an agency-controlled manner where the cloud service provider has no ability to access unencrypted CJI.

For cloud computing services that involve the storage, processing, or transmission of CJI, Section 5.12 security terms and requirements apply to all personnel when their unescorted logical or physical access to any information system results in the ability, right, or privilege to view, modify, or make use of unencrypted CJI. It is critical for the agency to understand the level of service and access required for each cloud implementation.

Software as a Service (SaaS)

This model provides the consumer the capability to use the provider's applications running on a cloud infrastructure*.

>  A cloud infrastructure is the collection of hardware and software that enables the five essential characteristics of cloud computing. The cloud infrastructure can be viewed as containing both a physical layer and an abstraction layer. The physical layer consists of the hardware resources that are necessary to support the cloud services being provided, and typically includes server, storage and network components. The abstraction layer consists of the software deployed across the physical layer, which manifests the essential cloud characteristics. Conceptually the abstraction layer sits above the physical layer.*

The SaaS service model is often referred to as "Software deployed as a hosted service and accessed over the Internet."

The applications are accessible from various client devices through either a thin client interface, such as a web browser (e.g., web-based email), or a program interface.

When using the SaaS service model it should be understood that the consumer does not manage or control the underlying cloud infrastructure including network, servers, operating systems, storage, or even individual application capabilities, with the possible exception of limited user-specific application configuration settings.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Platform as a Service (PaaS)

This model provides the consumer the capability to deploy consumer-created or acquired applications* created using programming languages, libraries, services, and tools supported by the provider onto the cloud infrastructure.

>  This capability does not necessarily preclude the use of compatible programming languages, libraries, services, and tools from other sources.*

When using the PaaS service model the consumer may have control over the deployed applications and possibly configuration settings for the application-hosting environment, but does not manage or control the underlying cloud infrastructure including network, servers, operating systems, or storage.

Infrastructure as a Service (IaaS)

This model provides the consumer the capability to provision processing, storage, networks, and other fundamental computing resources where the consumer is able to deploy and run arbitrary software, including operating systems and applications.

When using the IaaS service model the consumer may have control over operating systems, storage, and deployed applications; and possibly limited control of select networking components (e.g., host firewalls), but does not manage or control the underlying cloud infrastructure.

Key Security and Privacy Issues:

Although the emergence of cloud computing is a recent development, insights into critical aspects of security can be gleaned from reported experiences of early adopters and also from researchers analyzing and experimenting with available cloud provider platforms and associated technologies. The sections below highlight privacy and security-related issues that are believed to have long-term significance for public cloud computing and, in many cases, for other cloud computing service models.

Because cloud computing has grown out of an amalgamation of technologies, including service oriented architecture, virtualization, Web 2.0, and utility computing, many of the privacy and security issues involved can be viewed as known problems cast in a new setting. The importance of their combined effect in this setting, however, should not be discounted. Public cloud computing does represent a thought-provoking paradigm shift from conventional norms to an open organizational infrastructure—at the extreme, displacing applications from one organization's infrastructure to the infrastructure of another organization, where the applications of potential adversaries may also operate.

Governance

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Governance implies control and oversight by the organization over policies, procedures, and standards for application development and information technology service acquisition, as well as the design, implementation, testing, use, and monitoring of deployed or engaged services. With the wide availability of cloud computing services, lack of organizational controls over employees engaging such services arbitrarily can be a source of problems. While cloud computing simplifies platform acquisition, it doesn't alleviate the need for governance; instead, it has the opposite effect, amplifying that need.

Dealing with cloud services requires attention to the roles and responsibilities involved between the organization and cloud provider, particularly with respect to managing risks and ensuring organizational requirements are met. Ensuring systems are secure and risk is managed is challenging in any environment and even more daunting with cloud computing. Audit mechanisms and tools should be in place to determine how data is stored, protected, and used, to validate services, and to verify policy enforcement. A risk management program should also be in place that is flexible enough to deal with the continuously evolving and shifting risk landscape.

Compliance

Compliance refers to an organization’s responsibility to operate in agreement with established laws, regulations, standards, and specifications. Various types of security and privacy laws and regulations exist within different countries at the national, state, and local levels, making compliance a potentially complicated issue for cloud computing.

Law and Regulations

Cloud providers are becoming more sensitive to legal and regulatory concerns, and may be willing to commit to store and process data in specific jurisdictions and apply required safeguards for security and privacy. However, the degree to which they will accept liability in their service agreements, for exposure of content under their control, remains to be seen. Even so, organizations are ultimately accountable for the security and privacy of data held by a cloud provider on their behalf.

Data Location

One of the most common compliance issues facing an organization is data location. A characteristic of many cloud computing services is that data is stored redundantly in multiple physical locations and detailed information about the location of an organization’s data is unavailable or not disclosed to the service consumer. This situation makes it difficult to ascertain whether sufficient safeguards are in place and whether legal and regulatory compliance requirements are being met. External audits and security certifications can alleviate this issue to some extent, but they are not a panacea.

When information crosses borders, the governing legal, privacy, and regulatory regimes can be ambiguous and raise a variety of concerns. Consequently, constraints on the trans-border flow of sensitive data, as well as the requirements on the protection afforded the data, have become the subject of national and regional privacy and security laws and regulations.

Electronic Discovery

The capabilities and processes of a cloud provider, such as the form in which data is maintained and the electronic discovery-related tools available, affect the ability of the organization to meet its obligations in a cost effective, timely, and compliant manner. A cloud provider's archival capabilities may not preserve the original metadata as expected, causing spoliation (i.e., the intentional, reckless, or negligent destruction, loss, material alteration, or obstruction of evidence that is relevant to litigation), which could negatively impact litigation.

Trust

Under the cloud computing paradigm, an organization relinquishes direct control over many aspects of security and privacy, and in doing so, confers a high level of trust onto the cloud provider. At the same time, federal agencies have a responsibility to protect information and information systems commensurate with the risk and magnitude of the harm resulting from unauthorized access, use, disclosure, disruption, modification, or destruction, regardless of whether the information is collected or maintained by or on behalf of the agency; or whether the information systems are used or operated by an agency or by a contractor of an agency or other organization on behalf of an agency

Insider Access

Data processed or stored outside the physical confines of an organization, its firewall, and other security controls bring with it an inherent level of risk. The insider security threat is a well-known issue for most organizations. Incidents may involve various types of fraud, sabotage of information resources, and theft of sensitive information.

Data Ownership

The organization's ownership rights over the data must be firmly established in the service contract to enable a basis for trust and privacy of data. The continuing controversy over privacy and data ownership rights for social networking users illustrates the impact that ambiguous terms can have on the parties involved.

Ideally, the contract should state clearly that the organization retains exclusive ownership over all its data; that the cloud provider acquires no rights or licenses through the agreement, including intellectual property rights or licenses, to use the organization's data for its own purposes; and that the cloud provider does not acquire and may not claim any interest in the data due to security. For these provisions to work as intended, the terms of data ownership must not be subject to unilateral amendment by the cloud provider.

Visibility

Continuous monitoring of information security requires maintaining ongoing awareness of security controls, vulnerabilities, and threats to support risk management decisions. Transition to public cloud services entails a transfer of responsibility to the cloud provider for securing portions of the system on which the organization's data and applications operate.

Ancillary Data

While the focus of attention in cloud computing is mainly on protecting application data, cloud providers also hold significant details about the accounts of cloud consumers that could be compromised and used in subsequent attacks.

Risk Management

Assessing and managing risk in systems that use cloud services can be a challenge. With cloud-based services, some subsystems or subsystem components fall outside of the direct control of a client organization. Many organizations are more comfortable with risk when they have greater control over the processes and equipment involved. Establishing a level of trust about a cloud service is dependent on the degree of control an organization is able to exert on the provider to provision the security controls necessary to protect the organization's data and applications, and also the evidence provided about the effectiveness of those controls. Ultimately, if the level of trust in the service falls below expectations and the organization is unable to employ compensating controls, it must either reject the service or accept a greater degree of risk.

Architecture

The architecture of the software and hardware used to deliver cloud services can vary significantly among public cloud providers for any specific service model. It is important to understand the technologies the cloud provider uses to provision services and the implications the technical controls involved have on security and privacy of the system throughout its lifecycle. With such information, the underlying system architecture of a cloud can be decomposed and mapped to a framework of security and privacy controls that can be used to assess and manage risk.

Identity and Access Management

Data sensitivity and privacy of information have become increasingly an area of concern for organizations. The identity proofing and authentication aspects of identity management entail the use, maintenance, and protection of PII collected from users. Preventing unauthorized access to information resources in the cloud is also a major consideration. One recurring issue is that the organizational identification and authentication framework may not naturally extend into a public cloud and extending or changing the existing framework to support cloud services may prove difficult.

Software Isolation

High degrees of multi-tenancy over large numbers of platforms are needed for cloud computing to achieve the envisioned flexibility of on-demand provisioning of reliable services and the cost benefits and efficiencies due to economies of scale. Regardless of the service model and multi-tenant software architecture used, the computations of different consumers must be able to be carried out in isolation from one another, mainly through the use of logical separation mechanisms.

Data Protection

Data stored in a public cloud typically resides in a shared environment collocated with data from other customers. Organizations placing sensitive and regulated data into a public cloud, therefore, must account for the means by which access to the data is controlled and the data is kept secure. Similar concerns exist for data migrated within or between clouds.

Value Concentration

Having data collocated with that of an organization with a high threat profile could also lead to a denial of service, as an unintended casualty from an attack targeted against that organization. Similarly, side effects from a physical attack against a high profile organization's cloud-based resources are also a possibility. For example, over the years, facilities of the Internal Revenue Service have attracted their share of attention from would-be attackers.

Data Isolation

Database environments used in cloud computing can vary significantly. Accordingly, various types of multi-tenant arrangements exist for databases. Each arrangement pools resources differently, offering different degrees of isolation and resource efficiency. Regardless of implementation decision, data must be secured while at rest, in transit, and in use, and access to the data must be controlled.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Data Sanitization

The data sanitization practices that a cloud provider implements have obvious implications for security. Sanitization involves the expunging of data from storage media by overwriting, degaussing, or other means, or the destruction of the media itself, to prevent unauthorized disclosure of information. Data sanitization also applies to backup copies made for recovery and restoration of service and residual data remaining upon termination of service.

In a public cloud computing environment, data from one consumer is physically collocated (e.g., in an IaaS data store) or commingled (e.g., in a SaaS database) with the data of other consumers, which can complicate matters. Service agreements should stipulate sufficient measures that are taken to ensure data sanitization is performed appropriately throughout the system lifecycle.

Encryption

Client end-to-end encryption (e.g., encryption/decryption occurs on the law enforcement controlled client prior to data entering the cloud and decryption occurs only on the client device after encrypted data is removed from the cloud service) with cryptographic keys managed solely by law enforcement would prevent exposure of sensitive data.

- May cause significant cloud service functionality limitations on available service types made available for sensitive data. This may also increase expenses to cover key items, such as key management and client software. Additionally, a number of specific SLA or contract clauses may be necessary for the implementation of client end-to end encryption.

Use of cloud services without end-to-end encryption implemented by the client is another option that would require cloud service provider participation in the encryption of data.

- This would require at least some cloud provider personnel to undergo personnel background screening and training.

- Specialized Service Level Agreements (SLA) and/or contractual clauses would be necessary to identify those personnel that may have access to unencrypted, sensitive data.

- Conducting the analysis and gaining approval of particular cloud service implementations not utilizing end-to-end encryption for sensitive law enforcement data may be costly and time consuming due to the high degree of technical complexity.

Availability

In simple terms, availability is the extent to which an organization's full set of computational resources is accessible and usable. Denial of service attacks, equipment outages, and natural disasters are all threats to availability. The concern is that most downtime is unplanned and can impact the mission of the organization. Some examples of unplanned service interruptions that cause concerns are:

- Temporary Outages
- Prolonged and Permanent Outages
- Denial of Service

Incident Response

The complexity of a cloud service can obscure recognition and analysis of incidents. Revising an organization's incident response plan to address differences between the organizational computing environment and a cloud computing environment is an important, but easy-to-overlook prerequisite to transitioning applications and data.

Data Availability

The availability of relevant data from event monitoring is essential for timely detection of security incidents. Cloud consumers are often confronted with extremely limited capabilities for detection of incidents in public cloud environments. The situation varies among cloud service models and cloud providers. For example, PaaS providers typically do not make event logs available to consumers, who are then left mainly with event data from self-deployed applications (e.g., via application logging). Similarly, SaaS consumers are completely dependent upon the cloud provider to provide event data such as activity logging, while IaaS consumers control more of the information stack and have access to associated event sources.

Incident Analysis and Resolution

An analysis to confirm the occurrence of an incident or determine the method of exploit needs to be performed quickly and with sufficient detail of documentation and care to ensure that traceability and integrity is maintained for subsequent use, if needed (e.g., a forensic copy of incident data for legal proceedings). Issues faced by cloud consumers when performing incident analysis include lack of detailed information about the architecture of the cloud relevant to an incident, lack of information about relevant event and data sources held by the cloud provider, ill-defined or vague incident handling responsibilities stipulated for the cloud provider, and limited capabilities for gathering and preserving pertinent data sources as evidence. Understanding and negotiating the provisions and procedures for incident response should be done before entering into a service contract, rather than as an afterthought.

General Recommendations:

A number of significant security and privacy issues were covered in the previous subsections. Table 1 summarizes those issues and related recommendations for organizations to follow when planning, reviewing, negotiating, or initiating a public cloud service outsourcing arrangement.

Table 1: Security and Privacy Issue Areas and Recommendations

G.4 Mobile Appendix

Mobile Appendix

Introduction

Mobile devices present a unique security challenge with regard to the correct application of CJIS Security Policy requirements. This appendix is intended to provide best practices based on industry standards and on methods to achieve policy compliance in mobile device employment scenarios. The technical methods used to achieve compliance with CJIS Security Policy will typically be different within the mobile environment than those used in fixed locations. Many of the security features and capabilities inherited by endpoint devices from the fixed environment are either not present or present in a different form in the mobile environment. Additionally, the basic technologies used in some types of mobile devices may adequately fulfill some of the CJIS Security Policy requirements which would require additional software or added features in a traditional fixed computing environment. Due to the complexity and rapid evolvement of the mobile environment, this Appendix will remain as device and vendor agnostic as practical, however certain key requirements for specific mobile operating systems will be identified for the major mobile operating systems (e.g., Apple iOS, Android) as the underlying technologies are fundamentally different and offer different levels of built-in compliance to CJIS Security Policy.

Sections within this appendix will provide recommendations regarding priorities and level of effort versus value of applying certain security controls in the mobile environment. These recommendations do not supersede or modify the requirements listed in the CJIS Security Policy, and are intended to describe the effect of inherent security functions and inherent device limitations in many mobile platforms that impact the application of policy elements in the mobile environment.

Mobile Device Risk Scenarios

There are multiple risk scenarios that may apply to mobile devices depending on the category of device (e.g., Laptop, Tablet, and ‘Pocket sized’ devices such as smartphones) and the methods of device connectivity (e.g., cellular service, Wi-Fi + Cellular, Wi-Fi only). Device category and method of connection define the technology types within the device which inherently affects the total level of compliance with CJIS Security Policy that can be obtained by the mobile device.

It is advisable for acquiring agencies to review the mobile device guidance in this Appendix prior to completing selection and acquisition of particular devices. Both the device category and connectivity methods installed and configured on the device will impact the overall risk scenario associated with the device and may significantly affect the effective cost to bring use of the device in compliance with the CJIS Security Policy. For instance, inclusion of cellular radios with the ability to remotely control a device significantly changes the risk scenario by allowing remote tracking, file deletion, and device management which could provide a higher level of CJIS Security Policy compliance than a Wi-Fi only device that does not guarantee the ability to remotely manage the device. However, inclusion of cellular technology may significantly increase the initial device costs and incur ongoing subscription costs. Appropriate choices based on the intended use of the device along with the types and methods of Criminal Justice Information (CJI) data to be accessed could greatly reduce agency cost and enhance security.

Device Categories

This appendix defines risk levels for three categories of devices. Prior to reading individual sections of this Appendix, the agency should identify which device categories will apply to their employment scenario. If multiple categories of devices are employed, individual technical configurations and local policy will likely need to be defined for each category of device based on the risk inherent in the technical characteristics associated with each device category.

Laptop devices

The laptop device category includes mobile devices in a larger format that are transported either in a vehicle mount or a carrying case and include a monitor with attached keyboard. This includes all traditional laptop computers that utilize a 'traditional', full-featured operating system (e.g., Windows or a Linux variant). Also included in this category are 'tablet' type full-featured computers running a traditional full-featured operating system but without an attached keyboard. The main defining factor is the use of a full-featured operating system and a form factor too large to be carried in a pocket. In general, devices of this type connect via Wi-Fi only, but may include an internal cellular access card in some cases.

The risks associated with this device type are similar to a standard desktop computer at the technical level, but are increased due to the potential to connect directly to the internet without the benefit of organizational network security layers (e.g., network firewall, IDS/IPS, network monitoring devices). There is also an increased risk of intentional device theft from vehicles or unsecure locations as these devices are too large to be carried on the authorized user's body. There may be increased risk from the limited technical ability to wipe or track a lost/stolen device depending on the particular technical means used for remote device connectivity (e.g., cellular or Wi-Fi).

In general, the technical configurations for compliance with most of the CJIS Security Policy that is accomplished via the operating system (e.g., auditing, access control, etc) will remain consistent with normal fixed location computing systems for laptop devices, but some functions may operate in an unexpected manner due to lack of constant connectivity. Thorough testing of applied security policy elements within the expected mobile environments will help ensure the applied policy configurations remain effective and appropriate when applied to mobile laptop devices.

NOTE: Some newer devices running multi-function operating systems (e.g., Windows 8 or similar multi-mode operating systems) may exhibit technical features associated with both laptop and tablet device categories based on their current operating mode which may be reconfigured by the user on demand. If this is the case, it will be necessary to assess and configure multiple operating modes to be compliant with CJIS Security Policy on the device, or restrict the operating mode to one category of operation.

Tablet devices

The tablet device category includes larger format devices transported via vehicle mount or portfolio sized carry case that typically consist of a touch screen without attached keyboard. These devices utilize a limited-feature operating system (e.g., Apple iOS, Google Android, Windows mobile) that is inherently more resistant than a traditional operating system to certain types of network based technical attacks due to the limited-feature sets. Additionally, limited functionality operating systems are designed specifically for the mobile environment where battery life and power efficiency are primary design drivers. This inherently limits the types of services that can function effectively on the devices (e.g., traditional real-time anti-virus software) as the base operating system may not be designed to allow installed applications enhanced execution priority in the background and or the ability to examine the contents or communications associated within another application. However, this same design methodology significantly limits the vectors available for malware transmission and the device or application data actually accessible to malware if a device becomes infected.

Tablet devices will have different risks associated depending on the installed and configured methods for network access (e.g., 'always on cellular' vs. Wi-Fi only). Physical risks associated with this category are similar to the laptop category for enhanced likelihood of intentional theft or device hijacking while unattended, while the technical risks are similar to the pocket device category.

Pocket devices/Handheld devices

The pocket/handheld device category is technically similar or identical to the tablet category and is primarily differentiated by device form factor. Pocket/handheld devices are characterized as having a limited functionality operating system and a small form factor intended for carry in a pocket or 'holster' attached to the body. The bulk of this category will be cellular 'smartphones' with integrated cellular data connectivity, however devices intended to be worn or carried on the body (e.g., portable fingerprint devices) may also be included in this category if they operate using a limited functionality operating system. Custom or specialty devices may meet the form factor distinction for this category, but operate using a full-feature operating system. In rare cases of this nature the employing agency should apply security guidance and principles in this appendix for both the laptop and pocket device categories.

Risks associated with this category are a reduced threat of theft to a stored devices (e.g., device left unattended in a vehicle) since these devices are typically carried continuously by the authorized user, but include a greater risk of temporary or permanent loss of control due to the device being misplaced by the authorized user.

Due to the installation of a limited functionality operating system, the technical threat to these devices via a network based attack is significantly lower than the laptop category, however, the threat of unauthorized access at the device level may be higher if the device is lost due to technical limits on multi-factor authentication to the operating system itself and practical limits to device passwords due to screen/software keyboard limitations.

NOTE: Data accessible on pocket or tablet devices simply through the entry of a single device PIN or password should not be considered secure due to the likelihood of enhanced password guessing based on fingerprints/smudges on the device touch screen. Any data stored on devices of these types should be protected within a separate secure container using Advanced Authentication.

Device Connectivity

There are three main categories of device connectivity that are associated with varying risk levels and threats to the devices. The Three categories are: Cellular Network Only (always on), Wi-Fi Only (includes 'on demand' cellular), and Cellular (always on) + Wi-Fi network. The risks associated with connectivity categories are general risks and may apply differently to any particular device at different points in its usage or lifecycle. Particular device configurations either through the operating system or a third-party mobile device management (MDM) system may be able to significantly control and define which particular connectivity risks may be associated with a particular device.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Cellular Network Only (always on)

Cellular network connectivity is characterized by 'always on' network connection through the device internal radio to a cellular network provider. There is a reasonable assurance that devices with 'always on' cellular can be tracked, managed, or wiped remotely if lost or stolen. This will significantly reduce risks associated with loss of the device and attempted illicit access to the device. One important consideration for this risk category is characterization of the device as 'always on' or 'on demand'. In effect the difference is typically a configuration setting, which in some cases may be changeable by the user. In particular most cellular smart phones contain 'airplane' mode settings that disable all internal radios allowing a user authenticated to the device operating system via password or personal identification number (PIN) to disable the cellular system. Access to this functionality may be disabled through the use of some MDM systems which would necessitate a complete power down of the device while carried on aircraft. Additionally, someone illicitly obtaining a device with properly configured password requirements and screen lock timeouts would be unlikely to guess the device password before the device was reported stolen in order for them to disable the cellular connection and prevent tracking or a remote wipe of the device.

Cellular networks do not allow for the same level of exposure of individual devices to random access from the internet. This significantly reduces the potential network based attack vectors that might reach a cellular connected device. The risk scenario in most cases from a network based attack would be similar to a device protected behind rudimentary network defenses (e.g., standard firewall but NOT advanced intrusion detection/prevention) Cellular device communications cannot typically be accessed by other 'eavesdropping' devices physically close to them without significant specialized equipment and can be considered well protected against network attacks below the nation/state level of technical capability by the hosting technical infrastructure and technology inherent in the device. However, network based attacks that utilize connections initiated by the user device may still succeed over the cellular infrastructure. For this reason, the technical protections inherent in the cellular infrastructure provide limited protection against user/device initiated actions (e.g., web surfing on a cellular connected web browser). Therefore, the protections provided by always on cellular connections are primarily in the ability to remotely access the mobile device for tracking or data deletion in case of device loss or compromise, which combined with a limited functionality device operating system, the protections are generally equivalent to a 'personal firewall' if properly configured and supported by a well-designed organizational infrastructure. However, that equivalency does not apply to full-featured operating systems connected through cellular infrastructure.

NOTE: It should be noted that a technically capable, intentional, thief knowingly obtaining an 'always on' cellular device for the purpose of data theft can physically disable the radio by utilizing a Faraday cage or similar external electromagnetic shield device while attempting to guess the device password. While technically possible these methods require specialized equipment and high technical expertise and would be very unlikely to be employed except for specifically targeted attacks. When always on cellular connectivity is combined with a robust incident reporting process and user training for rapid response to device loss or theft, the associated risks can be minimized.

Wi-Fi only (includes 'on-demand' cellular)

Wi-Fi only devices do not include cellular radios or include cellular radio that must be manually activated or 'connected' to the cellular network. They connect to the network or internet through Wi-Fi 'hotspots' or external access points or manually to cellular networks. Some MDM or device configurations may be able to limit the types and specific Wi-Fi access points the device can connect to, which may change the risk scenario of the device to a similar risk scenario as the Cellular Network Only scenario. However, if mobile devices are permitted (through technical and or policy decisions) to connect to any Wi-Fi access point designated by the device user, the overall device risk scenario is high and the device may be accessible to a large number of potential network based attack vectors. Unrestricted Wi-Fi access is not recommended on any agency owned device, but must be assumed to exist on any personally owned device authorized to access CJI. Significant compensating controls may be needed to ensure devices accessing CJI over 'public' Wi-Fi access points are not susceptible to communications network eavesdropping, credential hijacking or any of the various potential man-in-the-middle attacks possible through access point spoofing. The communications security risks can be significantly mitigated by mandatory device configurations (e.g., MDM based policy) that only allow devices to connect to cryptographically verified agency controlled Wi-Fi access points.

Wi-Fi only or devices with 'on-demand' cellular access (e.g., user or event driven cellular access initiated from the device and not from a centralized management location) are significantly more at risk from data loss subsequent to device loss or theft as there is no guarantee the tracking or remote wipe can be initiated once the device is out of agency control. This can be mitigated by utilizing tracking/anti-theft products that require a periodic network connection to authorize access and perform automated device locking ('bricking') or remote wipe if network connections are not made within a specified period. Software of this nature is generally available for full-featured laptops but may not be available for limited-feature mobile operating systems.

Cellular (always on) + Wi-Fi Network

This is a hybrid scenario that has become typical with most 'smartphones'. These devices contain both the always on cellular connection, but may also be configured to access local Wi-Fi networks for enhanced bandwidth. In considering devices with these technical characteristics, the theft/loss risks are similar to the cellular only scenario (due to tracking and remote access through the cellular connection), while the data and network based risks must be considered to be similar to the Wi-Fi scenario unless the capability of the device to connect to Wi-Fi networks is limited by technology or policy to agency owned Wi-Fi Access Points configured in accordance with the CJIS Security Policy. Careful consideration must be made to the particular configurations, management systems, and human oriented operational policies based on the particular technical capabilities and configurations of these types of devices.

Incident Handling (CJIS Security Policy Section 5.3)

Additional or enhanced incident reporting and handing procedures will need to be developed to cover mobile device operating scenarios. Various exploits and methods to compromise mobile devices require either specialized equipment or lengthy operations to implement. Rapid response to mobile device related incidents can significantly mitigate the risks associated with illicit data access either on the device itself or within online data resources associated with the device through an application or specialized interface. However, parallel or special incident handling procedures with associated equipment or systems may need to be put in place to properly respond to incidents involving mobile devices. This section lists three areas where enhanced incident handling and response processes may need to be implemented to ensure mobile device compliance to the incident handling policy in Section 5.3.

If personally owned devices are utilized within the environment in a Bring Your Own device (BYOD) scenario, specialized and costly incident handling procedures and processes may need to be developed to support compliance for those devices. The costs associated with enhanced incident handling procedures may need to be incorporated in the cost and risk based analysis to allow personally owned devices in the BYOD scenario, as the technical methods and risk to achieve compliance under BYOD scenarios may exceed any cost savings potentially achieved through BYOD.

Loss of device Control

Mobile device users should be trained and provided with explicit user actions in case positive control of a mobile device is lost for any period of time. Loss of positive control means the device is in the physical control of non-CJIS authorized individual or the device is left unattended in an unsecure location (e.g., counter of the coffee shop). Even if the device is recovered quickly there is significant risk that either the device settings could be tampered with or data on the device could be illicitly accessed. The level of detail and particular scenarios identified in the agency incident response plan should be consistent with the presence of persistent CJI on the device or the technical means used to access CJI from the device (e.g., ask the question: "Is it reasonable to assume CJI could be accessed") as well as the degree of device configuration control exercised by the user from the device main login. At a minimum, special incident handling procedures should be developed for the following scenarios:

- Device known to be locked, control loss of minimal duration
- Device lock state unknown at time of control loss, duration of loss minimal
- Device lock state unknown at time of control loss, duration of loss extended
- Device known to be unlocked at time of control loss, duration of loss more than momentary.

NOTE: Organizations should define appropriate time value criteria based on the operational environment for the above scenarios. For instance, a 'momentary' loss of control might be considered a matter of seconds in a situation where no one could reasonably have accessed the device, while 'minimal' durations might include a few minutes of time and 'extended' periods would be any time longer than a few minutes.

Other scenarios should be addressed as appropriate to the intended device employment, with explicit user and organizational actions identified based on the device technologies and any organizational management capabilities.

Total Loss of device

Incident response scenarios for the total loss of the device should be developed based on the methods/storage of CJI on the device, the lock state of the device at time of loss (known locked, known unlocked, or unknown), and the technical methods available for remote tracking or wiping of the device. It is critical to implement incident handling procedures quickly in this case. Remote wipe functions can be implemented for always on cellular devices with a high potential for success that may include positive confirmation from the device that the wipe was completed. However, for

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Wi-Fi only and on demand cellular devices, incident handling procedures that lock the device out of accessing CJI may be necessary, while there would be no guarantee that any CJI stored on the device could not eventually be accessed. For this reason, CJI should not generally be stored directly on Wi-Fi only or on-demand cellular devices unless an extremely robust anti-tamper system is in place on the device itself.

Potential device Compromise (software/application)

Incident response scenarios for potential device compromise through intentional or unintentional user action should be developed to ensure compliance with policy. This includes rooting, jailbreaking or malicious application installation on the device during a loss of device control scenario or inappropriate user action in the installation of applications to the device (compromise can occur from either intentional threat agent actions or accidental user actions). Triggers for this incident handling process may be driven from either user notification or electronic detection of device tampering from an audit or MDM compliance check.

Audit and Accountability (CJIS Security Policy Section 5.4)

The ability to implement some Audit and Accountability functions specified in the CJIS Security Policy on mobile devices with limited function operating systems (e.g., Android, Apple iOS) is not natively included within the operating system. Either additional device management systems, enterprise mobility management (EMM) or MDM, or auditing from systems accessed by the mobile device with be necessary to ensure appropriate levels of auditing exist.

Auditable Events (reference 5.4.1)

Some of the specific audit requirements in the CJIS Security Policy may not be technically relevant to the mobile operating system due to its internal functioning. To achieve compliance with the CJIS Security Policy it will be necessary in most cases to utilize some form of MDM or EMM system. Additional auditable events that compensate for the technical limitations of limited function mobile operating systems may be available through the use of MDM systems (e.g., association of event with global positioning system (GPS) location of the device). Specific auditable events of interest in the mobile environment will depend on the intended device usage, compartmentalization of data on the device, and options available with the specific technologies employed. For instance, item 2 in Section 5.4.1.1 indicates an auditable event includes attempts to modify elements of user account modification. Due to the limited internal functions of mobile operating systems, this event type is not relevant to the operating system itself as they are generally provisioned with only a single non-modifiable user account on the device. To achieve compliance in a scenario where CJI is stored or accessed from a secure application on the device, auditing of access to the secure application either through application design, or third party MDM capability may provide an acceptable compensating control. For compliance with the policy each auditable event and event content must be compared to the particular technologies and applications employed to determine if adequate compensating controls are being met for audit items that either do not apply to mobile technologies or cannot be implemented within the technology itself.

Alternative and compensating controls that provide detailed audit of access to CJI either on the mobile device itself or through a controlled application to a central server may provide equivalent auditing capability to the events specified in the policy. However, multiple auditing systems may be required to replicate the auditing provided at the operating system level by a full function operating system. Therefore, the overall auditing design should take into account retrieval and consolidation of events or audit data from multiple auditing systems as appropriate to comply with policy.

Audit Event Collection

Mobile devices without an 'always-on' cellular connection may pose technical challenges to ensure any audit records collected and stored on the mobile device itself can be retrieved for review and analysis per the CJIS Security Policy. Alternatively systems which explicitly require a network connection to a central server to access data or decrypt on-device storage may provide acceptable audit event collection and reporting since there is a guarantee that network connections must be in pace for CJI to be accessed. Careful consideration should be made regarding the accessibility of audit records when developing the mobile audit scheme.

Access Control (CJIS Policy Section 5.5)

Access control associated to limited functionality mobile operating systems will typically operate in a different manner than full function operating systems. For instance there is normally not a provision for multiple user accounts on many mobile operating systems which may mean the policy requirements for access control (e.g., regarding account management) would not be apply to the mobile operating system, but should rather be applied to a particular application, either stand-alone to the device or as part of a client server architecture. Application of access control policy identified in the CJIS Security Policy will often need to be applied to elements of the total system beyond the device operating system.

For example, CJI stored or accessed from a secure mobile application that requires connectivity to a CJIS authorized server architecture could potentially accomplish most or all of the access control policy elements based on user authorization via the secured application and be largely independent of the mobile operating system. Alternatively, if storing CJI in 'general' purpose data storage containers on a mobile device it may not be possible to achieve compliance with the CJIS Security Policy. Careful consideration and deliberate design of mobile applications or data storage will be required to achieve compliance on mobile devices.

Due to the inherent nature of limited function mobile operating systems, very tight access controls to specific data is actually implemented within the operating system. This effectively prevents applications from accessing or manipulating data associated with other applications to a very high degree of confidence as long as the device is not rooted or jailbroken. However, the device user is automatically granted access to all device data through the associated application unless the application itself has a secondary authentication and access control methodology. Additionally, since basic device functions (e.g., phone) are typically protected using the same password or PIN as the device level encryption, use of a weak PIN to allow easy access to basic device functions largely negates the value of the integrated device encryption.

If personally owned devices are utilized within the environment (BYOD scenario), specialized and costly access control methods may be required to reach compliance with CJIS Security Policy. The costs associated with enhanced access control procedures and technologies should be incorporated in the cost and risk based analysis to determine whether or not to allow personally BYOD, as the technical methods and compensating controls required for CJIS Security Policy compliance are likely to exceed any potential cost savings for implementing BYOD.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Device Control levels and access.

Limited function mobile operating systems are typically very constrained on the levels of access provided to the user. However, intentional user actions (e.g., installing an application and accepting inappropriate security access levels for that application) my bypass some of the built in security protections inherent in the limited functionality devices. Compliance with CJIS Security Policy may be difficult without the addition of strict device control policy. In a mixed environment (e.g., agency owned devices and BYOD), access control policy with BYOD systems may be impractical or impossible to fully implement.

Embedded passwords/login tied to device PIN.

Limited function mobile operating systems typically allow the association of multiple passwords and access credentials with particular applications. The system access provided by these embedded credentials will often be tied to the device password or PIN. An example would be access to device integrated email and calendar applications. Alternatively a 'corporate' email application may independently encrypt the data associated with the application and required a separate login from the device itself. Access to CJI utilizing only the device level password or PIN and device embedded credentials is not compliant with CJIS Security Policy unless protected with Advanced Authentication, which is not currently possible on most devices. Therefore, use of integrated device functions (e.g., built in email or chat) to store or transmit CJI would also not be compliant.

Access requirement specification

In general, due to weaknesses associated with password guessing based on analysis of fingerprints or swipes on the device touch screen, short (4-8 digit) device PIN numbers provide limited security to a determined password guessing attack. Conversely, utilization of a robust password at the device level may be inconsistent with quick access to basic device functions (e.g., phone). When developing specific CJIS compliant access control and authentication schemas a layered approach with the device PIN protecting only the basic device functions (e.g., phone, camera, non-secure applications) and a more robust password or multifactor authentication used to protect applications or data storage may achieve policy compliance where the device password/PIN would not. In a layered security deployment, careful attention must be placed on the capability to share data (e.g., cut and paste or screenshot functions) between secure applications with CJI or CJI access and basic device functions with limited security controls.

Special Login attempt limit

Depending on the access and authentication scheme applied to the mobile device, it may be appropriate to fully comply with the CJIS login attempt limits within a secure application or container and not solely at the device level. However, the device itself should have login attempt limits consistent with the risk associated to the data or configurations accessible on the device itself. Since mobile devices are inherently portable, and can easily be removed from a location. Brute force attempts to gain access to the system, especially when protected only by a short PIN, are likely to be successful given sufficient time. Special consideration should be made based on device connectivity methods (cellular, Wi-Fi, etc) on the appropriate number of unsuccessful login attempts that will be allowed and the resultant actions taken by the device. Most devices either natively allow for the device to wipe itself after a failed number of attempts, or allow the application of EMM/MDM applications to perform wiping actions after a predetermined number of failed login attempts.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Login failure actions

Mobile devices with or without MDM software can typically be configured to perform actions based on serial unsuccessful login attempts. Appropriate actions to configure may be dependent on the data resident on the device and the connectivity method employed by the device. Most devices can be configured to delete all data on the device and/or issue an alert to the network if a number of incorrect passwords are entered. This is a very advantageous feature, however specific configuration of the number of attempts and resultant action must be considered against the state of the device after an unsuccessful attempt action is triggered. A full device wipe will typically leave the device in a fully or partially non-functional state which could introduce risk if part of the intended use is time critical phone calls. Where possible, full device wipe associated with unsuccessful attempts at the device level password should be configured but the number of invalid attempts may exceed the CJIS Security Policy at the device level if all CJI on the device is protected by an additional layer of encryption protected by a subsequent secure application authentication method that is technically prevented (via complexity rules or entry rules) from being the same as the device level authentication and the secure application is configured in accordance with the policy and also contains a secure data wipe capability after a specified number of incorrect authentication attempts.

System use Notification (CJIS Policy reference 5.5.4)

Agency policy should include specific mandatory language consistent with the CJIS Security Policy to identify the device restrictions and consent. However, due to screen size limits, some mobile devices may not be technically capable of displaying the full text used with traditional operating systems. To achieve compliance agencies should contact their legal department for appropriate wording of a short version of the system use notification that can be set to display within the constraints of the device lock screen. This may be accomplished through embedding the text into an image displayed on the lock screen or some other external device labeling method if the device does not permit sufficient text to be displayed.

In a BYOD environment or mixed (agency owned and BYOD), it may be necessary to develop or deploy custom applications that can achieve compliance with the system use notification upon access and prior to any CJI access being allowed.

Session Lock (CJIS Policy reference 5.5.5)

Due to the portable nature of mobile devices the session lock limit in the general CJIS Security Policy may be excessive in the mobile environment for certain device functions and insufficient for other functions based on intended device usage. Agencies should examine the minimum lock time practical for all mobile devices based on their employment scenario and ease for which a user can manually lock the device. The actual session lock times should be adjusted as appropriate to the device type, device operational location, and the data accessible on the device when unlocked. Pocket size devices are at greatest risk if screen lock times are insufficient, however, for devices used in emergency response or communication, extended lock times at the basic device level may be considered if CJI is subsequently protected by an application or web interface utilizing more stringent secure locking functions. A well designed solution may include multiple session lock settings at the device and individual application levels to ensure the CJIS Security Policy requirements are met for CJI access, while other device functions are accessible under different session lock configurations.

Device Wi-Fi Policy

Specific Wi-Fi configuration policy should be developed based on the intended use environment and data access requirements for the device. The policy should explicitly cover configuration of device connections. Technical methods specific to the mobile technologies may need to be implemented to ensure all mobile devices are compliant with CJIS Security Policy. Current CJIS Security Policy provides detailed configuration requirements for Wi-Fi connections, however it was originally intended for defining requirements for fixed infrastructure Wi-Fi (802.11) supporting wireless within a facility. The security requirements identified for fixed infrastructure installations are applicable to mobile usage, however there are several mobile specific scenarios where the requirements may not be clear. The following sections identify areas not specifically covered in the existing policy that will require special handling to ensure wireless connections are compliant.

Hotspot capability

Many mobile devices now include the capability to activate an internal Wi-Fi hotspot that allows other devices to connect through the hosting device to the internet over the devices cellular radio. While this is a potentially valuable capability when multiple law enforcement devices may need localized internet or network access, mobile hotspots should be configured as consistent with the CJIS Security Policy on wireless access points. Connections must only be accepted from known and approved devices in order to protect the integrity of the hosting device as well as the communications security of other connected devices. Since most mobile hotspots are not technically capable of providing the device authentication required for infrastructure wireless, use of mobile hotspot capability should assume the overall portable Wi-Fi network itself is not secure and CJI should not be transmitted or exposed on the network without appropriate encryption.

Connection to public hotspots

There are significant risks to connecting to public wireless access points. Rogue access points masquerading as legitimate public access points may allow for man-in-the-middle, eavesdropping, and session hijacking attacks. While not specifically prohibited in the current CJIS Security Policy, it is recommended that connection to public internet access points be technically restricted by device configuration or MDM systems if possible. CJI access mechanisms from mobile devices should include robust authentication methods specifically designed to prevent interception or hijacking of CJI or user information through the use of a rogue access point masquerading as a legitimate public wireless access point. Transmission encryption alone may not provide sufficient protections when device connections originate at public hotspots. Since the public hotspot controls access to all network services at the connection point (e.g., Domain Name System) attacks against the transmission path are possible that would not normally be feasible in a fixed environment where communications exist between two secured network enclaves.

Cellular Service abroad

If mobile devices are used outside of the United States, especially if connected to foreign cellular networks, specific handling procedures may need to be developed for the use of the device while abroad and the assessment or configuration check of the device state once the devices are returned to the United States. Certain device internal functions on cellular devices may be modified or compromised by the cellular carrier as the devices are intended to have certain parameters configured by the cellular service provider which is considered a ‘trusted’ entity by the device.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Cellular carriers within the United States are constrained by United States laws regarding acceptable modifications to devices. Similar legal constraints cannot be assumed to exist in some areas of the world where laws and regulations for data and personal privacy may allow cellular carriers significantly more leeway in changes made to devices on their networks.

Security plans involving cellular connected devices that will be connected to foreign cellular networks should include technical and policy controls to ensure device use while abroad, data resident on the device while abroad, and the software integrity of the device once returned to the United States are all appropriate to the specific device and threat levels associated with the expected foreign travel. This should explicitly include considerations for devices in which an internal subscriber identity module (SIM) card is inserted into the device to obtain Global System for Mobile (GSM) cellular connections abroad to ensure any residual data on the SIM card is properly purged. Additionally, incident handling procedures may need to specify more stringent responses to even momentary loss of device control, and it may not be possible to assume tracking, anti-theft, and remote data wipe functions that work in the United States would be functional in all potentially visited geographic and political regions.

Bluetooth

Mobile devices utilizing Bluetooth should be evaluated for their ability to comply with the CJIS Security Policy Bluetooth requirements prior to acquisition. This includes the data device itself and any authorized Bluetooth accessories which will be associated to the device. While the technical security in current versions of Bluetooth is significantly stronger than legacy versions, mis-configuration of devices can still pose a significant threat in the mobile environment. If not specifically utilized for a required purpose, it would likely be most cost effective to disable or restrict the device Bluetooth radio utilizing device configurations or an MDM product. Additionally, the using agency may need to develop technically extensive training or user awareness programs to ensure use of Bluetooth capability does not render the device out of compliance if device users have the ability to make Bluetooth associations to the device. Specific instructions or guidance for specific devices could be developed to ensure all implementations are compliant.

Voice/Voice over IP (VoIP)

Cellular voice transmissions are distinctly different at the technical level than Voice over IP (VoIP) transmissions using voice/video applications (e.g., FaceTime, Skype). The use of VoIP is not specifically granted the exemption identified in CJIS Security Policy Section 5.5.7.3.2. Agencies wishing to use capability of this type should ensure the specific technical implementation complies with the Policy on authentication and data encryption.

Chat/Text

Device integrated chat/texting applications and many common third party chat applications authenticate and are identified using embedded passwords or the device identifier only. These functions should not be considered secure or appropriate for transmission of CJI data. Texting functions that utilize a cellular service providers Short Message Service (SMS) or Multimedia Messaging Services (MMS) functions do not constitute a secure transmission medium. Third party applications utilizing appropriate encryption and authentication methods independent of the device password/PIN may provide a compliant solution where the device integrated utilities are will not provide a compliant solution.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Administrative Access

Local administrative access to the mobile device, regardless of device category should be restricted by some mechanism. For traditional operating systems, configuration of a separate administrative account other than that used for normal logins to the device is an acceptable method to ensure appropriate access permissions to the mobile user for which they are authorized. However for limited functionality mobile operating systems (e.g., Android, Apple iOS) internal permissions and accounts assume a single authorized device user with explicitly defined permissions. Those permissions may be modified through policy applied to the device, but are typically global to the device itself. As a result, to ensure appropriate separation of access permissions, it may be required to ensure specific applications or software on the device are configured with individual authentication methods to separate application data from 'general user' access. Without additional authentication at the application level, access to specific application data would be available to any user with the ability to unlock the device. This may be appropriate in some scenarios with a high degree of assurance that the device can only be accessed by a single user, but sufficiently stringent device passwords and short screen lock times may prove problematic for practical use of some device functions. An alternate method to ensure strict separation of 'routine' device functions which may be accessed by multiple individuals (e.g., phone function if loaned to someone for a critical call) is to ensure any method used to access or store CJI has a separate and more stringent authentication method configured with rules that make it impossible to use the same authentication credential (e.g., PIN/Password) on both the device authentication and the application or function with access to CJI.

Rooting/Jailbreaking

'Rooting' (Android OS) or 'Jailbreaking (Apple iOS) refer to intentional modifications to the mobile device operating system in order to grant the device user or an installed application elevated control that would not normally exist on the device. The security model internal to the various mobile device architectures vary significantly, however the common effect of rooting or jailbreaking the devices is to bypass many or all of the built in security features. The security feature bypass may be universal to all device features and installed applications once completed. Intentionally rooting or jailbreaking mobile devices should be avoided in any scenario as it potentially defeats all built-in data access and segregation controls on the device. Additionally the rooting or jailbreaking process itself has a heightened risk of introducing malicious code as part of the process, and also substantially increases the risk for malware to infect the device through user action. Extreme caution should be used if software is being installed that requires the devices to be rooted or jailbroken for the software or application to function. This is inclusive of purported security software that requires a rooted or jailbroken device to function. For example, on both the Android and Apple iOS platforms, the built-in security features for data access and memory segmentation prevent the effective operation of 'traditional' anti-virus and intrusion detection/prevention software. Software or applications purporting to perform these functions but requiring rooting or jailbreaking of the device and may actually accomplish the anti-virus or IDS/IPS function but are also likely to significantly increase the overall risk associated to the device by effectively disabling most or all of the integrated security features. A careful risk-based assessment should be conducted by a trained security professional prior to allowing the operation of any rooted or jailbroken mobile devices regardless of intended use. Significant compensating controls would be required to return a rooted or jailbroken device to minimal compliance with most of the CJIS Security Policy and would likely not be a cost effective approach.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

NOTE: There is a distinction between rooting a 'stock' Android installation vice the installation of a separately supported secure operating system. There are secure versions of Android available or that can be developed based on the open source Android source code and compiled for installation on a particular hardware device. Installation of a secure, supported mobile operating system that replaces the device original operating system may significantly enhance the security of the device and should not be confused with 'rooting' and Android installation. Due to the close integration of operating system security with hardware elements, and the proprietary nature of Apple source code, there are not currently separate 'secure' versions of the Apple iOS and it is unlikely they will be developed.

Identity and Authentication

Due to the technical methods used for identity and authentication on many limited functionality mobile operating systems, achieving compliance to CJIS Security Policy may require layering of identification and authentication mechanisms. With the complexity and large number of potential identity and authentication solutions in the mobile environment emphasis must be placed on designing secure identity management and authentication architecture prior to the selection of individual devices or applications. Failure to consider a robust identity and authentication scheme as part of system design or acquisition will significantly increase the risk of subsequent noncompliance with CJIS Security Policy and potential added costs for a remedial solution. Many identity and authentication schemes used by existing commercial applications may make claims that appear to be consistent with CJIS Security Policy Advanced Authentication requirements, however, extreme care must be taken to ensure the actual technical implementation is compliant with policy.

Utilizing Unique device Identification

Some commercial applications and features integrated with some mobile operating systems permit the mobile device to be uniquely identified in a cryptographically robust manner. Any authentication schema that considers the possession of the mobile device as a factor in uniquely identifying and authenticating a CJIS authorized user must also include factors beyond than mere possession of the device. Larger form factor devices that cannot be carried on the person of the authorized user should not rely on possession of the device as an identifying factor, but may still include identifying capability within the device to provide assurance that the device itself is an authorized device. This should still be coupled with multi-factor advanced authentication to the device itself or the application hosting CJI. Coupling unique device authentication with robust advanced authentication of the user provides a high degree of confidence that both the specific device and the operator of the device are correctly identified. Utilizing device unique identification in order to authorize initial connections from the remote device back to the CJI hosting system or enclave provides additional protection to the CJI hosting system to reduce the attack surface of the hosting system and should be considered a good practice, but not in itself an authentication mechanism for the device user.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Certificate Use

One method for uniquely identifying mobile devices is to place part of a public key pair on the device in the form of a public key certificate. While there is value to ensuring the device itself can authenticate to a system supplying CJI, and may provide a critical layer of identification or authentication in a larger scheme, a certificate alone placed on the device should not be considered valid proof that the device is being operated by an authorized CJIS user, only that the device itself is authorized to host CJIS users. Additional user identification and authentication should be used to supplement any device certificate installed. Using a PIN or password separate from the device login to 'unlock' the certificate from cryptographic storage within a secure application will provide an additional layer of security and may increase the confidence level the device is being used by the intended user. However, use of public/private key pairs or pre-shared encryption keys can be utilized as part of an architecture to protect against certain session hijacking or man-in-the-middle attacks a mobile device may be susceptible to if connected to public internet connections.

Certificate Protections

Any certificates or cryptographic keys stored on any mobile device should include protections against the certificate or key being extracted from the device. Additionally certificates or other keys stored on mobile devices that grant the device special access or unique identification should be configured for remote wipe on demand or self-deletion based on a number of unsuccessful login or access attempts. Alternatively, methods may be used to revoke or invalidate the unique certificate or keys associated with a device.

Minimum Password/Pin (Reference CJIS Security Policy Section 5.6.2.1)

The minimum password protections identified in the CJIS Security Policy may not be appropriate for the device PIN/password due to immediate access requirement for some device functions (e.g., phone function) secured by the device PIN/password and the difficulty to enter a complex password under emergency conditions on a small screen. In cases where the risk of a complex password on the device itself is deemed significant, a layered authentication approach may be necessary where CJI or access to CJI is protected via one or more additional layers of access control beyond the device PIN/password. In cases where the CJI or access to the CJI is cryptographically segregated from applications accessible using the device level PIN/Password (e.g., secure application or secure browser vice the built-in browser) the authentication mechanism for the secure application or browser may satisfy the CJIS Security Policy requirements if fully compliant as a stand-alone application.

Configuration Management

Due to the potential for inconsistent network access or monitoring capability on mobile devices, methods used to monitor and manage the configuration of traditional full-featured operating systems may not function properly on limited function mobile operating systems. Configuration Management systems in the mobile environment may be designed in order to duplicate some of the functions typically performed by traditional anti-malware systems that will not function properly on some mobile operating systems.

Mobile Device Management (MDM)/Enterprise Mobility Management (EMM)

MDM and EMM systems and applications coupled with device specific technical policy can provide a robust method for device configuration management if properly implemented. MDM capabilities include the application of mandatory policy settings on the device, detection of unauthorized configurations or software/applications, detection of rooting/jailbreaking of the device, and many other security policy related functions. In many cases, the most cost effective way to achieve CJIS Security Policy compliance on mobile devices is the selection of MDM or EMM applications and infrastructure appropriate to the mobile operating systems and intended access to CJI on the mobile devices. MDM/EMM functions may be applicable to most of the CJIS Security Policy requirements and allow for significant compensating controls in areas where traditional methods of CJIS Security Policy compliance are not technically feasible. Section 5.5.7.3.3 of the CJIS Security Policy specifies the minimum functions required for MDM. However, careful selection of the MDM product will potentially provide a cost effective method for additional areas of compliance in the access, auditing, incident response, authentication, media protection and system integrity sections of the CJIS Security Policy.

Device Backups/Images

Device images and backups provide protection against data loss, but also provide a method to quickly recover a device after damage or potential compromise. Due to an inherently limited ability to access the internal file structure of mobile devices, it can be difficult to easily identify a device compromise or illicit modification of the device. Some device imaging and assessment software may provide a secondary forensic capability, especially if there is intent for the device to be used outside the United States.

Bring Your Own device (BYOD) employment

BYOD environments pose significant challenges to the management of secure device configurations. In many cases it may be impossible to apply effective security that is acceptable to the device owner or it may require extremely costly compensating controls to allow access to CJI on personally owned devices. While allowed by the CJIS Security Policy, agencies are advised to conduct a detailed cost analysis of the ancillary costs of compliance with CJIS Security Policy on personally owned devices when they are approved for use. In some cases, a BYOD user may agree to abide by the same device configurations and limitations as imposed on an agency owned device, but signed user agreements should still be in place to ensure the agency has a legal right to recover or clear the device of all data prior to device disposal or employee termination. In other cases, robust secure applications may provide acceptable levels of compliance in a BYOD environment for limited CJI access but application design and architecture should assume the device itself is un-trusted. If MDM/EMM software capable of detecting rooting or jailbreaking of the device is not installed, any CJIS or data access occurring from the device is at a substantially higher risk of compromise.

Configurations and tests

Common configurations specific to all employed mobile devices should be developed to ensure compliance. Configuration tests should be developed and executed on all versions of mobile devices under all possible connectivity scenarios to ensure CJIS Security Policy compliance under all expected operating conditions. Since mobile devices can expect to operate in different physical and network environments, testing and validating correct security functions is more critical than on fixed computing platforms. Additionally, security functions that function properly on one version of a mobile operating system on a particular device may not function in the same manner even on the same version on a different device or a different version on the same device.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Media Protection

Some mobile device hardware platforms include the ability to add removable storage in the form of memory cards. This function is primarily related to Android and Windows mobile platforms and is intentionally limited on Apple devices, but may be possible through certain application functions. While the Android platform performs robust cryptographic separation of data stores between applications within the 'internal' storage of the device, the Android OS does not provide secure separation of data stores on 'external' storage. Some Android hardware devices include additional storage hardwired inside the device that is classified by the operating system as external storage and the normal separation between applications accessing that storage is not applied. Each potential device considered for acquisition must be assessed regarding specific 'external' media protection requirements which may actually include built-in media or storage.

Protection of device connected media

As a result of the limited protection and encryption capabilities applied to device removable media and SIM cards for cellular provisioning that include onboard data storage, all externally removable media or memory should be handled consistently with the CJIS Security Policy on media protection.

Encryption for device media

While most mobile operating systems have the capability to encrypt internal storage, it may require specific device settings to be enabled. All mobile device storage should meet the encryption requirements identified for media in the CJIS Security Policy. Specific settings may need to be applied to ensure proper encryption is actually employed. Additionally, the device built-in encryption capability is typically tied to the device PIN or password. Depending on the device PIN or password requirements the integrated encryption may be easily bypassed by password guessing and appropriate consideration should be made to ensure additional encryption protected by advanced authentication methods be applied to all CJI.

Physical Protection

Due to small form factors and the fact that mobile devices are often stored in lower security areas and vehicles, physical protection of the devices must be considered in both policy and training. Physical protections will often be the responsibility of the assigned device user and physical protections typically inherited by individual information systems from a secure facility will not be available to mobile devices which will require compensating controls to achieve compliance.

Device Tracking/Recovery

MDM software as well as some integrated mobile operating system functions may allow tracking of stolen or lost devices via 'always-on' cellular data connections and the devices built-in GPS. Device tracking with Wi-Fi only or 'on-demand' cellular access may not be reliable. Enabling device tracking capabilities, while not a replacement for secure storage, could be a compensating control used to substantially reduce overall device risk in some scenarios. Device tracking is not currently required in the CJIS Security Policy but should be applied to agency owned devices where possible as a risk mitigation factor. Enabling of device tracking on personally owned devices in a BYOD environment may raise employee privacy concerns and should be considered only for critical systems with the full knowledge of the employee and concurrence of the legal department. This is an enhanced risk that must be accepted for BYOD employments and should be considered when allowing BYOD employment. Device tracking is available for both limited function mobile operating systems as well as traditional operating systems installed on laptop devices.

Access to device tracking software or applications within the organization should be controlled with limits and formal processes required to initiate a tracking action. It is advisable to include appropriate clauses in user agreements under what conditions and controls the organization applies to device tracking.

Devices utilizing unique device identification/certificates

Devices utilizing unique device identification or have installed certificates may require additional physical protection and/or additional incident handling steps in case of device loss in order to ensure the device unique identifier or certificate is immediately revoked or disabled. Additional physical protection rules or policy would be appropriate for any device which contains access mechanisms tied to the device.

System Integrity (CJIS Policy Section 5.10)

Managing system integrity on limited function mobile operating systems may require methods and technologies significantly different from traditional full-feature operating systems. In many cases the requirements of Section 5.10 of the CJIS Security Policy cannot be met with a mobile device without the installation of a third party MDM or EMM application and supporting server infrastructure.

Patching/Updates

MDM software may provide compliance to the Section 5.10.4.1 patch management requirements for particular platforms and software versions. However, devices without 'always-on' cellular connections may not be reachable for extended periods of time by the MDM or EMM solution either to report status or initiate patching. Supplementary or manual device accountability methods may need to be implemented to account for devices without persistent connections to ensure their patch and update state is current. Alternatively, some patches or system updates may not be practical over cellular connections and will require connection of devices to a Wi-Fi network. Compliance with CJIS Security Policy requirements through purely technical means may not be practical and considerations should be made for aggressive management of devices through training and mandatory periodic connection of devices to organizationally managed Wi-Fi networks.

TECHNOLOGY NOTE: Apple and Android based devices have different potential issues regarding device operating system updates. Apple maintains support for updating the operating system on Apple hardware for several device generations (typically 3-5 years) and provides a robust mechanism for system updates. However, updates to Android based systems are driven by the individual device manufacturer which may or may not support regular updates to current Android operating system versions. Additionally, different Android device vendors may offer updates/upgrades to the Android operating system on different schedules, which can complicate environments utilizing Android devices from multiple manufacturers.

Malicious code protection/Restriction of installed applications and application permissions

MDM or EMM software will typically allow restrictions on installed applications. One of the few effective attack vectors to compromise mobile operating systems is to manipulate the device user to install a malicious application. Even though the application may be restricted from accessing other application data, it may have some access to common data stores on the device and access to device functions (e.g., GPS, microphone, and camera) that are undesirable. Unrestricted installation of applications by the device user could pose a significant risk to the device.

Malicious code protection using traditional virus scanning software is technically infeasible on most limited function mobile operating systems that are not rooted or jailbroken. The integrated data and program separations prevent any third party installed program from accessing or 'scanning' within another application data container. Even if feasible, power and storage limitations would be prohibitive in the effect on device battery life and storage capacity on most mobile devices. However, the cryptographic separation between applications and effective application virtualization technologies built into common mobile operating systems partially compensate for the lack of traditional virus scanning technologies. Appropriately configured MDM software is capable of checking the installed applications on the device and reporting the software inventory to a central management console in a matter analogous to traditional virus scan detection of unauthorized software. This behavior is analogous to the software inventory performed by anti-virus products and can provide a high degree of confidence that only known software or applications are installed on the device. While it is theoretically possible to bypass the application sandboxing and data segregation protections to compromise a mobile device through the web browser, the attack methods required are significantly more advanced than those required for a traditional full-featured operating system. Malicious code protections on the device web browser can be enforced through the use of a properly protected web proxy which the device is configured to use as a mandatory device policy. The most common method of malicious code installation is enticing the user to manually install the malicious app which can be mitigated on organizational devices using an MDM or other application installation restrictions which prevent the user from installing unauthorized or unknown applications. Mitigation of this issue within BYOD environments may not be possible and will present a significantly enhanced risk to the device.

TECHNOLOGY NOTE: In the particular area of application installation there is a significant difference between the behavior of Apple iOS and Android platforms. Apple cryptographically restricts the way applications will execute on the device and assigns mandatory application permissions when the application code is signed prior to release on the Apple App Store for distribution. Apps on the Apple platform must conform to Apple's policy on app behavior and cannot exceed their design permissions on access to common device functions once the app has been signed and distributed. However, the Apple method does not typically advertise the precise internal permissions granted to the app to the user prior to installation. At runtime, the app is required to request user permission to access certain device functions, and the user may agree or not agree, which may introduce risk if they are unaware of what they are agreeing to allow. Unsigned or un-trusted apps are cryptographically prevented from executing on non-jailbroken iOS devices. Apple provides a mechanism for organizations to distribute custom apps within an organization with equivalent protections but all receiving devices must have a special certificate installed that will only allow official App Store and the organization custom apps to execute.

Conversely, the Android platform, while also requiring app code signing, allows for self-signed code which can be distributed be means other than an official app store and execute on any Android device. Application permissions are presented to the user once at app installation but ramifications of agreement to certain app permissions may not be obvious to a non-technical user. Permissions in the Android model require user acceptance of all app requested permissions or the app is denied installation, which can result in unwise user acceptance of excessive permissions in order to gain functionality provided by the app.

On either platform user installation of applications can significantly change the security state of the device. Applications may be able to transmit and receive data or share device common data with other devices over the network or local Wi-Fi or Bluetooth connection. On either platform it is highly desirable to limit allowable applications to a pre-approved pool of apps via MDM or organizational App store structures and device policy. However, the risks associated with uncontrolled app installation is several orders of magnitude greater on Android based devices.

WARNING: Rooted or jailbroken devices are modified in such a manner that the built in protections against malicious code are effectively disabled. A rooted or jailbroken device would require significant and costly compensating controls to achieve compliance.

Firewall/IDS capability

Traditional device or "personal' firewalls as identified in CJIS Security Policy Section 5.10.4.4 may not be practical on limited function mobile device operating systems but significant compensating controls are available. By default, mobile device operating systems have a limited number of system services installed and carefully controlled network access. To a certain extent the mobile operating system performs similar effective functions as a personal firewall would perform on a general purpose operating system. Potential compensating controls for the five (5) personal firewall requirements specified in Section 5.10.4.4 are listed below:

1. Manage Program Access to the Internet: On agency controlled devices with an MDM, limiting the apps installed on the device will effectively perform the same function. Since no software or apps can be installed without MDM approval a robust approval process can effectively ensure internet access is only granted to approved apps. Built-in apps and functions can also be limited on network access by the MDM.
2. Block unsolicited requests to connect to the user device: Default configurations for mobile operating system platforms typically block incoming requests. It is possible to install an app that may 'listen' on the network and accept connections, but the same compensating control identified in item 1 will mitigate the likelihood of that occurring.
3. Filter incoming traffic by IP address or protocol: Protocol filtering effectively occurs due to the limited function of the operating sys long as no installed application opens network access ports. The mitigations in 1 effectively compensate for this control as well.
4. Filter incoming traffic by destination ports: Same as 3.
5. Maintain an IP traffic log: This may not be technically feasible on most mobile operating system platforms as maintaining this log would require access to lower level operating system functions that are not accessible unless the device is rooted or jailbroken. However, individual Apps that communicate over the network or accept connections from the network may permit logs of IP traffic associated to that application to be stored.

Spam Protection

Spam guards installed on corporate or organizational email systems may effectively accomplish the spam protection requirements for the CJIS Security Policy on mobile devices if properly configured to block spam before delivery to the device. If no upstream spam guard is installed on the mail server the mobile devices accesses, the device may not have adequate spam protection. Additionally access to internet based email (web mail) would need to be restricted to web mail with appropriate spam and/or antivirus protections to ensure compliance.

Periodic system integrity checks

One method to compensate for the technical infeasibility of traditional anti-virus and malicious code protection is to install an MDM that performs periodic system integrity checks that validate device configuration and status against an approved baseline. Deviations may provide indicators of potential device compromise or mis-configuration.

G.5 Administrator Accounts for Least Privilege and Separation of Duties

Administrator Accounts for Least Privilege and Separation of Duties

PURPOSE:

This appendix is provided to describe industry best security practices for assigning separate administrator accounts to support the concept of Least Privilege.

DEFINITIONS:

Least Privilege – The principle that security architecture be designed to grant individual users and processes only the minimum accesses to system resources and authorizations required to perform their official duties or function.

Separation of Duties – The security principle requiring the division of roles and responsibilities so that a single individual cannot subvert a critical process or function.

SUMMARY:

The implementation of least privilege is accomplished by assigning user or process access to system resources based on operational or business needs. Thus, access is granted to only those resources required to perform assigned duties. For individuals who have multiple roles within the organization requiring varying levels privileges, this assignment of access can be challenging. Often times the agency will assign a single userid to the individual and elevate the privileges for that account based on the different roles. While it may seem logical to allow the user access to all required resources using a single account, security vulnerabilities can be introduced into the system.

Associated with least privilege is separation of duties. This concept aids in maintaining the integrity of the system by preventing the abuse of elevated privileges for making unauthorized changes to the system. This objective essentially requires different individuals to perform separate functions with relation to (primarily) administrative duties. For instance, those with the ability to create and assign user access to system should not be able to access the audit logs that contain the evidence of the account actions.

USER ACCESS AND ACCOUNT MANAGEMENT:

Several factors influence the manner in which an agency implements and manages user access. Many times, the size of the agency and the technical expertise of the IT staff employed by the agency become primary drivers. Larger agencies with a broad base of technically savvy personnel normally have the ability to dedicate resources specifically to the administration and management of user access. This could translate to the use of multiple accounts for a single user performing duties requiring varying levels of access.

Smaller agencies with few or no technically experienced personnel will often assign single user accounts with the highest level of access required by users. Other smaller agencies may go as far as assigning every user an account with elevated privileges so there are no delays or problems requiring intervention by already overburdened system administrators. It is not uncommon for a smaller agency to outsource system administration duties.

Regardless of the size or resources of an organization, each agency should base the process for assigning access to system resources based on their operational requirements and a thorough risk assessment. To mitigate risk for accessing system resources, industry best security practices prescribe those individuals performing duties requiring elevated privileges be assigned a separate userid to be used in the performance of those duties. This account would be separate from a standard user account.

Why are some agencies unwilling to implement controls for least privilege? One common reason/perception is administrative overhead. There is a time factor for a system administrator to create user accounts and configure those accounts correctly based on the user's role. In larger agencies with many employees, this could add up to a significant impact on the system administrator(s) especially if there is a high level of turnover. Resources in some agencies may allow for a single system administrator dedicated strictly for account management. On the other end of the spectrum, in agencies with fewer employees, the impact may be more burdensome. While there are fewer user accounts to manage, a full-time system administrator for account management may not be feasible. Those duties then become shared between a few people or added to the duties of a lone person.

Another reason may be the burden on system administrators to remember multiple userids and passwords. This could result in the user using the same password for each account or the user writing down the credentials for ease of remembrance. Additionally, an administrator could get the credentials mixed up between accounts causing an account lockout. This could then require system administrator intervention to reset or unlock the account.

Some agencies may feel that creating additional accounts reduces system resources. Depending on the size of the agency, this could be a concern. In most cases, the number of individuals that would require a secondary account would be minimal. The impact could be limited to a slight increase in disk space usage on the systems accessed by the system administrators with the separate accounts and perhaps the server housing the account information.

THREATS:

A primary goal of attackers is to gain administrative or root privileges on a network or system. Therefore, protection of credentials with that level of access is a key to preventing unauthorized access. Attackers may use many methods in attempts to gain unauthorized, privileged access to computer or network systems. There are two common techniques that take advantage of improperly managed administrative privileges.

Phishing Attacks

In this first method, consider a small organization with limited system administrative resources. Each user is assigned an account with elevated privileges that allows them to perform a myriad of duties including gaining access to critical system security resources. Because this is the only account the user has, normal non-administrative duties are also performed with administrative rights. While checking their email, the user is fooled into reading a message and opening a malicious attachment. Because the user's account has elevated privileges, malware is now installed on the system with elevated privileges. The malware could now allow the attacker to take over the system and install other malicious software such as key loggers, sniffers, or remote control applications. Other key system resources such as firewalls, routers, switches, or intrusion detection systems are now also compromised.

Password Brute Force Guessing / Cracking

The second method may not be as easy as the first and involves the guessing or cracking of passwords on the part of the attacker. Based on human nature, we tend to develop passwords that are easy to remember and most likely contain some kind of information that is pertinent to us. Some passwords could be easily guessed with a minimal amount of social engineering or fact finding. Consider again an agency that assigns users a single account to perform all duties including those requiring elevated privileges. A user has created a password that, while meeting the requirements of the CJIS Security Policy, is comprised of easily guessed information about the user. An attacker has previously determined the userid and is now able to begin guessing the password. Upon success, the attacker will have unauthorized access to critical system resources.

MITIGATION:

The first step to implementing least privilege is to create separate user accounts for those individuals that require elevated privileges for their duties. These duties could include system or security administration, reviewing audit logs, backup administration, or configuring network devices (e.g., firewalls, routers). The passwords associated with these accounts should have a higher level of complexity than an account without elevated privileges. By disassociating the access levels required for system administration functions from an individual's "everyday use account", should a password be compromised, access would be limited to that of a user with non-elevated privileges.

Second is to implement procedures to ensure accounts with elevated privileges are used only for those duties requiring the higher level of access. This would mean disabling or blocking access to email, web browsers, and other external facing connections. While technical processes are the preferred method of preventing the misuse of accounts with elevated privileges, written policies can be used in situations where technology does not support that type of account management.

Several governance organizations recognize the importance of the security value of Least Privilege. The Payment Card Industry (PCI) includes requirements in their Data Security Standards (DSS). The National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) addresses the concept of Least Privilege in its Special Publication (SP) 800-53 rev. 4. While not considered a governance organization, the System Administration, Networking, and Security (SANS) Institute publishes a list of the top 20 security controls which includes "Controlled Use of Administrator Privileges" at number 12. Although the actual security controls or required implementation may slightly differ, the concept is consistent across the groups. The actual controls from NIST and SANS are included here in this appendix.

NIST CONSIDERATIONS FOR LEAST PRIVILEGE:

NIST Special Publication 800-53 rev. 4 includes controls required for all systems under the Federal Information Security Management Act. The publication specifies the guidance for Least Privilege in the control catalog under the Access Control (AC) family and specifically as AC-6. While the NIST requirements are not enforceable under the CJIS Security Policy, they were the genesis of the Policy and do provide a sound security baseline that can be leveraged by the criminal and noncriminal justice community. AC-6 is a key control having several enhancements which, when implemented, bolster the overall security of the information system by reducing the risk of compromise through the misuse or misconfiguration of access to system resources.

AC-6 Least Privilege

Control: The organization employs the principle of least privilege, allowing only authorized accesses for users (or processes acting on behalf of users) which are necessary to accomplish assigned tasks in accordance with organizational missions and business functions.

Supplemental Guidance: Organizations employ least privilege for specific duties and information systems. The principle of least privilege is also applied to information system processes, ensuring that the processes operate at privilege levels no higher than necessary to accomplish required organizational missions/business functions. Organizations consider the creation of additional processes, roles, and information system accounts as necessary, to achieve least privilege. Organizations also apply least privilege to the development, implementation, and operation of organizational information systems. Related controls: AC-2, AC-3, AC-5, CM-6, CM-7, PL-2.

Control Enhancements:

(1) LEAST PRIVILEGE | AUTHORIZE ACCESS TO SECURITY FUNCTIONS

The organization explicitly authorizes access to [Assignment: organization-defined security functions (deployed in hardware, software, and firmware) and security-relevant information].

Supplemental Guidance: Security functions include, for example, establishing system accounts, configuring access authorizations (i.e., permissions, privileges), setting events to be audited, and setting intrusion detection parameters. Security-relevant information includes, for example, filtering rules for routers/firewalls, cryptographic key management information, configuration parameters for security services, and access control lists. Explicitly authorized personnel include, for example, security administrators, system and network administrators, system security officers, system maintenance personnel, system programmers, and other privileged users. Related controls: AC-17, AC-18, AC-19.

Control Enhancements:

(2) LEAST PRIVILEGE | NON-PRIVILEGED ACCESS FOR NONSECURITY FUNCTIONS

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

The organization requires that users of information system accounts, or roles, with access to [Assignment: organization-defined security functions or security-relevant information], use non-privileged accounts or roles, when accessing nonsecurity functions.

Supplemental Guidance: This control enhancement limits exposure when operating from within privileged accounts or roles. The inclusion of roles addresses situations where organizations implement access control policies such as role-based access control and where a change of role provides the same degree of assurance in the change of access authorizations for both the user and all processes acting on behalf of the user as would be provided by a change between a privileged and non-privileged account. Related control: PL-4.

(3) LEAST PRIVILEGE | NETWORK ACCESS TO PRIVILEGED COMMANDS

The organization authorizes network access to [Assignment: organization-defined privileged commands] only for [Assignment: organization-defined compelling operational needs] and documents the rationale for such access in the security plan for the information system.

Supplemental Guidance: Network access is any access across a network connection in lieu of local access (i.e., user being physically present at the device). Related control: AC-17.

(4) LEAST PRIVILEGE | SEPARATE PROCESSING DOMAINS

The information system provides separate processing domains to enable finer-grained allocation of user privileges.

Supplemental Guidance: Providing separate processing domains for finer-grained allocation of user privileges includes, for example: (i) using virtualization techniques to allow additional privileges within a virtual machine while restricting privileges to other virtual machines or to the underlying actual machine; (ii) employing hardware and/or software domain separation mechanisms; and (iii) implementing separate physical domains. Related controls: AC-4, SC-3, SC-30, SC-32.

(5) LEAST PRIVILEGE | PRIVILEGED ACCOUNTS

The organization restricts privileged accounts on the information system to [Assignment: organization-defined personnel or roles].

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Supplemental Guidance: Privileged accounts, including super user accounts, are typically described as system administrator for various types of commercial off-the-shelf operating systems. Restricting privileged accounts to specific personnel or roles prevents day-to-day users from having access to privileged information/functions. Organizations may differentiate in the application of this control enhancement between allowed privileges for local accounts and for domain accounts provided organizations retain the ability to control information system configurations for key security parameters and as otherwise necessary to sufficiently mitigate risk. Related control: CM-6.

(6) LEAST PRIVILEGE | PRIVILEGED ACCESS BY NON-ORGANIZATIONAL USERS

The organization prohibits privileged access to the information system by non-organizational users.

Supplemental Guidance:

Related control: IA-8.

(7) LEAST PRIVILEGE | REVIEW OF USER PRIVILEGES

The organization:

(a) Reviews [Assignment: organization-defined frequency] the privileges assigned to [Assignment: organization-defined roles or classes of users] to validate the need for such privileges; and

(b) Reassigns or removes privileges, if necessary, to correctly reflect organizational mission/business needs.

Supplemental Guidance: The need for certain assigned user privileges may change over time reflecting changes in organizational missions/business function, environments of operation, technologies, or threat. Periodic review of assigned user privileges is necessary to determine if the rationale for assigning such privileges remains valid. If the need cannot be revalidated, organizations take appropriate corrective actions. Related control: CA-7.

(8) LEAST PRIVILEGE | PRIVILEGE LEVELS FOR CODE EXECUTION

The information system prevents [Assignment: organization-defined software] from executing at higher privilege levels than users executing the software.

Supplemental Guidance: In certain situations, software applications/programs need to execute with elevated privileges to perform required functions. However, if the privileges required for execution are at a higher level than the privileges assigned to organizational users invoking such applications/programs, those users are indirectly provided with greater privileges than assigned by organizations.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

(9) LEAST PRIVILEGE | AUDITING USE OF PRIVILEGED FUNCTIONS

The information system audits the execution of privileged functions.

Supplemental Guidance: Misuse of privileged functions, either intentionally or unintentionally by authorized users, or by unauthorized external entities that have compromised information system accounts, is a serious and ongoing concern and can have significant adverse impacts on organizations. Auditing the use of privileged functions is one way to detect such misuse, and in doing so, help mitigate the risk from insider threats and the advanced persistent threat (APT). Related control: AU-2.

(10) LEAST PRIVILEGE | PROHIBIT NON-PRIVILEGED USERS FROM EXECUTING PRIVILEGED FUNCTIONS

The information system prevents non-privileged users from executing privileged functions to include disabling, circumventing, or altering implemented security safeguards/countermeasures.

Supplemental Guidance: Privileged functions include, for example, establishing information system accounts, performing system integrity checks, or administering cryptographic key management activities. Non-privileged users are individuals that do not possess appropriate authorizations. Circumventing intrusion detection and prevention mechanisms or malicious code protection mechanisms are examples of privileged functions that require protection from non-privileged users.

SYSTEM ADMINISTRATION, NETWORKING, AND SECURITY (SANS) CONSIDERATION FOR LEAST PRIVILEGE:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

There are many negative factors that affect our cyber lives: massive data loss, intellectual property theft, credit card breaches, and identity theft just to name a few. Cyber defense is rapidly evolving to address the plethora of challenges we face. Defenders have access to a wide array of resources to combat those wishing to do harm. Ranging from the collection of vast amounts of intelligence data to security standards to training and certifications, security practitioners are well armed.

But can information overload actually worsen the problem? Organizations must decide, hopefully based on risk analysis, how to wade through all available resources and select those best suited to their own operating environment. The threats continue to evolve, the attackers become smarter, and user access more mobile. The cloud beckons and can provide reduced cost and infrastructure at a price of less control and accountability for vital information.

The SANS Institute publishes the "20 Critical Security Controls for Effective Cyber Defense". This list of controls is the combined result of work by an international community to create, adopt, and support the controls. The components of the community provide insight, tools, information, and solutions into threats and adversaries. This list includes the control titled "Controlled Use of Administrative Privileges". SANS describes this control as: The process and tools used to track/control/prevent/correct the use, assignment, and configuration of administrative privileges on computers, networks, and applications.

Critical Security Control (CSC) 12: Controlled Use of Administrative Privileges

The processes and tools used to track/control/prevent/correct the use, assignment, and configuration of administrative privileges on computers, networks, and applications.

ID #	Description	Category
CSC 12---1	Minimize administrative privileges and only use administrative accounts when they are required. Implement focused auditing on the use of administrative privileged functions and monitor for anomalous behavior.	Quick win (One of the "First Five")
CSC 12---2	Use automated tools to inventory all administrative accounts and validate that each person with administrative privileges on desktops, laptops, and servers is authorized by a senior executive.	Quick win

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

CSC 12---3	Configure all administrative passwords to be complex and contain letters, numbers, and special characters intermixed, and with no dictionary words present in the password. Pass phrases containing multiple dictionary words, along with special characters, are acceptable if they are of a reasonable length.	Quick win
CSC 12---4	Before deploying any new devices in a networked environment, change all default passwords for applications, operating systems, routers, firewalls, wireless access points, and other systems to have values consistent with administration---level accounts.	Quick win
CSC 12---5	Ensure that all service accounts have long and difficult--- to---guess passwords that are changed on a periodic basis, as is done for traditional user and administrative passwords.	Quick win
CSC 12---6	Passwords should be hashed or encrypted in storage. Passwords that are hashed should be salted and follow guidance provided in NIST SP 800---132 or similar guidance. Files containing these encrypted or hashed passwords required for systems to authenticate users should be readable only with super---user privileges.	Quick win
CSC 12---7	Utilize access control lists to ensure that administrative accounts are used only for system administration activities, and not for reading e---mail, composing documents, or surfing the Internet. Web browsers and e---mail clients especially must be configured to never run as administrator.	Quick win
CSC 12---8	Through policy and user awareness, require that administrators establish unique, different passwords for their administrative and non---administrative accounts. Each person requiring administrative access should be given his/her own separate account. Users should only use the Windows “administrator” or UNIX “root” accounts in emergency situations. Domain administration accounts should be used when required for system administration instead of local administrative accounts.	Quick win
CSC 12---9	Configure operating systems so that passwords cannot be re---used within a timeframe of six months.	Quick win
CSC 12---10	Configure systems to issue a log entry and alert when an account is added to or removed from a domain administrators’ group, or when a new local administrator account is added on a system.	Visibility/ Attribution
CSC 12---11	Configure systems to issue a log entry and alert when unsuccessful login to an administrative account is attempted.	Visibility/ Attribution

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

CSC 12---12	Use multifactor authentication for all administrative access, including domain administrative access. Multi--- factor authentication can include a variety of techniques, to include the use of smart cards with certificates, One Time Password (OTP) tokens, and biometrics.	Configuration/ Hygiene
CSC 12---13 (NEW)	When using certificates to enable multi---factor certificate---based authentication, ensure that the private keys are protected using strong passwords or are stored in trusted, secure hardware tokens.	Configuration/ Hygiene
CSC 12---14	Block access to a machine (either remotely or locally) for administrator---level accounts. Instead, administrators should be required to access a system using a fully logged and non---administrative account. Then, once logged on to the machine without administrative privileges, the administrator should transition to administrative privileges using tools such as Sudo on Linux/UNIX, RunAs on Windows, and other similar facilities for other types of systems. Users would use their own administrative accounts and enter a password each time that is different than their user account.	Configuration/ Hygiene

Quick win: Implementation provides significant risk reduction without major financial, procedural, architectural, or technical changes to an environment, or that provide substantial and immediate risk reduction against very common attacks that most security-aware organizations prioritize these key controls.

Visibility / attribution: Measures to improve the process, architecture, and technical capabilities of organizations to monitor their networks and computer systems to detect attack attempts, locate points of entry, identify already-compromised machines, interrupt infiltrated attackers' activities, and gain information about the sources of an attack.

Configuration / hygiene: reduce the number and magnitude of security vulnerabilities and improve the operations of networked computer systems, with a focus on protecting against poor security practices by system administrators and end-users that could give an attacker an advantage.

SEPARATION OF DUTIES:

Separation of duties is another security control related to least privilege. Many of the same challenges faced by least privilege apply to this concept as well. Agency size and resources play a major in the implementation of separation of duties. As the name implies, some key functions should be separated between different individuals. The goal of this concept is to provide protection against a single individual's ability to circumvent system security controls to gain unauthorized access or perform unauthorized actions without colluding with other individuals.

Simply put separation of duties entails distributing certain critical mission oriented functions or system administrative support functions amongst different individuals or roles. It also includes delineating information system support duties such as auditing, configuration control, or network security between different individuals.

As with least privilege, an agency's ability to implement separation of duties is typically based on financial and personnel resources. While a very large agency may have ready availability to those resources to ensure critical functions are spread across multiple individuals, a small agency probably does not have that luxury.

THREATS:

What effect can an individual with carte blanc access to all critical functions of a system have? Consider a single individual with the ability to install nefarious applications on a system (e.g., a keylogger). If this same individual also has the ability to edit any audit logs that would have recorded the actions of installing the software, those entries could be deleted and any evidence of the installation eliminated.

Perhaps a disgruntled system administrator wants to open a port on a firewall to allow a remote backdoor connection into the information system in order to siphon off criminal justice information. Because the perpetrator has access to the firewall and all logs, the port can be opened and the logs tampered with to eliminate records of the action.

As mentioned previously, the two concepts of least privilege and separation of duties are related. Additional threats are presented when a system administrator using a single account with unlimited elevated privileges across the information system uses that account to check email. In a successful phishing attack that compromises this account, the attacker now has unrestricted unauthorized access to all system resources and the ability to hide their tracks.

MITIGATION:

The primary method to avoid these situations is to configure system privileges and duties such that a single person is unable to effect questionable change to the system and then are able to erase any evidence of the change.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Technical configurations are most secure and sound enforceable policies compliment the technical solutions. When an information system does not support separating duties, strong policies help mitigate risk.

NIST CONSIDERATIONS FOR SEPARATION OF DUTIES:

NIST Special Publication 800-53 specifies the guidance for separation of duties in the control catalog under the Access Control (AC) family and specifically as AC-5. While the NIST requirements are not enforceable under the CJIS Security Policy, they were the genesis of the Policy and do provide a sound security baseline that can be leveraged by the criminal and noncriminal justice community. AC-5 is a relatively small control with no enhancements, but it is significant in protecting the integrity of an information system.

AC-5 Separation of Duties

Control: The organization:

a. Separates [Assignment: organization-defined duties of individuals];

b. Documents separation of duties of individuals; and

c. Defines information system access authorizations to support separation of duties.

Supplemental Guidance: Separation of duties addresses the potential for abuse of authorized privileges and helps to reduce the risk of malevolent activity without collusion. Separation of duties includes, for example: (i) dividing mission functions and information system support functions among different individuals and/or roles; (ii) conducting information system support functions with different individuals (e.g., system management, programming, configuration management, quality assurance and testing, and network security); and (iii) ensuring security personnel administering access control functions do not also administer audit functions. Definitions and Terms:

Encryption – A form of cryptology that applies a cryptographic operation to provide confidentiality of (sensitive) information.

Decryption – The inverse cryptographic operation used to convert encrypted information back into a plaintext (readable) format.

Asymmetric Encryption – A type of encryption that uses key pairs for encryption. One key is used to encrypt a message and another key to decrypt the message. Asymmetric encryption is also commonly known as public key encryption.

Symmetric Encryption – A type of encryption where the same key is used to encrypt and decrypt a message. Symmetric encryption is also known as secret key encryption.

Hybrid encryption – A type of encryption where both asymmetric encryption and symmetric encryption keys are used creating what is referred to as cipher suites. In a hybrid solution the asymmetric encryption keys are used for client/server certificate exchange to provide session integrity while the symmetric encryption keys are used for bulk data encryption to provide data confidentiality.

Authorized User/Personnel - An individual, or group of individuals, who have been appropriately vetted through a national fingerprint-based record check and have been granted access to CJI.

Summary:

CJIS Security Policy encryption requirements are intended to provide protection of the sensitive data that is criminal justice information (CJI). The primary goal of encrypting CJI is to prevent unauthorized access to this sensitive data. Encryption is a great tool that can be applied to accomplish this protection and ensure compliance with the vast majority of the CJI requirements. CJIS Security Policy Section 5.10.1.2 details when encryption is required and provides information on the exceptions to the encryption requirement.

Achieving CJIS Security Policy Compliance:

To determine when encryption is required one must first read and understand CJIS Security Policy Section 5.9.1 Physically Secure Location. The reason for this is simple: encryption is not required while within a physically secure location. Conversely, whenever CJI is transmitted or stored (at rest) outside the boundaries of a physically secure location encryption may be required. The exact standards to which the data would be required to meet are detailed along with any exceptions in CJIS Security Policy Section 5.10.1.2.

Additionally, both security awareness training and personnel security requirements can be affected by whether or not CJI is encrypted. Requirements surrounding these Policy areas is determined by answering the following question: Who has unescorted access to unencrypted CJI?

Unless personnel is escorted, security awareness training is required as correlated with the access level needed by personnel as identified in CJIS Security Policy Section 5.2. Similarly, fingerprint-based background checks as detailed in CJIS Security Policy Section 5.12 may be required on individuals to permit unescorted access to CJI.

The intent of all these requirements is to limit access to CJI to only authorized personnel. CJIS Security Policy Appendix A: Terms and Definitions defines authorized user/personnel as an individual, or group of individuals, who have been appropriately vetted through a national fingerprint-based record check and have been granted access to CJI.

What is Encryption?

Encryption is the process of encoding messages or information in such a manner that only people with the knowledge or means to decrypt the message can do so. But how does this work?

In an encryption process, legible data, referred to as plaintext, is encrypted by applying a cipher (otherwise known as an encryption algorithm or crypto key) to the data. The data then becomes encrypted and is now referred to as ciphertext. The ciphertext is essentially unreadable until decrypted. The decryption process requires the process of applying the same algorithm (crypto key) to encrypt the data in an inverse manner to convert the data back into plaintext.

Encryption is important because it allows you to securely protect data that you don't want anyone else to have access to. Encryption has been used throughout history to send “secrets” securely by some form of obfuscation to a recipient. Businesses and enterprises use encryption to protect corporate secrets and sensitive employee data, such as payroll information and personally identifiable information (PII). Governments secure classified information with encryption. Additionally, individuals may use encryption to protect personal information, such as credit card data, banking information, and passwords to guard against things like identity theft.

It should be known that encryption may not always prevent the interception of data. If the stolen data is encrypted, though, it would be extremely difficult for any of the data to be decrypted without having the decryption key. While it may be possible to decrypt the message without possessing the key, it does require large computational resources, great skill, and lots of time to accomplish such a task. Exercising encryption along with key management policies is one of the best security practices that can be put into place with regard to sensitive data security and protection.

Types of Encryption:

Symmetric Encryption

Symmetric encryption is also commonly known as secret key encryption. Symmetric encryption is a form of cryptography utilizing a singular encryption key to guise an electronic message. Its data conversion uses a mathematical algorithm along with a secret key, which results in the inability to make sense out of a message. Symmetric encryption is a two-way algorithm because the mathematical algorithm is reversed when decrypting the message along with using the same secret key.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Symmetric encryption is most often used for data protection whether at rest or in transit, especially in bulk, due to the ease and speed with which the encryption can be implemented. The most common examples of symmetric algorithms are: AES and Triple-DES (3DES or TDEA).

How it works:

To encrypt and send a message to Jane, John does the following:

1. Generates a new symmetric key
2. Encrypts the message using this new symmetric key
3. Sends the message to Jane
4. Sends the encrypted symmetric key to Jane - out of band

To decrypt this ciphertext, Jane does the following:

1. Receives the encrypted message
2. Receives the symmetric key
3. Uses the symmetric key to decrypt the message

Asymmetric Encryption

Asymmetric encryption is also commonly known as public-key encryption Asymmetric cryptography is cryptography in which a pair of keys, a public key and a private key, are used to encrypt and decrypt a message so that it arrives securely. Initially, a network user receives a public and private key pair from a certificate authority. Any other user who wants to send an encrypted message can get the intended recipient's public key from a public directory. They use this key to encrypt the message, and they send it to the recipient. When the recipient gets the message, they decrypt it with their private key, which no one else should have access to.

Creating Key Pairs:

Asymmetric encryption requires the use of algorithms of great computational complexity to create the key pairs. This is accomplished by using a large, random number that an algorithm is applied to which generates a pair of keys for use as asymmetric key algorithms (as shown in Figure 1 below).

Asymmetric encryption is most often used to encrypt a single message before transmission. The most common examples of asymmetric algorithms are: RSA and DSA.

How it works:

To encrypt and send a message to Jane, John does the following:

1. Obtains Jane's public key
2. Encrypts the message using Jane's public key
3. Sends the message to Jane

To decrypt this ciphertext, Jane does the following:

1. Receives the encrypted message
2. Uses her private key to decrypt the message

Advantages of Using Symmetric Encryption for Data Protection

Asymmetric encryption requires the use of algorithms with great computational complexity to create the key pairs, and therefore is not practical for large amounts of data. It is typically used for only for short messages. Also, asymmetric encryption must use a comparatively stronger key than symmetric key encryption to achieve the same level of protection as one key (public) will be published in the public directory for all to see.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Symmetric encryption is based on large, but simple algorithms which require less computation. Therefore, is much faster to create and use keys. This allows the same key to be used to encrypt and decrypt the message. So, data can be encrypted in real time. The (shared) key is sent to the recipient out of band so that it can be used to decrypt the data.

For the reasons stated above, symmetric key encryption is the preferred choice by both industry and government alike to encrypt large amounts of data (bulk encryption) simply due to the ease and real time encryption capabilities as detailed above. Additionally, a new key can be generated for every session, message transaction, etc., as desired. This means a sender won't have to use one key (public) to encrypt a message and have the recipient use another key (private) to decrypt the message.

Hybrid Encryption

Hybrid encryption solution exist where both asymmetric encryption and symmetric encryption keys are used to create what is referred to as cipher suites. In a hybrid solution the asymmetric encryption keys are used for client/server certificate exchange to provide session integrity while the symmetric encryption keys are used for bulk data encryption to provide data confidentiality.

Hybrid solutions are most often used by Internet browsers to protect data in transit. The most common examples of hybrid encryption are: TLS/SSL, PGP, IPSEC, and S/MIME.

How it works:

To encrypt a message to Jane in a hybrid cryptosystem, John does the following:

1. Obtains Jane's public key
2. Generates a new symmetric key
3. Encrypts the message using this new symmetric key
4. Encrypts the symmetric key using Jane's public key
5. Sends the message to Jane

To decrypt this hybrid cipher text, Jane does the following:

1. Receives the encrypted message
2. Receives the encrypted symmetric key
3. Uses her private key to decrypt the symmetric key
4. Uses the symmetric key to decrypt the message

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Explaining Cipher Suites:

A cipher suite is a set of cryptographic algorithms used for the following:

- Protect information required to create shared keys (key exchange)
- Encrypt messages exchanged between clients and servers (bulk encryption)
- Generate message hashes and signatures to ensure the integrity of a message (message authentication)

Examples of Transport Layer Security (TLS) 1.2 Cipher Suites:

- TLS_RSA_WITH_AES_128_CBC_SHA256
- TLS_RSA_WITH_AES_256_CBC_SHA256

A cipher suite specifies one algorithm for each of the above tasks. For example, the TLS_RSA_WITH_AES_128_SHA256 cipher suite is used for TLS. The suite uses the RSA asymmetric algorithm for key exchange, AES with a 128-bit key for bulk data encryption, and SHA256 for message authentication.

Symmetric and Asymmetric Key Strength Comparison:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

As you can see in the chart provided above, the equivalent key strengths between symmetric and asymmetric key strengths do not necessarily correlate. There is a reason for this. As stated previously, asymmetric algorithms must use a comparatively stronger key than symmetric key encryption to achieve the same strength. The simplest explanation for this is because one of the keys is published to the public directory and can constantly be attacked by anyone with access to the directory. Therefore, the public key must be made of such strength that it can resist getting compromised while made public.

Federal Information Processing Standard (FIPS) 140-2 Explained

Origin of FIPS 140-2

On July 17, 1995, the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) established the Cryptographic Module Validation Program (CMVP) to validate cryptographic modules to Federal Information Processing Standards (FIPS) Security Requirements for Cryptographic Modules, and other FIPS cryptography based standards. The CMVP is a joint effort between NIST and the Communications Security Establishment Canada (CSEC). FIPS 140-2, Security Requirements for Cryptographic Modules, was released on May 25, 2001 to supersede the original FIPS 140-1. Modules validated as conforming to FIPS 140-1 and FIPS 140-2 are accepted by the Federal Agencies of both countries for the protection of sensitive information.

What is FIPS 140-2?

Federal Information Processing Standard (FIPS) is a standard developed and recommended (often mandated) for use in federal-government-operated IT systems by the following two government bodies:

- The National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) in the United States
- The Communications Security Establishment (CSE) in Canada

FIPS 140-2 specifies the security requirements a cryptographic module must meet when utilized within a security system protecting sensitive information within information systems (computer and telecommunication systems). FIPS 140-2 specifies which encryption algorithms can be used and how encryption keys are to be generated and managed.

How does a product get certified?

Vendors of cryptographic modules can have their products tested by independent, accredited Cryptographic and Security Testing (CST) laboratories. The CST laboratories use the Derived Test

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Requirements (DTR), Implementation Guidance (IG) and applicable CMVP programmatic guidance to test cryptographic modules against the applicable standards in a variety of implementations. The result of these tests are reported to NIST's Computer Security Division (CSD) and CSEC who jointly serve as the Validation Authorities for the program. These results are then reviewed and certificates would be issued if the results are determined to be acceptable.

What is the difference between being FIPS 140-2 compliant and being FIPS 140-2 certified?

It is common theme to discover a product is “FIPS compliant.” What does this mean, though? The difference between compliance and certification is not subtle. Certification requires a vast testing, verification, and validation process be performed by a CST laboratory as described in the previous section. Compliance is merely a claim stating the implementation of an encryption solution is done in accordance with the security policy related to the FIPS certification. Any claim of compliance would need to be validated and the corresponding certificate number would have to be known.

NIST has addressed related claims as shown below in their Frequently Asked Questions for the Cryptographic Module Validation Program:

> A vendor makes the following claims of conformance to FIPS 140-2. Are they acceptable?
>
> • The module has been designed for compliance to FIPS 140-2. <NO>
>
> • Module has been pre-validated and is on the CMVP pre-validation list. <NO>
>
> • The module will be submitted for testing. <NO>
>
> • The module has been independently reviewed and tested to comply with FIPS 140-2. <NO>
>
> • The module meets all the requirements of FIPS 140-2. <NO>
>
> • The module implements FIPS Approved algorithms; including having algorithm certificates. <NO>
>
> • The module follows the guidelines detailed in FIPS 140-2. <NO>
>
> • The module has been validated and has received Certificate #XXXX. <YES>
>
> A cryptographic module does not meet the requirements or conform to the FIPS 140-2 standard unless a reference can be made to the validation certificate number. The module used must also be the same version/part number as annotated on the validation certificate. Any other claims are not relevant.

General Recommendations:

Encryption key management control is of paramount importance! Agencies should develop policies and procedures define and monitor the administrative tasks involved with protection, storage, organization, access controls and the lifecycle management of encryption keys. After all, encryption keys should not be accessible by just anyone. An encryption key management control process should ensure only authorized users have access to encryption keys. Key management is a best security practice and helps to ensure the confidentiality and integrity of CJI data and enforces key access control.

The CJIS Security Policy is a "living" document under constant review and receiving regular updates through the Advisory Policy Board (APB) process. Agencies need to always keep up to date on the latest requirements. These requirements can be found in CJIS Security Policy Section 5.10.1.2. Please contact the CJIS ISO Program anytime to address any questions or concerns about CJIS Security Policy requirements, the current APB status of CJIS Security Policy requirements, or if seeking general information or guidance.

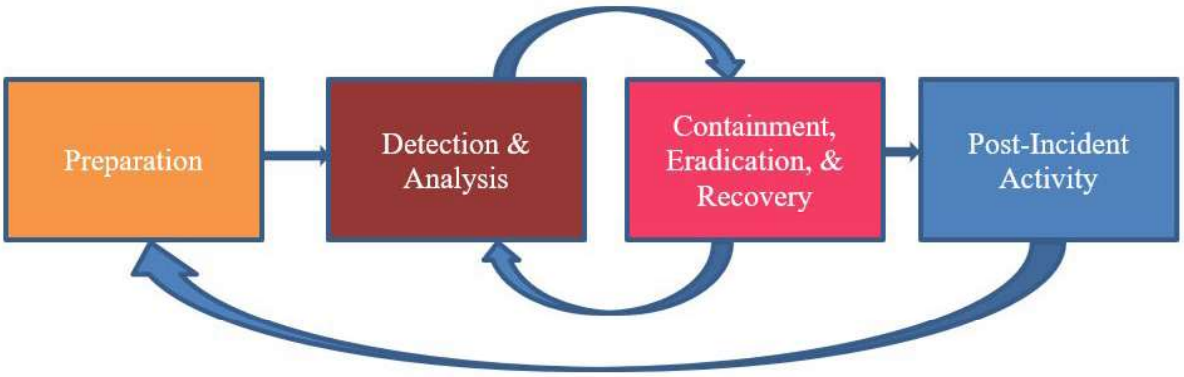
G.7 Incident Response

Incident Response



Introduction

Information technology (IT) security incident response is an important and critical component of information technology programs. Performing incident response effectively can be a complex undertaking – for that reason, establishing a successful incident response capability requires planning and resources. Everyone in an organization must be aware of IT security risks, threats, and actions to take in situations where an actual IT security incident has occurred. Even the best-secured and controlled environments can experience these security risks, threats, events, and incidents. This document provides guidelines for appropriate response to IT security incidents, and are independent of specific hardware platforms, operating systems, protocols, or applications.

The following example incidents are used to highlight appropriate actions during each phase:

- Malicious code execution
- Ransomware execution
- Denial of service attack
- Social Engineering
- Phishing

NIST Special Publication 800-61 rev. 2 outlines the "Incident Response Life Cycle" as a collection of phases – distinct sets of activities that will assist in the handling of a computer security incident, from start to finish. The following diagram explains the process flow of the incident response life cycle:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Preparation

The initial phase of the incident response life cycle, "Preparation", involves establishing and training an incident response team, and acquiring the necessary tools and resources. A computer security incident may not have happened at this phase, but it is important to utilize all available knowledge and security measures to obtain the best posture for responding to potential future incidents. One of the most important preparation steps involves the collection, storage, and accessibility of event data and telemetry from hardware and software resources such as firewall logs, application logs, operating system logs, and other valuable sources of situational data, as well as the output of products that perform analysis on such data. Preventive measures to mitigate or eliminate future incidents are deployed during this phase, using industry best practices, data obtained from research and intelligence sources, and lessons learned from past incidents.

It is also imperative to prepare a list of contact information or notification methodologies to employ when an incident occurs, as well as notification and communication strategies within the team, with stakeholders, and with upper management and potentially other criminal justice and non-criminal justice agencies. This will help ensure that when incidents arise, the proper personnel and organizations are notified and kept informed of the circumstances regarding the incident.

Using the example incident categories outlined earlier, some overview into appropriate actions and activities for the Preparation phase can be given:

Malicious code execution

Preparation for incidents involving malicious code execution should initially involve user awareness of sources of malicious code. There are many potential sources of malicious code, such as web pages, emails, and removable media. The utilization and deployment of effective antivirus software, integrity-monitoring software, and intrusion detection and prevention software are effective measures to take to prepare for incidents involving malicious code execution.

Ransomware execution

Preparation phase activities for incidents involving ransomware execution are much the same as activities for malicious code execution, as ransomware is a specialized form of malware that encrypts potentially important or critical files, with the intention of coercing a victim to pay for a decryption key. Implementing a robust offline backup solution for these types of files is an important preparative action to take regarding the execution of ransomware. This will ensure that when ransomware attacks do happen, the mission impact is as minimal as possible and very little or no data is lost.

Denial of service attack

Denial of service attacks are given attention in the preparation phase. Defensive responses to denial of service attacks typically involve the use of a combination of attack detection and traffic classification and response tools, aiming to block traffic identified as abusive denial of service activity. Deploying solutions such as IDS/IPS devices and software, network hardware with rate-limiting capabilities (routers, switches, and firewalls), and upstream filtering devices at the system perimeter can mitigate for denial of service attacks.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Social Engineering

Preparation for social engineering attacks starts with user awareness training. Understanding and identifying attempts to obtain information in an unauthorized manner is crucial to thwarting these types of scenarios. Social engineering is the art of manipulating people to obtain information they may not be authorized to handle. Training and routinely testing users on potential social engineering scenarios and tactics, and providing training regarding appropriate responses to requests involving personal or otherwise sensitive information (for example, passwords or criminal justice information), is an effective way to ensure social engineering attacks never traverse past the preparation phase of the incident response life cycle.

Phishing

Like social engineering, preparation for phishing attacks is imperative. Phishing is a social engineering technique attackers employ to deceive users, in a fraudulent attempt to obtain sensitive information, or to gain unauthorized access to systems. Phishing is extremely widespread, and attackers disguising fraudulent scenarios in electronic communication such as email and instant messages are the most common. User awareness of these types of tactics is paramount to prepare for phishing attacks and schemes.

Detection and Analysis

The detection and analysis phase begins when a security incident has occurred. To understand when this phase begins, there must be a capability for an intelligent determination of circumstances constituting a security incident. Specialized knowledge and highly trained personnel are necessary for this step to be effective. Many organizations employ teams of personnel who are specifically trained to handle the intricacies of the incident response life cycle. The determination of a security incident can arise from one or several circumstances simultaneously – for example:

- Trained personnel manually reviewing collected event data for evidence of compromise
- Software applications analyzing events, trends, and patterns of behavior
- The observation of suspicious or anomalous activity on a computer system

The goals of this phase are:

- To detect whether a security incident occurred
- To determine the vector (i.e., method) of attack
- To determine the impact of the incident to the mission, systems, and personnel involved in the incident

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

- To obtain or create intelligence products regarding attack vectors and methodologies, especially when dealing with malicious code

Prioritization of incidents is also an important decision point in the incident response life cycle, as the circumstances regarding an incident can bring the situation to a critical level. There are three major impacts to consider when addressing priority of incidents:

- Functional Impact: the impact to business functionality
- Information Impact: the impact to confidentiality, integrity, and/or availability of criminal justice information
- Recoverability: the amount of time and resources that must be spent on recovering from an incident

Documentation regarding an incident should be thorough and applicable to the incident. This can be crucial in incidents that may lead to legal prosecution, as well as being invaluable to efficiently document, track, handle, manage, and resolve one or more incidents at the same time.

Using the example incident categories outlined earlier, some overview into appropriate actions and activities for the Detection and Analysis phase are given:

Malicious code execution

Detection of malicious code execution is often a primary job of host-based antivirus software. Having a capable and up-to-date antivirus solution installed on a system can detect known malicious code, as well as detect potentially malicious behaviors. The delivery of malicious code to a system can be detected by network traffic analysis and protection tools and hardware. Additionally, some malicious code may produce network traffic that is indicative of successful execution, exploitation, and/or compromise of a system. Solutions such as intrusion detection/prevention systems, Security Information and Event Management (SIEM) tools, and file integrity monitoring software can provide the necessary level of fidelity to make a determination of malicious code execution.

Knowing if or when a system is infected is not always immediately evident. Security controls may have been bypassed or even disabled by the malicious code. However, systems infected by malicious code or software (i.e., malware) can exhibit several indicators. These indicators include, but are not limited to:

- Unexpected pop-up windows
- Slow start up and/or slow performance
- Suspicious hard drive activity including an unexpected lack of storage space
- Missing files
- Crashes and/or error messages
- Unexplained network activity
- Hijacked email

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Analysis of malicious code can be performed in several ways. Static analysis of malicious code can be performed to determine the capabilities of the malicious code and generate actionable intelligence. Dynamic analysis of malicious code can be used to observe how the malicious code interacts with the system and what actions it performs and can often more rapidly determine the capabilities of malicious code. Both static and dynamic analysis can be performed manually, as well as in an automated fashion. Trained specialized personnel are crucial to the analysis of malicious code.

Ransomware execution

The detection of ransomware is identical to the detection of malicious code. Ransomware is specialized malicious code that encrypts potentially valuable files, generally with the intent to coerce a victim to pay a ransom for the possibility of the decryption of those files. Host-based antivirus solutions can also detect these threats, and network traffic analysis and protection tools and hardware can be used to prevent the successful execution of ransomware. SIEM tools and file integrity monitoring software can also detect the execution of ransomware.

Analysis of ransomware is identical to the analysis of malicious code, and the same intelligence can be determined in the same fashion as with the analysis of malicious code. The most obvious sign that ransomware has affected a system is the existence of encrypted files, the disappearance of certain types of files, and/or the presence of “ransom notes” on the system, which contain instructions for payment to obtain a decryption key, which may or may not be legitimate.

Denial of service attack

Denial of service (DoS) attacks are often detected at the perimeter of an organization but can also be detected within the organization as well. Often, from a user’s perspective, the signs of a DoS attack appear to be network performance or administrative maintenance related issues such as slow or broken network connections or down websites. Additionally, an administrator may notice ping time outs, event logs overflowing or alerts from network monitoring systems as issues that may identify a DoS attack. Intrusion detection and prevention software and platforms can detect denial of service attacks, as well as some network monitoring hardware and appliances, such as web application filters, routers, firewalls, and switches. Devices targeted by denial of service attacks can also detect the attacks in some instances, if they have the capabilities to determine explicit attack activity versus normal network traffic.

Analysis of denial of service attacks include the determination of the source traffic, the protocols used to generate the traffic, the service(s) targeted by the attack, and the potential impacts of the attack. Network monitoring devices can often provide these types of data, with the exception of potential impacts of denial of service attacks on systems.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Social Engineering

Detection of social engineering attacks is primarily based on the situational awareness of the individual targeted by social engineering. Given that social engineering is a broad topic that can involve the manipulation and exploitation of people in control of an information system, user awareness of social engineering attempts is crucial. If the target has security awareness training in detecting attempts to gain information or access in an unapproved manner, social engineering is easier to detect.

Analysis of social engineering attacks will generally rely on the recollection abilities of or documentation taken by the targets of the attack. Social engineering may not occur on an information system and may be completely carried out in-person. If the target can recollect or produce documentation regarding the social engineering attempt, the motivation and desired access can potentially be determined. For successful social engineering attempts, recollection and documentation of the attempt is crucial to determining the level of unauthorized access that was obtained.

Phishing

Detection of phishing attacks generally will first occur at an organization's email point of presence. Some organizations still run their own email servers, and many have migrated to cloud solutions. Having an on-premise email server or server farm or cluster will require additional functionality to detect phishing attempts. For example, the header content of the email will need to be read, as well as the content inside the body of the email, to check for potentially malicious content and potentially falsified data that may indicate a phishing email. Many cloud email providers have built this capability into their email solutions, but it is still possible for users to receive phishing emails, as attacker tactics and capabilities evolve daily. The most effective detection of phishing comes from heightened situational awareness of potential attacks. Validating the source of the email can uncover potential phishing attempts.

Analysis of phishing attacks involves examination of email headers, as well as contents of the body of the email. The body of the email may contain malicious content, attachments, or links to suspicious or malicious content. Manual or automated analysis activities can be performed on the email content. Analysis of these elements should be performed by trained specialized personnel to generate intelligence and aid with the determination of indicators of compromise.

Containment, Eradication, and Recovery

Containment activities for computer security incidents involve decision-making and the application of strategies to help control attacks and damage, cease attack activities, or reduce the impact or damage caused by the incident. Often, this requires intelligence gathered by the detection and analysis phases of the incident – for example, identification of affected hosts, identification of attacking hosts or attackers, identification of malware and its capabilities, and identification and monitoring of attacker communication channels can be invaluable to the implementation of containment activities. In most cases, it is important to introduce containment solutions all at once, as attackers may escalate their attack activity if deployment of the strategy is delayed.

Eradication efforts for a computer security incident involve removal of latent threats from systems (such as malware on the system and user accounts that may have been created), identifying and mitigating potential vulnerabilities or misconfigurations that may have been exploited, and identification of other hosts that may have been affected within the organization.

Recovery efforts for incidents involve restoration of affected systems to normal operation. This may include actions like restoring systems from backups, rebuilding systems from an agency-approved baseline, replacing compromised files with clean versions, installing patches, changing passwords, and increasing network perimeter and host-based security.

Compromised hosts are often attacked during these phases, as attackers try to regain their foothold on compromised systems or systems on the same network or others in the logical vicinity.

Malicious code execution

Containment activities for malicious code execution involve the logical or physical isolation of the host from the attacker's control and from any mission services or systems that would be impacted by the compromised host. This may include putting the host in a restricted VLAN, using firewalls to block traffic, disconnecting it from the network completely, shutting it down, or disabling functionality. Exercise caution as malicious code may have capabilities to take further actions on a host in case communications with a command and control server are severed. It is important to understand the capabilities of the malicious code before taking containment actions.

Eradication activities include the removal of malicious code from the system. This may be as simple as removing files, configuration rules, accounts, and other persistent items that the malicious code utilizes to function and maintain a presence on the system. This phase also involves the discovery and removal of indicators of compromise on other systems, if applicable. It is imperative to remediate vulnerabilities that may have been exploited during eradication as well.

Recovery from malicious code execution generally is similar across many environments. Rebuilding the system from a clean baseline or restoring files from backup are typical activities that help restore the functionality of the system to continue the mission. Changing system passwords, installing patches, implementing tighter network access control, and ensuring appropriate levels of logging fidelity of the information system are integral parts of the recovery process.

Ransomware execution

Containment for ransomware execution should be as swift and immediate as possible, as ransomware can execute and spread to accessible media at a rapid pace. Considering files are being encrypted or have already been encrypted, immediate action should be taken to logically or physically isolate the system by disconnecting network connectivity. It is up to the system owner whether to take the risk in powering off the system, as valuable forensic artifacts may be destroyed in the process, but it will halt the execution of the ransomware and protect potentially valuable files. Please note that containment of active ransomware execution is one of the only circumstances where measures such as immediate shutdown are recommended.

Eradication of ransomware does not need to occur in most circumstances, as the entire goal of ransomware is to encrypt files and leave "recovery" instructions to extort victims. The vast majority of ransomware will delete itself once encryption of files is complete, but it is possible that some ransomware is persistent and can remain on the system. If this is the case, analysis should be performed on the ransomware to determine its capabilities, and eradication activities will proceed in an identical fashion to malicious code execution eradication activities.

Recovery from ransomware execution involves restoring encrypted files from backup and may involve the rebuilding of an entire system depending on the extent of the encryption from the ransomware. If a robust offline backup solution for hosts is not present or not utilized on a regular basis, the loss of potentially valuable data may be incredibly costly in several areas to repair, to include man-hours, revenue, and business products, data, and intelligence.

Denial of service attack

Containment of denial of service attacks involve the modification of access control where the attack is occurring. For example, if a web or application server is experiencing a denial of service attack, the system itself, as well as network monitoring devices, should be examined to determine the source of the attack traffic. Once the source of the traffic is identified, modifications to access controls or rate-limiting features such as firewall access controls lists (ACLs) and web application filters can be employed to block the traffic. Care must be taken to determine if the observed traffic is actually intentional malicious denial of service traffic, versus heavy legitimate network traffic. Implementing access control mechanisms or rate-limiting features may negatively affect the mission of the system. It is also important to note that manual containment in this fashion may not be entirely effective, as attackers can circumvent the ACL by changing the attacking IP address, protocol, or other attribute of the connection.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Eradication is not necessarily applicable in denial of service scenarios, unless a vulnerability or misconfiguration is being exploited to cause the denial of service condition. If this is the case, take steps to remediate the vulnerability or misconfiguration.

Recovery actions depend on the available resources of the information system. For example, on-premise load balancers can be used to distribute the traffic, whether legitimate or malicious, to other less-burdened systems. Many cloud providers and content delivery networks also have denial of service mitigation capabilities. It may also be prudent to increase the resources (memory, processing capacity) of internet-facing systems so that they can handle larger amounts of traffic simultaneously.

Social Engineering

Containment regarding social engineering attacks is dependent upon the information or access that was provided to the attacker. For example, if an attacker gained access to an account on a system following a social engineering attempt, the account should be administratively disabled and all sources of event data regarding that account should be immediately collected. If sensitive data was divulged to the attacker, the impact of the exposure of that data should be examined and mitigating activity should be initiated to determine or reduce the damage of the spread of the information.

Eradication regarding social engineering attacks also depends on the information or access provided to the attacker. Removing or limiting the provided access is a pertinent eradication action. If the information provided is a credential to a system, disable and remove the credential from the system. Eradication may also involve the physical detainment or removal of personnel from a site.

Recovery actions for social engineering attacks are dependent on the information or access provided to the attacker. Additionally, security awareness training is an appropriate recovery action to ensure staff understands the threats of social engineering.

Phishing

Containment of phishing activity is tied very closely to the identification and analysis of the phishing activity. Understanding the tactics of the phishing attacker is paramount to deploying containment activities. Activities include, but are not limited to, administratively blocking sender email addresses and IPs, blocking potential malicious content in email via a web proxy, communicating with potential recipients, and implementation of email content or hyperlink blacklisting if possible. Phishing attacks can also include attempts to have users execute malicious code on systems, where containment activities regarding malicious code will be applicable.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Eradication of phishing attacks include the administrative removal of the emails from email systems, as well as eradication actions for malicious code if applicable.

Recovery from phishing attacks can include:

- Implementation and enforcement of the Domain Keys Identified Mail (DKIM) email authentication method, which can mitigate the possibility that attackers can send spoofed email
- Implementation and enforcement of Sender Policy Framework (SPF) to control and stop sender forgeries
- Implementation and enforcement of Domain-based Message Authentication, Reporting, and Conformance (DMARC), which enables message senders to indicate that their messages are protected with SPF and/or DKIM

Additionally, if malicious code is present in the phishing attack, recovery actions regarding malicious code may be applicable.

Post-Incident Activity

Post-incident activities occur after the detection, analysis, containment, eradication, and recovery from a computer security incident. Arguably one of the most important phases of incident response, post-incident activities involve the reflection, compilation, and analysis of the activities that occurred leading to the security incident, and the actions taken by those involved in the security incident, including the incident response team. Some of the important items to consider:

- Exactly what happened, and at what times?
- How well did staff and management perform in dealing with the incident?
- What information was needed sooner?
- Were any steps or actions taken that might have inhibited the recovery?
- What would the staff and management do differently the next time a similar incident occurs?
- How could information sharing with other organizations have been improved?
- What corrective actions can prevent similar actions in the future?
- What precursors or indicators should be watched for in the future to detect similar incidents?
- What additional tools or resources are needed to detect, analyze, and mitigate future incidents?

Smaller incidents, and those that are similar to others that have been well documented, do not necessarily need much focus in this phase of incident response. Larger and less-understood security incidents should be the focus of a comprehensive post-mortem evaluation that outlines many of the items listed above and should include personnel that can have a direct impact on or are directly affected or responsible for the involved systems.

Post-incident activities such as these also help to serve as training opportunities for all parties involved in the incident, from victims, to system administration personnel, to incident responders.

Malicious code execution

Post-incident activities for malicious code execution generally will follow similar patterns. A timeline of activity should have been prepared using digital forensic data collected during the detection and analysis phases of the incident. This timeline should include all affected systems and times of all activities and actions taken during the incident. Steps that victims and system administrators may have taken during the course of the incident, as well as in close proximity to the time range of the incident, are valuable items to document and discuss. Any deviation from organizational policy should be noted and taken as training items or assigned consequences in accordance with organizational policies. It may also be pertinent to ensure that appropriate information and intelligence sharing was performed during and after the incident occurred. Corrective actions that may have prevented the execution of malicious code, such as antivirus solutions, restrictions on where executables can run, tightened permissions, and script blockers for browsers, should be considered as a mitigation for the risks posed by malicious code threats. Web proxy blocks from information discovered during analysis can be utilized to ensure that malicious hosts are not contacted.

Ransomware execution

Post-incident activities for ransomware execution include all the activities involved with malicious code execution, with the addition of ensuring the functionality of a robust offline backup solution. An offline backup solution ensures that backup data is kept inaccessible to ransomware threats and is available if ransomware is successfully executed. A functional and frequent (such as daily incremental and weekly full) backup process helps ensure that business continuity is maintained in the event of issues and incidents.

Denial of service attack

Denial of service post-incident activities should include a timeline of traffic activities, as well as organizational responses to the attack traffic as well as the timeline of any business impacts and the damage associated with the impacts. Any attack precursors should be investigated and noted, and intelligence implemented to notify personnel and potentially take action as soon as attack traffic is observed. Impacts on affected systems should be noted, and a consensus should be reached on whether the systems should be upgraded or supplemented with load-balancing capabilities.

Social Engineering

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Post-incident activities for social engineering incidents should include a timeline that includes all applicable activities, such as points of contact, narratives from the parties involved, CCTV footage (if applicable), system and network log files, and physical access control logging data. If unauthorized access was obtained, the impact of the access should be assessed and mitigating factors should be identified for inclusion to reduce the risk of future incidents (such as multifactor authentication, physical locks, greater CCTV coverage, improved physical access control, etc.). Security awareness training should be imperative if policy was breached, and information or access was given to unauthorized parties.

Phishing

Phishing post-incident activities should also include a timeline of actions taken since the phishing email was received, to include descriptions of the type of phishing campaign observed (malicious code, financial exploitation, credential harvesting, etc.), malicious attachments contained (if any), malicious or suspicious links in the body of emails, as well as narratives from recipients of the email and any potential victims, either self-reported or discovered through email, network, or host-based monitoring. If malicious code was included in the campaign, typical post-incident activities involving malicious code should be considered as well. Training opportunities can often arise from phishing attacks, whether successful or not, that can be valuable in giving employees better situational awareness regarding phishing.

The CJIS Security Policy requires each agency with access to CJI to establish operational incident handling procedures (i.e., a local policy). Gleaning from the requirements in Section 5.3 Incident Response, the local policy may include the following elements:

- Overall incident handling procedures. This section describes and identifies the processes used locally how the agency successfully prepares for, manages, and recovers from an incident. It includes sections on:
    - Preparation
    - Detection and Analysis
    - Containment
    - Recovery
    - User response activities
- How the agency performs incident reporting. This section describes the process of notifying internal and external partners when an incident has occurred and how the incident is documented. It includes sections on:
    - Internal and external points of contact
    - Required tracking and reporting documents
    - Escalation procedures
- Incident management procedures. This section describes the agency's approach to a consistent and repeatable approach to managing incidents. It includes sections on:
    - Roles and responsibilities

G.8 Secure Coding

Secure Coding

This appendix documents a source of information on best practices and standards for secure coding. With the increased use of software products and the rapid pace of modern software development, it is essential to discover and resolve insecure software risks. The mitigations and guidelines to reduce these common risks can be found in secure coding best practices.

Understanding how software applications work can be a daunting thing; however, it could be key to know if data security is in jeopardy. Awareness of secure coding practices allows an agency to review potential vendors and their products prior to purchase and implementation. It also empowers the agency with the knowledge of the questions to ask a vendor of how the software was developed and whether the vendor uses secure coding practices or standards.

Additionally, the information in this appendix can provide a path forward for agencies with the internal capability to produce "in-house" software applications. By implementing security during the code writing process, security is "baked in" and there is more trust the software will aid in protecting the information it processes.

Open Web Application Security Project (OWASP) Foundation

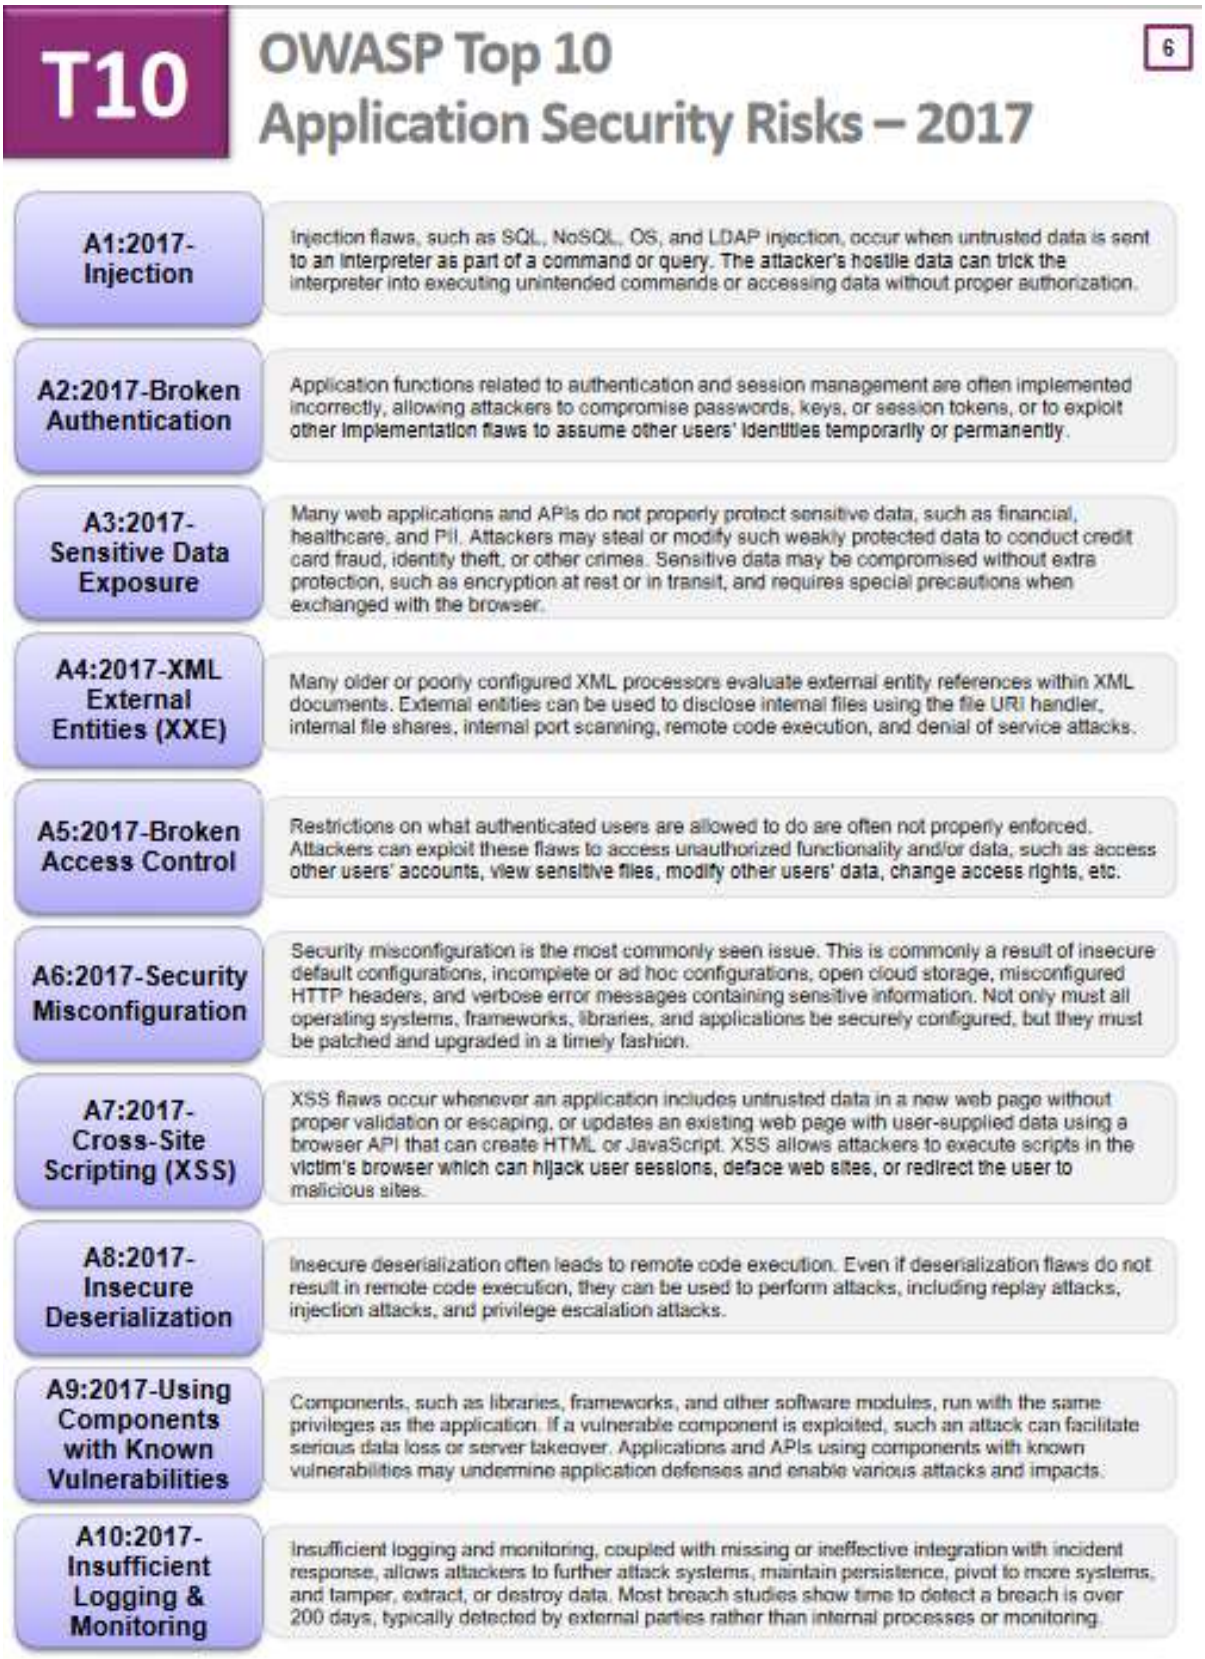
The OWASP Foundation is a not-for-profit charitable organization focused on improving the security of software. OWASP operates as a community of like-minded professionals to provide unbiased and practical information about application security (AppSec) through software tools and documentation. These materials are available under a free and open software license, which can be located at the link below.

https://www.owasp.org/index.php/Main_Page

Software is becoming increasingly complex and connected, and the difficulty of achieving application security increases exponentially. The rapid pace of modern software development processes makes the most common risks essential to discover and resolve quickly and accurately.

The OWASP Foundation publishes the Top 10 Application Security Risks, which focus on the most serious web application security risks. The OWASP Top 10 is based primarily on 40 plus data submissions from firms that specialize in application security and an industry survey that was completed by over 500 individuals. This data spans vulnerabilities gathered from hundreds of organizations and over 100,000 real world applications and application program interfaces (API).

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383



The Top 10 items are selected and prioritized according to this data, in combination with consensus estimates of exploitability, detectability, and impact.

A primary aim of the OWASP Top 10 is to educate developers, designers, architects, managers, and organizations about the consequences of the most common and most important web application security weaknesses. The Top 10 provides basic techniques to protect against these high risks problem areas, and provides guidance on a path forward.

The OWASP Top 10 focuses on identifying the most serious web application security risks for a broad array of organizations. For each of these risks, generic information about likelihood and technical impact using the following simple ratings scheme, which is based on the OWASP Risk Rating Methodology.

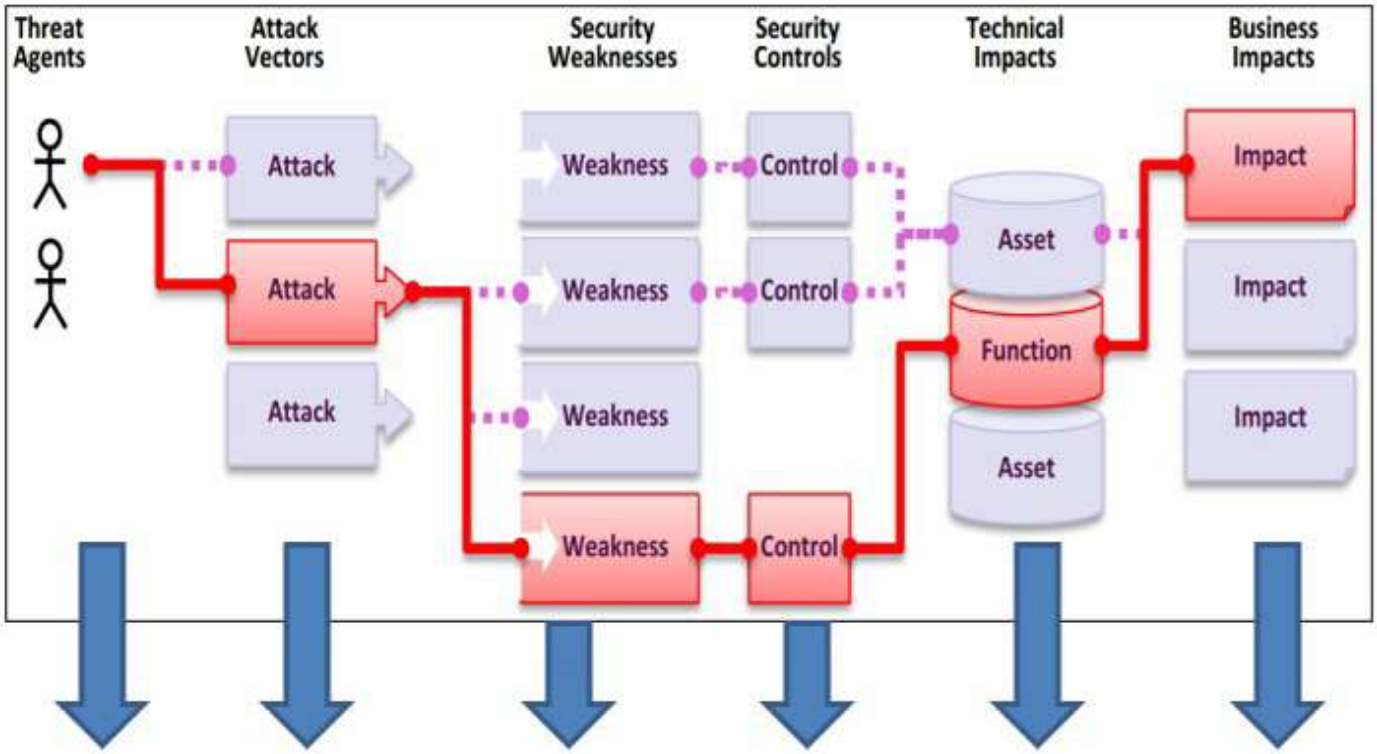
Each organization is unique, and so are the threat actors for that organization, their goals, and the impact of any breach. It is critical to understand the risk to your organization based on applicable threat agents and business impacts.

Application Security Risks



The figures immediately below illustrate the path of a sample threat beginning with the threat agent and ending with the target or affected business resource. Various paths are available but the agent would normally select the path of least resistance which would be the most vulnerable and with the fewest number of effective security controls.

The sample risk matrix can be used to assign in the various aspects of potential vulnerability. Each column corresponds to a phase in the attack process. In the matrix, a lower value represents less risk and is more desirable.

Concerning secure coding practices, when security is built-in during code development, vulnerabilities can be identified and controls included reducing the overall risk to information processed by the code.

To understand these risks for a particular application or organization, you must consider your own specific threat agents and business impacts. Even severe software weaknesses may not present a serious risk if there are no threat agents in a position to perform the necessary attack or the business impact is negligible for the assets involved. The following table presents a summary of the 2017 Top 10 Application Security Risks, and the risk factors that have been assigned to each risk.

Whether you are new to web application security or already very familiar with these risks, the task of producing a secure web application or fixing an existing one can be difficult. If you have to manage a large application portfolio, this task can be daunting.

To help organizations, developers, testers and managers reduce their application security risks in a cost-effective manner; OWASP has produced numerous free and open resources that you can use to address application security in your organization. The following are some of the many resources OWASP has produced to help organizations produce secure web applications and APIs.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Get Started:

- Document all applications and associated data assets.
- Larger organizations should consider implementing a Configuration Management Database (CMDB).
- Establish an application security program to conduct analysis to define key improvement areas and an execution plan.

Risk Based Portfolio Approach:

- Identify the protection needs of your application portfolio from a business perspective.
- Establish a common risk-rating model with a consistent set of likelihood and impact factors reflective of your organization's tolerance for risk.
- Measure and prioritize all applications and APIs and add results to CMDB.

Enable with a Strong Foundation:

- Establish a set of policies and standards that provide an application security baseline for all development teams to adhere too.
- Define a common set of reusable security controls that complement these policies and standards and provide design and development guidance on their use.

Integrate Security into Existing Processes:

- Define and integrate secure implementation and verification activities into existing development and operational processes.
    - Activities include threat modeling, secure design and design review, secure coding and code review, penetration testing, and remediation.

Application Security Requirements - to produce a secure web application, you must define what secure means for that application.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION
CRIMINAL JUSTICE INFORMATION SERVICES
SECURITY ADDENDUM

Legal Authority for and Purpose and Genesis of the Security Addendum

Traditionally, law enforcement and other criminal justice agencies have been responsible for the confidentiality of their information. Accordingly, until mid-1999, the Code of Federal Regulations Title 28, Part 20, subpart C, and the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) policy paper approved December 6, 1982, required that the management and exchange of criminal justice information be performed by a criminal justice agency or, in certain circumstances, by a noncriminal justice agency under the management control of a criminal justice agency.

In light of the increasing desire of governmental agencies to contract with private entities to perform administration of criminal justice functions, the FBI sought and obtained approval from the United States Department of Justice (DOJ) to permit such privatization of traditional law enforcement functions under certain controlled circumstances. In the Federal Register of May 10, 1999, the FBI published a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, announcing as follows:

> 1. Access to CHRI [Criminal History Record Information] and Related Information, Subject to Appropriate Controls, by a Private Contractor Pursuant to a Specific Agreement with an Authorized Governmental Agency To Perform an Administration of Criminal Justice Function (Privatization). Section 534 of title 28 of the United States Code authorizes the Attorney General to exchange identification, criminal identification, crime, and other records for the official use of authorized officials of the federal government, the states, cities, and penal and other institutions. This statute also provides, however, that such exchanges are subject to cancellation if dissemination is made outside the receiving departments or related agencies. Agencies authorized access to CHRI traditionally have been hesitant to disclose that information, even in furtherance of authorized criminal justice functions, to anyone other than actual agency employees lest such disclosure be viewed as unauthorized. In recent years, however, governmental agencies seeking greater efficiency and economy have become increasingly interested in obtaining support services for the administration of criminal justice from the private sector. With the concurrence of the FBI's Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Advisory Policy Board, the DOJ has concluded that disclosures to private persons and entities providing support services for criminal justice agencies may, when subject to appropriate controls, properly be viewed as permissible disclosures for purposes of compliance with 28 U.S.C. 534.
>
> We are therefore proposing to revise 28 CFR 20.33(a)(7) to provide express authority for such arrangements. The proposed authority is similar to the authority that already exists in 28 CFR 20.21(b)(3) for state and local CHRI systems. Provision of CHRI under this authority would only be permitted pursuant to a specific agreement with an authorized governmental agency for the purpose of providing services for the administration of criminal justice. The agreement would be required to incorporate a security addendum approved by the Director of the FBI (acting for the Attorney General). The security

addendum would specifically authorize access to CHRI, limit the use of the information to the specific purposes for which it is being provided, ensure the security and confidentiality of the information consistent with applicable laws and regulations, provide for sanctions, and contain such other provisions as the Director of the FBI (acting for the Attorney General) may require. The security addendum, buttressed by ongoing audit programs of both the FBI and the sponsoring governmental agency, will provide an appropriate balance between the benefits of privatization, protection of individual privacy interests, and preservation of the security of the FBI's CHRI systems.

The FBI will develop a security addendum to be made available to interested governmental agencies. We anticipate that the security addendum will include physical and personnel security constraints historically required by NCIC security practices and other programmatic requirements, together with personal integrity and electronic security provisions comparable to those in NCIC User Agreements between the FBI and criminal justice agencies, and in existing Management Control Agreements between criminal justice agencies and noncriminal justice governmental entities. The security addendum will make clear that access to CHRI will be limited to those officers and employees of the private contractor or its subcontractor who require the information to properly perform services for the sponsoring governmental agency, and that the service provider may not access, modify, use, or disseminate such information for inconsistent or unauthorized purposes.

Consistent with such intent, Title 28 of the Code of Federal Regulations (C.F.R.) was amended to read:

§ 20.33 Dissemination of criminal history record information.

a) Criminal history record information contained in the Interstate Identification Index (III) System and the Fingerprint Identification Records System (FIRS) may be made available:

1) To criminal justice agencies for criminal justice purposes, which purposes include the screening of employees or applicants for employment hired by criminal justice agencies.

2) To noncriminal justice governmental agencies performing criminal justice dispatching functions or data processing/information services for criminal justice agencies; and

3) To private contractors pursuant to a specific agreement with an agency identified in paragraphs (a)(1) or (a)(6) of this section and for the purpose of providing services for the administration of criminal justice pursuant to that agreement. The agreement must incorporate a security addendum approved by the Attorney General of the United States, which shall specifically authorize access to criminal history record information, limit the use of the information to the purposes for which it is provided, ensure the security and confidentiality of the information consistent with these regulations, provide for sanctions, and contain such other provisions as the Attorney General may require. The power and authority of the Attorney General hereunder shall be exercised by the FBI Director (or the Director's designee).

This Security Addendum, appended to and incorporated by reference in a government-private sector contract entered into for such purpose, is intended to insure that the benefits of privatization are not attained with any accompanying degradation in the security of the national system of criminal records accessed by the contracting private party. This Security Addendum addresses both concerns for personal integrity and electronic security which have been addressed in previously executed user agreements and management control agreements.

A government agency may privatize functions traditionally performed by criminal justice agencies (or noncriminal justice agencies acting under a management control agreement), subject to the terms of this Security Addendum. If privatized, access by a private contractor's personnel to NCIC data and other CJIS information is restricted to only that necessary to perform the privatized tasks consistent with the government agency's function and the focus of the contract. If privatized the contractor may not access, modify, use or disseminate such data in any manner not expressly authorized by the government agency in consultation with the FBI.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE INFORMATION SERVICES
SECURITY ADDENDUM

The goal of this document is to augment the CJIS Security Policy to ensure adequate security is provided for criminal justice systems while (1) under the control or management of a private entity or (2) connectivity to FBI CJIS Systems has been provided to a private entity (contractor). Adequate security is defined in Office of Management and Budget Circular A-130 as "security commensurate with the risk and magnitude of harm resulting from the loss, misuse, or unauthorized access to or modification of information."

The intent of this Security Addendum is to require that the Contractor maintain a security program consistent with federal and state laws, regulations, and standards (including the CJIS Security Policy in effect when the contract is executed), as well as with policies and standards established by the Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Advisory Policy Board (APB).

This Security Addendum identifies the duties and responsibilities with respect to the installation and maintenance of adequate internal controls within the contractual relationship so that the security and integrity of the FBI's information resources are not compromised. The security program shall include consideration of personnel security, site security, system security, and data security, and technical security.

The provisions of this Security Addendum apply to all personnel, systems, networks and support facilities supporting and/or acting on behalf of the government agency.

1.00 Definitions

1.01 Contracting Government Agency (CGA) – the government agency, whether a Criminal Justice Agency or a Noncriminal Justice Agency, which enters into an agreement with a private contractor subject to this Security Addendum.

1.02 Contractor – a private business, organization or individual which has entered into an agreement for the administration of criminal justice with a Criminal Justice Agency or a Noncriminal Justice Agency.

2.00 Responsibilities of the Contracting Government Agency.

2.01 The CGA will ensure that each Contractor employee receives a copy of the Security Addendum and the CJIS Security Policy and executes an acknowledgment of such receipt and the contents of the Security Addendum. The signed acknowledgments shall remain in the possession of the CGA and available for audit purposes. The acknowledgement may be signed by hand or via digital signature (see glossary for definition of digital signature).

3.00 Responsibilities of the Contractor.

3.01 The Contractor will maintain a security program consistent with federal and state laws, regulations, and standards (including the CJIS Security Policy in effect when the contract is executed and all subsequent versions), as well as with policies and standards established by the Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Advisory Policy Board (APB).

4.00 Security Violations.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

4.01 The CGA must report security violations to the CJIS Systems Officer (CSO) and the Director, FBI, along with indications of actions taken by the CGA and Contractor.

4.02 Security violations can justify termination of the appended agreement.

4.03 Upon notification, the FBI reserves the right to:

a. Investigate or decline to investigate any report of unauthorized use;

b. Suspend or terminate access and services, including telecommunications links. The FBI will provide the CSO with timely written notice of the suspension. Access and services will be reinstated only after satisfactory assurances have been provided to the FBI by the CGA and Contractor. Upon termination, the Contractor's records containing CHRI must be deleted or returned to the CGA.

5.00 Audit

5.01 The FBI is authorized to perform a final audit of the Contractor's systems after termination of the Security Addendum.

6.00 Scope and Authority

6.01 This Security Addendum does not confer, grant, or authorize any rights, privileges, or obligations on any persons other than the Contractor, CGA, CJA (where applicable), CSA, and FBI.

6.02 The following documents are incorporated by reference and made part of this agreement: (1) the Security Addendum; (2) the NCIC 2000 Operating Manual; (3) the CJIS Security Policy; and (4) Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 20. The parties are also subject to applicable federal and state laws and regulations.

6.03 The terms set forth in this document do not constitute the sole understanding by and between the parties hereto; rather they augment the provisions of the CJIS Security Policy to provide a minimum basis for the security of the system and contained information and it is understood that there may be terms and conditions of the appended Agreement which impose more stringent requirements upon the Contractor.

6.04 This Security Addendum may only be modified by the FBI, and may not be modified by the parties to the appended Agreement without the consent of the FBI.

CERTIFICATION

I hereby certify that I am familiar with the contents of (1) the Security Addendum, including its legal authority and purpose; (2) the NCIC Operating Manual; (3) the CJIS Security Policy; and (4) Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 20, and agree to be bound by their provisions.

I recognize that criminal history record information and related data, by its very nature, is sensitive and has potential for great harm if misused. I acknowledge that access to criminal history record information and related data is therefore limited to the purpose(s) for which a government agency has entered into the contract incorporating this Security Addendum. I understand that misuse of the system by, among other things: accessing it without authorization; accessing it by exceeding authorization; accessing it for an improper purpose; using, disseminating or re-disseminating information received as a result of this contract for a purpose other than that envisioned by the contract, may subject me to administrative and criminal penalties. I understand that accessing the system for an appropriate purpose and then using, disseminating or re-disseminating the information received for another purpose other than execution of the contract also constitutes misuse. I further understand that the occurrence of misuse does not depend upon whether or not I receive additional compensation for such authorized activity. Such exposure for misuse includes, but is not limited to, suspension or loss of employment and prosecution for state and federal crimes.

APPENDIX J NONCRIMINAL JUSTICE AGENCY SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE

This appendix is not intended to be used in lieu of the CJIS Security Policy (CSP) but rather should be used as supplemental guidance specifically for those Noncriminal Justice Agencies (NCJA) with access to Criminal Justice Information (CJI) as authorized by legislative enactment or federal executive order to request civil fingerprint-based background checks for licensing, employment, or other noncriminal justice purposes, via their State Identification Bureau (SIB) and/or Channeling agency. Examples of the target audience for the Appendix J supplemental guidance include school boards, banks, medical boards, gaming commissions, alcohol and tobacco control boards, social services agencies, pharmacy boards, etc.

The CSP is the minimum standard policy used by both criminal and noncriminal justice agencies requiring access to CJI maintained by the FBI CJIS Division. The essential premise of the CSP is to provide appropriate controls to protect the full lifecycle of CJI, whether at rest or in transit. The CSP provides guidance for the creation, viewing, modification, transmission, dissemination, storage, and destruction of CJI. This Policy applies to every individual—contractor, private entity, noncriminal justice agency representative, or member of a criminal justice entity—with access to, or who operate in support of, criminal justice services and information.

For those NCJAs new to the CSP and Advisory Policy Board (APB) auditing process (all NCJAs will be periodically audited by the CJIS Systems Agency (CSA)/SIB and may be included in a sampling of triennial audits conducted by the FBI*)* it is strongly recommended that each system processing CJI should be individually reviewed to determine which CSP requirements may apply. In the interim however this supplemental guidance provides a minimum starting point that every NCJA processing CJI can immediately put into place. Once the broader array of security controls are gleaned for a specific system, agencies can then leverage the (already implemented) controls described in this appendix as a launching pad towards full policy compliance.

The following information is organized to provide the section and section title within the CSP, along with a brief summary and background on the guidance itself. For the specific "shall" statement please go to the referenced section within the main body of the CSP.

General CJI Guidance

The following information provides NCJAs guidance to maintain security compliance when setting up any system capable of sending and/or receiving CJI:

a. 3.2.9 – Local Agency Security Officer (LASO)

It is the responsibility of the CJIS Systems Officer (CSO) to ensure each agency having access to CJI has someone designated as the Local Agency Security Officer (LASO) per CSP Section 3.2.2(2e).

The LASO serves as the primary point of contact (POC) between the local NCJA and their respective CSA CSO or Information Security Officer (ISO) who interfaces with the FBI CJIS Division. The LASO actively represents their agency in all matters pertaining to information security, disseminates information security alerts and other material to their constituents, maintains information security documentation (including system configuration data), assists with Information Security audits of hardware and procedures, and keeps the CSA (i.e., CSO or ISO) informed as to any information security needs and problems.

b. 5.1.1.6 – Agency User Agreements

When an NCJA (private or public) is permitted to request civil fingerprint-based background checks, with the full consent of the individual to whom a background check is taking place, for noncriminal justice functions as authorized pursuant to federal law or state statute approved by the U.S. Attorney General, the information received from the background check, such as criminal history record information (CHRI) or personally identifiable information (PII), must be protected as CJI. In order to receive access to CJI the NCJA must enter into a signed written agreement, i.e., an agency user agreement, with the appropriate signatory authority of the CSA, SIB, or authorized agency providing the CJI access. An example of a NCJA (private) is a local bank. An example of a NCJA (public) is a county school board.

Note 1: The CSA, SIB, or authorized agency providing the CJI access term should be part of the agency user agreement.

Note 2: Any NCJA that directly accesses FBI CJIS must allow the FBI to periodically test the ability to penetrate the FBI's network through the external network connection or system.

c. 5.1.3 – Secondary Dissemination

Secondary dissemination is the promulgation of CJI from a releasing agency to an authorized recipient agency that has not been previously identified in a formal information exchange agreement.

If CHRI is released to another authorized agency, that is not part of the releasing agency's primary information exchange agreement(s), the releasing agency must log such dissemination.

d. 5.2.1.1 – All Personnel (Security Awareness Training)

Basic security awareness training is required for all personnel who have access to CJI within six months of initial assignment, and biennially thereafter. CSP Section 5.2.1.1 describes the topics that must be addressed within baseline security awareness training for all authorized personnel with access to CJI.

Note: The CSO/SIB may accept the documentation of the completion of security awareness training from another agency. Accepting such documentation from another agency means that the accepting agency assumes the risk that the training may not meet a particular requirement or process required by federal, state, or local laws.

e. 5.3 – Incident Response

CSP Section 5.3 assists agencies with response and reporting procedures for accidental and malicious computer and network attacks. The requirements within Section 5.3 will help NCJAs with:

(i) Establishing an operational incident handling capability for agency information systems that includes adequate preparation, detection, analysis, containment, recovery, and user response activities; and,

(ii) Tracking, documenting, and reporting incidents to appropriate agency officials and/or authorities.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

CSP Section 5.3.1 describes the requirements for reporting security events and describes the responsibilities of the FBI CJIS Division and the CSA ISO.

CSP Section 5.3.2 describes the requirements for managing security incidents, to include: incident handling and the collection of evidence.

CSP Section 5.3.3 describes the requirement for an agency to ensure general incident response roles responsibilities are included as part of required security awareness training.

CSP Section 5.3.4 describes the requirement for an agency to track and document information system security incidents on an ongoing basis.

Note 1: CSA ISOs serve as the POC on security-related issues for their respective agencies and must ensure LASOs institute the CSA incident response reporting procedures at the local level. The CSA ISO shall maintain completed security incident reporting forms until the subsequent FBI triennial audit or until legal action (if warranted) is complete; whichever time-frame is greater.

Note 2: CSP Appendix F contains a sample incident notification letter for use when communicating the details of an incident to the FBI CJIS ISO.

f. 5.4 – Auditing and Accountability

CSP Section 5.4 assists agencies in assessing the inventory of components that compose their information systems to determine which security controls are applicable to the various components and implement required audit and accountability controls.

CSP Section 5.4.1 describes the required parameters for agencies to generate audit records and content for defined events and periodically review and update the list of agency-defined auditable events.

CSP Section 5.4.2 describes the requirement for agencies to provide alerts to appropriate agency officials in the event of an audit processing failure, such as software/hardware errors, failures in the audit capturing mechanisms, and audit storage capacity being reached or exceeded.

CSP Section 5.4.3 describes the requirements for audit review/analysis frequency and to designate an individual or position to review/analyze information system audit records for indications of inappropriate or unusual activity, investigate suspicious activity or suspected violations, to report findings to appropriate officials, and to take necessary actions.

CSP Section 5.4.4 describes the requirement to establish information system time stamp parameters for use in audit record generation.

CSP Section 5.4.5 describes the requirement to protect audit information and audit tools from modification, deletion and unauthorized access.

CSP Section 5.4.6 describes the requirement for an agency to retain audit records for at least one (1) year.

Note: The agency will continue to retain audit records for longer than one (1) year until it is determined they are no longer needed for administrative, legal, audit, or other operational purposes – for example, retention and availability of audit records relative to Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests, subpoena, and law enforcement actions.

CSP Section 5.4.7 describes the requirements for logging National Crime Information Center (NCIC) and Interstate Identification Index (III) transactions. A log must be maintained for a minimum of one (1) year on all NCIC and III transactions. The III portion of the log will clearly identify both the operator and the authorized receiving agency. III logs must also clearly identify the requester and the secondary recipient. The identification on the log will take the form of a unique identifier that shall remain unique to the individual requester and to the secondary recipient throughout the minimum one (1) year retention period.

g. 5.8 – Media Protection

CJIS Security Policy Section 5.8 assists agencies to document and implement media protection policy and procedures required to ensure that access to electronic and physical media in all forms is restricted to authorized individuals for securely handling, transporting and storing media.

"Electronic media" is electronic storage media, such as memory devices in laptops and computers (hard drives) and any removable, transportable digital memory media, such as magnetic tape or disk, optical disk, flash drives, external hard drives, or digital memory card. "Physical media" refers to CJI in physical form, e.g., printed documents, printed imagery, etc.

CSP Section 5.8.1 describes the requirement for agencies to securely store electronic and physical media within physically secure locations or controlled areas and restrict access to electronic and physical media to authorized individuals. If physical and personnel restrictions are not feasible then the data must be encrypted per CSP Section 5.10.1.2.

CSP Section 5.8.2 describes the requirements for agencies to protect and control both electronic and physical media during transport outside of controlled areas and restrict the activities associated with transport of such media to authorized personnel. The agency is responsible for implementing controls to protect electronic media containing CJI while in transport (physically moved from one location to another) to help prevent compromise of the data. Encryption, as defined in CSP Section 5.10.1.2, is the optimal control; however, if encryption of the data isn't possible then each agency must institute other controls to ensure the security of the data.

CSP Section 5.8.3 describes the requirements for agencies to maintain written documentation of the steps taken to sanitize or destroy electronic media. Agencies must sanitize (electronically overwrite the data at least three times) or degauss electronic media prior to disposal or release for reuse by unauthorized individuals. This sanitization or destruction needs to be witnessed or carried out only by authorized personnel. Inoperable electronic media must be destroyed (cut up, shredded, etc.).

CSP Section 5.8.4 describes the requirements for physical media to be securely disposed of when no longer required, using established formal procedures. Physical media must be destroyed by shredding or incineration. This disposal or destruction needs to be witnessed or carried out only by authorized personnel.

h. 5.9 Physical Protection

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

CSP Section 5.9 explains the physical protection policy and procedures that are required to ensure CJI and information system hardware, software, and media are physically protected through access control measures.

CSP Section 5.9.1 details the requirements for establishing a Physically Secure Location – a facility, a criminal justice conveyance, an area, a room, or a group of rooms within a facility with both the physical and personnel security controls sufficient to protect CJI and associated information systems. Sections 5.9.1.1 – 5.9.1.8 describe the physical control requirements that must be implemented in order to establish a physically secure location.

CSP Section 5.9.2 details the requirements for establishing a Controlled Area. The controlled area is an area, a room, or a storage container established for the purpose of day-to-day CJI access, storage, or processing in the event an agency is unable to meet all of the controls required for establishing a physically secure location. Access to the controlled area needs to be restricted to only authorized personnel whenever CJI is processed. The CJI material needs to be locked away when unattended to prevent unauthorized and unintentional access. Additionally, the encryption standards of CSP Section 5.10.1.2 apply to the electronic storage (i.e., data "at rest") of CJI.

i. 5.11 – Formal Audits

CSP Section 5.11 explains the formal audit process to help agencies understand the audit procedures.

CSP Section 5.11.1 details the requirements for compliance and security audits by the FBI CJIS Division. The FBI CJIS Division is authorized to conduct audits, once every three (3) years as a minimum, to assess agency compliance with applicable statutes, regulations and policies.

The CJIS Audit Unit (CAU) will conduct triennial audits of each CSA in order to verify compliance with applicable statutes, regulations and policies. This audit includes a sample of Criminal Justice Agency (CJA) and NCJAs, in coordination with the SIB.

Note 1: Audits may be conducted on a more frequent basis if the audit reveals that an agency has not complied with applicable statutes, regulations and policies.

Note 2: The FBI CJIS Division has the authority to conduct unannounced security inspections and scheduled audits of Contractor facilities.

CSP Section 5.11.2 describes the requirements for the CSA to triennially audit all CJAs and NCJAs with direct access to the state system, establish a process to periodically audit all NCJAs with access to CJI, establish the authority to conduct unannounced security inspections and scheduled audits of Contractor facilities.

CSP Section 5.11.3 describes the requirement that all agencies with access to CJI must permit an inspection team to conduct an appropriate inquiry and audit of any alleged security violations. The inspection team, appointed by the APB, will include at least one representative of the CJIS Division. All results of the inquiry and audit will be reported to the APB with appropriate recommendations.

Agencies located within states having passed legislation authorizing or requiring civil fingerprint-based background checks for personnel with access to criminal history record information for the purposes of licensing or employment need to follow the guidance in Section 5.12 (referenced below).

j. 5.12 – Personnel Security

CSP Section 5.12 provides agencies the security terms and requirements as they apply to all personnel who have unescorted access to unencrypted CJI, including individuals with only physical or logical access to devices that store, process or transmit unencrypted CJI.

CSP Section 5.12.1 details the minimum screening requirements for all individuals requiring unescorted access to unencrypted CJI.

CSP Section 5.12.2 describes the requirement for an agency to immediately terminate CJI access for an individual upon termination of employment.

CSP Section 5.12.3 describes the requirement for an agency to review CJI access authorizations and initiate appropriate actions (such as closing and establishing accounts and changing system access authorizations) whenever personnel are reassigned or transferred to other positions within the agency.

CSP Section 5.12.4 describes the requirement for an agency to employ a formal sanctions process for personnel failing to comply with established information security policies and procedures.

Agencies located within states that have not passed legislation authorizing or requiring civil fingerprint-based background checks are exempted from this requirement until such time as appropriate legislation has been written into law.

The following scenarios are intended to help the reader identify areas within the CSP that NCJAs may often come across. Each scenario should be reviewed for applicability in conjunction with the above General CJI Guidance section. The specific requirements found with the CSP are not shown; however specific sections are referenced along with a requirements summary.

Hard Copy CJI Storage and Accessibility

When an NCJA receives CJI via a paper copy from a CJA and stores the paper within a locked file cabinet, the NCJA should, in addition to the General CJI Guidance, focus on compliance with policy section:

a. 4.2.4 – Storage

When storing CJI, appropriate administrative, technical, and physical safeguards must be implemented to ensure the security and confidentiality of the information.

Electronic CJI Storage and Accessibility – Controlled Area

When an NCJA creates an electronic copy of CJI (e.g., scanning a document or creation of a spreadsheet) and subsequently stores this static CJI on either a local hard drive or shared network drive in a controlled area for indirect access by Authorized Recipients, the NCJA should, in addition to the General CJI Guidance, focus on compliance with policy section:

a. 5.5.2.4 (3) – Access Control – Encryption

CSP Section 5.5.2.4 item 3 – Encryption describes the requirement for utilizing encryption as the primary access control mechanism which is necessary in this situation. Encrypted information can only be read by personnel possessing the appropriate cryptographic key (e.g., passphrase) to decrypt. Refer to Section 5.10.1.2 for specific encryption requirements.

Electronic CJI Storage and Accessibility – Physically Secure Location

When an NCJA receives or creates an electronic copy of CJI and subsequently stores this CJI within a Records Management System (RMS), located within a physically secure location that may be queried by Authorized Recipients, the NCJA should, in addition to the General CJI Guidance, focus on compliance with policy sections:

a. 5.5 – Access Control

   CSP Section 5.5 describes the requirements and parameters for utilizing access control mechanisms for restricting CJI access (such as the reading, writing, processing and transmission of CJIS information) and the modification of information systems, applications, services and communication configurations allowing access to CJI to only authorized personnel.

b. 5.6 – Identification and Authentication

   CSP Section 5.6 describes the requirements and parameters agencies must implement to validate and authenticate the identity of information system users and processes acting on behalf of users the identities prior to granting access to CJI or agency information systems/services that process CJI.

c. 5.7 – Configuration Management

   CSP Section 5.7 describes the requirements for implementing access restrictions that will only permit authorized and qualified individuals access to information system components for purposes of initiating changes, including upgrades, and modifications.

   CSP Section 5.7.1 describes the requirements for implementing the concept of least privilege (5.7.1.1) and for developing and maintaining network diagrams (5.7.1.2) that detail how the RMS is interconnected and protected within the network. See Appendix C for sample network diagrams.

   CSP Section 5.7.2 details the requirement for agencies to protect the system documentation from unauthorized access consistent with the provisions described in Section 5.5 Access Control.

d. 5.10 – System and Communications Protection and Information Integrity

   CSP Section 5.10 details the requirements for network infrastructures within physically secure locations through establishment of system and communication boundary and transmission protection safeguards that assist in securing an agency's environment, even when virtualized. In addition, this section describes the requirements for providing the capability to ensure system integrity through the detection and protection against unauthorized changes to software and information for applications, services, and information systems.

Use Case Scenarios

1. Indirect Access to Criminal Justice Information (CJI) Stored on a Network Server

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

A county board of education is converting all employee records, including background check information containing CJI, to an electronic format. The records will be scanned from hard copy to electronic files and placed on network server that has indirect access to CJI and is located in a secure data center within the board of education offices. The data center meets all the requirements to be labeled a physically secure location as defined in Section 5.9.1 of the CSP.

Keeping in mind the scenario as described, an authorized user needs access to an employee's electronic record. This user is not located in the secure data center and will have to use remote access to access the file. The user is therefore required to provide identification and authentication credentials to prove they are an authorized user. To access the record, the user is prompted to enter their unique username and password. Because the record resides on a system with indirect access to CJI (does not allow the user to query a state or national criminal record repository), AA is not required to access the record.

NOTE: If the Authorized User has direct access to CJI (the ability to query a state or national criminal record repository) in the above scenario, AA would be required.

2. Encryption for Data at Rest (Exemption for FIPS 140-2 Certified Encryption)

   A county board of education is converting all employee records, including background check information containing CJI, to an electronic format. The records will be scanned from hard copy to electronic files and placed on network server that is not located in a secure data center. Because the data center does not meet the requirements of a physically secure location, as defined in Section 5.9.1 of the CSP, the files, at rest (in storage) on the server, are required to be encrypted.

   To prevent unauthorized access, the IT staff has decided to encrypt the entire folder that contains the files. They will use a product that provides an advanced encryption standard (AES) encryption algorithm at 256 bit strength to comply with the CSP and employ a CSP compliant passphrase to lock the folder's encryption. When an authorized user needs to access an employee's record, they access the folder on the server and are prompted to enter the designated passphrase to decrypt (unlock) the folder. The user can then access all files within the folder.

   NOTE: Whenever authorized personnel no longer require access to the encrypted folder, the passphrase must be changed to prevent future access by that user.

APPENDIX K CRIMINAL JUSTICE AGENCY SUPPLEMENTAL GUIDANCE

This appendix is not intended to be used in lieu of the CJIS Security Policy (CSP) but rather should be used as supplemental guidance specifically for those Criminal Justice Agencies (CJA) that have historically not been subject to audit under the CJIS Security Policy guidelines. The target audience typically gains access to CJI via fax, hardcopy distribution or voice calls; does not have the capability to query state or national databases for criminal justice information; and may have been assigned an originating agency identifier (ORI) but is dependent on other agencies to run queries on their behalf. This guidance is not intended for criminal justice agencies covered under an active information exchange agreement with another agency for direct or indirect connectivity to the state CJIS Systems Agency (CSA) – in other words those agencies traditionally identified as "terminal agencies".

The CSP is the minimum standard policy used by both criminal and noncriminal justice agencies requiring access to criminal justice information (CJI) maintained by the FBI CJIS Division. The essential premise of the CSP is to provide appropriate controls to protect the full lifecycle of CJI, whether at rest or in transit. The CSP provides guidance for the creation, viewing, modification, transmission, dissemination, storage, and destruction of CJI. This Policy applies to every individual—contractor, private entity, noncriminal justice agency representative, or member of a criminal justice entity—with access to, or who operate in support of, criminal justice services and information.

For those CJAs new to the CSP it is strongly recommended that each system processing CJI should be individually reviewed to determine which CSP requirements may apply. In the interim however this supplemental guidance provides a minimum starting point that every CJA processing CJI can immediately put into place. Once the broader array of security controls are gleaned for a specific system, agencies can then leverage the (already implemented) controls described in this appendix as a launching pad towards full policy compliance.

The following information is organized to provide the section and section title within the CSP, along with a brief summary and background on the guidance itself. For the specific "shall" statement please go to the referenced section within the main body of the CSP.

General CJI Guidance

The following information provides CJAs guidance to maintain security compliance when setting up any system capable of sending and/or receiving CJI:

a. 3.2.9 – Local Agency Security Officer (LASO)

It is the responsibility of the CJIS Systems Officer (CSO) to ensure each agency having access to CJI has someone designated as the Local Agency Security Officer (LASO) per CSP Section 3.2.2(2e).

The LASO serves as the primary point of contact (POC) between the local CJA and their respective CSA CSO or Information Security Officer (ISO) who interfaces with the FBI CJIS Division. The LASO actively represents their agency in all matters pertaining to information security, disseminates information security alerts and other material to their constituents, maintains information security documentation (including system configuration data), assists with Information Security audits of hardware and procedures, and keeps the CSA (i.e., CSO or ISO) informed as to any information security needs and problems.

b. 5.1.1.3 – Criminal Justice Agency User Agreements

Any CJA receiving access to CJI must enter into a signed agreement with the CSA providing the access. The agreement specifies the services and systems the agency will access. It must also specify all pertinent governance policies to which the agency must adhere.

c. 5.1.3 – Secondary Dissemination

Secondary dissemination is the promulgation of CJI from a releasing agency to an authorized recipient agency that has not been previously identified in a formal information exchange agreement.

If CHRI is released to another authorized agency, that is not part of the releasing agency's primary information exchange agreement(s), the releasing agency must log such dissemination.

d. 5.2 – Security Awareness Training

Basic security awareness training is required for all personnel who have access to CJI within six months of initial assignment, and biennially thereafter. CSP Section 5.2.1.1 describes the topics that must be addressed within baseline security awareness training for all authorized personnel with access to CJI.

CSP Section 5.2.1.2 describes the topics required to be discussed for personnel that have both physical and logical access to CJI. These topics are covered in addition to the ones addressed in basic security awareness training.

CSP Section 5.2.1.3 describes topics to be covered for those personnel assigned information technology roles. Topics covered in this section are in addition to the topics addressed in Sections 5.2.1.1 and 5.2.1.2.

Note: The CSO may accept the documentation of the completion of security awareness training from another agency. Accepting such documentation from another agency means that the accepting agency assumes the risk that the training may not meet a particular requirement or process required by federal, state, or local laws.

e. 5.3 – Incident Response

CSP Section 5.3 assists agencies with response and reporting procedures for accidental and malicious computer and network attacks. The requirements within Section 5.3 will help CJAs with:

(iii) Establishing an operational incident handling capability for agency information systems that includes adequate preparation, detection, analysis, containment, recovery, and user response activities; and,

(iv) Tracking, documenting, and reporting incidents to appropriate agency officials and/or authorities.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

CSP Section 5.3.1 describes the requirements for reporting security events and describes the responsibilities of the FBI CJIS Division and the CSA ISO.

CSP Section 5.3.2 describes the requirements for managing security incidents, to include: incident handling and the collection of evidence.

CSP Section 5.3.3 describes the requirement for an agency to ensure general incident response roles responsibilities are included as part of required security awareness training.

CSP Section 5.3.4 describes the requirement for an agency to track and document information system security incidents on an ongoing basis.

Note 1: CSA ISOs serve as the POC on security-related issues for their respective agencies and must ensure LASOs institute the CSA incident response reporting procedures at the local level. The CSA ISO shall maintain completed security incident reporting forms until the subsequent FBI triennial audit or until legal action (if warranted) is complete; whichever time-frame is greater.

Note 2: CSP Appendix F contains a sample incident notification letter for use when communicating the details of an incident to the FBI CJIS ISO.

f. 5.4 – Auditing and Accountability

CSP Section 5.4 assists agencies in assessing the inventory of components that compose their information systems to determine which security controls are applicable to the various components and implement required audit and accountability controls.

CSP Section 5.4.1 describes the required parameters for agencies to generate audit records and content for defined events and periodically review and update the list of agency-defined auditable events.

CSP Section 5.4.2 describes the requirement for agencies to provide alerts to appropriate agency officials in the event of an audit processing failure, such as software/hardware errors, failures in the audit capturing mechanisms, and audit storage capacity being reached or exceeded.

CSP Section 5.4.3 describes the requirements for audit review/analysis frequency and to designate an individual or position to review/analyze information system audit records for indications of inappropriate or unusual activity, investigate suspicious activity or suspected violations, to report findings to appropriate officials, and to take necessary actions.

CSP Section 5.4.4 describes the requirement to establish information system time stamp parameters for use in audit record generation.

CSP Section 5.4.5 describes the requirement to protect audit information and audit tools from modification, deletion and unauthorized access.

CSP Section 5.4.6 describes the requirement for an agency to retain audit records for at least one (1) year.

Note: The agency will continue to retain audit records for longer than one (1) year until it is determined they are no longer needed for administrative, legal, audit, or other operational purposes - for example, retention and availability of audit records relative to Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests, subpoena, and law enforcement actions.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

CSP Section 5.4.7 describes the requirements for logging National Crime Information Center (NCIC) and Interstate Identification Index (III) transactions. A log must be maintained for a minimum of one (1) year on all NCIC and III transactions. The III portion of the log will clearly identify both the operator and the authorized receiving agency. III logs must also clearly identify the requester and the secondary recipient. The identification on the log will take the form of a unique identifier that shall remain unique to the individual requester and to the secondary recipient throughout the minimum one (1) year retention period.

g. 5.8 – Media Protection

CJIS Security Policy Section 5.8 assists agencies to document and implement media protection policy and procedures required to ensure that access to digital and physical media in all forms is restricted to authorized individuals for securely handling, transporting and storing media.

"Digital media" is electronic storage media, such as memory devices in laptops and computers (hard drives) and any removable, transportable digital memory media, such as magnetic tape or disk, optical disk, flash drives, external hard drives, or digital memory card. "Physical media" refers to CJI in physical form, e.g., printed documents, printed imagery, etc.

CSP Section 5.8.1 describes the requirement for agencies to securely store digital and physical media within physically secure locations or controlled areas and restrict access to electronic and physical media to authorized individuals. If physical and personnel restrictions are not feasible then the data must be encrypted per CSP Section 5.10.1.2.

CSP Section 5.8.2 describes the requirements for agencies to protect and control both digital and physical media during transport outside of controlled areas and restrict the activities associated with transport of such media to authorized personnel. The agency is responsible for implementing controls to protect electronic media containing CJI while in transport (physically moved from one location to another) to help prevent compromise of the data. Encryption, as defined in CSP Section 5.10.1.2, is the optimal control; however, if encryption of the data isn't possible then each agency must institute other controls to ensure the security of the data.

CSP Section 5.8.3 describes the requirements for agencies to maintain written documentation of the steps taken to sanitize or destroy digital media. Agencies must sanitize (electronically overwrite the data at least three times) or degauss electronic media prior to disposal or release for reuse by unauthorized individuals. This sanitization or destruction needs to be witnessed or carried out only by authorized personnel. Inoperable electronic media must be destroyed (cut up, shredded, etc.).

CSP Section 5.8.4 describes the requirements for physical media to be securely disposed of when no longer required, using established formal procedures. Physical media must be destroyed by shredding or incineration. This disposal or destruction needs to be witnessed or carried out only by authorized personnel.

h. 5.9 Physical Protection

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

CSP Section 5.9 explains the physical protection policy and procedures that are required to ensure CJI and information system hardware, software, and media are physically protected through access control measures.

CSP Section 5.9.1 details the requirements for establishing a Physically Secure Location - a facility, a police vehicle, an area, a room, or a group of rooms within a facility with both the physical and personnel security controls sufficient to protect CJI and associated information systems. Sections 5.9.1.1 – 5.9.1.8 describe the physical control requirements that must be implemented in order to establish a physically secure location.

CSP Section 5.9.2 details the requirements for establishing a Controlled Area. The controlled area is an area, a room, or a storage container established for the purpose of day-to-day CJI access, storage, or processing in the event an agency is unable to meet all of the controls required for establishing a physically secure location. Access to the controlled area needs to be restricted to only authorized personnel whenever CJI is processed. The CJI material needs to be locked away when unattended to prevent unauthorized and unintentional access. Additionally, the encryption standards of CSP Section 5.10.1.2 apply to the electronic storage (i.e., data "at rest") of CJI.

i. 5.10 – System and Communications Protection and Information Integrity

CSP Section 5.10 explains the technical safeguards ranging from boundary and transmission protection to security an agency's virtualized environment.

CSP Section 5.10.1.2 details the requirements for the encryption of CJI whether in transit or at rest. FIPS 140-2 certification is required when CJI is in transit outside a physically secure location. When at rest outside a physically secure location, encryption methods can use Advanced Encryption Standard (AES) at 256 bit strength or a FIPS 140-2 certified method.

CSP Section 5.10.3 explains the use of virtualization and partitioning when processing CJI in a virtual environment. A virtualized environment can be configured such that those parts of the system which process CJI are either physically or virtually separated from those that do not.

CSP Section 5.10.4 explains system and information integrity policy and procedures. This includes areas such as patch management, malicious code protection, and spam and spyware protection.

j. 5.11 – Formal Audits

CSP Section 5.11 explains the formal audit process to help agencies understand the audit procedures.

CSP Section 5.11.1 details the requirements for compliance and security audits by the FBI CJIS Division. The FBI CJIS Division is authorized to conduct audits, once every three (3) years as a minimum, to assess agency compliance with applicable statutes, regulations and policies.

The CJIS Audit Unit (CAU) will conduct triennial audits of each CSA in order to verify compliance with applicable statutes, regulations and policies. This audit includes a sample of Criminal Justice Agency (CJA) and NCJAs, in coordination with the SIB.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Note 1: Audits may be conducted on a more frequent basis if the audit reveals that an agency has not complied with applicable statutes, regulations and policies.

Note 2: The FBI CJIS Division has the authority to conduct unannounced security inspections and scheduled audits of Contractor facilities.

CSP Section 5.11.2 describes the requirements for the CSA to triennially audit all CJAs and NCJAs with direct access to the state system, establish a process to periodically audit all NCJAs with access to CJI, establish the authority to conduct unannounced security inspections and scheduled audits of Contractor facilities.

CSP Section 5.11.3 describes the requirement that all agencies with access to CJI must permit an inspection team to conduct an appropriate inquiry and audit of any alleged security violations. The inspection team, appointed by the APB, will include at least one representative of the CJIS Division. All results of the inquiry and audit will be reported to the APB with appropriate recommendations.

k. 5.12 – Personnel Security

CSP Section 5.12 provides agencies the security terms and requirements as they apply to all personnel who have unescorted access to unencrypted CJI, including individuals with only physical or logical access to devices that store, process or transmit unencrypted CJI.

CSP Section 5.12.1 details the minimum screening requirements for all individuals requiring unescorted access to unencrypted CJI.

CSP Section 5.12.2 describes the requirement for an agency to immediately terminate CJI access for an individual upon termination of employment.

CSP Section 5.12.3 describes the requirement for an agency to review CJI access authorizations and initiate appropriate actions (such as closing and establishing accounts and changing system access authorizations) whenever personnel are reassigned or transferred to other positions within the agency.

CSP Section 5.12.4 describes the requirement for an agency to employ a formal sanctions process for personnel failing to comply with established information security policies and procedures.

l. 5.13 – Mobile Devices

When access to CJI using mobile devices such as laptops, smartphones, and tablets is authorized, CSP Section 5.13 explains the controls required to manage those devices to ensure the information remains protected.

The following scenarios are intended to help the reader identify areas within the CSP that CJAs may often come across. Each scenario should be reviewed for applicability in conjunction with the above "General CJI Guidance" section. The specific requirements found with the CSP are not shown; however specific sections are referenced along with a requirements summary.

Hard Copy CJI Storage and Accessibility

When CJI is received in hard copy and the agency stores the paper within a locked file cabinet, the CJA should, in addition to the "General CJI Guidance", focus on compliance with policy section:

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

a. 4.2.4 – Storage

When storing CJI, appropriate administrative, technical, and physical safeguards must be implemented to ensure the security and confidentiality of the information.

Electronic CJI Storage and Accessibility – Controlled Area

When an agency creates an electronic copy of CJI (e.g., scanning a document or creation of a spreadsheet) and subsequently stores this static CJI on either a local hard drive or shared network drive in a controlled area for indirect access by Authorized Recipients, the agency should, in addition to the "General CJI Guidance", focus on compliance with policy section:

a. 5.5.2.4 (3) – Access Control Mechanisms – Encryption

CSP Section 5.5.2.4 item 3, Encryption – This describes the requirement for utilizing encryption as the primary access control mechanism which is necessary in this situation. Encrypted information can only be read by personnel possessing the appropriate cryptographic key (e.g., passphrase) to decrypt. Refer to Section 5.10.1.2 for specific encryption requirements.

Electronic CJI Storage and Accessibility – Physically Secure Location

When an agency receives or creates an electronic copy of CJI and subsequently stores this CJI within a Records Management System (RMS), located within a physically secure location that may be queried by Authorized Recipients, the agency should, in addition to the "General CJI Guidance", focus on compliance with policy sections:

a. 5.5 – Access Control

CSP Section 5.5 describes the requirements and parameters for utilizing access control mechanisms for restricting CJI access (such as the reading, writing, processing and transmission of CJIS information) and the modification of information systems, applications, services and communication configurations allowing access to CJI to only authorized personnel.

b. 5.6 – Identification and Authentication

CSP Section 5.6 describes the requirements and parameters agencies must implement to validate and authenticate the identity of information system users and processes acting on behalf of users the identities prior to granting access to CJI or agency information systems/services that process CJI.

c. 5.7 – Configuration Management

CSP Section 5.7 describes the requirements for implementing access restrictions that will only permit authorized and qualified individuals access to information system components for purposes of initiating changes, including upgrades, and modifications.

CSP Section 5.7.1 describes the requirements for implementing the concept of least privilege (5.7.1.1) and for developing and maintaining network diagrams (5.7.1.2) that detail how the RMS is interconnected and protected within the network. See Appendix C for sample network diagrams.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

CSP Section 5.7.2 details the requirement for agencies to protect the system documentation from unauthorized access consistent with the provisions described in Section 5.5 Access Control.

d. 5.10 – System and Communications Protection and Information Integrity

CSP Section 5.10 details the requirements for network infrastructures within physically secure locations through establishment of system and communication boundary and transmission protection safeguards that assist in securing an agency's environment, even when virtualized. In addition, this section describes the requirements for providing the capability to ensure system integrity through the detection and protection against unauthorized changes to software and information for applications, services, and information systems.

Use Case Scenarios

1. Indirect Access to Criminal Justice Information (CJI) Stored on a Network Server

A county court scans hard copy case documents containing CJI into an electronic format. The documents are placed on a network server which is located in a secure data center within the court offices. The data center meets all the requirements to be labeled a physically secure location as defined in Section 5.9.1 of the CSP.

Keeping in mind the scenario as described, an authorized user needs access to case documents. This user is not located in the secure data center and will have to use remote access to access the file. The user is therefore required to provide identification and authentication credentials to prove they are an authorized user. To access the documents, the user is prompted to enter their unique username and password. Because the documents reside on a system with indirect access to CJI (does not allow the user to query a state or national criminal record repository), AA is not required for access to the documents.

NOTE: If the Authorized User has direct access to CJI (the ability to query a state or national criminal record repository) in the above scenario, AA would be required.

2. Encryption for Data at Rest (Exemption for FIPS 140-2 Certified Encryption)

A county court scans hard copy case documents containing CJI in an electronic format. The documents are placed on a network server which is not located in a secure data center. Because the data center does not meet the requirements of a physically secure location, as defined in Section 5.9.1 of the CSP, the files, at rest (in storage) on the server, are required to be encrypted.

To prevent unauthorized access, the IT staff has decided to encrypt the entire folder that contains the files. They will use a product that provides an advanced encryption standard (AES) algorithm at 256 bit strength to comply with the CSP and employ a CSP compliant passphrase to lock the folder's encryption. When an authorized user needs to access to the case documents, they access the folder on the server and are prompted to enter the designated passphrase to decrypt (unlock) the folder. The user can then access all files within the folder.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

Additionally, because the documents reside on a system with indirect access to CJI (does not allow the user to query a state or national criminal record repository), AA is not required for access to the documents.

NOTE: Whenever authorized personnel no longer require access to the encrypted folder, the passphrase must be changed to prevent future access by that user.

(a) The director by rule shall establish procedures for a DNA laboratory or criminal justice agency, including an authorized law enforcement agency, in the collection, preservation, shipment, analysis, and use of a DNA sample for forensic DNA analysis, including rapid DNA analysis, in a manner that permits the exchange of DNA evidence between DNA laboratories and criminal justice agencies and the use of the evidence in a criminal case.

(b) A DNA laboratory or criminal justice agency, including an authorized law enforcement agency, shall follow the procedures:

(1) established by the director under this section; and

(2) specified by the FBI, including use of comparable test procedures, laboratory equipment, supplies, and computer software.

(c) The director may at any reasonable time enter and inspect the premises or audit the records, reports, procedures, or other quality assurance matters of:

(1) any DNA laboratory that:

01 INTRODUCTION

RDNA-01-01 TERMS AND DEFINITIONS

1 Scope

This manual serves as the Texas state procedures manual and includes information in sufficient detail to demonstrate adherence to the FBI's Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies and National Rapid DNA Booking Operational Procedures Manual.

2 Terms and Definitions

Arrestee - an individual who was subject to arrest, either with or without a warrant, and required, by an applicable State or Federal law, to provide a DNA sample for law enforcement identification and databasing purposes.

Arrestee Metadata - the biographical, identification and biometric information associated with the arrestee for criminal justice purposes.

Audit - an inspection used to evaluate, confirm, and/or determine the extent to which specified requirements are fulfilled.

Buccal - the inside of a person's cheek which is commonly swabbed for purposes of DNA sample collection.

CJIS - the Criminal Justice Information Services Division of the FBI.

CODIS - the COmbined DNA Index System administered by the FBI. CODIS links DNA evidence obtained from crime scenes, thereby identifying serial criminals. CODIS also compares crime scene evidence to DNA profiles obtained from offenders, thereby providing investigators with the identity of the putative perpetrator. In addition, CODIS contains profiles from missing persons, unidentified human remains and relatives of missing persons.

Certification Test(s) - a written, oral and/or practical test or series of tests defined by the State CODIS Agency. The certification test is designed to establish that an individual has demonstrated achievement of the technical skills and knowledge necessary to operate a Rapid DNA Booking System.

CJIS Systems Agency (CSA) - a duly authorized state, federal, international, tribal, or territorial criminal justice agency on the Criminal Justice Information Services Division (CJIS) network providing statewide (or equivalent) service to its criminal justice users with respect to the criminal justice information from various systems managed by the FBI CJIS Division.

Contamination - the unintentional introduction of extraneous DNA into a DNA sample or Rapid DNA System.

CODIS Rapid Enrollment Application (CRE) - the government furnished application software provided to the booking agency that ensures the resulting DNA profile produced by the Rapid DNA Booking System contains the appropriate arrestee metadata as well as a CODIS compatible DNA profile before the DNA information is transmitted to the State CODIS Agency.

Corrective Action - evaluates a noncompliance with the goal to identify, correct, and/or prevent reoccurrence of the noncompliance, when possible.

DNA Index of Special Concern (DISC) - a subset of evidence profiles from unsolved crimes meeting specified criteria.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

DNA Data - the raw computer file produced by the Rapid DNA System. DNA profile is the information generated by the Rapid DNA System on the reference buccal sample taken from an individual that is uploaded into CODIS.

Local DNA Index System (LDIS) - Used by individual public laboratories.

National DNA Index System (NDIS) - Managed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) as the nation's DNA database containing all eligible DNA profiles uploaded by participating States.

Negative Control - used to detect DNA contamination in Rapid DNA reagents and consumables. This control consists of a swab that has not been used for collection and is not expected to contain any DNA.

Performance Check - a quality assurance measure to demonstrate the Rapid DNA System is functioning properly.

Positive Control - used to determine if the Rapid DNA System is performing all the steps in the process properly. This control consists of a known DNA swab provided by the manufacturer or manufacturer-approved source.

Qualifying Arrest Offense - the offense for which the DNA sample is being collected at the time of arrest in accordance with applicable Federal or State law.

Rapid DNA Cartridge - a preassembled set of reagents designed for use in a Rapid DNA System.

Rapid DNA Booking System - a fully automated system, used in a booking agency, to produce a CODIS acceptable DNA profile from an arrestee buccal swab without human interpretation in under two hours.

Reagents - the chemicals used in the Rapid DNA System.

Run - the term used to describe the complete process of developing a DNA profile using a Rapid DNA System. The process begins with the insertion of the cartridge containing an arrestee buccal swab into the Rapid DNA System and starting the run. The process ends with the generation of a result by the Rapid DNA System.

State DNA Index System (SDIS) - used at the State level to serve as a State's DNA database containing DNA profiles from LDIS laboratories and the SDIS laboratory.

State CODIS Agency - the government department or entity (Texas DPS) where the State CODIS System resides and is the entity responsible for approval of law enforcement Booking Agencies in the State to perform Rapid DNA analysis to generate DNA profiles for entry/search in SDIS and NDIS.

State Identification Bureau (SIB) - the state agency with responsibility for the state's fingerprint identification services.

State Identification Number (SID) - an eight-digit unique number assigned by the Texas Department of Public Safety when an individual's fingerprints are first submitted to the CJIS database. The number remains constant for the individual's life.

Unsolicited DNA Notification (UDN) - a hit message which is automatically sent by the CODIS software to the investigating agency, the arresting agency who uploaded the arrestee, and to the laboratory that generated the forensic profile.

RDNA-01-02 DNA INDEX OF SPECIAL CONCERN (DISC)

1 Purpose and Profile Eligibility

A. In order to enable expedited searching of Rapidly-enrolled arrestee DNA profiles, the FBI created a virtual index in CODIS called the DNA Index of Special Concern (DISC).

B. The DISC is a subset of evidence DNA profiles from unsolved homicide, sexual assault, kidnapping or terrorism offenses (or others approved by the FBI) with appropriate metadata available in the database.

C. As part of the automated Rapid DNA analysis process, arrestee profiles developed by NDIS-approved Rapid DNA systems in FBI-approved Booking Agencies are validated by the CODIS Rapid Enrollment (CRE) software. After validation by CRE, the Arrestee DNA profile is automatically enrolled into the CODIS database and searched against the DISC.

D. In the event of a hit, a Rapid hit message is sent by CODIS to the CJIS Message Manager (CMM), which generates an Unsolicited DNA Notification (UDN) message that is delivered to the NLETS/TLETS terminals at the Booking Agency and the investigative agency that enrolled the evidence profile.

2 METAdata Requirements

A. Before a profile can be DISC enabled, all required casework metadata must be obtained from the Investigating Agency.

B. LDIS laboratories will be responsible for establishing procedures for the collection of required casework metadata for their DISC-eligible Forensic Unknowns.

1. DPS LDIS laboratories proactively identify DISC-eligible profiles and facilitate DISC-enablement by investigating agencies via the Rapid DNA/Crimes of Special Concern Form (LAB-214). In most instances, casework metadata is collected from the submitting agency at the time of submission.

2. The Rapid DNA/Crimes of Special Concern Form (LAB-214) contains fillable fields that law enforcement agencies can use to list the required metadata necessary for DISC-enabling of eligible profiles.

C. In the event of a CODIS hit during a search of a Rapidly-enrolled arrestee sample, this metadata will be included in the UDN message sent to the Booking and Investigative Agencies.

D. The following metadata fields are available in the Casework Metadata Entry screen in CODIS:

1. Investigative Agency ID – 24/7 NLETS/TLETS ORI of the investigative agency

2. Investigative Case Tracking ID – Investigative agency's reference tracking number for the case.

3. Investigative Case Alias (optional field) – Identifier sometimes given to notorious/serial crimes.

4. Investigator Email Address (optional field) – Email address of the individual or department point of contact for the case.

5. Investigator Phone # – Telephone number of the individual or department point of contact for the case.

Printed copy is uncontrolled. Refer to electronic copy for current version.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

6. Statute of Limitation – Charge filing deadline for the crime that the evidence item came from.
7. Offense Description – Literal description of the type of crime that the evidence item came from.
8. Extradition Information – Confirmation that the Investigating Agency will seek extradition in event of Rapid Hit.
9. Investigative Agency Contact Information – 24/7 investigative agency contact telephone number.

E. If an agency requests that an older case be DISC-enabled, they will be required to submit the required casework metadata if it is not already on file.

F. For DISC-eligible DNA profiles, the LDIS laboratory will be responsible for entering this metadata into CODIS at the time of STR DNA data entry or when older case metadata is received for a profile that has already been uploaded.

1. In addition to the verification of the profile entry, this metadata entry will be verified by the technical reviewer after completion.
2. Once the case has completed technical and/or administrative review, the CODIS administrator or backup CODIS administrator(s) will mark the profile for upload to NDIS and Rapid enable the profile for inclusion in the DISC.
3. The metadata will be uploaded to SDIS along with the DNA profile and will automatically be uploaded to NDIS nightly as part of the daily scheduled upload.

3 Unsolicited DNA Notification (UDN) Follow-Up

3.1 Procedure

A. If a search of the arrestee profile against the DISC results in a hit to an unsolved crime, a message called an Unsolicited DNA Notification (UDN) will automatically be generated and transmitted to both the Booking Agency who processed the arrestee sample and the investigating agency who enrolled the crime scene sample against which it hit.

B. The UDN is routed via the Wants and Warrants network, NLETS/TLETS.

3.2 Hit Response

A. If the search of DISC results in a hit between the enrolled arrestee to an unsolved crime, a hit message called the UDN will be generated and automatically transmitted to the investigative agency submitting that crime scene sample, the Booking Agency, and the arresting agency (if applicable).

B. The UDN message will contain the required casework metadata for the forensic profile in addition to contact information for involved agencies.

C. This UDN message will be routed via the National Law Enforcement Telecommunications System (NLETS/TLETS) in the same manner as Wants and Warrants.

D. It is the responsibility of both the Booking Agency and the Investigating Agency to contact each other within 24 hours to resolve the UDN.

E. It should be noted that if the hit occurs at a national level, the submitting agency may be in another state.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

3.3 Documentation

A. Documentation of all communications between the Booking Agency and the investigating agency in response to the UDN must be maintained.

B. This documentation should include, at a minimum:

1. A copy of the UDN
2. Name of the investigating agency and representative contacted
3. Method of contact
4. The date upon which contact was made (or attempted)

Printed copy is uncontrolled. Refer to electronic copy for current version.

This chapter outlines the governance frameworks, regulatory requirements, and consensus standards that guide the use of Rapid DNA technologies by a Booking Agency.

2 Legal Authority

2.1 Texas Legal Authority

Texas state law amended in 2025 authorizes the collection of DNA samples at the time of arrest for inclusion in the CODIS database, the storage of the SID number at SDIS, and processing using Rapid DNA analysis.

2.2 Texas Government Code References

Texas Government Code (Subchapter G - DNA Database System)

Title 4 Subtitle B Chapter 411 Subchapter G §411.143 - Purposes

Title 4 Subtitle B Chapter 411 Subchapter G §411.144 - Regulation of DNA Laboratories; Penalties

Title 4 Subtitle B Chapter 411 Subchapter G §411.146 - DNA Samples

Title 4 Subtitle B Chapter 411 Subchapter G §411.1465 - Rapid DNA Analysis Pilot Program

Title 4 Subtitle B Chapter 411 Subchapter G §411.1473 - DNA Records of Certain Registered Sex Offenders and Terrorists Offenders

2.3 Federal Legal Authority (Standards)

A. Rapid DNA analysis in a booking station is also guided by federal standards, specifically the FBI's Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies (Booking Agency Standards).

B. Participating Booking Agencies must demonstrate continued compliance with the Booking Agency Standards through participation in required audits. Booking Agencies must meet or exceed the requirements set forth in the Standards to ensure the quality and integrity of the DNA data generated by the Rapid DNA Booking System.

C. As part of the requirements set forth by the Booking Agency Standards, participating agencies are permitted only to use FBI (NDIS) approved Rapid DNA booking systems and must only process buccal (cheek) swabs from qualifying arrestees.

3 NDIS Approved Rapid DNA Booking Systems and Acceptable Use

A. The FBI has currently approved two Rapid DNA Systems for use in a booking station:

1. Applied Biosystems RapidHIT ID DNA Booking System v1.0, v1.1, v1.1.2 (RHID). The RHID processes one sample at a time, requiring about 90 minutes per run.
2. ANDE 6C Series G v1.0, v1.01 (ANDE). The ANDE processes 5 samples at a time, requiring about 90 minutes per run.

B. Booking Agencies must only use an NDIS-approved Rapid DNA Booking System(s) to perform Rapid DNA analysis on qualifying arrestee cheek swabs.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

C. The use of Rapid DNA instruments in a booking station for the development of DNA profiles for comparison against evidence outside of CODIS (i.e. investigative leads) is prohibited.

D. The use of Rapid DNA instruments in a booking station to obtain lawfully-owed DNA from non-arrestees is prohibited.

E. Rapid DNA booking systems are not authorized for use in the analysis of evidence samples. Profiles developed from evidence using a Rapid DNA booking system are not eligible for upload and searching in CODIS.

F. Failure to adhere to the policies and procedures outlined in this document may result in the suspension of Operator certification.

4 Approval of a New Booking Agency

4.1 Requirements

A. Booking Agencies are highly encouraged to contact the DPS Rapid DNA Program Coordinator prior to seeking funding to implement Rapid DNA in a booking station.

B. Agencies planning to perform Rapid DNA analysis on qualifying arrestees must meet the requirements of both DPS and the FBI for participation and must comply with the Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies.

C. Booking Agencies interested in performing Rapid DNA analysis must gain approval from DPS prior to implementation. The Booking Agency must have a signed Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with DPS.

1. If approved by the State CODIS Agency, the Booking Agency is authorized to implement Rapid DNA analysis using an NDIS-approved Rapid DNA Booking System.

2. Only Rapid DNA arrestee profiles generated by an authorized Booking Agency using an NDIS-approved Rapid DNA booking system are eligible for enrollment and searching in CODIS.

D. The State CODIS Agency is ultimately responsible for the DNA data developed from the qualifying arrestee. Therefore, any Booking Agency wishing to implement Rapid DNA analysis must act in coordination with DPS and demonstrate this through completion of the agency readiness checklist.

E. The Booking Agency must adopt and implement the Texas DPS Rapid DNA Booking Agency Procedures Manual which contains policies and procedures addressing all aspects of Rapid DNA operation in a booking station as laid out by the National Rapid DNA Booking Operational Procedures Manual.

F. Any participating Booking Agency must ensure that their information technology (IT) environment has the capability to execute the FBI-provided CODIS Rapid DNA Enrollment application software (CRE) required for processing the Rapid Common Message Format (Rapid CMF) message and support two-way communication with the State Identification Bureau (SIB)/CJIS Systems Agency (CSA) that is in compliance with the CJIS Security Policy in order to meet the Standards.

1. In Texas, this means that the Booking Agency must work with DPS to integrate their instrument(s) into the state Rapid DNA IT network, over which data will be forwarded to a state CRE server.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

G. Prior to final approval for participation, the Booking Agency must participate in testing of the network communications and demonstrate operational readiness of the Rapid DNA Booking System in conjunction with DPS.

H. The Booking Agency is responsible for notifying the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator of any changes in the information submitted for their original approval for program participation, such as address, name of contact, etc.

D. DNA Data (including electropherograms, CMF and RCMF files, and arrestee metadata) must be kept confidential with access being granted only to those individuals authorized to view it for maintenance and troubleshooting purposes.

2 Data Security

A. Only certified Rapid DNA Lead Operators and Rapid DNA Operators will be authorized to log in and operate a Rapid DNA Booking System.

1. Separate unique logins are required for each Rapid DNA Lead Operator and Rapid DNA Operator accessing/utilizing a Rapid DNA Booking System. Logins must not be shared.

2. The Rapid DNA Lead Operator or Rapid DNA Operator who is logged into the Rapid DNA Booking System must be the same individual operating the Rapid DNA Booking System.

C. The Booking Agency shall not file, maintain, store, disseminate, compare, or database (or similar activity) the DNA sample, the DNA profile, or DNA data from the Rapid DNA Booking System. Any arrestee DNA sample remaining in a Rapid DNA cartridge must be disposed of in accordance with the procedures of the State CODIS Agency. DNA data must be deleted in accordance with Federal and State laws and State CODIS Agency requirements.

3 CODIS Rapid Enrollment Application Software (CRE)

A. The Booking Agency is not authorized to distribute or sublicense the CRE and shall not copy the CRE for purposes of distribution or distribute the CRE software to any person or agency outside the Booking Agency without the written approval of the FBI.

B. The Booking Agency shall not publish or publicly disclose information obtained from or included in the CRE, including, but not limited to CRE guidance material, screen shots of CRE, or instructional and/or training materials without the prior written approval of the FBI.

C. The Booking Agency shall use the CRE in a manner that is authorized by the FBI.

RDNA-03-02 RAPID DNA WORKFLOW

1 LiveScan and DNA Collection Status

A. The booking process is completed utilizing a Livescan device at the law enforcement agency. To initiate this process, demographic entry of the arrestee descriptors and fingerprints are completed to include the following:

1. Tenprints (mandatory)
2. Photo/Mugshot (Optional)
3. Iris Images (Optional)
4. Palm Prints (Optional)
5. Demographics
6. Additional information and Scars, Marks, and Tattoo information.
7. Arrest Information
8. Arrest Charges

B. Once all mandatory biometrics and demographic information is completed, the Criminal Arrest Record (CAR) Nist file will be submitted to Texas DPS's Store and Forward (SnF) via a Secure File Transfer Protocol (SFTP).

C. The SnF will then send the CAR file to the State's Multimodal Biometric Identification System (MBIS) to process the arrest fingerprint submission. The SnF also forwards the CAR file to the FBI for processing.

D. Once MBIS verifies the CAR fingerprints, the system will generate a MID (Identification Message) response with a "HIT" or "No Hit".

1. The "Hit" indicates that the fingerprints matched an existing record in the DPS database, and the existing SID number is returned.
2. The "No Hit" indicates that the fingerprints did not match an existing record, and a new SID number has been assigned.

E. Within the MID response, there will be a DNA field with a collection response of Y, N, C, or blank.

1. The "Y" is for [Yes there is] DNA on file, "N" is for No DNA on file, and "C" is for DNA not on file and required. A blank response will have the DNA field blank.
2. The MBIS, FBI, and DHS responses are sent to the SnF server to go back to the agency's Livescan device.

F. If DNA is on file or the offense is not qualifying, the operator will receive a notification not to collect DNA at the Livescan terminal.

G. If the offense is qualifying and DNA is not on file, the operator will receive a notification to collect DNA at the Livescan terminal when "N," "C," or blank are returned. DNA collection is conducted and submitted creating an AEF XML file from the Livescan device.

2 Sample Collection and Disposal

2.1 Sample Collection Process

A. To minimize contamination during arrestee sample collection and sample processing, new gloves must be worn prior to each DNA sample collection and disposed of afterwards. New gloves must also be used when processing each sample cartridge.

B. As part of the routine booking process, the Booking Agency collects and submits one buccal collector using the DPS Crime Laboratory provided DNA Database collection kit. Implementation of Rapid DNA sample collection at a Booking Agency does not impact this requirement; this process will continue in addition to the collection of Rapid DNA samples.

C. For Rapid DNA, one additional buccal swab will be collected using the manufacturer-supplied swab (manufacturer-specific collection procedures are provided below).

D. RapidHIT:

1. If a sample is collected but an instrument is not immediately available for use, the unprocessed sample cartridge containing the arrestee swab should be returned to and stored in its foil pack until run.

2. The foil pack containing the cartridge and sample must be stored in a secure location, such as a locked cabinet, until it is run.

3. It is acceptable for the cartridge and sample to be temporarily kept at room temperature while awaiting the run.

E. ANDE:

1. To prevent degradation or contamination, arrestee swabs should be kept in their tubes until enough samples have been collected to run a chip.

2. If a sample swab is collected but there are not enough samples to run a full chip or an instrument is not immediately available, the unprocessed arrestee swab must be stored in a secure location, such as a locked cabinet, until it is run.

3. To prevent issues due to air exposure, chips must not be unsealed more than 30 minutes prior to a run.

F. In the event of a run failure, an additional swab must not be collected and no attempt to rerun the failed swab can be made.

1. There is no mechanism available in the Livescan process to allow for the collection of a second sample from an arrestee.

2. Instead, the arrestee's profile will be enrolled in CODIS by the CODIS laboratory using the standard arrestee collection kit.

2.2 Rapid DNA Swabs

A. The Booking Agency is responsible for the collection, usage, consumption, and destruction of the arrestee swab use for Rapid DNA analysis.

B. The swab must be immediately registered or inserted into a registered cartridge upon collection and the swab must not be retained following run completion.

C. Used Rapid chips and cartridges should be disposed of immediately in accordance with manufacturer recommendations and Booking Agency requirements.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

D. DPS will be responsible for the usage, storage, consumption, retention, and destruction, if applicable, of the arrestee swabs sent to the CODIS laboratory using the standard arrestee collection kit.

3 Submission of Arrestee Rapid DNA data to SDIS

3.1 CODIS Specimen ID

A. During collection at Livescan, the booking officer will be prompted to scan the barcode on the swab (ANDE) or cartridge (Applied Biosystems) for registration in the system and association with the arrestee being processed.

B. The barcode on each swab or cartridge communicates its individual manufacturer number. This manufacturer number will also be used as the CODIS Specimen ID that is the unique identifier for that sample in CODIS.

1. For the Applied Biosystems RapidHIT ID, the Specimen ID is scanned into Livescan via the 1D barcode located on the swab package.

2. For the ANDE 6C Series G, the Specimen ID is scanned into Livescan via the 2D barcode located at the top of the swab. Although the ANDE swab also has a 1D barcode, the 2D barcode must be scanned in order to capture the swab ID in its entirety.

4 Sample Tracking and Results Log

A. Participating Booking Agencies must keep a log of all samples run and their processing results, as well as the lot numbers and expiration dates of sample cartridges associated with each run.

1. DPS will provide a template that may be filled electronically or kept as a written hard copy.

2. A copy of the log must be provided via encrypted email to the Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov) as requested.

3. The Booking Agency must maintain the log for audit purposes.

5 Hit Response

5.1 DISC Hit

A. If a search of the arrestee profile against the DISC results in a hit to an unsolved crime, a message called an Unsolicited DNA Notification (UDN) will automatically be generated and transmitted to both the Booking Agency who processed the arrestee sample and the investigating agency who enrolled the crime scene sample against which it hit.

B. The UDN is routed via the Wants and Warrants network, NLETS/TLETS.

C. It is the responsibility of both the Booking Agency and the Investigating Agency to immediately contact each other to resolve the UDN.

1. It should be noted that if the hit occurs at a national level, the submitting agency may be in another state.

D. For additional information about UDN response, see RDNA-01-03.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

5.2 Routine CODIS Hit (non-DISC)

A. Following the initial DISC search, the arrestee profile will be searched at the SDIS and NDIS levels during regularly scheduled autosearches.

B. Upon notification of a routine CODIS hit to an arrestee profile developed using Rapid DNA, the LDIS CODIS Administrator or backup LDIS CODIS administrator will contact the investigating agency within three business days to ensure that the match notification was received.

C. If a hit involves an intrastate LDIS-owned forensic profile, the applicable LDIS CODIS Administrator will be contacted by the Rapid DNA Coordinator to facilitate follow up with their investigating agency.

D. Rapid DNA hits must be dispositioned within a maximum of 5 business days of the hit notification.

E. Documentation of the follow-up will be maintained by the Crime Laboratory.

5.3 Documentation

A. Documentation of all communications between the Booking Agency and the investigating agency in response to the UDN must be maintained.

B. This documentation should include, at a minimum:

1. A copy of the UDN
2. Name of the investigating agency and representative contacted
3. The date upon which contact was made (or attempted)

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

RDNA-03-03 OPERATION OF THE APPLIED BIOSYSTEMS RAPIDHIT ID BOOKING SYSTEM

1 Scope

These instructions cover the routine use, maintenance, and troubleshooting of the Applied Biosystems RapidHIT ID Booking System (RapidHIT) for processing known buccal swabs in a booking station environment.

2 Safety

A. Body fluids and extracts may contain infectious agents. Use universal precautions during sample collection and handling.

B. Gloves should be worn to protect the collector and the sample.

C. The chemicals present in the ACE sample cartridges, and the primary cartridge may be harmful if exposed to the skin. Although the RapidHIT and its consumables are considered a closed system, care should be taken to avoid exposure.

D. Observe manufacturer recommendations and state and local policies for disposal.

3 Physical Facility and Security Requirements

A. The Booking Agency must have a designated location for the instrument to ensure the security and integrity of the instrument, arrestee samples, and data. Specifically:

1. The instrument must be located in a secure area that is restricted to personnel designated by the Booking Agency and not physically accessible to the general public or unattended arrestees.

2. The instrument must be kept on a level, stationary surface capable of supporting its weight and movement must be minimized.

3. Relocation of the instrument must be documented and the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator must be notified.

B. The Booking Agency must maintain and store the instrument in accordance with manufacturer specifications and DPS requirements, as applicable.

C. The Booking Agency must ensure the power supply is appropriate for continuous operation of the instrument in accordance with manufacturer specifications and DPS requirements, as applicable.

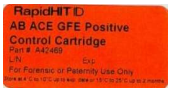
1. A battery powered uninterruptible power supply (UPS) capable of powering a run from start to finish must be connected to the instrument.

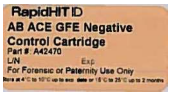
4 DNA Samples and Reagents

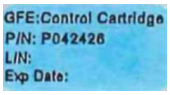
4.1 Reagent Storage

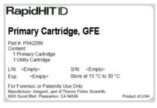
A. Rapid DNA reagents must not be used beyond their manufacturer-specified expiration dates.

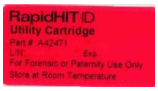
1. The RapidHIT accesses expiration date information from the RFID chips in the cartridges and will not allow them to be used once expired.











Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

B. Sample and control cartridges should be stored refrigerated. Contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov) if sample or control cartridges are left at room temperature for more than 1 month.

C. The gel cartridge must be refrigerated at all times.

D. In the event there is a loss of instrument power or exposure of the cartridge to room temperature for more than 2 hours, contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov).

E. The primary cartridge and utility cartridges should be stored at room temperature.

Reagent	Label	Storage Conditions
ACE Sample Cartridge		Refrigerated (4°- 10°C)
GFE Positive Control Cartridge
GFE Negative Control Cartridge
GFE Control Cartridge (Ladder)
Gel Cartridge		Refrigerated (2°- 8°C)
Primary Cartridge		Room temperature (15°- 30°C)
Utility Cartridge

F. The Booking Agency must store reagents at manufacturer-specified temperatures. Temperature probes or device readouts may be used to monitor storage conditions.

4.2 DNA Sample and Reagent Disposal

A. Rapid DNA cartridges (and any arrestee DNA sample remaining in Rapid DNA cartridges) must be disposed of as biohazardous waste in accordance with manufacturer recommendations and DPS policy.

5 Adding and Removing Users

A. The Lead Operator has the authority to add or remove authorized users from each instrument and must do so following manufacturer-provided instructions.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

B. Each new operator must create a 6-digit PIN. Each user will also be required to register a fingerprint.

C. Before a new user may be added or removed, the Lead Operator must contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov) and provide the operator's name, RapidHIT username, and proposed start or stop date.

D. DPS will have the operator's status created or updated at SDIS and NDIS and will notify the Lead Operator when the user may be added or removed from the system.

6 Instrument Maintenance

6.1 Preventive Maintenance

A. The Booking Agency, in coordination with DPS, must ensure that the instrument is maintained in accordance with manufacturer's recommendations.

1. This includes, at a minimum, annual preventative maintenance (PM) performed by the manufacturer (Applied Biosystems).

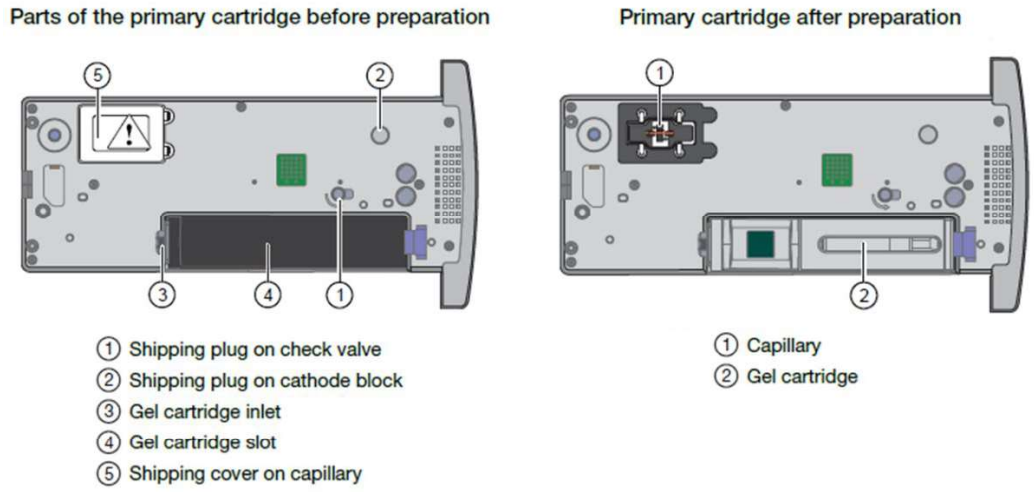
2. Documentation of the annual PM must be maintained by the Booking Agency.

B. The primary cartridge requires regular use for optimal performance. If the instrument is not used within a period of 30 days, a positive control cartridge must be run. If the run fails, contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov).

C. When the instrument is not in use, a utility cartridge (red label) must be left inserted in the cartridge port. The instrument will periodically use the utility cartridge to perform self-maintenance.

D. If the screen becomes dirty it may be wiped using a lint-free tissue. Avoid the use of chemical cleaners.

E. All maintenance activities will be recorded on the Rapid DNA Equipment Maintenance Log and retained by the Booking Agency.



6.2 Primary Cartridge Use

A. The primary cartridge is inserted into the bottom of the instrument.

B. In addition to containing the capillary and electrodes needed for the separation step of DNA analysis, the primary cartridge contains bladders filled with bulk reagents and incorporates the gel cartridge, when installed.

C. The primary cartridge is good for 150 runs and is guaranteed for 100 runs. Once installed into the instrument, a new, 6-month expiration time begins and is tracked by the instrument.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

D. When in use, the instrument displays primary cartridge information at the bottom of the screen including gel volume, expiration date, and the number of runs that have been performed on the installed primary cartridge.

1. Expiration date - Indicates the expiration date of the gel or the primary cartridge, whichever is closest to expiration. The primary cartridge, including gel, must be changed when the expiration date is reached.
2. Number of runs - The run count for the primary cartridge. The run count indicates the number of runs that have been performed, not the number of runs that are remaining (for example, "70" indicates that 70 runs have been performed).
3. Gel volume indicator - The color of the outer ring indicates the amount of gel remaining in the primary cartridge.
   a) Blue ring—The number of runs remaining is >30 and the amount of gel remaining is >30%.
   b) Yellow ring—The number of runs remaining is ≤30 or the amount of gel remaining is 16–30%.
   c) Red ring—The expiration date has been reached, or the number of runs remaining is ≤15 or the amount of gel remaining is ≤15%.

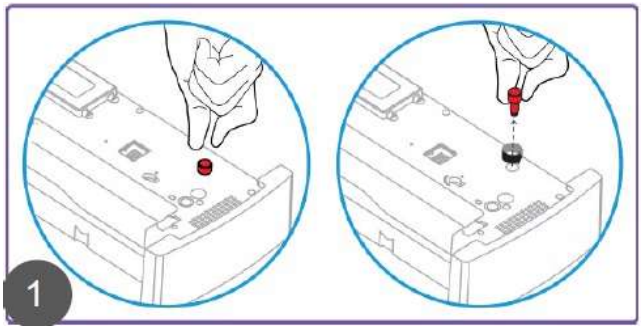
6.3 Primary Cartridge Replacement

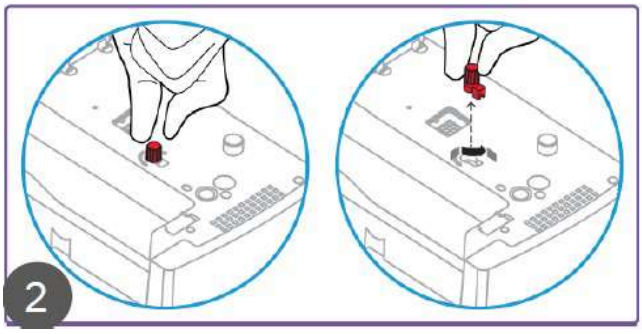
A. When 150 runs have been performed or the reagents in the primary cartridge are exhausted, a message will be displayed indicating that no runs can be initiated until it is replaced.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383



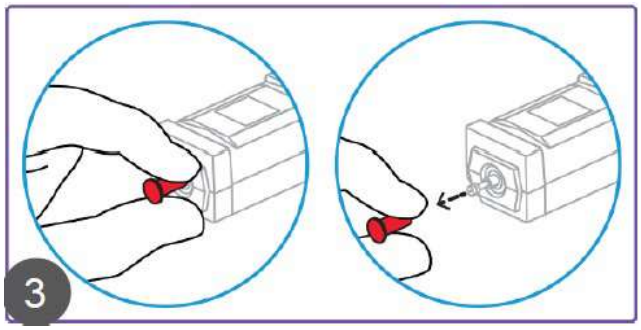
B. It is also possible that the primary cartridge will need to be replaced before 150 runs are completed for any of the following reasons:

1. Once installed, the primary cartridge is good for 6 months. Expiration may occur before the primary has been fully used.
2. Although the primary cartridge is intended to allow 150 runs, it is possible that run quality may degrade prior to that. This may be indicated by a higher run failure frequency than normal.
3. Applied Biosystems may request that the primary cartridge be replaced as part of troubleshooting activities.



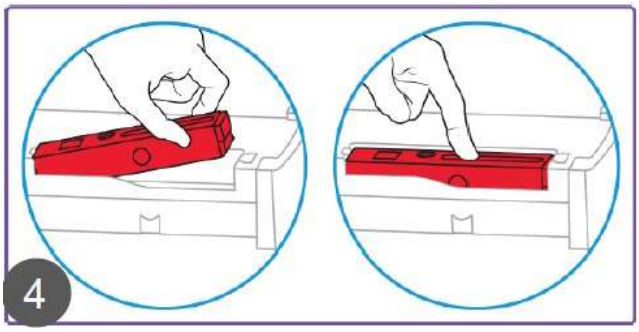
C. DPS personnel are responsible for primary cartridge replacement. On rare occasions, DPS may delegate the task to the Lead Operator or Assistant Lead Operator.

D. Begin by preparing the new primary cartridge.

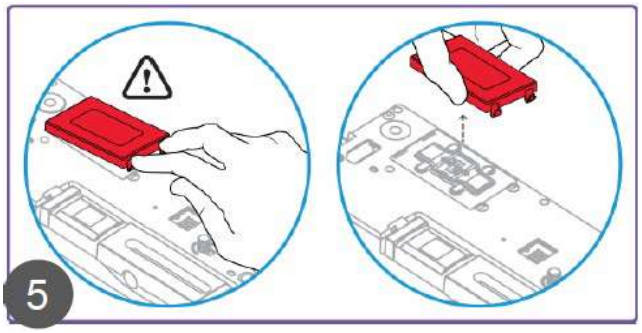


1. Turn the shipping plug in the check valve one quarter turn and remove.

2. Unscrew the shipping plug from the cathode block and remove.



3. Remove the cap from the gel cartridge tip.



Printed copy is uncontrolled. Refer to electronic copy for current version.

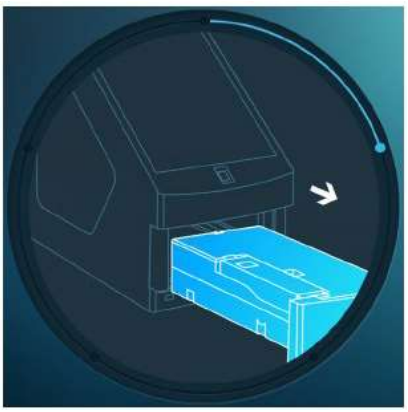
Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

4. With the metal contact facing upwards, load the gel cartridge by first inserting the tip into the primary cartridge inlet and then pressing the gel cartridge down and locking it into place. It will noticeably snap into place when fully inserted.

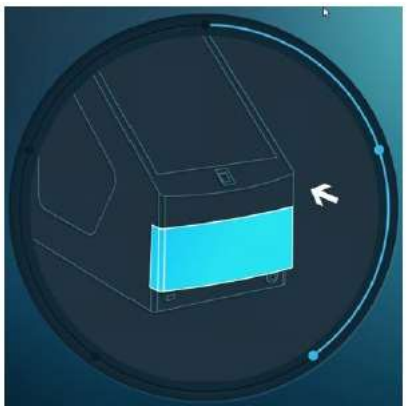
5. Remove the capillary cover.

E. Once the new primary cartridge is prepared, immediately begin the process of replacing the old cartridge.

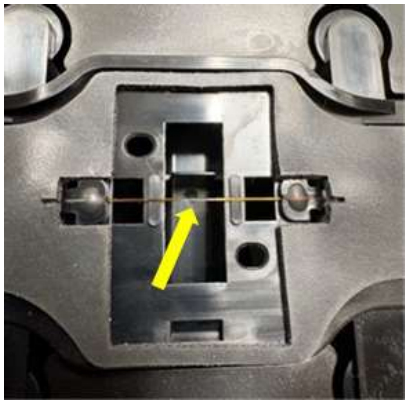
1. Navigate to the menu by selecting the menu icon (three parallel lines) at lower left.
2. From the menu, select the primary cartridge replacement icon.
3. A verification will show asking the operator to confirm that they want to eject the cartridge.



4. Select “Yes.”
5. The screen will show an animated sequence demonstrating the insertion of a new utility cartridge (identified by the red label). A new utility cartridge comes with each primary cartridge. Insert the cartridge.



Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383



6. A countdown timer will appear on the screen while the instrument disengages the primary cartridge (~3 minutes).
7. When disengaged, the screen will show an animated sequence demonstrating the removal of the old primary cartridge. Remove the cartridge by sliding it out of the instrument and discard as biohazardous waste.

8. When the old primary cartridge is removed, the screen will show an animated sequence demonstrating the insertion of the new primary cartridge.
9. Slide the new primary cartridge into the instrument, being careful to prevent the exposed capillary (yellow arrow) from contacting the instrument. The capillary is extremely fragile and can easily break.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

10. Another countdown timer will appear on the screen, and the instrument will perform a 90 minute run using the utility cartridge. When complete, the instrument will indicate that the utility cartridge should be removed.

11. Once the utility cartridge has been removed, the instrument will prompt the insertion of a Positive Control Cartridge (red-orange label below, shipped in a gold-colored foil pack). The run will take about 90 minutes. A green check indicates that the run was successful and that the correct profile was obtained.

12. Although not required for operation, a GFE Control Cartridge (blue label below, shipped in a silver-colored foil pack) should be run next. This is the DNA sizing ladder, and a successful run provides further indication that the new primary cartridge is in good health. The run will take about 90 minutes, and again, a green check will indicate that acceptable results were obtained.

13. The final step in preparing the new primary cartridge is to run a negative control cartridge (peach/tan label below, shipped in a white-colored foil pack). The run will take about 90 minutes. A green check will indicate that acceptable results were obtained.

Printed copy is uncontrolled. Refer to electronic copy for current version.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

7 Performance Checks

Performance checks are required to ensure that the RapidHIT is functioning properly and that all new lots of consumables can generate expected results without contamination. The results of performance checks will be recorded on the Rapid DNA Equipment Maintenance Log and retained by the Booking Agency.

7.1 Procedure (Positive Control)

A. A performance check consists of running a positive control cartridge, which is a cartridge that has been preloaded by the manufacturer with a sample with a known DNA profile. The run must generate passing results to move forward with sample processing.

Positive control cartridge

B. A performance check must be performed prior to generating an arrestee DNA profile in any of the following circumstances:

1. Following installation of a new instrument
2. Following the service, repair, or maintenance of an instrument
3. Following the relocation of an instrument
4. If an instrument has experienced a power outage lasting more than 2 hours
5. When a new lot of primary cartridges and/or sample cartridges are to be used

7.2 Procedure (Negative Control)

A. A negative control cartridge has been preloaded by the manufacturer with a sample containing no DNA. A negative control cartridge must be run as part of the performance check in the following circumstances:

1. Following installation of a new instrument
2. Following service, repair, or maintenance or an instrument, and
3. When a new lot of primary cartridges and/or sample cartridges is to be used

Negative control cartridge

Printed copy is uncontrolled. Refer to electronic copy for current version.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

7.3 Interpretation of Results

Run Result	Explanation	Action
✓	A DNA profile was generated without quality flags. This means: • The expected profile was generated from the positive control cartridge • No DNA results were generated from a negative control cartridge	No action needed. Proceed with processing arrestee samples.
✗	Unexpected results were obtained. This means: • No profile was generated from the positive control cartridge or the profile was not correct • DNA results were generated from a negative control cartridge, indicating contamination.	Repeat the run with a new control cartridge. If the run fails again, contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov).

8 Running the Instrument

1. Camera
2. Sample cartridge port
3. Touchscreen (display screen)
4. Fingerprint reader
5. Primary cartridge (contains gel cartridge)
6. Power button (controls the internal computer)
7. USB port
8. Rear panel with main power switch, USB, and computer connections

8.1 Swab Collection

A. The Livescan will prompt the operator to collect DNA swabs from the arrestee if the individual was arrested for a qualifying offense and no DNA is on file.

B. The operator will collect one buccal collector using the DPS Crime Laboratory provided DNA Database collection kit following the directions provided in the collection kit and an additional swab for Rapid DNA processing.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

C. Rapid buccal swab collection procedure:

1. Using the handheld barcode scanner at the Livescan, associate a new sample cartridge with the arrestee to be swabbed by scanning the barcode on the foil ACE cartridge packet. Open the packet. Remove the contents and place them on a clean surface.
2. Place one of the 2 extra barcodes found inside of the foil packet on the DNA Database Card in the arrestee collection kit to associate the samples. Place the second barcode inside of the collection kit envelope. Insert the DNA traveler printed from Livescan into the DNA Database collection kit envelope. Place a colored sticker on the outside of the envelope.
3. Open the swab wrapper found inside of the foil packet and using one swab, swipe the arrestee's inner cheek at least 5 times with slight pressure applied. This will ensure that sufficient DNA is collected for testing.
4. Open the ACE cartridge extraction chamber door and insert the swab, cotton end down, into the cartridge. Close the chamber door and seal with the provided evidence tape strip.
5. At this point, the operator may run the sample.
   a) If the sample will not be run immediately, place the cartridge back into the foil packet and seal it closed.
   b) Additionally, if a sample is to be stored for any period of time prior to running (for example, while waiting for instrument availability) it must be kept in a secure location with controlled access, such as a lockable box or cabinet.
   c) It is not necessary for the sample to be refrigerated while in this temporary storage location.

8.2 Step-by-Step Run Setup

A. Tap the screen to wake up the instrument. Tap the hand icon in the upper right corner of the screen. Select your username from the drop-down menu.

B. Enter your PIN and scan your fingerprint. This will log you in.

C. A split screen will appear showing a camera view and an icon of a swab and barcode. This is the indication that the instrument is ready for you to scan the cartridge barcode on the foil packet.

D. The barcode on the foil packet must be scanned two times at the instrument before the associated cartridge can be run. Using the handheld barcode scanner, scan the barcode into the first field. Then select the second field and scan it again.

E. When the sample cartridge is inserted into the instrument, the run will automatically begin. A countdown timer will start at 110 minutes; however, a typical run is about 90 minutes.

F. When the run is complete, you will be prompted to remove the cartridge.

1. If an operator is not present at the end of the run, the instrument may return to the lock screen, and the cartridge will not be able to be removed.
2. If this occurs, log into the instrument using the same process as described above.
3. Any user may remove a processed cartridge.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

G. When the Remove Sample Cartridge screen displays and is prompting removal, pull the cartridge out of the instrument and discard it. The run result will be displayed. Press “Done.”

8.3 Review of Results

A. When the sample cartridge is removed, the run result will be displayed, as shown below.

Run Result	Explanation
	The sample passed. A DNA profile was successfully generated.
	The sample failed. No DNA profile was generated, or the profile did not meet quality requirements.

B. If a green check is displayed, the expert system has determined that the developed DNA profile was of high quality. These profiles are forwarded to the CRE for CODIS searching.

C. A yellow or red X indicates that a profile was not developed or that the developed profile failed to meet the necessary quality requirements for CODIS searching.

1. If these results are obtained, a new sample must not be collected from the arrestee.
2. Failed runs will not be repeated and the DNA Database collection kit collected for the CODIS laboratory will be processed instead.

9 Troubleshooting

RDNA-03-04 OPERATION OF THE ANDE 6C SERIES G

1 Scope

These instructions cover the routine use, maintenance, and troubleshooting of the ANDE 6C Series G (ANDE) for processing known buccal swabs in a booking station environment.

2 Safety

A. Body fluids and extracts may contain infectious agents. Use universal precautions during sample collection and handling.

B. Gloves should be worn to protect the collector and the sample.

C. The chemicals present in the A-chip may be harmful if exposed to the skin. Although the A-chip is considered a closed system, care should be taken to avoid exposure.

D. Observe manufacturer recommendations and state and local policies for disposal.

3 Physical Facility and Security Requirements

A. The Booking Agency must have a designated location for the instrument to ensure the security and integrity of the instrument, arrestee samples, and data. Specifically:

1. The instrument must be located in a secure area that is restricted to personnel designated by the Booking Agency and not physically accessible to the general public or unattended arrestees.

2. The instrument must be kept on a level, stationary surface capable of supporting its weight and movement must be minimized. Relocation of the instrument must be documented and DPS must be notified.

B. The Booking Agency must maintain and store the instrument in accordance with manufacturer specifications and DPS requirements, as applicable.

1. The Booking Agency must ensure the power supply is appropriate for continuous operation of the instrument in accordance with manufacturer specifications and DPS requirements, as applicable.

2. A battery powered uninterruptible power supply (UPS) capable of powering a run from start to finish must be connected to the instrument.

4 DNA Samples and Reagents

4.1 Reagent Storage

A. Rapid DNA reagents must not be used beyond their manufacturer-specified expiration dates.

1. The instrument accesses expiration date information from the RFID in the A-chip and will not allow an expired chip to be used.

B. A-chips should be stored at room temperature in a climate-controlled space.

4.2 DNA Sample and Reagent Disposal

A. A-chips (and any arrestee DNA sample remaining within them) must be disposed of as biohazardous waste in accordance with manufacturer recommendations and state and local policy.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

B. ANDE provides clear, square stickers that must be placed on the gasket following a run. These stickers serve to prevent leakage of fluids from the A-chip and should be applied to every used chip prior to disposal.

5 Adding and Removing Users

A. The Lead Operator has the authority to add or remove users from the system and must do so following manufacturer-provided instructions.

B. Each new operator will be issued a fob and must create an associated 6-digit PIN to access the system. Each added operator will have access to all instruments connected to a mux using this two-step multifactor authentication.

C. Before a new user may be added or removed, the Lead Operator must contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov) and provide the operator's name, ANDE username, and proposed start or stop date.

D. DPS will have the operator's status created or updated at SDIS and NDIS and will notify the Lead Operator when the user may be added or removed from the system.

6 Instrument Maintenance

6.1 Preventive Maintenance

A. The Booking Agency, in coordination with DPS, must ensure that the instrument is maintained in accordance with manufacturer's recommendations.

1. This includes, at a minimum, annual preventative maintenance (PM) performed by the manufacturer (ANDE).
2. Documentation of the annual PM must be maintained by the Booking Agency.
3. ANDE recommends that the instrument be run regularly to ensure proper function. The Booking Agency should run each instrument at least quarterly, if not more often.

B. The instrument automatically performs pre-operational self-checks upon start-up and again every 7 days and must be left powered on for these to occur.

1. If an issue is detected, the instrument will display an error and should not be used until the issue is resolved.
2. If this occurs, contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov).

C. If the screen becomes dirty it may be wiped using a lint-free tissue. Avoid the use of chemical cleaners.

D. All maintenance activities will be recorded on the Rapid DNA Equipment Maintenance Log and retained by the Booking Agency.

6.2 Interior Cleaning

A. Occasionally, foaming may occur from the extraction chamber seals during processing. Over time, this may result in the deposition of material on the interior of the instrument above the purple swab handles.

B. The material may be wiped out with a moistened lint-free paper cloth.

C. DPS will coordinate with the Booking Agency to perform interior cleaning, as needed.

7 Performance Checks

Performance checks are required to ensure that the ANDE is functioning properly and that all new lots of A-chips can generate expected results without contamination. The results of performance checks will be recorded on the Rapid DNA Equipment Maintenance Log and retained by the Booking Agency.

7.1 Procedure

A. A performance check consists of running at least 2 positive controls and 2 negative controls on a chip.

B. A performance check must be performed prior to running an arrestee swab in any of the following circumstances:

1. Following installation of a new instrument
2. Following the service, repair, or maintenance of an instrument
3. Following the relocation of an instrument
4. If an instrument has experienced an unexpected power outage.
5. When a new lot of A-chips is to be used

C. Arrestee samples must never be run on a chip being used for a performance check. A third positive or negative control swab should be run as the fifth sample to fill the chip.

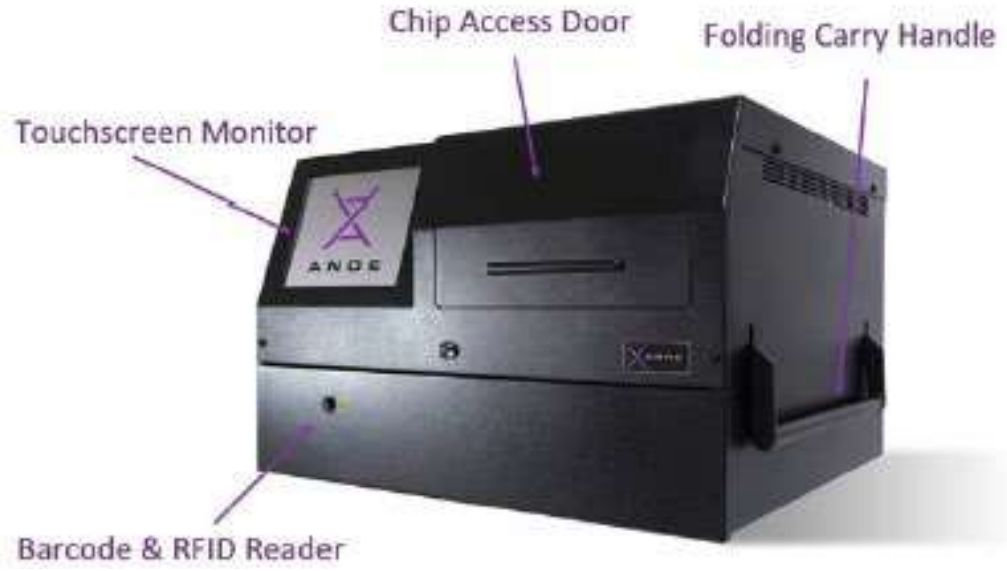
7.2 Interpretation of Results

A. The ANDE expert system cannot determine when a swab is a positive or negative control and therefore cannot determine whether expected results were obtained.

B. Even if a green check is displayed, indicating a successful run, the developed profile must be verified by the Rapid DNA Coordinator or their designee to ensure that the expected profile was developed.

C. Similarly, a red X will be obtained even if a negative control passes.

D. All performance check results must be reviewed by the Rapid DNA Coordinator or their designee prior to running arrestee swabs.



Run Result	Explanation	Action
	A DNA profile was generated without quality flags.	The developed positive control profile must be verified by DPS prior to continuing.
	This result is unexpected for a positive control, but is expected for a negative control. It could mean: • No profile was developed • A profile was developed with quality flags • The chip's allelic ladder failed.	Positive and negative controls yielding this result must be reviewed by DPS prior to continuing.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

E. Because the A-chip is capable of running 5 samples at a time and a sample [lane] may fail due to technical issues, at least two controls of each type must be run for redundancy.

1. Only one positive control is required to pass in order to move forward.
2. If two negative controls are run and one of them yields profile information, the test must be repeated with new negative controls run on a new chip.

8 Running the Instrument

8.1 Swab Collection

A. The Livescan will prompt the operator to collect DNA swabs from the arrestee if the individual was arrested for a qualifying offense and no DNA is on file.

B. The operator will first collect one buccal collector using the DPS Crime Laboratory provided DNA Database collection kit. The sample will be collected per directions in the collection kit.

C. Insert the DNA traveler printed from Livescan into the DNA Database collection kit envelope. Place a colored sticker on the outside of the collection kit envelope. Once collection of the arrestee DNA Database collection kit has been completed, the operator will proceed to collection of a buccal swab for Rapid DNA processing.

D. Collection procedure:

1. Open a foil packet containing a swab. Remove the swab from the packet and scan the 2D barcode on the top of the purple swab handle using the handheld barcode scanner at the Livescan. This associates the swab with the arrestee.
2. Grasping the purple swab handle, pull the swab out of its tube and swipe the arrestee's inner cheeks at least 12 times with slight pressure applied. This will ensure that sufficient DNA is collected for testing.
3. Firmly reinsert the swab into its tube and place the swab into secure storage until it is to be run. The collected swab may be temporarily kept at room temperature.

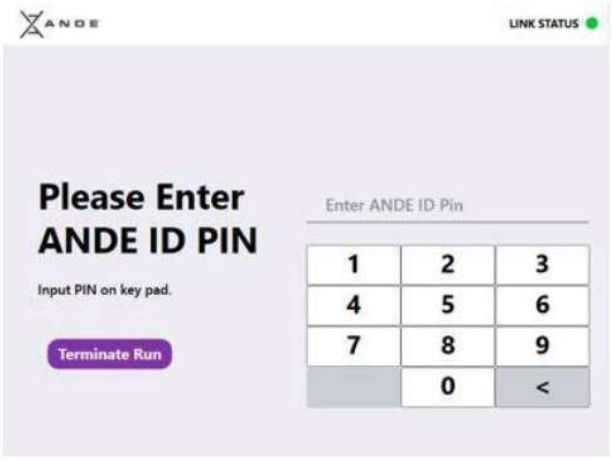
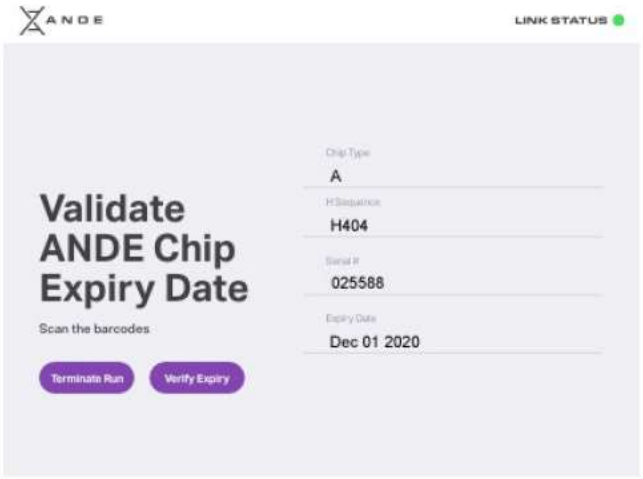
8.2 Step-by-Step Run Setup

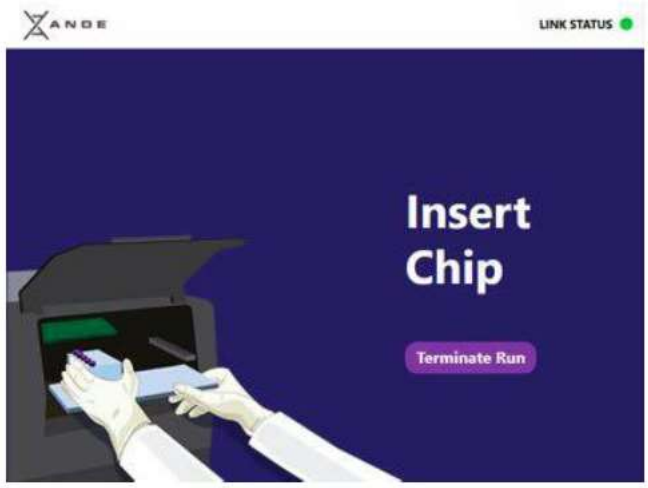


A. Approach the instrument and tap the “Perform a Run” screen.

B. Hold the end of your operator-specific fob in the barcode/RFID reader port on the front of the instrument.



C. Enter your 6-digit PIN using the on-screen keypad.



Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

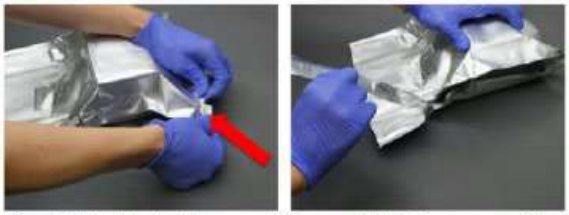
D. When the correct PIN has been entered, the operator is prompted to verify the A-chip expiration date. Scan the barcode on the A-chip package using the handheld scanner.

1. The chip type, sequence (lot) and serial numbers, and expiration date will populate on the screen.
2. Select “Verify Expiry” if the expiration date has not passed.

E. If the data is valid, the instrument will prompt for chip insertion and the door will open. Note that the instrument will not allow usage of chips beyond the expiration date.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

F. Remove the foil-wrapped chip from its box or clamshell, being careful to grasp only the extraction block, and set it on a flat surface before opening as follows:



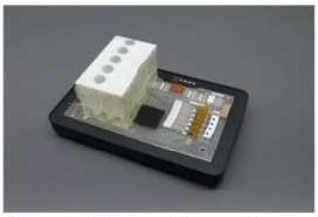
Step 1. Remove chip from the zip lock bag holding the block area.

Step 2. Locate the first "tear mark" on the corner of the short side of the foil pouch.

Step 3. Tear across the full length of the short side of the foil pouch.

Step 4. Then locate the second "tear mark" and tear across the full length of the long side of the foil pouch.

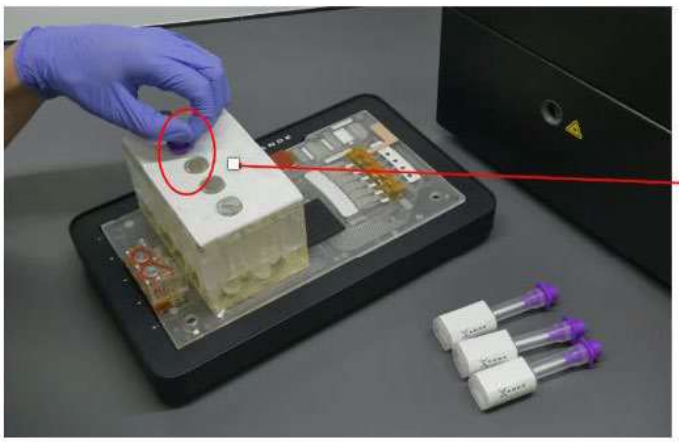
G. Make sure to hold the chip by the extraction block, slide it out of the foil and carefully place it on the sample loading fixture.



1. The fixture is notched to ensure correct chip placement.
2. Never set an unwrapped chip on any surface other than the loading fixture.

Step 5. While holding block, pull away foil and gently lift the chip by the block to remove the foil packaging.

Sample loading fixture



Step 6. Place chip on the Sample Loading Fixture.

Printed copy is uncontrolled. Refer to electronic copy for current version.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

H. Before loading a swab, the plastic protective cover must be removed from the chamber opening. Only one chamber should be open at a time, and the cover should be peeled off immediately before the swab is loaded.

Note: Chip must be on the loading fixture for sample loading

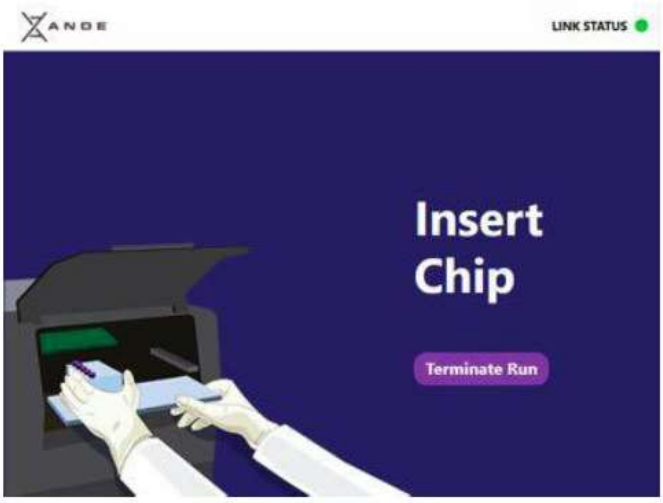
I. After removing the protective cover from the extraction chamber, remove the swab from its tube.

J. Place the swab in the chamber and push down until it clicks into place. At this point, the swab cannot be removed from the chip.

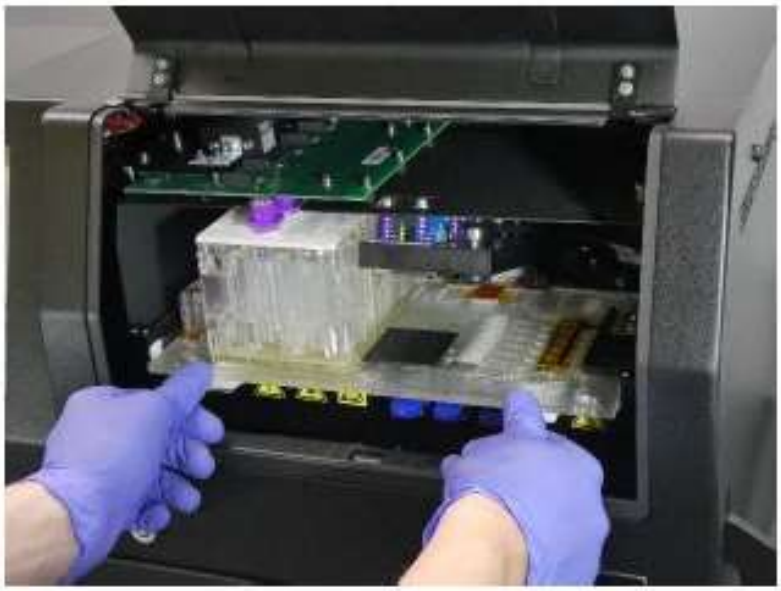
1. If you forget to remove the plastic cover from the extraction chamber and hit it with the swab head, it is still ok to use the swab.



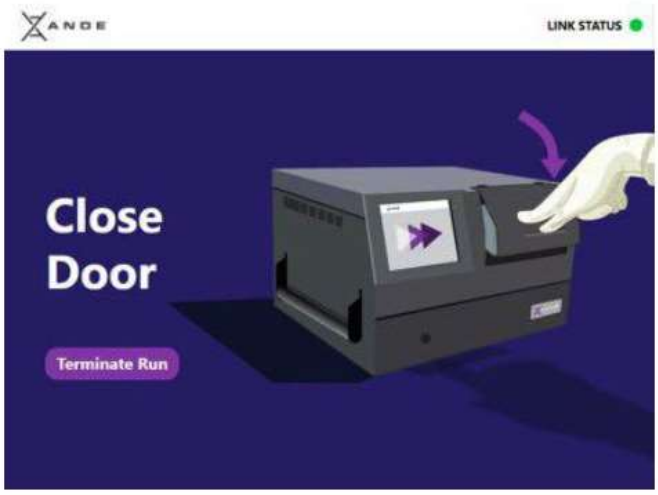
K. Carefully remove the cover, load the swab, and then change gloves to continue with the next swab.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

L. Repeat the loading process until all 5 swabs have been loaded into the chip.



M. Open the door fully and grasp the chip by the extraction block to bring it to the instrument. Holding the extraction block with your left hand and gently guiding the end of the chip with your right hand, slide the chip into place. White rollers are positioned to assist in insertion.

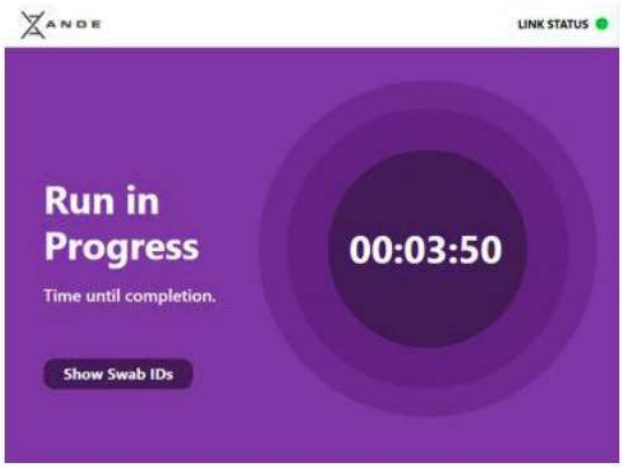


Printed copy is uncontrolled. Refer to electronic copy for current version.

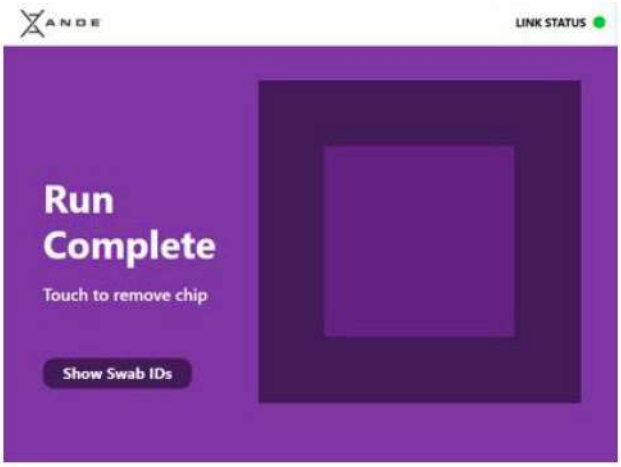
Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

N. Once the chip has been inserted about three quarters of the way in, use your thumbs to finish sliding it into place.

O. When fully inserted, the instrument will prompt you to close the door. Push the door down firmly as indicated on the screen and hold it in place until the latch engages.

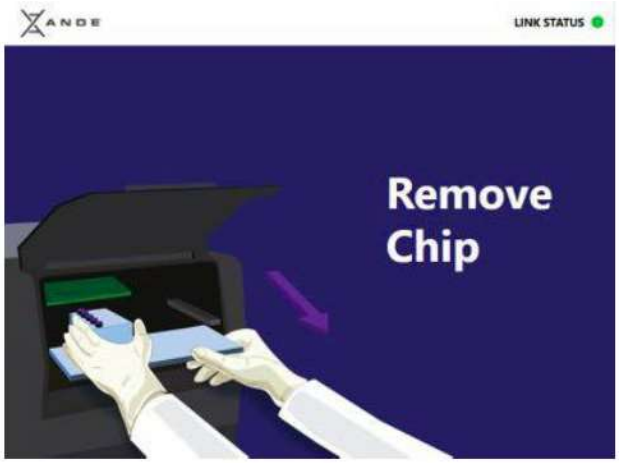


Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

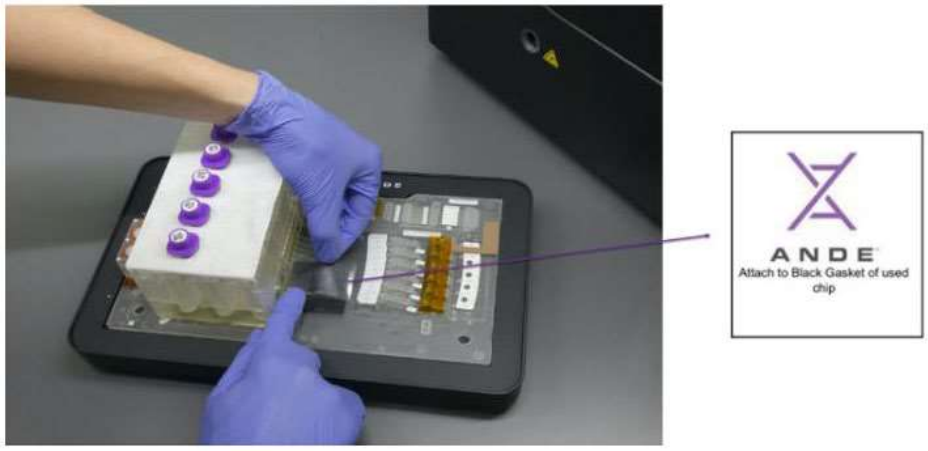


P. When the latch engages, the run will start automatically. The instrument will read the chip and swab IDs.

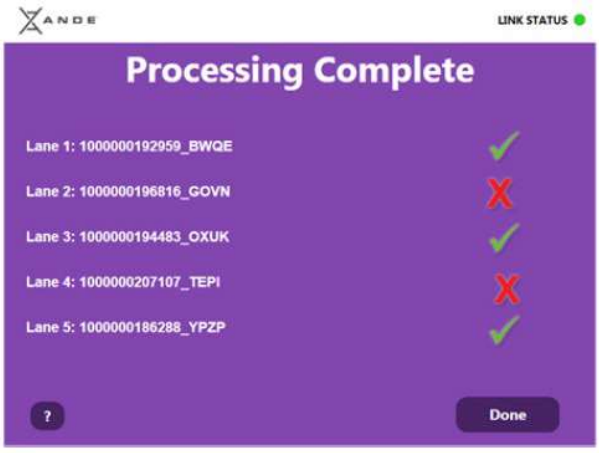
Q. When processing starts, a countdown timer will be displayed.



R. When processing finishes, the “Run Complete” screen is displayed.



Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383



S. The instrument will prompt you to remove the chip. The chip should be removed as soon as possible after the run, preferably within 5 minutes to avoid fluids from leaking from the chip gasket into the instrument.

T. Place the clear ANDE gasket sticker over the black pneumatic gasket on the chip. This ensures that all fluids remained sealed within the chip. The chip can then be disposed of as biohazardous waste.

U. When the instrument door is closed, the results screen is displayed.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

8.3 Review of Results

A. When the sample cartridge is removed, the run result will be displayed, as shown below.

Run Result	Explanation
	The sample passed. A DNA profile was successfully generated.
	The sample failed. No DNA profile was generated, or the profile did not meet quality requirements.

B. If a green check is displayed, the expert system has determined that the developed DNA profile was of high quality. These profiles are forwarded to the CRE for CODIS searching.

C. A red X indicates that a profile was not developed or that the developed profile failed to meet the necessary quality requirements for CODIS searching.

1. If these results are obtained, a new sample must not be collected from the arrestee.
2. Failed runs will not be repeated and the DNA Database collection kit collected for the CODIS laboratory will be processed instead.

9 Troubleshooting

Observation	Possible cause	Recommended action
An error is displayed on the screen after self-check or during/following a run.	Numerous issues, including software or pneumatic problems.	Do not restart the instrument. Contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator.

A. Never power down the instrument using the rear switch unless the proper onscreen shutdown procedure has been followed. Doing so may result in loss of stored data.

B. If the instrument software is ever frozen, notify the Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov) for instructions prior to power cycling.

04 AUDITS AND RECORDS MANAGEMENT

RDNA-04-01 AUDITS

1 General

The Booking Agency must demonstrate compliance with the FBI's Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies through participation in required audits. The Booking Agency must meet or exceed the standards to ensure the quality and integrity of the DNA generated by the Rapid DNA Booking System.

The State CODIS Agency is responsible for ensuring each Booking Agency participating in the Texas Rapid DNA Program is audited annually every calendar year and that audits are conducted at least 6 months and no more than 18 months apart from the previous audit.

The most current version of the FBI Standards for the Operation of Rapid DNA Booking Systems by Law Enforcement Booking Agencies Audit Document and Guidance will be used to conduct the audit.

2 Audit Roles and Responsibilities

A. DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator – Assigns auditors, manages audit schedule, facilitates communication during audit activities, prepares audit final audit documents, compiles supporting documentation, and manages feedback and program records. The Rapid DNA Coordinator generally serves as the Lead Auditor.

B. Auditor - Individual with sufficient training and knowledge to audit to the applicable standards and management system requirements to ensure that audits are conducted in a consistent and systematic manner.

C. DPS Compliance Auditor – provide system level support to the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator during the audit process.

D. The audit team is selected by the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator and consists of at least one individual who has successfully completed the FBI's Quality Assurance Standards Auditor training.

E. All parties are responsible for conducting the audit in a fair, honest, and impartial manner.

3 Pre-Audit Activities

3.1 Audit Plan

A. As a general rule, compliance with a standard is assessed through a review of the Booking Agency's documentation and interviews with Booking Agency staff. Documents may be in hard copy, electronic or a combination of both formats.

B. The DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator, in collaboration with DPS Laboratory Top Management, defines the audit plan and schedule.

C. The steps of the audit plan are reviewed with the auditors, including workflow/process, timelines, responsibilities, standard forms and templates, and other expectations.

D. The audit plan includes information and resources necessary to organize and conduct audits effectively and efficiently within the specified time frames and addresses the following:

1. Audit criteria and objectives;
2. Description of audit activities;

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

3. Schedule of audit activities to include milestones and deadlines; and
4. Assignment of audit team members

3.2 Rapid DNA Audit Document

The Booking Agency that is being audited will complete the “General Booking Agency Information” section located in the Booking Agency Rapid DNA Audit Document and provide it to the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator prior to the audit team’s arrival on-site.

4 Conducting The Audit

A. The Lead Auditor is responsible for ensuring the Rapid DNA Audit Document is complete. This includes ensuring all boxes are checked as “Yes”, “No”, or “N/A” for all standards, information for Appendix A has been completed or listed as “N/A”, and the cover page of the audit document has been completed and signed by the Audit Team.
   1. For a standard marked “No”, the comment must describe the noncompliance with sufficient detail so that the Booking Agency can develop an appropriate corrective action for compliance.
   2. For a standard marked “N/A”, the comment must describe why that standard is not applicable to that Booking Agency.

B. The auditor(s) must include any supporting documentation necessary for a thorough review of the audit.

C. The Lead Auditor meets with Rapid DNA Lead Operator and Booking Agency management to apprise them of audit observations, including potential nonconformances.

D. After the audit is completed, the Lead Auditor briefs Booking Agency management and the Rapid DNA Lead Operator regarding the results. This briefing should verbally detail any nonconformances identified, as well as observations, recommendations, and commendable performances.

5 Post-Audit Activities

5.1 Rapid DNA Audit Document

A. The Rapid DNA Audit Document should be prepared by the Lead Auditor and/or auditor(s) and sent to the Booking Agency, the State CODIS Administrator, and the Quality Director, along with instructions outlining the deadline for reviewing the audit document and submitting responses to any identified nonconformances, within ten (10) days of the conclusion of the audit.
   1. The Audit Document Report consists of the completed Audit Document Checklist.
   2. All findings of non-compliance must be clearly identified and referenced to the appropriate standard.

B. If no nonconformances were cited, the State CODIS Administrator approves the final audit document.

C. Final audit records are returned to the Booking Agency and also forwarded to the DPS Compliance Auditor for DPS archival.

Docusign Envelope ID: 0D9CAB1F-3EBF-8579-80E9-16CE6D04F383

5.2 Audit Nonconformances

A. For any cited nonconformances, the Booking Agency must forward a corrective action plan/documents to DPS within 30 business days of receipt of the Rapid DNA Audit Document.

B. If the Booking Agency is unable to meet the 30-day deadline, they must contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov) to request an extension.

C. The corrective action plan must outline what actions are to be taken to correct the problem, responsible parties, and timeline, where appropriate.

D. The State CODIS Administrator reviews the corrective action plan(s) to determine if the proposed corrections are appropriate.

1. If the State CODIS Administrator determines that the corrective action plan(s) is appropriate, this is communicated to the Booking Agency.

   a) The Booking Agency must implement the planned corrections within 30 calendar days.

   b) If the Booking Agency is unable to meet the 30-day deadline, they must contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov) to request an extension.

2. If the State CODIS Administrator determines that the corrective action plan(s) is not appropriate, this is communicated to the Booking Agency.

   a) The Booking Agency must submit a revised plan within 10 business days.

   b) If the Booking Agency is unable to meet the 10-day deadline, they must contact the DPS Rapid DNA Coordinator (RapidDNA@dps.texas.gov) to request an extension.

E. If the Booking Agency would like to appeal a cited nonconformance, they must submit response/supporting documentation to the State CODIS Administrator within 10 business days.

F. The State CODIS Administrator will review the response and make the final determination as to whether there is sufficient objective evidence to remove the cited nonconformance or if there is insufficient objective evidence and the nonconformance remains on the Audit Document.

G. If the cited nonconformance remains on the Audit Document, the Booking Agency must submit a corrective action plan as required above.

H. Failure to respond to or resolve cited nonconformances may result in removal from the DPS Rapid DNA Booking Station Program.

TAX ABATEMENT AGREEMENT

This tax abatement agreement ("Agreement") is by and between Montgomery County, Texas, a political subdivision of the State of Texas ("County") acting by and through its elected Commissioners Court, Texas Tissue Converting, LLC ("Texas Tissue"), a Texas limited liability company, acting by and through its authorized representative and Conroe BTS, LLC, a Texas limited liability company, acting by and through its authorized representative ("Lessor"). The County, Texas Tissue, or Lessor may be referred to singly as "party" or collectively as "parties."

WHEREAS, recognizing that large-scale capital investments within the County benefit the County by creating additional jobs and expanding the County's tax base, the County adopted a resolution and order electing to participate in tax abatement, and

WHEREAS, the County adopted its guidelines and criteria for tax abatement on November 13, 2018 ("Guidelines"), which Guidelines are fully incorporated into this Agreement, and

WHEREAS, Lessor owns or is under contract to purchase taxable real property ("Real Property") located in the County and this Real Property is in a reinvestment zone designated by the City of Conroe Ordinance No. 2479-19 on September 12, 2019, and

WHEREAS, Lessor proposes to construct a new 400,000 square feet manufacturing facility to be leased to and operated by Texas Tissue on the Real Property, investing millions of dollars and creating approximately 150 full-time jobs (the "Project") within Montgomery County if Lessor and Texas Tissue can secure tax abatements or other incentives from the County and other local governments, and

WHEREAS, the County has reviewed Texas Tissue's application for tax abatement ("Application"), which is fully incorporated into this Agreement, and the County finds that the Project satisfies the guidelines and criteria and qualifies for tax abatement.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises herein, County and Lessor and Texas Tissue agree as follows:

Article 1. Authorization

This Agreement is authorized by Chapter 312 of the Texas Tax Code (the "Property Redevelopment and Tax Abatement Act") and by Resolution and Order of the County's Commissioners Court adopted the 13th day of November, 2018.

Article 2. Definitions

- "Abatement Period"— the period beginning on January 1, 2020, and ending on December 31, 2029.

- "Application"— the application for tax abatement submitted by Texas Tissue and all amendments and other documents submitted in conjunction with the application.

- "Base Year Value"— the Real Property's Certified Full Market Appraised Value as of January 1, 2019 (land only without improvements), which is stipulated to be $ 2,744,280.00.

- "Certified Full Market Appraised Value"— a taxable property's appraised value before abatements, special use valuations, or exemptions are given.

- "Facility" – the Real Property and the completed Improvements.

- "Fixed Personal Property" -- personal property that has been attached to land or improvements in a manner that:

  - Would cause damage to the property if the fixture were to be removed;

  - Renders use of the fixture essential to the use of the property; or

  - Is attached in such a manner as to indicate that the party who installed the article intended for it to become a part of the real property.

  "Fixed Personal Property" includes all replacements and accessions to personal property otherwise qualifying as Fixed Personal Property.

- "Full Time Equivalent" — a level of effort equal to that which would be provided by one person working 1,830 hours on an annualized basis, excluding vacation and other nonproductive time.

- "Project"— construction and operation of a new manufacturing and distribution center of approximately 400,000 SF to be leased and operated by Texas Tissue, the Fixed Personal Property, the business personal property and the inventory used in connection with the Facility. The Real Property and Improvements have a combined estimated value of approximately $27.74 million upon completion of the Improvements. Upon completion of the Improvements and at full operation capacity the Project is expected to add to the Real Property Improvements with a taxable value of approximately $25 million, fixed personal property (manufacturing machinery) of $40 million, business personal property with a taxable value of approximately $500,000 and annual inventory of approximately $3.0 million. The Project is also expected to create 150 full-time jobs with a combined annual payroll of approximately $5.42 million.

- "Project's Eligible Property" — the portion of the Real Property, the Improvements, and the Fixed Personal Property eligible to receive the tax abatement being the Improvements ($25,000,000) and the Fixed Personal Property ($40,000,000).

Article 3. Texas Tissue's Representations

Texas Tissue represents that:

- it owns a leasehold interest in the Real Property or will have a binding lease contingent upon the completion of the construction of the Facility on the Real Property before January 1, 2022;

- the Real Property is currently located within the boundaries of a reinvestment zone designated within the last five years by the City of Conroe or Montgomery County;

- all of the information included in its Application is accurate. Texas Tissue agrees to supplement its Application with accurate information if, and as soon as, it learns that any information in its Application is inaccurate; and

- no interest in the Real Property is held or leased by a member of the County's Commissioners Court.

Article 4. Lessor's Representations

Lessor represents that:

- it owns the Real Property or will own the Real Property before January 1, 2020;

- the Real Property is currently located within the boundaries of a reinvestment zone designated within the last five years by the City of Conroe or Montgomery County; and

- no interest in the Real Property is held or leased by a member of the County's Commissioners Court.

Article 5. Terms of this Agreement

a. The Real Property's anticipated tax account number is 0486-00-00213. It is understood and agreed that Montgomery County and/or the Montgomery Central Appraisal District ("MCAD") may assign a different account number or numbers to the Real Property.

b. Lessor and Texas Tissue agree to invest at least $25 million in Improvements (inclusive of hard and soft costs) to develop the Project and to install and equip the Project with personal property with an original taxable value of at least $ 40 million.

c. Subject to delays arising from events of force majeure, Lessor agrees to substantially complete construction of the Improvements by December 31, 2021.

d. Texas Tissue agrees that employment at the Facility, either directly or through its affiliates or contractors, shall equal at least the Full-Time Equivalents with an annual payroll in 2019 U.S. dollars as shown below:

No. of Full Time Equivalents	Annual Payroll	Date
Fifty (50)	$2,650,000	December 31, 2023
Ninety (90)	$4,250,000	December 31, 2025
One hundred fifty (150)	$5,420,000	December 31, 2027

If at any time after January 1, 2024 and during the remainder of the Abatement Period the number of persons employed by Texas Tissue or its affiliates that actually work at the Facility falls below the number of Full Time Equivalents as set forth above for a period in excess of thirty (30) days, then Texas Tissue will pay to the County a payment equal to one and one-half percent (1.5%) of the County taxes abated for that year multiplied by the number of required positions that were not filled in such year. The payment for failing to maintain the required number of employees for any calendar year must be paid to the County on or before April 1 of the following year or within thirty (30) days from demand for payment by the County. If for any reason the County invokes the right to recapture taxes abated pursuant to this Agreement, then any payment received by County under this paragraph shall be credited toward the recapture of taxes for the year for which the payment was made. Except as provided in Article 8, the failure to maintain the minimum number of employees for any calendar year shall not be a default; the payment(s) provided by this paragraph being the County's sole remedy for the failure to maintain the required number of employees for any single calendar year.

e. Texas Tissue agrees to use the Project's Eligible Property to operate a manufacturing and distribution facility for a period starting on or around January 1, 2021, and continuing through the end of the Abatement Period and for three (3) years after the end of the Abatement Period. The County may approve a change of the Real Property's use and/or use of the Project's Eligible Property if the County determines that the change is consistent with the County's guidelines and criteria. This approval must be in writing and executed by the County's Commissioners Court before the change of use occurs.

f. Lessor agrees to maintain the Project in good repair and condition during the period of construction, upon completion of the Project, and at all times through the end of the third calendar year after the end of the Abatement Period.

g. Lessor and Texas Tissue agree that the Project shall be constructed, installed, and operated in accordance with all applicable federal, state, and local laws and regulations.

h. Texas Tissue shall pay (or cause to be paid) before delinquency any and all ad valorem taxes levied on the Real Property, the Improvements, the Fixed Personal Property, the business personal property or the Inventory, shall timely file all required rendition statements to the appropriate authority, and shall timely apply each year to the Montgomery Central Appraisal District for an exemption based on the tax abatement herein granted.

i. Lessor shall pay (or cause to be paid) before delinquency any and all ad valorem taxes levied on the Real Property or the Project, shall timely file all required rendition statements to the appropriate authority, and shall timely apply each year to the Montgomery Central Appraisal District for an exemption based on the tax abatement herein granted.

j. Lessor and Texas Tissue shall allow the County's employees, agents, and representatives access to the Project and to Texas Tissue's applicable business records at any reasonable time to ensure Texas Tissue's compliance with the terms of this Agreement.

k. Lessor and Texas Tissue shall allow the Montgomery Central Appraisal District's employees, agents, and representatives access to the Project and to Texas Tissue's applicable business records at any reasonable time to aid County in ensuring Texas Tissue's compliance with the terms of this Agreement.

l. Texas Tissue shall provide Montgomery Central Appraisal District with a full detailed cost report on all Improvements upon completion and all personal property costs (including Fixed Personal Property) upon installation.

m. Any subsequent buyer (with consent of County) of the Real Property must assume in writing the obligations of Lessor under this Agreement.

Article 6. Tax Abatement

a. If Lessor and Texas Tissue complete the Project in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, County agrees to grant Lessor and Texas Tissue an abatement of the County ad valorem taxes during the Abatement Period on the Certified Full Market Appraised Value of the Project's Eligible Property that exceeds the Base Year Value. The Parties agree that the Base Year Values of the Project's Eligible Property are as follows: (a) $ 2,744,280 for the Real Property; (b) zero ($0) for the Improvements; and (c) zero ($0) for the Fixed Personal Property. Taxes on business personal property (other than Fixed Personal Property) and inventory shall not be abated. This tax abatement is granted by official action of Commissioners Court according to the following schedule, as set forth in the County's Guidelines for Category "C" projects:

Tax Year of Abatement	Percentage of Taxes Abated
2020	100%
2021	100%
2022	100%
2023	100%
2024	100%
2025	100%
2026	80%
2027	60%
2028	40%
2029	20%

b. For each year during the Abatement Period, the tax abatement shall not apply to the Base Year Value, the value of the business personal property (other than Fixed Personal Property) and the value of inventory which values shall be fully taxable. The Project's taxable appraised values shall be determined by the Montgomery Central Appraisal District, subject to Lessor's and Texas Tissue's respective rights under the Texas Tax Code to protest and appeal those values.

c. The tax abatement granted herein shall not apply to property that is ineligible under the County's Guidelines as described in Section 3(e) "Ineligible Property" of the Guidelines. Such property shall be fully taxable.

Article 7. Reporting Requirements

Texas Tissue shall provide annual written reports to the County and to Lessor during the term of this Agreement, which reports shall be due on July 1 of each year. The first report shall be due on July 1, 2020, and the last report shall be due on July 1, 2030. The reports shall provide the required information for the previous calendar year. The reports shall be submitted to the County Tax Assessor, County Judge, the County Attorney and Lessor. Except where otherwise noted, each report shall contain the following information:

a. A statement of whether the Improvements have been completed and the date of completion or expected completion(this information is only required for the reports due July 1, 2020 and July 2021);

b. The number of persons employed at the Facility by Texas Tissue and/or its affiliates and contractors and the gross payroll of those persons employed at the Facility by Texas Tissue and/or its affiliates and contractors during each quarter of the previous calendar year;

c. The amount invested in the Facility during the previous calendar year;

d. The status of the Real Property's use during the calendar year preceding the report;

e. Any change in the identity of Texas Tissue's principals since the last report (except for changes that affect less than 10% of Texas Tissue's ownership);

f. Any significant change to Texas Tissue's financial status as of December 31 of the previous calendar year and as of June 1 of the year of the report;

g. Any other material change to Texas Tissue's Tax Abatement Application;

h. Any other information as reasonably requested in writing by the Commissioner of the County Precinct in which the Real Property is located, by the County Judge, the County Tax Assessor Collector or by the County Attorney; and

i. A statement signed by an authorized officer of Texas Tissue certifying that Texas Tissue is in compliance with each term of this Agreement.

Upon the County's written request, Texas Tissue shall also provide to the County any supporting documentation and information deemed reasonably necessary by the County to review Texas Tissue's compliance with this Agreement, including but not limited to: redacted payroll records, redacted or publicly available financial statements, redacted employee personnel records, and applicable loan or financing records and documentation. Upon Lessor's or Texas Tissue's request, any such information deemed confidential by law may be made available for the County's review in Texas Tissue's offices in Montgomery County.

Article 8. Event of Default

The County may declare a default upon the occurrence of any one or more of the following circumstances:

a. If, at any time after January 1, 2023 and during the remainder of the Abatement Period, the number of persons employed by Texas Tissue or its affiliates that actually work at the Facility falls below the number of Full Time Equivalents as set forth in Article 5(d) of this Agreement for a period in excess of thirty (30) days three (3) times during the Abatement Period;

b. If construction of the Project does not proceed as planned;

c. If, at any time during the Abatement Period; Lessor or Texas Tissue refuses, fails or neglects to comply with any of the terms of this Agreement, including without limitation, failing to pay any and all ad valorem taxes on the Real Property or the Project before delinquency as provided by Article 5 of this Agreement;

d. If, at any time during the Abatement Period, Texas Tissue fails to pay before delinquency ad valorem taxes owed to County or any other taxing jurisdiction located in Montgomery County on any real or personal property owned or leased by Texas Tissue;

e. If, at any time during the Abatement Period, Lessor fails to pay (or cause Texas Tissue to pay to the extent required under its lease) before delinquency ad valorem taxes owed to County or any other taxing jurisdiction located in Montgomery County on any real or personal property owned by Lessor;

f. If, at any time during the Abatement Period, any representation or warranty made by Lessor or Texas Tissue in this Agreement is or becomes false or misleading in any material respect;

g. If, at any time during the Abatement Period, Texas Tissue applies for and receives any form of tax exemption that would reduce the taxes otherwise payable to County on any new personal property or inventory produced, stored, or maintained at the site of the Real Property or the Facility, including but not limited to a Freeport or pollution control exemption, excluding tax exemptions for Federal Income Taxes, Excise Taxes, or other existing tax exemptions received by Lessor or Texas Tissue on or before the date of execution of this Agreement;

h. Subject to delays arising from events of force majeure, if the Improvements are not substantially completed by December 31, 2021;

i. If, after January 1, 2022 and before the end of the Abatement Period, the combined Certified Full Market Appraised Value of the Real Property and Improvements falls below $ 27.74 million or the original cost of personal property is below $ 40 million; or if, the combined Certified Full Market Appraised Value of the Real Property and Improvements falls below $ 27.74 million after the Abatement Period and before the end of the third year after the Abatement Period (January 1, 2032), a default may be declared with respect to Lessor's and Texas Tissue's obligations under this Agreement;

j. If all or any part of the Real Property is sold, transferred or otherwise conveyed without written consent of County, which consent may be given or withheld by County in the exercise of its sole and absolute discretion, provided however, the County's written consent will not be required if (1) no Event of Default pursuant to this Agreement has occurred and remains uncured, (2) the sale of the Real Property is a sale of the Real Property and Improvements; and (3) Texas Tissue attorns to the purchaser as landlord under the then existing lease, or (4) Texas Tissue is the purchaser of the real property and improvements;

k. If Lessor or Texas Tissue attempts to assign this Agreement or the abatement without the County's required prior written approval except as expressly permitted pursuant to Article 11, below.

If the County declares Lessor or Texas Tissue or both in default of this Agreement, the County shall notify Lessor and Texas Tissue of the default by giving written notice to Lessor and Texas Tissue, which notice shall specify each default. Lessor and/or Texas Tissue shall have thirty (30) days from the date of the notice to cure all defaults. If Lessor or Texas Tissue proceed diligently, but fail to cure every default within the thirty (30) day period, the County may, at the option of Commissioners Court, extend the time for curing the default for a second thirty (30) day period, so long as Lessor or Texas Tissue commence to cure such uncured defaults within the initial thirty (30) day period and pursues such cure to completion. The County is under no obligation to extend the period for curing any default.

If the defaults are not cured to the County's reasonable satisfaction, the County shall have the right to pursue any one or more of the following remedies: (1) terminate the Agreement and/or (2) terminate Lessor's and/or Texas Tissue's rights to any future abatement under the Agreement without terminating the Agreement and/or (3) pursue any and all remedies allowed under the Agreement and under Texas law. The County's rights under this Article are cumulative and the exercise of one or more rights does not preclude the County from exercising any other right.

If this Agreement is terminated under this Article, the County shall be entitled to recapture any and all County ad valorem taxes which have been abated under this Agreement (being the base amount of ad valorem taxes that would have been due if not abated and if timely paid for each such year of abatement), which amount shall be delinquent if not paid by Tenant and/or Lessor on or before the first (1st) day of the next month after the date of mailing of written notice of termination of this Agreement and recapture of taxes that will provide for at least twenty-one (21) days for the payment of the previously abated taxes. If the amount of the abated ad valorem taxes becomes delinquent pursuant to the immediately preceding sentence, then penalty and interest at the rate prescribed by the Texas Tax Code for delinquent ad valorem taxes shall commence to accrue from such delinquency date until such amounts are fully paid, and, in addition, the County shall be entitled to recover attorneys' fees in accordance with the Texas Tax Code on delinquent taxes in connection with the collection of such amounts. The County's right under this Agreement to recapture abated taxes with any penalty, interest and attorney's fees if applicable as provided immediately above shall survive the amendment, revision, expiration, or termination of this Agreement. The aggregate amount of ad valorem taxes which have been abated under this Agreement, which the County has a right to recapture, together with penalty, interest and attorney's fees if applicable as provided above, shall be a lien against the against the Real Property (including the Improvements) and/or Fixed Personal Property (as assessed) in the same manner as if the taxes on the Real Property and/or Fixed Personal Property were not abated.

EASEMENT AND RIGHT OF WAY AGREEMENT

STATE OF TEXAS §
§ KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS:
COUNTY OF MONTGOMERY §

This Easement and Right of Way Agreement (the "Agreement"), is by and between MONTGOMERY COUNTY, TEXAS, A POLITICAL SUBDIVISION OF THE STATE OF TEXAS, whose address is 501 NORTH THOMPSON, SUITE 401, CONROE, TX 77301 (hereinafter referred to as "Grantor", whether one or more), and MUSTANG EXPRESS PIPELINE, LLC, with a mailing address for all correspondence at is 20329 State Highway 249, 4th Floor, Houston, Texas 77070, and its successors and assigns (such entity and its successors and assigns are collectively referred to as the "Grantee"). For the consideration of TEN AND NO/100 Dollars ($10.00) and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, Grantor does hereby GRANT, BARGAIN, SELL and CONVEY unto Grantee a non-exclusive free and unobstructed permanent easement of fifty feet (50') in width and right of way in order to, among other rights described below, construct, operate and maintain a pipeline (the "Pipeline"), with a forty two inch (42") diameter pipe and above- or below-ground appurtenant facilities as described in this Agreement, in, over, through, across, under, and along land owned by Grantor (the "Lands"), said easement route generally shown or described on Exhibit "A" attached hereto (the "Permanent Easement").

Grantor does hereby GRANT, BARGAIN, SELL and CONVEY unto Grantee (i) the temporary workspace and additional temporary workspace areas depicted on Exhibit "A" attached hereto (collectively, the "Temporary Easement Area") for purposes of constructing the Pipeline and any appurtenant facilities, and (ii) the Temporary Access Easement depicted on Exhibit "A" attached hereto (the "Temporary Access Easement") for ingress and egress by Grantee and its employees, designees, contractors, successors, assigns, and all persons acting by, through, or on behalf of Grantee, including the unobstructed passage of persons, vehicles, machinery, and equipment, together with the right to use existing roads within the Temporary Access Easement and, if necessary, construct, inspect, repair, maintain, improve, reconstruct, and use roads and related appurtenances, including ditches, culverts, and drainage facilities. The Temporary Easement Area and Temporary Access Easement are collectively referred to herein as the "Temporary Easement." The Temporary Easement shall remain in effect for twenty-four (24) months following commencement of construction on the Lands, excluding delays or interruptions caused by events beyond Grantee's control; provided, however, that the Temporary Easement shall terminate earlier upon Grantee's completion of its use thereof. All rights, duties, and obligations relating to the Temporary Easement shall apply only during the period such Temporary Easement remains in effect. The Permanent Easement and the Temporary Easement are collectively referred to herein as the "Easements."

It is further agreed as follows:

1. The right to use the Easements shall belong to Grantee and its agents, employees, designees, contractors, guests, invitees, successors and assigns, and all those acting by or on behalf of it for the purposes of establishing, laying, constructing, reconstructing, installing, realigning, modifying, replacing, improving, altering, substituting, operating, maintaining, accessing, inspecting, patrolling, protecting, repairing, relocating and changing the route of the Pipeline, and appurtenant facilities, within the Permanent Easement, abandoning in place and removing at will, in whole or in part, the Pipeline, and appurtenant facilities, for the transportation of gas, its constituents, derivatives and products, liquefied minerals (including without limitation, condensate, whether obtained from oil or gas wells), and, gas liquids or other mineral solutions (the "permitted products"), together with above- and below-ground appurtenances, equipment and facilities, including but not limited to valves, controls, cathodic protection devices, measuring and regulating facilities, communication lines, markers, signs, vent pipes, alternative current mitigation equipment, and other equipment, as may be necessary or desirable for the operation of the Pipeline, in, over, through, across, under and along the Permanent Easement.

2. Grantee shall bury the Pipeline to a minimum depth of thirty-six inches (36") below the surface of the ground and any then existing drainage ditches, creeks and roads, except that at those locations where rock is encountered, the Pipeline may be buried at a lesser depth. Further, Grantee shall have the right to construct, maintain and change slopes of cuts and fills to ensure proper lateral and subjacent support for and drainage for the Pipeline and appurtenant facilities related to this pipeline project.

3. Grantee shall have the right of ingress, egress, entry and access in, to, through, on, over, under, and across the Easements and where same intersect any public road or public right-of-way or other easement to which Grantee has the right to access and along any roads, whether existing now or in the future, on the Lands, for any and all purposes necessary and/or incident to the exercise by Grantee of the rights granted to it by this Agreement. Grantee shall promptly repair any damage to Grantor's roads and Lands caused by Grantee in the exercise of any rights granted hereby to a condition that existed prior to Grantee's use. Notwithstanding the foregoing, in case of emergency Grantee may use other portions of the Lands if Grantee determines it necessary to address the emergency. Grantee must notify Grantor as soon as reasonably possible in the event of an emergency and the extent of the Grantee's use of the Lands to address the emergency.

4. The location of the Easements on the Lands is described and depicted on Exhibit "A".

5. The consideration paid by Grantee in this Agreement includes payment for the Easements, any and all damages to Grantor's remaining property and reasonably anticipated damages caused to the surface of the Lands during the initial construction and installation of the Pipeline and the facilities, including, but not limited to, damages to growing crops and vegetation, income loss from disruption of existing agricultural production or existing leases of any kind, and damages to other facilities. The initial consideration does not cover any surface damages which may accrue from time to time to Grantor's other lands or the Easements by reason of the operation, maintenance, repair, inspection, replacement, or removal of the Pipeline. Except as otherwise provided in this Agreement, Grantee shall pay Grantor for any and all other such reasonable damages promptly as they may accrue.

6. Grantee shall have the right, without paying additional damages to Grantor as it is included in the initial consideration, to remove any fence or alter or remove any gate that now crosses or may cross the Easements during initial construction of the Pipeline and the Facilities or thereafter. Prior to cutting any fence, however, Grantee shall brace the existing fence to be cut adequately on both sides of the proposed cut by suitable H-braces to prevent the remainder of the fence from sagging. Before the fence wire is cut, it is to be attached to the posts in a manner that there will be no slackening of or damage to the wire. Each such wire gap is to be reinforced so as to be strong enough to deter livestock from passing through same. Upon completion of initial construction operations, each wire gap will be removed and at Grantee's sole option replaced with (i) fencing of the same or better grade and condition as existed before Grantee cut and gapped same or (ii) a permanent gate, which gate shall, to the extent reasonably practicable, be constructed out of similar or better grade materials than already used for existing non-ornamental gates on the Lands. In the event Grantee does not repair and/or restore the fences or gates, Grantee shall, in addition to the consideration paid for this Agreement, pay Grantor for any damage caused by Grantee to the gates and fences. Each entry and exit gate shall be securely closed and locked, except when Grantee or its authorized personnel are actually passing through same.

7. Grantor may use the Easements for any and all purposes not inconsistent with the purposes set forth in this Agreement. Grantor may not use any part of the Easements if such use may damage, destroy, injure, and/or interfere with Grantee's use of the Easements for the purposes for which the Easements are being sought by Grantee. Except with Grantee's prior written permission, which permission will not be unreasonably withheld, Grantor is not permitted to conduct any of the following activities on the Easements: (1) construct any temporary or permanent building or site improvements; (2) drill or operate any well on the Easements but a well can be directionally drilled under the Easements subject to the terms of Paragraph 9; (3) remove soil or change the grade or slope; (4) impound surface water; or (5) plant trees or landscaping in the Permanent Easement with roots deeper than sixteen inches (16"). Grantor further agrees that no above- or below-ground obstruction that may interfere with the purposes for which this Agreement is being acquired may be placed, erected, installed or permitted upon the Easements without the prior written permission of Grantee. Grantor, Grantor's heirs, successors and assigns shall have the right, after at least forty-five (45) days' prior written notice to Grantee and review and approval by Grantee thereof, to construct, reconstruct or maintain streets, sidewalks, roads or drives, road ditches, drainage ditches, pipelines, and utilities, at any angle of not less than forty-five (45) degrees to Grantee's Pipeline over and across the Permanent Easement, provided that all of Grantee's required and applicable spacing and crossing guidelines, including, without limitation, depth separation limits and other protective requirements are met by Grantor, and provided further that Grantee's access up and down the Permanent Easement is not interfered with. In the event the terms of this paragraph are violated, such violation shall immediately be eliminated upon receipt of written notice from Grantee. Additionally, Grantee shall have the immediate right to correct or eliminate such violation at the sole risk and expense of Grantor. Grantor shall promptly reimburse Grantee for any expenses or costs related thereto. Grantor further agrees that it will not hereafter interfere in any manner with the purposes for which the Easements are conveyed, and that Grantee shall have the right to remove any improvement, facility or structure that interferes with the purposes for which this Agreement is granted and which is installed by Grantor subsequent to the date that Grantee acquires possession of the Easements, without liability to Grantor for damages. Grantor agrees that before performing any excavation work within the Easements, it will satisfy all Texas one-call requirements.

8. Grantor, its agents, representatives, and employees shall have the right to enter the Easements at any reasonable time (or any time in case of an emergency) for purposes of inspection, repair, and any other purpose necessary to protect Grantor's interests therein. Except in the event of an emergency, in which case no notice is required by Grantor, if Grantor reasonably believes that a repair is necessary to protect the health and safety of the public, the environment, or the value of Grantor's property, Grantor shall give Grantee reasonable prior written notice of the necessary repair. If Grantor gives such notice, and Grantee does not initiate immediate action to pursue to completion such repair with diligence, Grantor may, but shall not be obligated to, undertake that repair, all costs of which shall be immediately due and payable by Grantee on Grantor's demand. This section is for the sole purpose of providing a mechanism for Grantor to respond to a situation in which immediate action is required to protect the County and/or public interest and such immediate action has not been initiated by or on behalf of Grantee.

9. Grantee, has the right, without paying any damages to Grantor, to mow and/or trim or cut down or eliminate any trees or shrubbery from the Easements and, thereafter, from time to time, without paying any damages to Grantor, on the Easements (with respect to the Temporary Easement, only while it remains in effect), to prevent, in Grantee's sole judgment, possible interference with the operation and maintenance of the Pipeline and the Facilities and/or to remove possible hazard thereto, and the right to remove or prevent the construction of, any and all buildings, structures, reservoirs or other obstructions on the Easements (the Temporary Easement only while in effect) which, in the sole judgment of Grantee, may endanger or interfere with the efficiency, safety, or convenient operation and maintenance of the Pipeline, the Facilities, and other appurtenances or access along the Permanent Easement. All trees and brush removed during construction and other debris generated during construction shall be burned and/or chipped and spread on the Easements or removed to a disposal site. The method of disposal shall be selected by Grantee.

10. Grantor shall retain all the oil, gas, and other minerals in, on and under the Easements; provided, however, that Grantor shall not be permitted to drill or operate equipment for the production or development of oil, gas, and other minerals on the Easements, but it will be permitted to extract the oil, gas, and other minerals from and under the Easements by directional drilling and other means, provided the drill bit enters the Easements at a subsurface depth of twenty feet (20') or deeper and so long as such activities do not damage, destroy, injure, and/or interfere with Grantee's use of the Easements for the purposes for which the Easements are being sought by Grantee.

11. Grantee shall not use or permit the use of the Premises for any illegal purpose. Grantee agrees to comply in all respects, at its sole cost, with all applicable federal, state and local laws, rules, and regulations which are applicable to Grantee's activities hereunder, including without limitation, the construction, use, operation, maintenance, repair and service of Grantee's Pipeline, the Facilities, and other appurtenances.

12. Grantee will restore the ground disturbed by Grantee's use of the Easements to as near its original condition as reasonably practicable (except as otherwise more specifically set forth in this Agreement), restore any roads within the Temporary Access Easement damaged by Grantee's use of such areas to as near their original condition as reasonably possible, reseed areas disturbed by Grantee (except as otherwise set forth in this Agreement) and maintain the Easements in a manner consistent with the purposes for which the Easements are acquired. Grantee agrees that, as part of its restoration obligations, Grantee shall reseed the Temporary Easement Area located along the southern boundary of the Easements with a pollinator plant seed mix reasonably appropriate for the local environment and growing conditions.

13. All of Grantee's construction debris shall be cleaned up and removed from the Lands at regular intervals during the term of the Temporary Easement and upon completion of installation and construction of the Pipeline, associated equipment and appurtenances thereto. Grantor shall notify Grantee in writing of any violation of this paragraph. Grantee shall remedy such violation within ten (10) days of receipt of such written notice.

14. Except for temporary fencing that may be used during construction activities, Grantee will not fence or enclose the Easements. Any temporary fencing erected by Grantee shall be removed by the termination of the Temporary Easement.

15. Grantee shall use the Easements solely for the purposes specified in this Agreement. There shall be no hunting or fishing on the Easements or any of Grantor's lands by Grantee, its officers, agents, employees, contractors, invitees, guests or representatives at any time. Except as may be required for security personnel, there shall be no firearms brought on the Easements or any of Grantor's lands by Grantee, its officers, agents, employees, contractors, invitees, guests or representatives at any time.

16. This Agreement may be executed in several counterparts, and original signatures may be compiled into the same instrument to avoid unnecessary duplication and be binding upon the parties who executed any counterpart, regardless of whether it is executed by all parties named herein.

17. Grantee shall have the right to assign this Agreement, in whole or in part, in which event Grantor acknowledges and agrees that the assignee shall succeed to the rights and obligations of Grantee to the extent conveyed in such assignment, and Grantee shall be relieved of obligations with respect to the assigned interest which accrue after the date of assignment.

18. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement and supersedes any and all prior oral understandings and/or agreements, if any, concerning the subject of this Agreement. Grantor confirms and agrees that Grantor has been made no promise or agreement by Grantee or any agent of Grantee (which is not expressed or referenced specifically within the Agreement) in executing this Agreement, that Grantor is not relying upon any statement or representation of Grantee or any agent of Grantee and that Grantor's execution of this Agreement is free and voluntary; this Agreement may not be modified or amended except on or after the date hereof by a writing signed by the party against whom said modification or amendment is to be enforced and no party shall be liable or bound to any other party in any manner except as specifically set forth herein.

19. Grantor hereby identifies the following as people or entities having a lease, sublease, or other possessory interest in Grantor's property:

Bayou Lands Conservancy
8801 Gosling Road
Spring, Texas 77381

(if this paragraph is left blank, then Grantor represents there are no such persons or entities).

20. GRANTOR HAS NOT RELIED UPON AND HEREBY EXPRESSLY DISCLAIMS RELIANCE UPON ANY STATEMENTS, REPRESENTATIONS, INFORMATION OR MATERIALS PROVIDED, SUPPLIED OR FURNISHED BY GRANTEE OR OTHERWISE MADE AVAILABLE BY GRANTEE IN THE PUBLIC DOMAIN OR OTHERWISE (OTHER THAN THOSE MADE IN THIS AGREEMENT).

21. It is agreed that this Agreement shall not be filed in any public records. In lieu of filing this Agreement for record, Grantor and Grantee agree that a memorandum of this Agreement making appropriate reference hereto shall be filed for record in the county wherein the property is located. In the event of any conflict between recitations contained in such memorandum and those contained herein, the provisions of this Agreement shall control.

22. If Grantee shall cease to use the pipeline for a period of two consecutive years for any of the purposes herein granted, then Grantee's rights hereunder shall cease. Upon termination of this Easement Agreement, Grantee shall, within sixty (60) days of termination, sever and plug the Pipeline at the boundary of the property and abandon the Pipeline in place. Upon abandonment, said pipe shall become the property of the Grantor and Grantor may freely sell the pipe to third parties.

23. Grantee shall maintain the Easement area in good condition, removing therefrom all debris and refuse which may be the product of any maintenance or construction work by Grantee on the premises and shall not cause holes, depressions, ruts or erosion on the premises.

24. Grantee shall install temporary erosion controls immediately after the initial disturbance of the soil and maintain through construction. Grantee shall restore to original elevation, as nearly as reasonably practicable, and shall cause re-vegetation and or rip rap work (as mutually agreed to by Grantor and Grantee) to be performed on any ditch or stream banks damaged by the construction, maintenance, operation, repair, inspection, replacement or removal of the Pipeline under, across, and through the Lands.

25. Grantee agrees to restore any roads, driveways and crossings disturbed by its operations hereunder. Said roads, driveways and crossings shall be restored to the same state or better than existed immediately prior to Grantee's operations.

26. GRANTEE SHALL INDEMNIFY, DEFEND AND HOLD HARMLESS GRANTOR AGAINST ALL CLAIMS, SUITS, LIABILITIES AND EXPENSES ON ACCOUNT OF INJURY OR DEATH OF PERSONS OR DAMAGES TO PROPERTY RESULTING FROM ITS EXERCISE OF THE RIGHTS HEREIN GRANTED, EXCEPT TO THE EXTENT THAT THE INJURY, DISEASE, DEATH OR DAMAGE IS CAUSED BY THE SOLE NEGLIGENCE OR WILLFUL MISCONDUCT OF GRANTOR, ITS EMPLOYEES, CONTRACTORS, OR AGENTS.

27. Grantee shall remove the surface soil separately for the full width of the pipe trench and replace that soil on the top of the backfill over the pipe trench to the extent possible as part of the initial pipeline construction procedures. Grantee shall have the right to use the additional workspace that is reasonably needed to separate the soil.

28. Prior to any construction, installation, repair or other activities on the Easements or Lands, Grantee shall provide written notice of all the terms of this agreement relating to the particular activity of any contractor and/or agent involved in such activities.

29. Grantee shall comply with all current and reasonably foreseeable future Federal, State and Local laws, ordinances, rules and regulations insofar as they pertain to Grantee's use of the Easements and Lands, including those cases where such current and future laws, ordinances, rules and regulations require repairs, alterations, changes or additions to the Easements. In addition, Grantee shall comply with all future health, safety and environmental laws, ordinances, rules and regulations and, except for the Permitted Products, shall not cause or allow any Hazardous Substances (as defined in applicable federal, state and local regulations), toxic trash, garbage or waste to be placed, discarded, stored, treated, disposed of, discharged, released, manufactured, generated, refined, brought upon or used on or beneath the Easements or Lands by Grantee, or any of its agents, employees, contractors, subcontractors or any other person. In the event of a release or leakage of Hazardous Substances from the pipeline, Grantee shall be strictly liable for all damages or claims related thereto and shall indemnify Grantor, its successors and assigns as set forth in the indemnity provisions contained in Section 26 herein. THIS INDEMNITY SHALL APPLY EVEN IN THE EVENT OF THE GRANTOR'S CONCURRENT NEGLIGENCE, BUT THIS INDEMNITY SHALL NOT APPLY IN THE EVENT OF GRANTOR'S SOLE OR GROSS NEGLIGENCE OR INTENTIONAL MISCONDUCT. Grantee shall give notice to the Grantor immediately upon Grantee's or Grantee's employees', agents', contractors', or subcontractors' receipt of any notice of a violation of any laws, ordinances, rules or regulations concerning Hazardous Substances and forthwith conduct remediation necessary to comply with such laws.

30. Insurance: Grantee shall include "Montgomery County, Texas" as an additional insured and/or as loss payee on all insurance policies covering the easement and its operations thereon. Grantee shall fully cooperate with County in the event of a necessity for claim hereunder.

AT&T TEXAS/SBC FACILITIES
The locations of AT&T Texas/SWBT Facilities are shown in an approximate way only. The contractor shall determine the exact location before commencing work. He agrees to be fully responsible for any and all damages which might be occasioned by his failure to exactly locate and preserve these underground utilities.

The contractor shall call 1-800-344-8377 a minimum of 48 hours prior to construction to have underground lines field located.

When excavating within eighteen inches (18") of the indicated location of AT&T Texas/SWBT Facilities, all excavations must be accomplished using non-mechanized excavation procedures. When boring, the contractor shall expose the AT&T Texas/SWBT Facilities.

When AT&T Texas/SWBT Facilities are exposed, the contractor will provide support to prevent damage to the conduit ducts or cables. When excavating near telephone poles the contractor shall brace the pole for support.

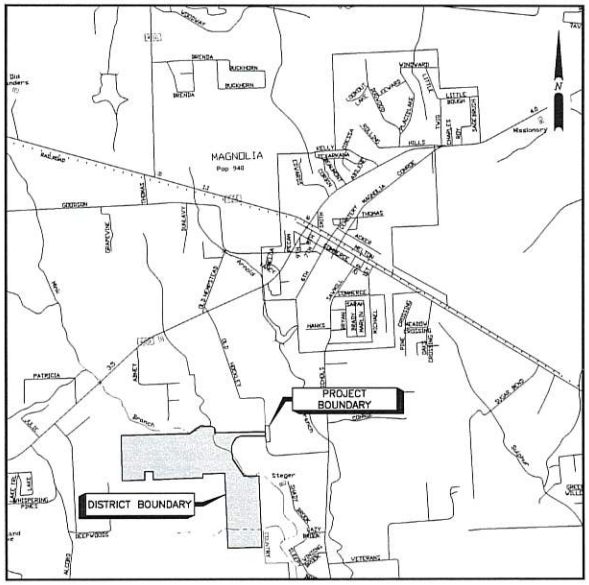
The presence or absence of AT&T Texas/SWBT Facilities underground conduit facilities or buried cable facilities on these plans does not mean that there are no direct buried cables or other cables in conduit in the area.

Please contact the AT&T Texas Damage Prevention Manager, Mr. Roosevelt Lee Jr., at (713)567-4552 or email him at rl7259@att.com, if there are questions about boring or excavation near our AT&T Texas/SWBT facilities.

CAUTION: UNDERGROUND GAS FACILITIES

Locations of CenterPoint Energy main lines (to include CenterPoint Energy, Intrastate Pipeline, LLC. where applicable) are shown in an approximate location only. Service lines are usually not shown. Our signature on these plans only indicates that our facilities are shown in approximate location. It does not imply that a conflict analysis has been made. The contractor shall contact the Utility Coordinating Committee at (713) 223-4567 or 1-800-669-8344 a minimum of 48 hours prior to construction to have main and service lines field located.

- When CenterPoint Energy pipe line markings are not visible, call (713) 967-8037 (7:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.) for status of line location request before excavation begins.
- When excavating within eighteen inches (18") of the indicated location of CenterPoint Energy facilities, all excavation must be accomplished using non- mechanized excavation procedures.
- When CenterPoint Energy facilities are exposed, sufficient support must be provided to the facilities to prevent excessive stress on the piping.



The contractor is fully responsible for any damages caused by the contractor's failure to exactly locate and preserve these underground facilities.

WARNING: OVERHEAD ELECTRICAL FACILITIES

Overhead lines may exist on the property. The location of overhead lines has not been shown on these drawings since they are clearly visible, but you should locate them prior to beginning any construction. Texas law, Section 752, Health & Safety Code forbids all activities that occur in close proximity to high voltage lines, specifically:

- Any activity where person or things may come within six (6) feet of live overhead high voltage lines; and
- Operating a crane, derrick, power shovel, drilling rig, pile driver, hoisting equipment, or similar apparatus within 10 feet of live overhead high voltage lines.

Parties responsible for work, including contractors, are legally responsible for safety of construction workers under this law. This law carries both criminal and civil liability. To arrange for lines to be turned off or removed call Entergy Energy at (281) 636-3109.

(1) The proper installation of the first cross pipe is critical for vehicle safety. Place the top of the first cross pipe no more than 6" above the flow line.

(2) Provide cross pipes, except the first bottom pipe, of the size shown in the table. Provide a 3 1#2" standard pipe (4" O.D.) for the first bottom pipe.

(3) Install the third cross pipe from the bottom of the culvert using a bolted connection. Ensure that riprap concrete does not flow into the cross pipe so as to permit disassembly of the bolted connection to allow cleanout access. At the Contractor's option, install all other cross pipes using the bolted connection details.

(4) Match cross slope as shown elsewhere in the plans. Cross slope of 6:1 or flatter is required for vehicle safety.

(5) Riprap placed beyond the limits shown will be paid for as concrete riprap in accordance with Item 432, "Riprap."

(6) Quantities shown are for one end of one reinforced concrete pipe (RCP) culvert. For multiple pipe culverts or for corrugated metal pipe (CMP) culverts, quantities will need to be adjusted. Riprap quantities are for contractor's information only.

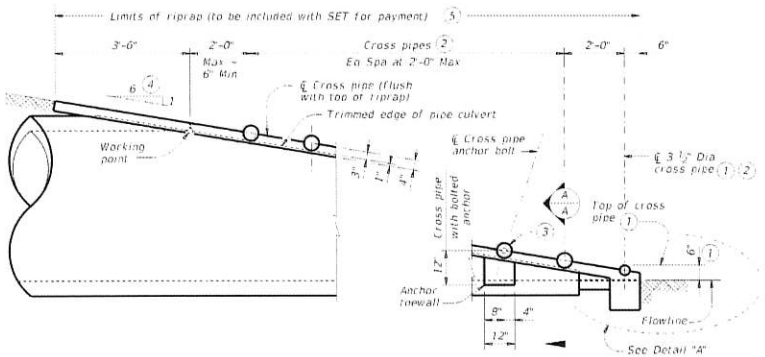
MATERIAL NOTES:

Synthetic fibers listed on the "Fibers for Concrete" Material Producer List (MPL) may be used in lieu of steel reinforcing in riprap concrete unless noted otherwise.

Provide cross pipes that meet the requirements of ASTM A53 (Type E or S, Gr B), ASTM A500 (Gr B), or API 5LX52.

Provide ASTM A307 bolts and nuts.

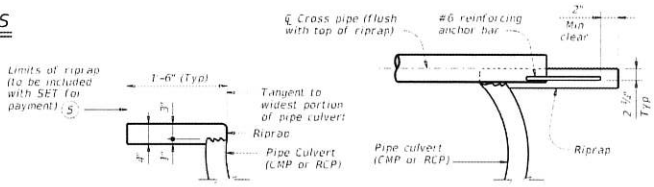
Galvanize all steel components, except concrete reinforcing, after fabrication. Repair galvanizing damaged during transport or construction in accordance with the specifications.



GENERAL NOTES:

Cross pipes are designed for a traversing load of 10,000 pounds at yield as recommended by Research Report 280-2F, "Safety Treatment of Roadside Parallel-Drainage Structures", Texas Transportation Institute, March 1981.

Safety end treatments (SET) shown herein are intended for use in those installations where out of control vehicles are likely to traverse the openings approximately perpendicular to the cross pipes.



Construct concrete riprap and all necessary inverts in accordance with the requirements of Item 432, "Riprap."

Payment for riprap and toewall is included in the Price Bid for each Safety End Treatment.

AGREEMENT REGARDING IMPROVEMENTS TO BE CONSTRUCTED WITHIN RIGHTS-OF-WAY AND/OR USE OF NON-STANDARD CONSTRUCTION MATERIALS FOR ROADWAYS AND STREETS

(Sherbrooke Development)

STATE OF TEXAS §
§
COUNTY OF MONTGOMERY §

This Agreement Regarding Improvements to be Constructed within Rights-of-Way and/or Use of Non-Standard Construction Materials for Roadways and Streets (the "Agreement") is made by and between MONTGOMERY COUNTY, TEXAS, a political subdivision of the State of Texas (the "County"), and SOUTHEAST REGIONAL MANAGEMENT DISTRICT, a political subdivision of the State of Texas (the "District"). The County and District may each be referred to herein collectively as the "Parties" and individually as a "Party."

RECITALS

WHEREAS, the District was created and operates pursuant to Chapter 3891 of the Texas Special District Local Laws Code, and Chapters 49 and 54 of the Texas Water Code, and is authorized to finance, develop and maintain road facilities for the District; and

WHEREAS, a third party is developing and constructing Sherbrooke, a residential master-planned community located within the boundaries of the District and in Precinct No. 2, Montgomery County, Texas, as described on Exhibit A attached hereto (the "Development"); and

WHEREAS, the third-party developer desires to build and establish certain improvements in various rights-of-way, such as custom street signs, monuments, landscaping, irrigation, signage, sidewalks, and other above-surface and below-surface structures (the "Improvements"), to be wholly or partially contained in various right-of-way to be platted as part of the Development, or to use non-standard materials, such as pavers, as part of streets (the "Materials"); and

WHEREAS, the third-party developer desires to incorporate the Improvements and the Materials in the construction of the streets, roadways, and/or sidewalks of one or more phases of the Development in a cohesive manner and as part of an overall plan of design and development of the Development: and

WHEREAS, the Parties anticipate that the streets and roadways in the Development will be accepted into the County Road Maintenance System (the "County System") upon the third-party developer's compliance with the County standards and procedures; and

WHEREAS, the District and County desire to provide for the future maintenance, repair and replacement of the Improvements and/or Materials after acceptance of the streets and roads in the Development into the County System, and to further provide for the County's approval of the Improvements and Materials in future sections and/or phases of the Development.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises, representations and obligations assumed by this Agreement, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, County and District agree as follows:

TERMS

1. After the third-party developer's completion of the installation of the Improvements and/or Materials and after County's acceptance of the street, road and/or right-of-way into the County System, District shall be solely responsible for the maintenance of the Improvements and, if applicable, the replacement of the Materials. District warrants, covenants and agrees that County shall have no responsibility for the maintenance or repair of the Improvements or the maintenance or repair of the Materials. District's rights and obligations created in this Paragraph 1 may be transferred, assigned and delegated to one or more property owners associations for the Development or a special district organized under the laws of the State of Texas only with County's consent, which consent will not be unreasonably withheld or delayed. Upon assignment to any such property owners association and/or special district, the assignee shall become fully responsible for all obligations of District under this Agreement.

2. The District agrees to make necessary repairs to the Improvements and/or Materials as soon as reasonably practicable. Should the deficiencies requiring such repairs reasonably endanger the public, the District shall implement appropriate interim safety measures until it can provide such maintenance and/or make the necessary repairs. In performing maintenance and repair work, the District shall follow required safety measures and shall take appropriate steps to prevent damage to persons and property resulting from conditions for which the District is responsible for repairing and maintaining, both pending and during repair and maintenance.

3. The terms of this Agreement will control and be deemed to apply to any roads in the Development to the extent that a third-party developer has previously installed Improvements or Materials within the right-of-way of any road or roads that have been accepted by County. By its execution of this Agreement, District agrees to such conditions and acknowledges that County would not have entered into this Agreement unless the terms hereof apply to all roads and rights-of-way within the Development.

4. In consideration of the District entering into this Agreement, the County agrees that it shall not refuse to (i) accept the streets or roads into the County System solely as a result of the construction of the Improvements or installation of Materials, and (ii) approve the installation of the Improvements or Materials if installed in accordance with the approved drawing or diagram, in accordance with the procedures below. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, prior to new construction of any Improvements or new installation of any Materials on a street or road that has been accepted into the County System, District shall submit for review and approval by County a summary of any and all proposed Improvements and/or Materials to be installed within the County road right-of-way. Where practical, such submission shall include a drawing or diagram showing the location and nature of the Improvement to be constructed together with the Materials to be used therein. No such construction or installation shall proceed without the express written approval of the County Engineer's Office at 501 N. Thompson, Suite 103, Conroe, Texas 77301, phone (936) 539-7833, fax: (936) 539-7802, which such approval shall not be unreasonably delayed or withheld.

5. After acceptance of the streets and roadways in the Development into the County System, and in the event County may find it necessary to make roadway improvements within the right-of-way occupied by any Improvement or in which any Materials are installed, the County may alter or remove such Improvement and/or Material; provided, however, that the County shall provide notice to the District at least thirty (30) days prior to any such alteration or removal. District shall be solely responsible for the County's cost of removal of any such Improvements and/or the additional cost of repair required by the installation of the Materials instead of the County's standard required materials. The County agrees that the District may replace, repair or reconstruct such Improvement and/or Material altered or removed by the County pursuant to this Paragraph 5, at the District's sole cost and expense, subject to approval by the County in accordance with Paragraph 4; otherwise, upon complete removal of an Improvement and/or Material, the District's maintenance responsibility shall end for such removed Improvement and/or Material. After acceptance of the streets and roadways in the Development into the County System, and should the County, based upon generally accepted traffic engineering principals, determine that the Improvements (or parts thereof), proposed or existing, within the right-of-way constitute an unusual threat to public road traffic and/or any Materials installed within the right-of-way constitute an unusual threat to public road traffic, then, upon written notice to District by County, District shall, at District 's sole cost and expense, remove the respective Improvements (or part thereof) and/or Materials from the County road right-of-way as soon as reasonably practicable.

6. After acceptance of the streets and roadways in the Development into the County System, District shall have authority to oversee and monitor other improvements within the road rights-of-ways second only to County. After acceptance into the County System, County shall retain exclusive authority to enter into agreements authorizing placement of improvements within said right-of-way and if such an agreement is entered into, District shall have no obligation, responsibility, or liability for the area defined in the separate agreement. District's rights and obligations created in this Paragraph 6 may be transferred, assigned, or delegated to one or more property owners associations for the Development or a special district organized under the laws of the State of Texas only with County's consent, which consent will not be unreasonably withheld.

7. If the County believes the District has failed to perform its maintenance or repair duties pursuant to this Agreement, then the County shall notify the District in writing of how the County believes the District has failed to perform its maintenance or repair duties and give the District sixty (60) calendar days to cure any such failure. If the District has not taken reasonable steps to cure such failure within the 60-day period, then the County may, in its sole discretion, (i) require the District to alter, reduce, replace, remove or otherwise change the Improvements and/or Materials at the District's sole cost and expense, or (ii) terminate this Agreement.

8. County reserves the right to uniformly change the minimum specifications, standards, requirements, and/or design criteria for (a) streets and roadways and (b) subdivision development, and nothing contained in this Agreement may be interpreted or considered to allow District to deviate from such specifications, standards, requirements, and/or design criteria which the County may enact in the future. To such end and to the extent allowed by law, District hereby waives and relinquishes any and all rights, privileges, or benefits pursuant to Texas Local Government Code Chapter 245 or its successor statutes or other similar statutes (the "Vested Rights Statutes") and does hereby represent, warrant, covenant, and agree that this Agreement does not create any vested rights in District. District further acknowledges that County is expressly relying upon the provisions of this paragraph and that County would not enter into this Agreement except for District's waiver and relinquishment of any rights under Vested Rights Statutes and District's acknowledgement that this Agreement does not create any vested rights in District, its successors, and assigns.

9. Nothing contained in this Agreement requires or will be construed to require County to accept any street or road (or any part thereof) in the Development into the County System unless and until such streets and/or roads (and all such pertinent parts thereof) meet County standards then in effect and County affirmatively accepts such streets or roads by action of the Commissioners Court of Montgomery County, Texas.

10. TO THE EXTENT ALLOWED BY LAW, DISTRICT SHALL INDEMNIFY AND HOLD COUNTY HARMLESS FROM ANY AND ALL CLAIMS, SUITS, OR CAUSES OF ACTION, WHETHER FOR PERSONAL INJURY OR PROPERTY DAMAGE, ARISING OUT OF OR RELATED TO ANY ACTION OR FAILURE TO ACT BY DISTRICT AND ITS OFFICERS, AGENTS, EMPLOYEES, SUCCESSORS, OR ASSIGNS WITH RESPECT TO THE MAINTENANCE AND REPAIR OF THE IMPROVEMENTS AND MATERIALS. DISTRICT FURTHER AGREES TO PROCURE AND MAINTAIN LIABILITY INSURANCE WITH COVERAGE FOR PERSONAL INJURIES AND PROPERTY DAMAGE WITH LIMITS OF LIABILITY OF NOT LESS THAN ONE MILLION AND 00/100 DOLLARS ($1,000,000.00) COVERING THE IMPROVEMENTS AND MATERIALS AND TO FURNISH A CERTIFICATE OF INSURANCE FOR THE SAME SHOWING MONTGOMERY COUNTY AS AN ADDITIONAL INSURED; PROVIDED, HOWEVER, THAT AT ANY TIME WHILE ANY CONTRACTOR ENGAGED IN CONSTRUCTION WORK SHALL BE FULLY RESPONSIBLE FOR AND INSURED IN CONNECTION WITH THE CONSTRUCTION WORK, THE DISTRICT SHALL NOT BE REQUIRED TO CARRY INSURANCE ON THAT CONSTRUCTION WORK. IN SUCH CASE, THE DISTRICT SHALL REQUIRE ANY CONTRACTOR ENGAGED IN CONSTRUCTION WORK TO PROCURE, CARRY AND MAINTAIN THE INSURANCE COVERAGE SET FORTH IN THIS PARAGRAPH 10.

11. TO THE EXTENT ALLOWED BY LAW, DISTRICT SHALL ADDITIONALLY INDEMNIFY AND HOLD COUNTY HARMLESS FROM ANY AND ALL COSTS OF REPAIR AND/OR REPLACEMENT OF ANY STREET, ROAD, BRIDGE, DRAINAGE STRUCTURE OR OTHER PORTION OF THE RIGHT-OF-WAY DIRECTLY DAMAGED BY THE FAILURE, REPAIR OR REPLACEMENT OF ANY IMPROVEMENT OR MATERIAL WHETHER OR NOT THE DAMAGE TO THE STREET, ROAD, BRIDGE, DRAINAGE STRUCTURE OR OTHER PORTION OF THE RIGHT-OF-WAY OCCURS BEFORE OR AFTER ACCEPTANCE OF THE STREET OR ROAD INTO THE COUNTY SYSTEM.

12. (High Meadow West)

STATE OF TEXAS §
§
COUNTY OF MONTGOMERY §

This Agreement Regarding Improvements to be Constructed within Rights-of-Way and/or Use of Non-Standard Construction Materials for Roadways and Streets (the "Agreement") is made by and between MONTGOMERY COUNTY, TEXAS, a political subdivision of the State of Texas (the "County"), HIGH MEADOW DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, LLC, a Texas limited liability company (the "Developer"), and the HIGH MEADOW WEST PROPERTY OWNERS ASSOCIATION, a Texas nonprofit corporation (the "Association") (County, Developer and Association hereinafter collectively referred to as "Parties"), to be effective on the date this Agreement is signed by County, and is as follows:

RECITALS

WHEREAS, the High Meadow West development is located in the Joseph M. Robinson Survey, Abstract No. 450, the Joseph B. Artoff Survey, Abstract No. 56, and the Noah Griffith Survey, Abstract No. 16, Precinct No. 2, Montgomery County, Texas, as described in various plats recorded in the Map Records of Montgomery County, Texas (hereinafter the "Development"); and

WHEREAS, Developer desires to build and establish certain improvements in various rights-of-way located in High Meadow West, including enhanced guardrails, monument signs, landscaping, irrigation, sidewalks, stamped or stained concrete pavement and other above-surface and below-surface structures (the "Improvements") to be wholly or partially contained in various rights-of-way platted as part of High Meadow West, or to use non-standard materials such as stamped or stained concrete as part of streets (the "Materials"); and

WHEREAS, Developer desires to incorporate the Improvements and the Materials in the construction of the streets, roadways, and/or sidewalks of one or more phases of the Development in a cohesive manner and as part of an overall plan of design and development of the Development, and

WHEREAS, the Parties anticipate that the streets and roadways in the Development will be accepted into the County Road Maintenance System (the "County System") upon compliance with the County standards and procedures; and

WHEREAS, the Parties desire to provide for the future maintenance and replacement of the Improvements and/or Materials after acceptance, if any, of the streets and roads in the Development into the County System and to further provide for the County's approval of the Improvements and Materials in future sections and/or phases of the Development.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises, representations and obligations assumed by this Agreement, Developer, County and Association agree as follows:

TERMS

1. Developer and Association are solely responsible for the installation and maintenance of the Improvements and Materials. After completion of the installation of the Improvements and/or Materials and notwithstanding County's acceptance of the street, road and/or right-of-way into the County System, Association shall remain solely responsible for the maintenance of the Improvements and, if applicable, the replacement of the Materials. Developer and Association warrant, covenant and agree that County shall have no responsibility for the maintenance or repair of the Improvements or the maintenance or repair of the Materials. Developer's and Association's rights and obligations created in this paragraph 1 may be transferred, assigned and delegated to a special district organized under the laws of the State of Texas only with County's consent which consent will not be unreasonably withheld. Upon assignment to any such special district, the assignee shall become fully responsible for all obligations of Developer and Association under this Agreement.

2. The terms of this Agreement will control and be deemed to apply to any roads in the Development to the extent that Developer has previously installed Improvements or Materials within the right-of-way of any road or roads that have been accepted by County. By its execution of this Agreement, Developer agrees to such conditions and acknowledges that County would not have entered into this Agreement unless the terms hereof apply to all roads and rights-of-way within the Development.

3. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, prior to construction of any Improvements or installation of any Materials on a street or road that has been accepted into the County System, Developer shall submit for review and approval by County, a summary of any and all proposed Improvements and/or Materials to be installed within the County road right-of-way. Where practical, such submission shall include a drawing or diagram showing the location and nature of the Improvement to be constructed together with the materials to be used therein. No such construction or installation shall proceed without the express written approval of the County Engineer's Office at 501 N. Thompson, Suite 103, Conroe, Texas 77301, phone (936) 539-7833.

4. After acceptance into the County System, if the same occurs, and in the event County may find it necessary to make roadway improvements within the right-of-way occupied by any Improvement or in which any Materials are installed, Association shall be solely responsible for the cost of removal of any such Improvements and/or the additional cost of repair required by the installation of the Materials instead of the County's standard required materials. After acceptance into the County System, if the same occurs, and should the County, based upon generally accepted traffic engineering principals, determine that the Improvements (or parts thereof), proposed or existing, within the right-of-way constitute an unusual threat to public road traffic and/or any Materials installed within the right-of-way constitute an unusual threat to public road traffic, then Association shall immediately, and at Association's sole cost and expense, remove the respective Improvements (or part thereof) and/or Materials from the County road right-of-way.

5. After acceptance into the County System, Association shall have authority to oversee and monitor Improvements within the rights-of-ways second only to County. After acceptance into the County System, County shall retain exclusive authority to enter into agreements authorizing placement of improvements within said right-of-way and if such an agreement is entered into, Association shall have no obligation, responsibility, or liability for the area defined in the separate agreement. Association's rights and obligations created in this paragraph 5 may be transferred, assigned, or delegated to a special district organized under the laws of the State of Texas only with County's consent, which consent will not be unreasonably withheld.

6. County reserves the right to uniformly change the minimum specifications, standards, requirements, and/or design criteria for (a) streets and roadways and (b) subdivision development, and nothing contained in this Agreement may be interpreted or considered to allow Developer to deviate from such specifications, standards, requirements, and/or design criteria which the County may enact in the future. To such end and to the extent allowed by law, Developer hereby waives and relinquishes any and all rights, privileges, or benefits pursuant to Texas Local Government Code Chapter 245 or its successor statutes or other similar statutes (the "Vested Rights Statutes") and does hereby represent, warrant, covenant, and agree that this Agreement does not create any vested rights in Developer. Developer further acknowledges that County is expressly relying upon the provisions of this paragraph and that County would not enter into this Agreement except for Developer's waiver and relinquishment of any rights under Vested Rights Statutes and Developer's acknowledgement that this Agreement does not create any vested rights in Developer, its successors, and assigns.

7. Nothing contained in this Agreement requires or will be construed to require County to accept any street or road (or any part thereof) in the Development into the County System unless and until such streets and/or roads (and all such pertinent parts thereof) meet County standards then in effect and County affirmatively accepts such streets or roads by action of the Commissioners Court of Montgomery County, Texas.

8. Developer warrants, covenants, and agrees that all streets and roads will be constructed in accordance with the then-current County standards. Developer warrants that all Materials will be of equal or greater strength and suitability as the then-current standards for County roads contained in County's standard requirements. Developer will transfer and assign, and by this Agreement transfers and assigns, to County all product warranties relating to the respective Materials upon County's acceptance of the roads, or any part thereof, in the respective sections of the Development. County will re-assign the applicable warranty or warranties to Developer and/or Association should it be necessary for Developer or Association to replace any Materials.

9. DEVELOPER AND ASSOCIATION SHALL INDEMNIFY AND HOLD COUNTY HARMLESS FROM ANY AND ALL CLAIMS, SUITS, OR CAUSES OF ACTION, WHETHER FOR PERSONAL INJURY OR PROPERTY DAMAGE, ARISING

OUT OF OR RELATED TO ANY ACTION OR FAILURE TO ACT BY DEVELOPER AND ASSOCIATION, THEIR OFFICERS, AGENTS, EMPLOYEES, SUCCESSORS, OR ASSIGNS WITH RESPECT TO THE DESIGN, CONSTRUCTION, OPERATION, OR MAINTENANCE OF THE IMPROVEMENTS AND MATERIALS. DEVELOPER AND ASSOCIATION FURTHER AGREE TO PROCURE AND MAINTAIN LIABILITY INSURANCE WITH COVERAGE FOR PERSONAL INJURIES AND PROPERTY DAMAGE WITH LIMITS OF LIABILITY OF NOT LESS THAN ONE MILLION AND 00/100 DOLLARS ($1,000,000.00) COVERING THE IMPROVEMENTS AND MATERIALS AND TO FURNISH A CERTIFICATE OF INSURANCE FOR THE SAME SHOWING MONTGOMERY COUNTY AS AN ADDITIONAL INSURED.

10. DEVELOPER AND ASSOCIATION SHALL ADDITIONALLY INDEMNIFY AND HOLD COUNTY HARMLESS FROM ANY AND ALL COSTS OF REPAIR AND/OR REPLACEMENT OF ANY STREET, ROAD, BRIDGE, DRAINAGE STRUCTURE OR OTHER PORTION OF THE RIGHT-OF-WAY DAMAGED BY THE FAILURE, REPAIR OR REPLACEMENT OF ANY IMPROVEMENT OR MATERIAL WHETHER OR NOT THE DAMAGE TO THE STREET, ROAD, BRIDGE, DRAINAGE STRUCTURE OR OTHER PORTION OF THE RIGHT-OF-WAY OCCURS BEFORE OR AFTER ACCEPTANCE OF THE STREET OR ROAD INTO THE COUNTY SYSTEM.

11. Time is of the essence in all things pertaining to the performance of this Agreement.

16. In the event of litigation between the parties with respect to this Agreement, the performance of the obligations hereunder or the effect of a termination under this Agreement, each party shall bear and pay its own costs and expenses incurred by the respective party in connection with such litigation, including all attorneys' fees and costs.

17. Except as otherwise specifically provided for hereunder, no party shall be deemed to have waived any of its rights hereunder unless such waiver is in writing and signed by the party waiving such right. Except as otherwise specifically provided for hereunder, no delay or omission by any party in exercising any right shall operate as a waiver of such right or of any other right. Section 5 of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA) requires the following: • HUD must develop a Special Information Booklet to help persons borrowing money to finance the purchase of residential real estate to better understand the nature and costs of real estate settlement services;
• Each lender must provide the booklet to all applicants from whom it receives or for whom it prepares a written application to borrow money to finance the purchase of residential real estate; • Lenders must prepare and distribute with the Booklet a Good Faith Estimate of the settlement costs that the borrower is likely to incur in connection with the settlement. These disclosures are mandatory.

Section 4(a) of RESPA mandates that HUD develop and prescribe this standard form to be used at the time of loan settlement to provide full disclosure of all charges imposed upon the borrower and seller. These are third party disclosures that are designed to provide the borrower with pertinent information during the settlement process in order to be a better shopper.
The Public Reporting Burden for this collection of information is estimated to average one hour per response, including the time for reviewing instructions searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and completing and reviewing the collection of information.

INTERLOCAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN MONTGOMERY COUNTY, TEXAS
AND MONTGOMERY COUNTY EMERGENCY SERVICES DISTRICT NO. 8
(Emergency Traffic Signal - Robinson Road)

This Interlocal Agreement ("Agreement") is made and entered into by and between MONTGOMERY COUNTY, TEXAS, a political subdivision of the State of Texas ("County"), and MONTGOMERY COUNTY EMERGENCY SERVICES DISTRICT NO. 8, a political subdivision of the State of Texas ("District"). County and District may also be referred to individually as a "Party" or collectively as the "Parties."

RECITALS

WHEREAS, the Parties enter into this Agreement pursuant to the provisions of the Interlocal Cooperation Act, Chapter 791 of the Texas Government Code, which authorizes interlocal cooperation contracts between governmental entities for the performance of governmental functions and services in which the contracting parties are mutually interested; and

WHEREAS, the County is in the process of widening and improving Robinson Road in Precinct No. 3 of Montgomery County, Texas; and

WHEREAS, the District's South Montgomery Fire Department Station 3 is located on Robinson Road; and

WHEREAS, County and District have determined that an emergency traffic signal is needed at the driveway entrance to the District's fire station on Robinson Road (the "Project"), which would protect first responders and the public as well as promote traffic management and mobility in the vicinity of the District's station; and

WHEREAS, the County has agreed to include the Project as part of its widening and improvement of Robinson Road, and the Parties have agreed to share the cost of the Project; and

WHEREAS, the Parties have determined that it would be in the best interest of the County and the District and to the residents thereof to proceed with the Project in accordance with the terms of this Agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and conditions below, County and District agree as follows:

I.
Responsibilities of the Parties

Upon execution of this Agreement by the Parties, the County shall include the design and construction of the Project as part of its Robinson Road widening and improvement project and shall provide all required contract administration. The estimated cost of the Project is $159,687.50.

County shall pay all invoices for services and equipment, and the District shall reimburse its share of the expenses as defined below.

The District shall contribute funds not to exceed $150,609.00 for the Project ("District's Share"). The County will periodically provide invoices to the District based on the progress of work performed on the Project, and the District shall remit payment of the District's Share to County on or before ninety (90) days of District's receipt of such invoice. Within 30 days of the completion of the Project, County shall submit to the District for approval a final accounting of the Project costs, including the final District's Share, and District shall remit payment of the District's Share to County on or before ninety (90) days of District's receipt of such final accounting and invoice. The final District's Share for the Project shall be based on all Project costs incurred to date for the Project. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, in no event shall the District's Share exceed the total sum of $150,609.00.

County shall be solely responsible for the operation and maintenance of the emergency traffic signal and will assume all costs associated with same, including the provision of electrical power to the signal and the costs of providing routine maintenance to ensure its proper operation. In the event the signal is damaged or destroyed, County and District agree to share equally the costs of repairing the signal and/or installing a replacement signal.

By entering into this Agreement, each Party certifies to the other that it has available from current funds of the entity an amount sufficient to cover the Party's share of the estimated Project costs.

II.
Monument Sign

As part of the Robinson Road widening and improvement project, the County acquired the District's South Montgomery County Fire Department Station 3 monument sign. In the event the County determines it is necessary to make roadway improvements within the Robinson Road right-of-way occupied by the monument sign, the County shall be solely responsible for the cost of removal and/or relocation of the monument sign. Additionally, should County, based upon generally accepted traffic engineering principles, determine that the monument sign within the Robinson Road right-of-way constitutes an unusual threat to public road traffic, then County shall immediately, and at its sole cost and expense, remove such monument sign from the right-of-way.

III.
Term

This Agreement is effective as of the date it has been approved and executed by all Parties ("Effective Date") and shall remain in full force and effect until the completion of the Project or County's receipt of payment from District of all funds due and owing under the terms of this Agreement, whichever occurs later.

IV.

County and District bind themselves and their successors and assigns to the other Party to this Agreement and to the successors and assigns of such other Party, in respect to all covenants of this Agreement. Neither County nor District shall assign or transfer its interest in this Agreement without the prior written consent of the other Party.

VI.
Independent Parties

It is expressly understood and agreed by the Parties that nothing contained in this Agreement shall be construed to constitute or create a joint venture, partnership, association or other affiliation or like relationship between the Parties, it being specifically agreed that their relationship is and shall remain that of independent parties to a contractual relationship as set forth in this Agreement. Neither County nor its employees or agents shall be considered to be an employee, agent, partner or representative of District for any purpose. Neither District nor its employees, officers or agents shall be considered to be employees, agents, partners or representatives of County for any purpose. Neither Party has the authority to bind the other Party.

VII.
No Third-Party Beneficiaries

County is not obligated or liable to any party other than District for the performance of this Agreement. Nothing in this Agreement is intended or shall be deemed or construed to create any additional rights or remedies upon any third party. Further, nothing contained in this Agreement shall be construed or operate in any manner whatsoever to increase the rights of any third party, or the duties or responsibilities of County with respect to any third party.

VIII.
Waiver of Breach

A waiver by either Party of a breach or violation of any provision of the Agreement shall not be deemed or construed to be a waiver of any subsequent breach.

IX.
No Personal Liability; No Waiver of Immunity

Nothing in this Agreement shall be construed as creating any personal liability on the part of any officer, employee, or agent of the public bodies that are a Party to the Agreement, and the Parties expressly agree that the execution of the Agreement does not create any personal liability on the part of any officer, employee or agent of the Parties.

The Parties agree that no provision of this Agreement extends the Parties' liability beyond the liability provided in the Texas Constitution and the laws of the State of Texas.

Neither the execution of this Agreement nor any other conduct of either Party relating to this Agreement shall be considered a waiver by County or District of any right, defense, or immunity available against claims arising in the exercise of governmental powers and functions.

X.

This Agreement shall be governed and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Texas. Venue shall be in Montgomery County.

XI.
Recitals

The recitals set forth in this Agreement are, by this reference, incorporated into and deemed a part of this Agreement.

XII.
Entire Agreement; Modifications

This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the Parties concerning the Project. There have been and are no agreement, covenants, representations, or warranties between the Parties other than those expressly stated or provided for herein. No modification hereof or subsequent agreement relative to the subject matter hereof shall be binding on any party unless reduced to writing and signed by the Parties.

XIII.
Severability

The provisions of this Agreement are severable, and if any word, phrase, clause, sentence, paragraph, section, or other part of this Agreement or the application thereof to any other person or circumstance shall ever be held by any court of competent jurisdiction to contravene or be invalid under the constitution or laws of the State of Texas for any reason, that contravention or invalidity shall not invalidate the entire Agreement. Instead, this Agreement shall be construed as if it did not contain the particular provision or provisions held to be invalid, the rights and obligations of the Parties shall be enforced accordingly, and this Agreement shall remain in full force and effect, as construed. The remainder of this Agreement and the application of such word, phrase, clause, sentence, paragraph, section, or other part of this Agreement to the other Parties or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

XIV.
Multiple Counterparts; Execution

This Agreement may be executed in multiple counterparts. Each counterpart is deemed an original and all counterparts together constitute one and the same instrument. In addition, each Party warrants that the undersigned is a duly authorized representative with the power to execute the Agreement.

POSSESSION AND USE AGREEMENT

§
COUNTY OF MONTGOMERY §

This Possession and Use Agreement (the "Agreement") between MONTGOMERY COUNTY, TEXAS, a political subdivision of the State of Texas (the "County"), and NTN WAREHOUSE, LLC, a Texas Limited Liability Company, acting by and through their attorney in fact, David G. Wall (the "Grantor"), grants to the County, its contractors, agents and all others deemed necessary by the County, an irrevocable right to possession and use of the Grantor's property for the purpose of expanding and constructing a portion of Robinson Road (the "Robinson Road Expansion"). The property subject to this Agreement is described more fully in field notes (attached as "Exhibit A") and made a part of this Agreement by reference (the "Property").

1. For the consideration paid by the County which is set forth in Paragraph 2 below, the receipt and sufficiency of which is acknowledged, the Grantor grants, bargains, sells and conveys to the County the right of entry and exclusive possession and use of the Property for the purpose of expanding right of way and appurtenances thereto and the right to remove any improvements. Authorized activities include surveying, inspection, environmental studies, clearing, demolition, construction of permanent improvements, relocating, replacing, and improving existing utility facilities, locating new utility facilities, and other work required to be performed in connection with the Robinson Road Expansion. This Agreement will extend to the County, its contractors and assigns, owners of any existing utilities on the Property and those which may be lawfully permitted on the Property by the County in the future, and all others deemed necessary by the County for the purpose of the Robinson Road Expansion. This grant will allow the construction, relocation, replacement, repair, improvement, operation and maintenance of utilities on the Property.

2. In full consideration for this irrevocable grant of possession and use, and other Grantor covenants, warranties, and obligations under this Agreement, the County will tender to the Grantor the sum of Fifty-One Thousand Five Hundred Thirty-Six Dollars and no/100 ($51,536.00) within forty-five (45) days of the effective date of this Agreement. The Grantor agrees that this sum represents adequate and full compensation for the possession and use of the Property. The County will be entitled to take possession and use of the Property upon payment of the referenced amounts in Paragraphs 2 and 2.1 to Grantor. The parties agree that the sum tendered to Grantor under this paragraph will be deducted from any final settlement amount, Special Commissioners' award or court judgment.

2.1. As additional consideration, the County will tender to the Grantor the sum of $5,153.00, the receipt and sufficiency of which is acknowledged. The parties agree that the sum tendered under this Paragraph 2.1:

(i) Is independent consideration for the possession and use of Grantor's Property and represents no part of the County's compensation to be paid for the anticipated purchase of the property.

3. The effective date of this Agreement will be the date on which this Agreement is fully executed by both parties (the "Effective Date").

4. The Grantor warrants and represents that the title to the Property is free and clear of all liens and encumbrances or that proper releases will be executed for the Property prior to funds being disbursed under this Agreement. The Grantor further warrants that no other person or entity owns an interest in the fee title to the Property and further agrees to indemnify the County from all unreleased or undisclosed liens, claims or encumbrances affecting the Property.

5. The parties agree that the valuation date for determining the amount of just compensation for the real property interest proposed to be acquired by the County in the Property, for negotiation or eminent domain proceeding purposes, will be the date of the special commissioners hearing. The parties will use reasonable best efforts to schedule the special commissioners hearing by January 15th, 2027.

6. This Agreement is made with the understanding that the County will continue to proceed with acquisition of a real property interest in the Property. The Grantor reserves all rights of compensation for the title and interest in and to the Property which the Grantor holds as of the time immediately prior to the Effective Date of this Agreement. This Agreement shall in no way prejudice the Grantor's rights to receive full and just compensation as allowed by law for all of the Grantor's interests in and to the Property to be acquired by the County, encumbered with the improvements thereon, if any, and damages, if any, to the remainder of the Grantor's interest in any larger tract of which the Property is a part (the "Remainder"), if any; all as the Property exists on the Effective Date of this Agreement. The County's removal or construction of improvements on the Property shall in no way affect the fair market value of the Property in determining compensation due to the Grantor in the eminent domain proceedings. There will be no project impact upon the appraised value of the Property. This grant will not prejudice the Grantor's rights to any relocation benefits for which Grantor may be eligible.

7. In the event the County institutes or has instituted eminent domain proceedings, the County will not be liable to the Grantor for interest upon any award or judgment as a result of such proceedings for any period of time prior to the date of the award. Payment of any interest may be deferred by the County until entry of judgment.

8. The purpose of this Agreement is to allow the County to proceed with its Robinson Road Expansion without delay and to allow the Grantor to have the use at this time of the estimated compensation for the County's acquisition of a real property interest in the Property. The Grantor expressly acknowledges that the proposed Robinson Road Expansion is for a valid public use and voluntarily waives any right the Grantor has or may have, known or unknown, to contest the jurisdiction of the court in any condemnation proceeding for acquisition of the Property related to the Robinson Road Expansion, based upon claims that the condemning authority has no authority to acquire the Property through eminent domain, has no valid public use for the Property, or that acquisition of the Property is not necessary for the public use.

9. The Grantor reserves all of the oil, gas and sulphur in and under the land herein conveyed but waives all right of ingress and egress to the surface for the purpose of exploring, developing, mining or drilling. The extraction of oil, gas and minerals may not affect the geological stability of the surface. Nothing in this reservation will affect the title and rights of the County to take and use all other minerals and materials thereon, and thereunder.

10. The undersigned Grantor agrees to pay as they become due, all ad valorem property taxes and special assessments assessed against Property, including prorated taxes for the year in which the County takes title to the Property.

11. Notwithstanding the acquisition of right of possession to the Property by the County in an eminent domain proceeding by depositing the Special Commissioners' award into the registry of the court, less any amounts tendered to the Grantor pursuant to Paragraph 2 above, this Agreement shall continue to remain in effect until the County acquires title to the Property either by negotiation, settlement, or final court judgment.

12. This Agreement will also extend to and bind the heirs, devisees, executors, administrators, legal representatives, successors in interest and assigns of the parties.

13. It is agreed the County will record this document.

14. For purposes of this Agreement, payment shall be deemed made, and the County's right to take possession and use of the Property shall vest, upon the County's tender of the check(s) via FedEx to Grantor's address at 87 N. Hunters Crossing Cir., The Woodlands, Texas, 77381.

To have and to hold the Agreement herein described and conveyed, together with all the rights and appurtenances belonging to Montgomery County and its assigns forever, for the purposes and subject to the limitations set forth above.

COUNTY OF MONTGOMERY §

This Possession and Use Agreement (the "Agreement") between MONTGOMERY COUNTY, TEXAS, a political subdivision of the State of Texas (the "County"), and NTN WAREHOUSE, LLC, a Texas Limited Liability Company, acting by and through their attorney in fact, David G. Wall (the "Grantor"), grants to the County, its contractors, agents and all others deemed necessary by the County, an irrevocable right to possession and use of the Grantor's property for the purpose of expanding and constructing a portion of Robinson Road (the "Robinson Road Expansion"). The property subject to this Agreement is described more fully in field notes (attached as "Exhibit A") and made a part of this Agreement by reference (the "Property").

1. For the consideration paid by the County which is set forth in Paragraph 2 below, the receipt and sufficiency of which is acknowledged, the Grantor grants, bargains, sells and conveys to the County the right of entry and exclusive possession and use of the Property for the purpose of expanding right of way and appurtenances thereto and the right to remove any improvements. Authorized activities include surveying, inspection, environmental studies, clearing, demolition, construction of permanent improvements, relocating, replacing, and improving existing utility facilities, locating new utility facilities, and other work required to be performed in connection with the Robinson Road Expansion. This Agreement will extend to the County, its contractors and assigns, owners of any existing utilities on the Property and those which may be lawfully permitted on the Property by the County in the future, and all others deemed necessary by the County for the purpose of the Robinson Road Expansion. This grant will allow the construction, relocation, replacement, repair, improvement, operation and maintenance of utilities on the Property.

2. In full consideration for this irrevocable grant of possession and use, and other Grantor covenants, warranties, and obligations under this Agreement, the County will tender to the Grantor the sum of Fifty-One Thousand Five Hundred Thirty-Six Dollars and no/100 ($51,536.00) within forty-five (45) days of the effective date of this Agreement. The Grantor agrees that this sum represents adequate and full compensation for the possession and use of the Property. The County will be entitled to take possession and use of the Property upon payment of the referenced amounts in Paragraphs 2 and 2.1 to Grantor. The parties agree that the sum tendered to Grantor under this paragraph will be deducted from any final settlement amount, Special Commissioners' award or court judgment.

2.1. As additional consideration, the County will tender to the Grantor the sum of $5,153.00, the receipt and sufficiency of which is acknowledged. The parties agree that the sum tendered under this Paragraph 2.1:

(i) Is independent consideration for the possession and use of Grantor's Property and represents no part of the County's compensation to be paid for the anticipated purchase of the property.

3. The effective date of this Agreement will be the date on which this Agreement is fully executed by both parties (the "Effective Date").

4. The Grantor warrants and represents that the title to the Property is free and clear of all liens and encumbrances or that proper releases will be executed for the Property prior to funds being disbursed under this Agreement. The Grantor further warrants that no other person or entity owns an interest in the fee title to the Property and further agrees to indemnify the County from all unreleased or undisclosed liens, claims or encumbrances affecting the Property.

The parties will use reasonable best efforts to schedule the special commissioners hearing by January 15th, 2027.

6. This Agreement is made with the understanding that the County will continue to proceed with acquisition of a real property interest in the Property. The Grantor reserves all rights of compensation for the title and interest in and to the Property which the Grantor holds as of the time immediately prior to the Effective Date of this Agreement. This Agreement shall in no way prejudice the Grantor's rights to receive full and just compensation as allowed by law for all of the Grantor's interests in and to the Property to be acquired by the County, encumbered with the improvements thereon, if any, and damages, if any, to the remainder of the Grantor's interest in any larger tract of which the Property is a part (the "Remainder"), if any; all as the Property exists on the Effective Date of this Agreement. 13. It is agreed the County will record this document.

14. For purposes of this Agreement, payment shall be deemed made, and the County's right to take possession and use of the Property shall vest, upon the County's tender of the check(s) via FedEx to Grantor's address at 87 N. Hunters Crossing Cir., The Woodlands, Texas, 77381.

POSSESSION AND USE AGREEMENT

STATE OF TEXAS §
§
COUNTY OF MONTGOMERY §

This Possession and Use Agreement (the "Agreement") between MONTGOMERY COUNTY, TEXAS, a political subdivision of the State of Texas (the "County"), and FLEX OAK RIDGE, LLC, f/k/a WOODLANDS RIDGE BUSINESS PARK, LLC, acting by and through their attorney in fact, David G. Wall (the "Grantor"), grants to the County, its contractors, agents and all others deemed necessary by the County, an irrevocable right to possession and use of the Grantor's property for the purpose of expanding and constructing a portion of Robinson Road (the "Robinson Road Expansion"). The property subject to this Agreement is described more fully in field notes (attached as "Exhibit A") and made a part of this Agreement by reference (the "Property").

1. For the consideration paid by the County which is set forth in Paragraph 2 below, the receipt and sufficiency of which is acknowledged, the Grantor grants, bargains, sells and conveys to the County the right of entry and exclusive possession and use of the Property for the purpose of expanding right of way and appurtenances thereto and the right to remove any improvements. Authorized activities include surveying, inspection, environmental studies, clearing, demolition, construction of permanent improvements, relocating, replacing, and improving existing utility facilities, locating new utility facilities, and other work required to be performed in connection with the Robinson Road Expansion. This Agreement will extend to the County, its contractors and assigns, owners of any existing utilities on the Property and those which may be lawfully permitted on the Property by the County in the future, and all others deemed necessary by the County for the purpose of the Robinson Road Expansion. This grant will allow the construction, relocation, replacement, repair, improvement, operation and maintenance of utilities on the Property.

2. In full consideration for this irrevocable grant of possession and use, and other Grantor covenants, warranties, and obligations under this Agreement, the County will tender to the Grantor the sum of Eighty-Five Thousand Three Hundred Forty-One Dollars and no/100 ($85,341.00) within forty-five (45) days of the effective date of this Agreement. The Grantor agrees that this sum represents adequate and full compensation for the possession and use of the Property. The County will be entitled to take possession and use of the Property upon payment of the referenced amounts in Paragraph 2 and 2.1 to Grantor. The parties agree that the sum tendered to Grantor will be deducted from any final settlement amount, Special Commissioners' award or court judgment.

2.1. As additional consideration, the County will tender to the Grantor the sum of $8,500.00, the receipt and sufficiency of which is acknowledged. The parties agree that the sum tendered under this Paragraph 2.1:

(i) Is independent consideration for the possession and use of Grantor's Property and represents no part of the County's compensation to be paid for the anticipated purchase of the property.

3. The effective date of this Agreement will be the date on which this Agreement is fully executed by both parties (the "Effective Date").

4. The Grantor warrants and represents that the title to the Property is free and clear of all liens and encumbrances or that proper releases will be executed for the Property prior to funds being disbursed under this Agreement. The Grantor further warrants that no other person or entity owns an interest in the fee title to the Property and further agrees to indemnify the County from all unreleased or undisclosed liens, claims or encumbrances affecting the Property.

5. The parties agree that the valuation date for determining the amount of just compensation for the real property interest proposed to be acquired by the County in the Property, for negotiation or eminent domain proceeding purposes, will be the date of the special commissioners hearing. The parties will use reasonable best efforts to schedule the special commissioners hearing by January 15th, 2027.

6. This Agreement is made with the understanding that the County will continue to proceed with acquisition of a real property interest in the Property. The Grantor reserves all rights of compensation for the title and interest in and to the Property which the Grantor holds as of the time immediately prior to the Effective Date of this Agreement. This Agreement shall in no way prejudice the Grantor's rights to receive full and just compensation as allowed by law for all of the Grantor's interests in and to the Property to be acquired by the County, encumbered with the improvements thereon, if any, and damages, if any, to the remainder of the Grantor's interest in any larger tract of which the Property is a part (the "Remainder"), if any; all as the Property exists on the Effective Date of this Agreement. The County's removal or construction of improvements on the Property shall in no way affect the fair market value of the Property in determining compensation due to the Grantor in the eminent domain proceedings. There will be no project impact upon the appraised value of the Property. This grant will not prejudice the Grantor's rights to any relocation benefits for which Grantor may be eligible.

7. In the event the County institutes or has instituted eminent domain proceedings, the County will not be liable to the Grantor for interest upon any award or judgment as a result of such proceedings for any period of time prior to the date of the award. Payment of any interest may be deferred by the County until entry of judgment.

8. The purpose of this Agreement is to allow the County to proceed with its Robinson Road Expansion without delay and to allow the Grantor to have the use at this time of the estimated compensation for the County's acquisition of a real property interest in the Property. The Grantor expressly acknowledges that the proposed Robinson Road Expansion is for a valid public use and voluntarily waives any right the Grantor has or may have, known or unknown, to contest the jurisdiction of the court in any condemnation proceeding for acquisition of the Property related to the Robinson Road Expansion, based upon claims that the condemning authority has no authority to acquire the Property through eminent domain, has no valid public use for the Property, or that acquisition of the Property is not necessary for the public use.

9. The Grantor reserves all of the oil, gas and sulphur in and under the land herein conveyed but waives all right of ingress and egress to the surface for the purpose of exploring, developing, mining or drilling. The extraction of oil, gas and minerals may not affect the geological stability of the surface. Nothing in this reservation will affect the title and rights of the County to take and use all other minerals and materials thereon, and thereunder.

10. The undersigned Grantor agrees to pay as they become due, all ad valorem property taxes and special assessments assessed against Property, including prorated taxes for the year in which the County takes title to the Property.

11. Notwithstanding the acquisition of right of possession to the Property by the County in an eminent domain proceeding by depositing the Special Commissioners' award into the registry of the court, less any amounts tendered to the Grantor pursuant to Paragraph 2 above, this Agreement shall continue to remain in effect until the County acquires title to the Property either by negotiation, settlement, or final court judgment.

12. This Agreement will also extend to and bind the heirs, devisees, executors, administrators, legal representatives, successors in interest and assigns of the parties.

13. It is agreed the County will record this document.

14. For purposes of this Agreement, payment shall be deemed made, and the County's right to take possession and use of the Property shall vest, upon the County's tender of the check(s) via FedEx to Grantor's address at 87 N. Hunters Crossing Cir., The Woodlands, Texas, 77381.

To have and to hold the Agreement herein described and conveyed, together with all the rights and appurtenances belonging to Montgomery County and its assigns forever, for the purposes and subject to the limitations set forth above.

POSSESSION AND USE AGREEMENT

STATE OF TEXAS §
§
COUNTY OF MONTGOMERY §

This Possession and Use Agreement (the "Agreement") between MONTGOMERY COUNTY, TEXAS, a political subdivision of the State of Texas (the "County"), and FLEX OAK RIDGE, LLC, f/k/a WOODLANDS RIDGE BUSINESS PARK, LLC, acting by and through their attorney in fact, David G. Wall (the "Grantor"), grants to the County, its contractors, agents and all others deemed necessary by the County, an irrevocable right to possession and use of the Grantor's property for the purpose of expanding and constructing a portion of Robinson Road (the "Robinson Road Expansion"). The property subject to this Agreement is described more fully in field notes (attached as "Exhibit A") and made a part of this Agreement by reference (the "Property").

1. For the consideration paid by the County which is set forth in Paragraph 2 below, the receipt and sufficiency of which is acknowledged, the Grantor grants, bargains, sells and conveys to the County the right of entry and exclusive possession and use of the Property for the purpose of expanding right of way and appurtenances thereto and the right to remove any improvements. Authorized activities include surveying, inspection, environmental studies, clearing, demolition, construction of permanent improvements, relocating, replacing, and improving existing utility facilities, locating new utility facilities, and other work required to be performed in connection with the Robinson Road Expansion. This Agreement will extend to the County, its contractors and assigns, owners of any existing utilities on the Property and those which may be lawfully permitted on the Property by the County in the future, and all others deemed necessary by the County for the purpose of the Robinson Road Expansion. This grant will allow the construction, relocation, replacement, repair, improvement, operation and maintenance of utilities on the Property.

2. In full consideration for this irrevocable grant of possession and use, and other Grantor covenants, warranties, and obligations under this Agreement, the County will tender to the Grantor the sum of Eighty-Five Thousand Three Hundred Forty-One Dollars and no/100 ($85,341.00) within forty-five (45) days of the effective date of this Agreement. The Grantor agrees that this sum represents adequate and full compensation for the possession and use of the Property. The County will be entitled to take possession and use of the Property upon payment of the referenced amounts in Paragraph 2 and 2.1 to Grantor. The parties agree that the sum tendered to Grantor will be deducted from any final settlement amount, Special Commissioners' award or court judgment.

2.1. As additional consideration, the County will tender to the Grantor the sum of $8,500.00, the receipt and sufficiency of which is acknowledged. The parties agree that the sum tendered under this Paragraph 2.1:

(i) Is independent consideration for the possession and use of Grantor's Property and represents no part of the County's compensation to be paid for the anticipated purchase of the property.

3. The effective date of this Agreement will be the date on which this Agreement is fully executed by both parties (the "Effective Date").

4. The Grantor warrants and represents that the title to the Property is free and clear of all liens and encumbrances or that proper releases will be executed for the Property prior to funds being disbursed under this Agreement. The Grantor further warrants that no other person or entity owns an interest in the fee title to the Property and further agrees to indemnify the County from all unreleased or undisclosed liens, claims or encumbrances affecting the Property.

5. The parties agree that the valuation date for determining the amount of just compensation for the real property interest proposed to be acquired by the County in the Property, for negotiation or eminent domain proceeding purposes, will be the date of the special commissioners hearing. The parties will use reasonable best efforts to schedule the special commissioners hearing by January 15th, 2027.

6. This Agreement is made with the understanding that the County will continue to proceed with acquisition of a real property interest in the Property. The Grantor reserves all rights of compensation for the title and interest in and to the Property which the Grantor holds as of the time immediately prior to the Effective Date of this Agreement. This Agreement shall in no way prejudice the Grantor's rights to receive full and just compensation as allowed by law for all of the Grantor's interests in and to the Property to be acquired by the County, encumbered with the improvements thereon, if any, and damages, if any, to the remainder of the Grantor's interest in any larger tract of which the Property is a part (the "Remainder"), if any; all as the Property exists on the Effective Date of this Agreement. The County's removal or construction of improvements on the Property shall in no way affect the fair market value of the Property in determining compensation due to the Grantor in the eminent domain proceedings. There will be no project impact upon the appraised value of the Property. This grant will not prejudice the Grantor's rights to any relocation benefits for which Grantor may be eligible.

7. In the event the County institutes or has instituted eminent domain proceedings, the County will not be liable to the Grantor for interest upon any award or judgment as a result of such proceedings for any period of time prior to the date of the award. Payment of any interest may be deferred by the County until entry of judgment.

8. The purpose of this Agreement is to allow the County to proceed with its Robinson Road Expansion without delay and to allow the Grantor to have the use at this time of the estimated compensation for the County's acquisition of a real property interest in the Property. The Grantor expressly acknowledges that the proposed Robinson Road Expansion is for a valid public use and voluntarily waives any right the Grantor has or may have, known or unknown, to contest the jurisdiction of the court in any condemnation proceeding for acquisition of the Property related to the Robinson Road Expansion, based upon claims that the condemning authority has no authority to acquire the Property through eminent domain, has no valid public use for the Property, or that acquisition of the Property is not necessary for the public use.

9. The Grantor reserves all of the oil, gas and sulphur in and under the land herein conveyed but waives all right of ingress and egress to the surface for the purpose of exploring, developing, mining or drilling. The extraction of oil, gas and minerals may not affect the geological stability of the surface. Nothing in this reservation will affect the title and rights of the County to take and use all other minerals and materials thereon, and thereunder.

10. The undersigned Grantor agrees to pay as they become due, all ad valorem property taxes and special assessments assessed against Property, including prorated taxes for the year in which the County takes title to the Property.

11. Notwithstanding the acquisition of right of possession to the Property by the County in an eminent domain proceeding by depositing the Special Commissioners' award into the registry of the court, less any amounts tendered to the Grantor pursuant to Paragraph 2 above, this Agreement shall continue to remain in effect until the County acquires title to the Property either by negotiation, settlement, or final court judgment.

12. This Agreement will also extend to and bind the heirs, devisees, executors, administrators, legal representatives, successors in interest and assigns of the parties.

13. It is agreed the County will record this document.

14. For purposes of this Agreement, payment shall be deemed made, and the County's right to take possession and use of the Property shall vest, upon the County's tender of the check(s) via FedEx to Grantor's address at 87 N. Hunters Crossing Cir., The Woodlands, Texas, 77381.

To have and to hold the Agreement herein described and conveyed, together with all the rights and appurtenances belonging to Montgomery County and its assigns forever, for the purposes and subject to the limitations set forth above.

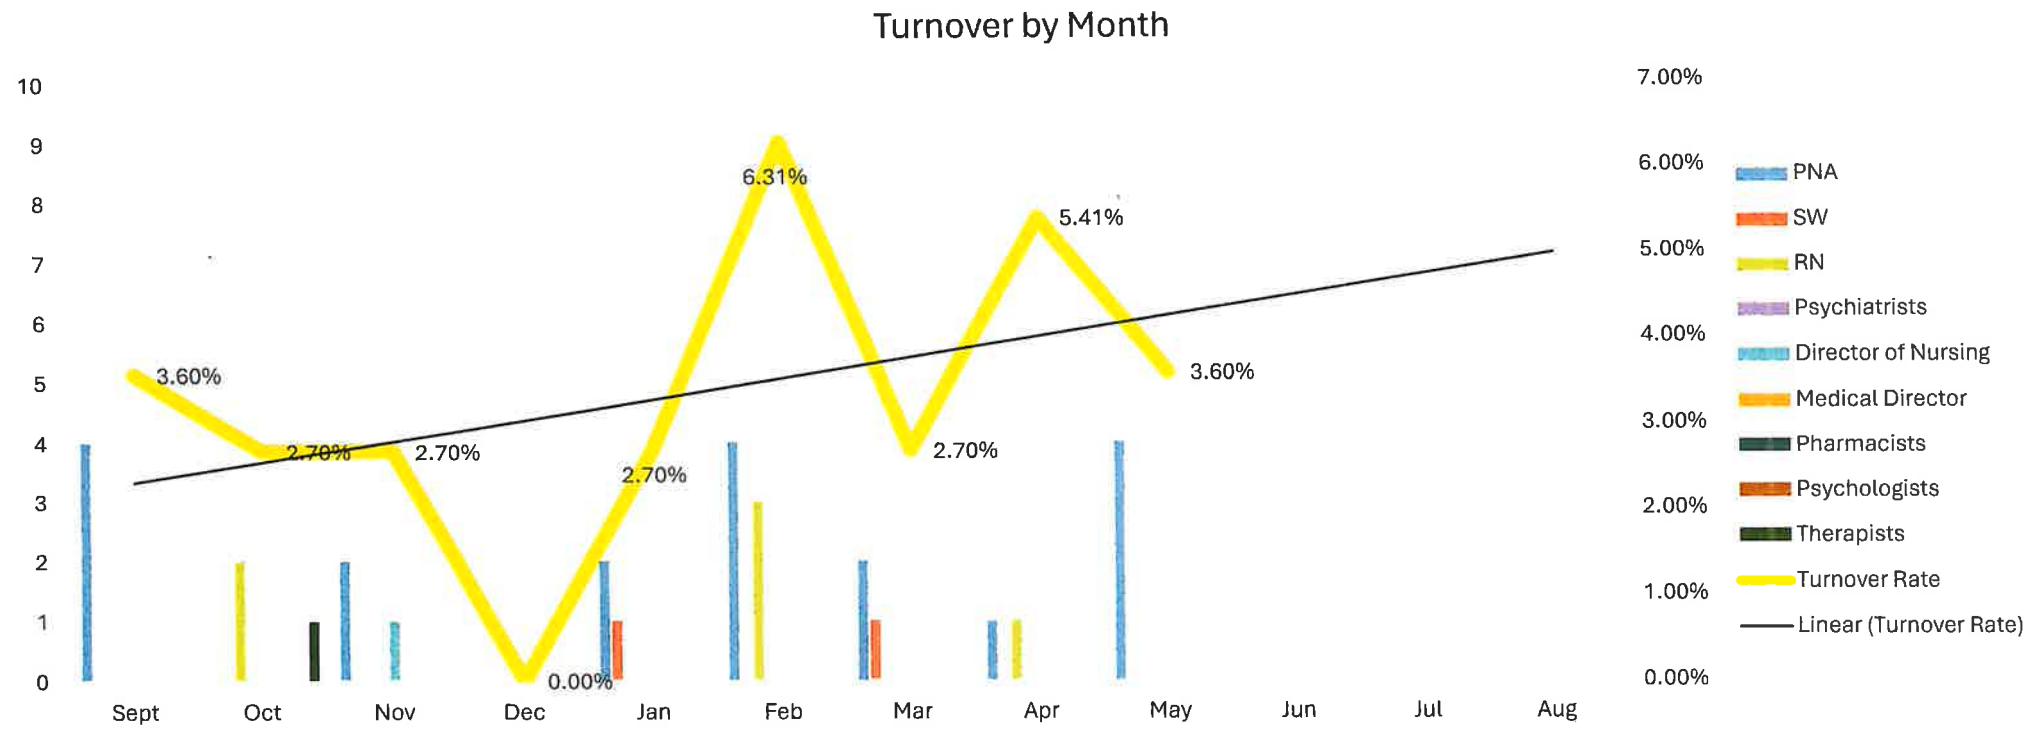
Turnover Rate



Performance Measure Operational Definition: The state hospital turnover rate for critical shortage staff will be available. Critical shortage job classifications: direct care; case workers; nurses; pharmacists; physicians; psychologists; and therapists. (Turnover rate is based upon positions that are vacant on the last day of the month.)

Performance Measure Formula: The formula for calculating turnover is (number of losses/average strength for reporting period) x 100. (Losses are defined when person leaves employment at the hospital and is not on payroll. Losses do not include internal changes or placement on LWOP. Average strength is calculated by adding the number of filled, full-time equivalent position, for each day in the reporting period, dividing by the total number of days in the reporting period.) The formula for calculating turnover is number of losses divided by average strength number x 100.

Airport Director's Authority

The Airport Director shall be authorized to asses or waive fees not specifically addressed in the Rates and Charges. For example: the use of airport conference room, vehicle parking areas, and other related fees and charges that may occur on an infrequent basis.

Adjustment of Rates and Charges

The airport rates and charges will be assessed every year during the budget process. The Airport Director will research commensurate airports within the region to ensure our rates and charges are competitive within our market. The market research may extend to airports farther away from the region, due to the limited number of airports in the Houston Metro area that fall within our category. With that being said other airports chosen for the study will be of the general aviation airport category with a service level of regional and a role of national according to the FAA's National Plan of Integrated Airport System (NPIAS).

There are currently 107 National level airports in the U.S. and only14 in the state of TX which are:

KADS - Addison Airport
KGKY – Arlington Municipal KHYI – San Marcos Regional KDTO – Denton Enterprise
KGTU – Georgetown Municipal KBAZ – New Braunfels National KSKF – Kelly Field
KTKI - McKinney National Airport
KRDB - Dallas Executive KAFW - Fort Worth Alliance

Description/Background

- What is your organization's vision for the next five years?

The Montgomery County Precinct 5 Constable's Office began in the early 1980s for the purpose of serving civil process, bailiff for the JP Court and patrolling the precinct. With the incredible county growth over the years, Precinct 5 has transformed in to a full service law enforcement agency to provide the citizens we serve with all law enforcement services. Precinct 5 now has 52 fulltime Peace Officers, 5 Reserve Deputies and 3 administrative positions. In recent years, Precinct 5 has been acknowledged by many organizations for exemplary work. These organization include MADD (Mother's Against Drunk Driving), The National Constable and Marshal's Association, The Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo and the 100 Club. Over the next 5 years, Precinct 5's goal is to grow with the community and continue to provide law enforcement services beyond reproach. Part of achieving this goal is to obtain funding to outfit our deputies with the best equipment and training available in order to protect lives and administer emergency care for those in need.

Project Description
Summarize the objective of this project. If the project is split into multiple requests (e.g. asking for funding for multiple program areas), please describe each request including the dollar amount per request.

This project is for outfitting Precinct 5 Patrol vehicles with a kit containing life saving equipment to include; AEDs, tourniquets, bleeding control dressing, flat dressing, chest seals, trauma shears, nitrile gloves and emergency survival blankets. These supplies would be contained in one hard case that would be deployed on any scene where life saving measures are needed. The Precinct 5 Office is located in Magnolia and serves as our hub employing Deputies that work on patrol, serving civil process, answering calls, working crashes and as school resource officers covering 18 campuses for the Magnolia Independent School District ensuring the safety and security of students and staff. Precinct 5 has 46 patrol vehicles that cover the precinct and neighboring areas, these life saving kits have saved lives in the past and if funded, they will stay in vehicles throughout the area ready to save more lives. Precinct 5 often encounters high risk situations involving warrant services, water rescues, crowd control and many other situations where life preservation can quickly become necessary.

Service Delivery Location
Where will services be delivered/provided? (e.g. at your organizations main office, within school district, within clients' homes, etc.)

Goals and Expected Outcomes

Please list the goals and expected outcomes of this project. Include what positive results you anticipate to see in your clients and/or the community due to this program.

With this project, the goal for Precinct 5 would be to equip more first responders with life saving equipment. When seconds and minutes matter, having this type of life saving equipment on board can help treat serious bodily injury and prevent death. Those that we serve in this community will benefit greatly by this program should they become involved in an accident or have a medical emergency. These life saving kits will be readily available for our deputies that are most likely to be one of the first on scene.

Narrative Questions

Please review all questions before answering to avoid redundancy.

Problem or Need*

- Describe the problem or need your funding request will address.

Montgomery County Constable Pct. 5 Office is responsible for public safety in a 220 square mile area and 799 miles of roadway in western Montgomery County. Pct. 5 Office employs full-time peace officers and serves one of the highest population-density areas in the County, having a total population of over 80,000. Deputies routinely respond to calls for service that require immediate medical intervention. In recent years, citizens, legislatures, and courts have increasingly expected—and, in some cases, required—law enforcement officers to render medical aid that was historically the responsibility of Emergency Medical Services (EMS). Additionally, modern critical-incident response protocols incorporate lifesaving measures in situations where EMS personnel are unable to safely enter an incident scene. These responses often require the use of tourniquets, compression bandages, hemostatic agents, CPR barriers, and other medical equipment.

People to be Served*

- Describe the population to be served by this request and list the challenges to serving this population.

Our officers are frequently the first responders to serious injuries (gunshots, stabbings, crashes), being ready for any situation has become crucial for our officers, especially trauma kits. With these medical kits our officers can provide immediate, life-saving care, such as controlling bleeding with tourniquets and dressings, buying vital time until EMS arrives, which significantly improve survival, especially in rural areas or dangerous scenes, protecting both the public and fellow officers. Unless self-purchased, our officers are not currently carrying these types of equipment/supplies in their vehicles, and in these times of uncertainty, being prepared for any situation has become paramount for our officers, every second counts.

Project Administration*
Describe how you will operate/administer your project?

Project Outcomes*
- Describe how you will track the outcomes of this project.

Dear Ms. Tadlock,

As part of our continuing effort to ensure the highest possible election security and integrity, Hart InterCivic introduces and certifies companion products for use with the Verity Voting system. These federal and state certified companion products enable jurisdictions to remain in compliance with voting system certification standards and ensures proper system operation while avoiding system damage.

The thermal ballot paper contains an exclusive combination of a smooth high-contrast stock and "thermal ink adhesion" properties. This thermal ballot stock is specifically manufactured for use in conjunction with Hart's Verity Voting Duo (hybrid) system for thermally produced paper ballots.

The rounded corner, printed arrow, and solid bars included on the thermal paper provides a clarity and consistent system operation that cannot be duplicated by any other method. The unique configuration is designed by and is available exclusively from Hart InterCivic. To prevent unauthorized ballot replication, this paper is sold only to Hart customers, and is currently not available from any other source.

If you have questions regarding any aspect of these Hart products and their authorized use, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Dear Honorable L. Brandon Steinmann,

This proposal addresses Montgomery County Clerk's historical records and is presented by Kofile Technologies, Inc. (Kofile). Quoted services include conservation treatments, and rehousing. Archival rehousing includes encapsulation and loose-leaf binding into Archival Recorder Binders. Note that prices for the inventory herein are good for 90 days from the date of this proposal.

Kofile Technologies, Inc. (Kofile) is uniquely qualified to complete Montgomery County Clerk's modernization goals by taking an innovative approach to this project to ensure a successful outcome. Kofile's basis for success is decades of experience, realistic solutions, and professional analysis. Each project is unique and deserves special attention. Our team provides realistic solutions, professional analysis, and innovative archival products to equip records stewards with the information and resources needed to preserve collections.

PRESERVATION

Kofile performs all services in accordance with the Code of Ethics & Guidelines for Practice of the American Institute for Conservation (AIC).

Preservation minimizes the chemical and physical deterioration of the page which prolongs the existence and useful life of the original format. Preservation can include removal of the original from public access, treatment, stabilization, preventative care, digitization - or any maintenance or repair of the existing resource.

COMMON AREAS OF CONCERN

Sound preservation ensures accessibility to irreplaceable and permanent documents forever.

Acidic Paper

Past papermaking utilized bleach to obtain white sheets. As a result, this paper becomes increasingly acidic as evidenced by embrittlement and yellowish-brown discoloring. Paper also embrittles when relative humidity drops or fluctuates.

Acidic Ink

Acidic inks can "eat" or "burn" through a sheet. Unmonitored temperature and relative humidity (RH) accelerate this process. Inks can also fade with exposure to UV light. Historically, iron gall inks were the standard. These inks contain sulfuric acid - which fades with time. With proper treatments, chemical breakdowns (such as acid hydrolysis) are remedied.

Mechanical Damage (Use & Abuse)

Everyday use greatly affects collections. Sheets bear signs of grime and the natural oils of hands. Exposed sheets are susceptible to damage and loss. Dirt and other pollutants can serve as ignition sources and weaken exposed paper. Exposed fragments become abused even with careful use.

Binding Margin

The binding margins of many volumes are compromised due to guillotining. In order to rebind and protect these sheets, encapsulation is the only solution. If a volume were rebound as is, without encapsulation, vital information would be lost in the binding margin.

Always question vendors if they recommend power cutters (guillotining) to dismantle sewn books.

© Kofile, Inc. All rights reserved.

Kofile never attempts any procedure that could result in a loss of text or weaken the integrity of the paper. A sheet's binding margin should never be compromised.

Broken Book Block
Once a binding fails, damage escalates. Sheets are free to drift from the protection of the book block. With exposure, fragments become abused and susceptible to loss.

Failing Index Stacks
Index Books sustain the most use. Thus, they suffer greater risks of text loss and sheet deterioration. Paper strength is completely depleted from continuous use. Eventually, tabs and sheet fragments are lost. Immediate attention is required.

Tape & Non-Archival Adhesives
The Library of Congress warns about the culprits of "pressure sensitive tapes—such as scotch, masking, 'invisible,' quick-release, cellophane, and even so-called 'archival' tapes"— all are unstable. These tapes and adhesives "will stain the paper and may cause inks and colors to 'bleed.' Many lose their adhesive properties and fall off with age, leaving behind a residue that is unsightly, damaging to the item and difficult to remove."

Adhesive stains lead to issues during imaging. Awarding a low-bid imaging and microfilm project may result in illegible images. To enhance image quality, conservation is essential. A conservator can remove water-based, synthetic, and pressure sensitive adhesives.

Page extenders are an inappropriate "quick fix" to a prevailing problem. To save this collection, the underlying issues causing the deterioration of the sheets' margins need correcting. The acid content of the sheet extenders only adds to the chemical brea kdown of the paper's fibers.

Lamination Removal
Kofile conservators address the "Laminate" process to the fullest extent possible. Conservators reverse the process and remove the laminate using a proprietary solvent solution. The possibility of removing the "Laminate" depends on careful testing at our c onservation lab. In a small percentage of cases, the adhesive is resistant to the solvent solution and cannot be removed safely. Conservators will not attempt removal if the removal process will damage either the document's paper or ink. If conservators cannot remove the laminate safely, Kofile will contact Montgomery County Clerk directly to discuss alternatives.

Non-Archival Quality Materials
The off-gasses of deteriorating metals contribute to the chemical breakdown of paper. Major culprits include the metal content of book spines, the surrounding physical environment, and non-archival fasteners (such as binder clips, paper clips, and staples). These off-gasses eventually destroy the fabric of the volume. Another symptom of metal oxidation is foxing, or foxlike (reddish and brown color) stains or blotches on paper.

TEMPERATURE & HUMIDITY MONITORING
While temperature and limited air circulation are crucial to a document's longevity, humidity and water are the most destructive threats.

Relative Humidity (RH) refers to the amount of water vapor present in the air. Maintaining a set point of 40-45% RH is optimal, but costly. The maximum acceptable total RH variation, or operating range, is 5% on either side of this set point. RH should never exceed 55% or drop below 30%.

© Kofile, Inc. All rights reserved.

Temperatures above 75 degrees° Fahrenheit and relative humidity higher than 60% encourage mold and other bacteria growth within 48-72 hours

Even slight changes in temperature can double the natural aging rate of paper. In reality, temperature and RH are not consistent in a local courthouse (especially on weekends).

Red inks smear first, then blue inks, and lastly, black inks. After exposure to water, pages adhere to one another when in a compressed environment. Separation without loss of text and water-soluble inks (such as signatures) is vital. These records are extremely fragile.

The mitigation of mold or micro-organics (which can result with the introduction of water or humidity fluctuations), should only be attempted by a trained professional. Water damage can also lead to other issues such as binding failure. The necessary treatments are time consuming and require a highly skilled conservator.

Visit the Image Permanence Institute (IPI) at www.dpcalc.org to explore the correlation of temperature and RH on natural aging, mechanical damage, mold risk, and metal corrosion (as exampled above). The image above is property of IPI.

TREATMENT SPECIFICATIONS

Kofile regularly addresses historical and permanent documents, including manuscripts, typescripts, negative Photostats, tri-folds, blueprints, re-creations, plats, and maps. No treatment, repair, or maintenance is used that is not 100% reversible.

Dismantle

Original binding materials, such as threads and adhesive residues, are carefully removed. Old manuscripts often have protein-based binding adhesives such as fish, bone, or rabbit skin glues. The application of steam with specialized equipment can soften the materials that are otherwise difficult to remove. Guillotine cutters are never employed. If trimming is necessary, it is accomplished with handheld scissors or specialized shears designed for trimming fragile sheets carefully and accurately. One document is cut at a time to ensure no text is lost.

Surface Cleaning

Surface cleaning sheets removes materials and deposits including dust, soot, airborne particulate, sediment from water damage, mold/mildew residue, active micro-organic growth, insect detritus, or biological or mineral contaminants. Tools include a microspatula, soft dusting brush, latex sponge, powdered vinyl eraser, or soft block eraser.

Removal of Fasteners

Kofile removes fasteners, page markers, and any metal mechanisms. Fasteners, such as binder clips, staples, paper clips, string ties, rubber bands, brads, straight pins, etc., cause damage in short periods. This includes physical damage (decreased paper strength due to punctures or distortion) and chemical damage (rust).

Removal of Tape, Adhesives, Varnish, or Old Repairs

Varnish, tape, and adhesive residue are reduced as much as possible without further degrading the original. When possible, peelers and tape are removed with two primary mechanical techniques: Heat Removal or Peeling. Heat removal is used when adhesive is loose, old, or brittle. Peeling is used when removal by heat is unnecessary. Solvents are a last resort, and local application occurs only after testing.

© Kofile, Inc. All rights reserved.

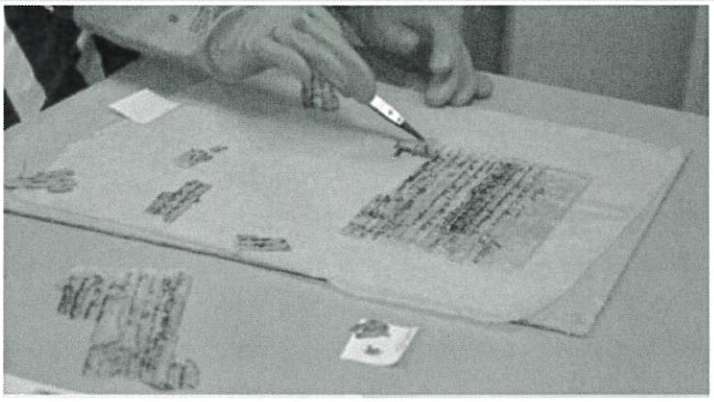
A microspatula (sometimes heated) coaxes threads, tape, and glue from the paper. A Hot Tools remover can soften adhesive for removal. Dial-Temp controls the transfer of heat and guards against scorching. Remaining adhesive is treated with a gum compound eraser.

Adhesive reduction begins with the most benign process. If mechanical tape removal is unsuccessful, the next alternative is chemical. This is either a local or spot treatment or immersion in a solvent bath. Kofile ensures that its laboratories are equipped to process chemical treatments correctly and safely. Previous repairs that cannot be removed safely will remain.

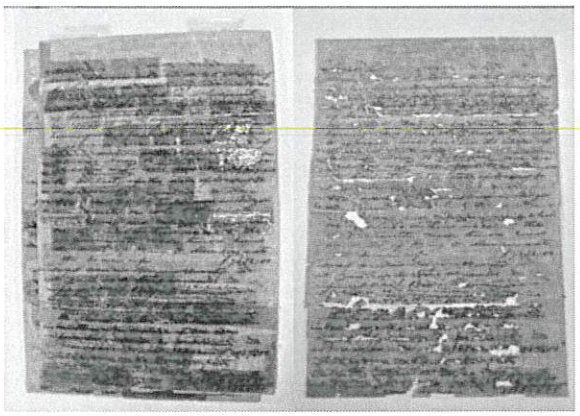
If possible, water-soluble repairs are removed with water or steam. Only fully-trained, experienced, and supervised staff attempt removal of water-soluble repairs. While iron gall ink is safe for aqueous treatment, many inks may fade and compromise legibility. Extensive testing is required.

Flattening and Humidification



Improperly stored paper becomes inflexible and retains a memory of the storage position. Kofile's technicians are experienced with all methods and tools to "flatten" paper including the use of tacking irons, heat presses, and an Ultrasonic Humidification Chamber.

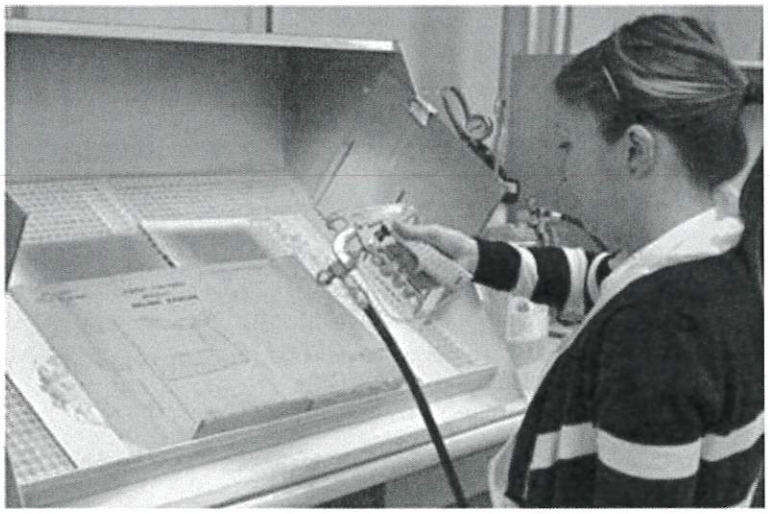
After careful testing, the Ultrasonic Humidification Chamber is used to correct the most fragile documents folds and bends. This significant investment, with which other private labs are rarely equipped, represents Kofile's foresight and commitment to offering the best available technology.



Mending torn paper is an art form and requires a variety of materials depending on the paper's color, tone, condition, and weight. The length of the tear(s) and the degree of embrittlement or fragmentation are also concerns. Kofile generally mends tears greater than 1/2" if the document is going to be encapsulated.

© Kofile, Inc. All rights reserved.

A specialized paper and paste is commonly used and all mending materials are acid free and reversible. Mending strips are cut so the edge of the paper visually integrates with the page without clashing aesthetically or historically. Fragmented edges, folds, tears, cracks, voids, and losses are all mended in this fashion. The mending paper used is strong and is transparent after application and while visible to the trained eye, it does not distract from the document.



A low-temperature, acrylic adhesive that bonds to the paper may also be used for reinforcement of damaged sheets. Kofile also constructs its own version with acid-free tissue paper and liquid acrylic adhesive. An 1848 Probate Record before and after treatment. The image to the right shows the page after deacidification, tape removal, and mending with archival tissue.

Deacidification

Deacidification is only performed after careful pH and compatibility testing. Kofile is equipped with multiple custom-built spray exhaust booths. All are routed through a HVAC system for optimum performance.

A commercially-prepared buffer solution is applied to both sides of the sheet with compressed air sprayer equipment (see right picture). The solution is non-flammable and non-toxic. The active ingredient, magnesium oxide, neutralizes acid and provides an alkaline reserve. This chemical is inert, safe, and does not degrade the sheet.

Once the buffer is applied, the paper's pH alters slowly. After de-acidification, random testing ensures an 8 pH with a deviation of no more than 2-4%.

Encapsulation

In archival encapsulation, the document floats freely and is not taped or glued to the pocket. Kofile uses SKC SH725 polyester (Polyethylene Terephthalate - PET) which is the most inert, rigid, dimensionally stable (dimstab), and strongest plastic film. Otherwise known as Mylar® Type D or © Kofile, Inc. All rights reserved.

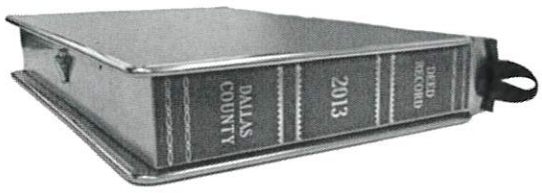
Melinex® 516, it is crystal clear, smooth, odorless, and is resistant to distorting or melting in case of fire.

Each sheet is encapsulated in a 2 mil patented polyester pocket: Lay Flat Archival Polyester Pocket™ , US Patent #7,943,220 B1, 5/17/2011. This pocket is welded closed on three sides, and a Reemay® strip, or spunbond polyester, statically seals out atmospheric pollutants while allowing off-gassing on the fourth side. This provides easy access to the original document without cutting the pocket (some companies weld all four sides).

This construction allows for a flat book block and reinforces the binding edge for added strength and years of service. Available in custom sizes, the Pocket dimensions will match the 'book block' dimensions with a 1½" or 1¼" binding margin.

ARCHIVAL RECORDER BINDERS



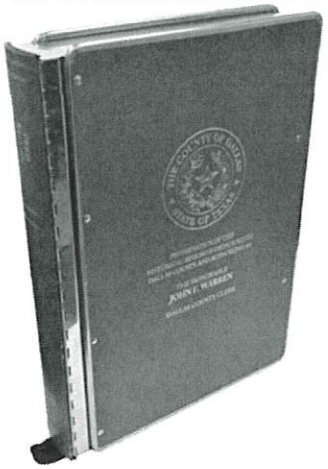
Volumes are hand-cased at 250 pages or less and pockets are punched (on the binding edge). Books with large capacities may be split to account for the weight of the Mylar. Kofile punches pockets to any hole specifications and can repair/replace index tabs.

Kofile manufactures binder components at 1/4" incremental capacities on a per-book basis. Kofile punches sheets to any hole specifications and repair/replace index tabs as necessary. Kofile can manufacture custom binder sizes, shapes, spines, colors, and lettering. Each binder features durable cover boards and a spine to support the pages' weight. All materials, including the cover boards and adhesives, are acid free.

Stamping

Title stamping can follow the same format/style of the originals. A stamping sheet is sent for approval. If any titling, dates, or other information from an original volume is noted in error, Montgomery County Clerk is notified. Any changes are approved by Montgomery County Clerk.

Disaster Safe Binder™ (DSB)



The DSB provides unparalleled protection and storage. Developed after Hurricane Katrina to address the devastation of the Orleans Parish archives, it protects sheets from water, fire, and physical disruption. The primary problem in 2005 was 100% relative humidity. With weeks of no power, mold was rampant. A hard lesson, the DSB addresses what went wrong in that disaster.

The DSB enables the encapsulated sheets to hang from the binder's posts—much like a hanging vertical plat cabinet. This feature allows collections to return in a smaller storage footprint with 4Post™ Shelving.

Any product that fails to operate properly or maintain its original integrity is replaced at no cost to Montgomery County Clerk. This is Kofile's commitment of value and service to its customers.

The DSB provides functionality and access ease while offering the highest rate of return on the client's investment. It is a portable vault for housing records of enduring value. It provides progressive protection from exposure to fire, water, Relative Humidity (RH), atmospheric pollutants, ultraviolet (UV) light, impact, and drops. The DSB also features a lifetime warranty against rust.

Other DSB Features Include:
Stainless Steel—The metal mechanism and book block apron are constructed of stable, corrosion-proof 316 stainless steel, which does not emit harmful gaseous pollutants like cold roll steel.

Support to the Book Block—The DSB is equipped with a Polyester Foam Insert, which ensures physical support to the book block and allows library-style storage.

Microclimate—The DSB creates a Microclimate, an independent, stable environment separating sheets from the external atmosphere.

Security Lock—A security lock hinge protects from theft.

Nonflammable & Self-Extinguishing—With nonflammable cover boards and materials, the DSB is self-extinguishing. These proprietary features protect the contained pages in extreme temperatures.

SUBCHAPTER A. CODE OF ETHICS AND GENERAL INFORMATION

1 TAC §219.1, §219.11

The amendments are adopted pursuant to Texas Government Code § 2054.052(a), which authorizes the department to adopt rules as necessary to implement its responsibilities under Texas Government Code Chapter 2054, Texas Government Code § 2054.702, which requires the department to establish by rule an AI code of ethics for use by governmental entities, and Texas Government Code § 2054.703, which requires the department to establish minimum risk management and governance standards for the development, procurement, deployment, and use of heightened scrutiny artificial intelligence systems by a state agency or local government.

§219.11. Code of Ethics and the Ethical Principles of Artificial Intelligence.

(a) As required by Texas Government Code § 2054.702, state agencies and local governments shall adopt the AI Code of Ethics established by this section and follow the ethical principles included herein as they procure, develop, deploy, or use artificial intelligence systems.

(b) Preamble

(1) AI systems have the potential to transform the way our state and local governments serve Texans. AI systems can create efficiencies, support economic and scientific advancement, and improve the safety and well-being of our communities. The State of Texas supports the use of AI systems by governmental entities to improve the services they deliver to Texans and to lead in innovative AI adoption in the public sector.

(2) While they have significant potential value, AI systems also pose substantial risks if not implemented ethically and responsibly. AI risks vary based on the system involved, how it is used, and who uses it. AI systems are often trained on large amounts of data from a variety of sources, which can lead to inaccurate outputs. To the extent that AI systems are trained on or used to process PII, they may raise significant privacy concerns, particularly when the systems are deployed outside of a secure government environment. Malicious actors can utilize AI to develop more advanced cyberattacks, bypass security measures, and exploit vulnerabilities in systems. These and other AI risks make it a uniquely challenging technology for governmental entities to use safely, but with appropriate guardrails, governmental entities can limit the risks of AI and secure its many benefits for Texans.

(3) Governmental entities must limit the potential harm of AI systems by managing risk and prioritizing trustworthy and responsible development and deployment of AI consistent with the National Institute of Standards and Technology AI Risk Management Framework. Creating trustworthy AI requires balancing each of these principles based on the identified risks of an AI system and the context in which it is used.

(4) This section articulates the principles of ethical AI implementation that governmental entities must strive for when procuring, developing, designing, or using AI systems.

(c) Human Oversight and Control

(1) Human oversight plays a crucial role in ensuring that AI systems operate ethically. While AI can analyze vast amounts of data much faster--and sometimes more accurately--than humans, it lacks the human judgment necessary to ensure that its decisions align with societal values and the rights granted to individuals under the law. Ensuring human control over AI systems mitigates risks of inaccurate or undesirable outputs and allows for revision of the rules established during development of the system and to the data that supports the system's decision-making.

(2) Governmental entities:

(A) Must deploy AI systems in ways that enable humans to review and analyze inputs and outputs at appropriate intervals throughout the AI lifecycle;

(B) May incorporate a level of human oversight reasonably commensurate to the risks associated with a particular AI system, with heightened scrutiny AI systems requiring increased human oversight relative to lower risk systems; and

(C) Must ensure AI systems can be paused, restricted, or disabled until harmful or inaccurate decision making can be remedied.

(d) Fairness

(1) The data used to develop AI systems must adequately represent the subjects or people about which AI systems make judgments, decisions, or predictions. Incomplete or inaccurate data can result in unlawful harm.

(2) Governmental entities:

(A) Must ensure their use of AI systems does not infringe upon the legally protected rights and liberties of the individuals they serve or result in unlawful harm; and

(B) Must implement data governance practices for AI systems throughout the AI system's lifecycle to ensure fairness.

(e) Accuracy

(1) While AI systems are overall improving in their ability to deliver more accurate results, inaccurate outputs remain a significant risk when using AI systems.

(2) Governmental entities:

(A) Must train their employees to understand the importance of verifying AI outcomes for accuracy;

(B) Must formalize processes for monitoring system accuracy before the deployment of an AI system and throughout its life cycle, as a system's accuracy may change over time; and

(C) Shall, when feasible, implement processes to improve the accuracy of AI systems by training the systems using human feedback or improving retrieval-augmented generation by ensuring the accuracy and relevance of the underlying data used by the tool to develop answers.

(f) Redress

(1) Providing a method for redress will promote public trust in both the AI system and in the entity that deploys it.

(2) Governmental entities:

(A) Must provide a mechanism to seek redress for those impacted when an AI system makes a consequential decision that results in unlawful harm about their rights or access to governmental services;

(B) Must have a designated point of contact for individuals to address when seeking information about an unfair consequential decision; and

(C) Must develop internal procedures to allow employees to identify and remedy negative impacts caused by the use of AI systems.

(g) Transparency

(1) Establishing transparency for AI systems means providing information about the data, models, and outputs of an AI system to both the individuals interacting with the system and those deploying it. Strong transparency practices will build public trust in the AI systems governmental entities use.

(2) Governmental entities:

(A) Must collaborate with developers of AI systems and demand transparency to understand how a system operates, the source of the data the system was trained on, and its intended use cases;

(B) Must strive to understand the capabilities of the system and how it makes decisions;

(C) Must disclose when individuals interact with a public-facing AI system and when an AI system is used to make consequential decisions about their rights or access to governmental services; and

(D) Must never represent AI systems as human when interacting with the public.

(h) Data Privacy

(1) Governmental entities have a responsibility to protect the PII they collect and process about individuals, and both legal and ethical restrictions exist on what PII entities share with third parties. Data privacy principles likewise apply to the PII governmental entities process in and share with AI systems.

(2) The most effective method for protecting PII is through data minimization.

(3) Many AI systems rely on vast amounts of PII to make predictions and decisions. Sharing PII with an AI tool may violate privacy laws and obligations the entity has to the individual, particularly when using a tool outside the governmental entity's secure environment.

(4) Governmental entities:

(A) May collect and maintain only that PII needed for operations and must establish a process to delete PII consistent with records retention schedules and other legal requirements.

(B) Must strive to understand what PII the AI system uses, how that PII has been and will be collected, and how the tool uses, stores, and shares PII with third parties prior to using any government-held PII in an AI system;

(C) Must train employees about the risk of inputting sensitive or PII into publicly available AI systems that use inputs to train the model and share those inputs with other users of the AI system outside of the governmental entity; and

(D) Must strive to practice data minimization and ensure they abide by any purpose limitations granted when the PII was first collected, or as expressly allowed by law.

(i) Security

(1) AI systems are subject to security vulnerabilities. Common security concerns in the AI context may include data poisoning or malicious code injection, exfiltration of models or data within the AI system, and improper access controls that result in unauthorized access to the AI system itself. Secure AI systems will maintain the confidentiality and integrity of the AI system as well as the data it contains even when unexpected events or changes in their environment or use occur.

(2) Governmental entities:

(A) Must monitor, secure, and test AI systems to prevent or limit security attacks; and

(B) Must demand that AI system providers disclose known vulnerabilities and resolutions in a timely manner to the governmental entities deploying those systems.

(j) Accountability and Liability

(1) While governmental entities may delegate tasks and decision making to AI systems, the entities remain accountable for the decisions the AI systems make and the outcomes they produce. Use of AI systems for employment-related tasks or to make consequential decisions poses heightened risks.

(2) Governmental entities:

(A) Must provide training to employees on how to use AI systems in an effective, safe, and ethical way;

(B) Must ensure their vendors are contractually bound to these AI ethical principles and any relevant laws or regulations governing the use of AI systems; and

(C) Must ensure AI systems they deploy comply with the legal obligations they have at both the state and federal level.

(3) When deploying AI systems, governmental entities must establish appropriate retention schedules for the AI system's records and consider the Public Information Act implications related to the storage of data inputs and outputs.

(k) Evaluation

(1) AI systems can change over time, as can the purposes for which they are used.

(2) Governmental entities:

(A) Must establish methods for regular evaluation of AI systems to ensure the systems provide ongoing benefit to the populations they serve; and

(B) Must document such evaluations.

(l) Documentation

(1) Documentation provides a critical element for managing AI risk. Consistent documentation of preliminary assessments, ongoing monitoring and testing, and complaints provides governmental entities insight into the operations and improvements of their AI systems over their lifecycle. Documentation allows entities to evaluate the value of AI systems and determine where best to spend resources in further developing AI solutions.

(2) Governmental entities should maintain records of:

(A) The sources of data used in the AI system; and

(B) How the AI system is modified throughout the system's life cycle.

The agency certifies that legal counsel has reviewed the adoption and found it to be a valid exercise of the agency's legal authority.

SUBCHAPTER B. REQUIRED MINIMUM STANDARDS

1 TAC §§219.20 - 219.24

The amendments are adopted pursuant to Texas Government Code § 2054.052(a), which authorizes the department to adopt rules as necessary to implement its responsibilities under Texas Government Code Chapter 2054, and Texas Government Code § 2157.068(f), which authorizes the department to adopt rules as necessary to implement its responsibilities under Texas Government Code Chapter 2157. This subchapter establishes the minimum standards required by Texas Government Code § 2054.703 as enacted pursuant to Senate Bill 1964 of the Eighty-ninth Regular Session.

§219.21. AI Risk Management.

(a) A state agency or local government shall designate an employee as the AI Risk Officer.

(1) The AI Risk Officer is responsible for promoting ethical AI system procurement, development, deployment, and use within the state agency or local government, consistent with the AI Code of Ethics established by this chapter and the AI Risk Management Framework published by the National Institute of Standards and Technology.

(2) If a state agency or local government deploys a heightened scrutiny AI system, the AI Risk Officer is responsible for ensuring that the risk assessment is completed for that system. The AI Risk Officer shall evaluate the completed risk assessment and ensure that the heightened scrutiny AI system is deployed consistent with the minimum standards established by this chapter.

(3) In filling this role, the state agency or local government may employ an individual solely for this purpose or may add this responsibility to a current employee's existing job duties.

(b) A state agency or local government shall establish a process to identify and inventory all implementations of AI systems that qualify as heightened scrutiny AI systems.

§219.22. AI Risk Assessment for Heightened Scrutiny AI Systems.

(a) Before a state agency or local government develops, procures, deploys, or uses a heightened scrutiny AI system and at the time that a material change is made to the system, the state agency or local government shall conduct a written AI risk assessment to consider the probability and severity of harm that could occur as the result of implementation of the AI system.

(b) The risk assessment shall consider and document:

(1) The AI system's known security risks and mitigation steps available to limit those risks;

(2) The heightened scrutiny AI system's performance metrics relating to accuracy and operational efficiency; and

(3) The heightened scrutiny AI system's transparency, including information about:

(A) The system's algorithms and how the system makes decisions;

(B) The data used to train the system's model; and

(C) The availability of inputs and outputs to monitor the system's decision-making over time.

All employees must be adequately trained on the acceptable use policy.

(c) A state agency or local government that deploys or uses a heightened scrutiny AI system shall provide employees or contractors who access, use, or manage the heightened scrutiny AI system with training regarding identified risks and appropriate methods for mitigating those risks.

7. CHANGES

None of the Insuring Agreements, Exclusions, Definitions or Conditions or other terms of this Policy shall be amended, waived or otherwise changed except by endorsement hereto signed by the Insurers.

8. NAMED ASSURED AS AGENT

The first Named Assured specified in Item 1 of the Declarations shall be considered the agent of all Assureds with respect to the giving of or receipt of all notices pertaining to this Policy and shall be responsible for the payment to the Insurers of all premiums and for payment of the Retention.

9. PREMIUM

The premium for this Policy shall be the amount specified in Item 5 of the Declarations.

10. SUBROGATION

In the event of any Claim under this Policy, the Insurers shall be subrogated to all of the Assured's rights of recovery against any person or entity, and the Assured shall execute and deliver to the Insurers any and all necessary documentation, instruments and records and do whatever else is necessary to secure and enforce such rights. (a) This Policy may be cancelled by the Named Assured by surrender thereof to Insurers or by mailing to Insurers through the entity named in Item 9 of the Declarations written notice stating when thereafter the cancellation shall be effective. The Insurers may cancel this Policy by mailing to the Named Assured at the address shown in the Declarations written notice stating when not less than 60 days thereafter such cancellation shall be effective. However, if the Insurers cancel this Policy because the Assured has failed to pay a premium when due, this Policy may be cancelled by the Insurers by mailing a written notice of cancellation to the Named Assured at the address shown in the Declarations stating when not less than 10 days thereafter such cancellation shall be effective. The mailing of notice as aforesaid shall be sufficient proof of notice.

The time of surrender or the effective date and hour of cancellation stated in the notice shall become the end of the Policy Period. Delivery (where permitted by law) of such written notice either by the Named Assured or by the Insurers shall be equivalent to mailing.

(b) If the Named Assured cancels this Policy, earned premium shall be computed in accordance with the attached short rate table and procedure.

Certification Regarding Debarment, Suspension, Ineligibility, and Voluntary Exclusion for Covered Contracts

Federal Executive order 12579 requires Montgomery County to screen each covered potential contractor to determine whether each has a right to obtain a contract in accordance with federal regulations on debarment, suspension, ineligibility, and voluntary exclusion. Each covered contractor must also screen each of its covered subcontractors.

In this certification, "contractors" refers to both contractor and subcontractor, "contract" refers to both contract and subcontract.

By signing and submitting this certificate, the contractor/potential contractor accepts the following terms:

1. The certification herein below is a material representation of fact upon which reliance was placed when this contract was entered into. If it is later determined that the potential contractor knowingly rendered an erroneous certification, in addition to other remedies, the federal government or Montgomery County may pursue all available remedies, including suspension and/or debarment.
2. The potential contractor shall provide immediate written notice to the person to which this certification is submitted if at any time the potential contractor learns that the certification was erroneous by reason of changed circumstances.
3. The words "covered contract," "debarred," "suspended," "ineligible," "participant," "person," "principle," "proposal," and "voluntarily excluded," as used in this certification have meanings based upon materials in the Definitions and Coverage sections of federal rules implementing Executive Order 12549.
4. The potential contractor agrees by submitting this certification that, should the proposed covered contract be entered into, it shall not knowingly enter into any subcontract with a person who is debarred, suspended, declared ineligible, or voluntarily excluded from participation in this covered transaction, unless authorized by a federal department or agency and Montgomery County.

Do you have or do you anticipate having subcontractors under this proposed contract? ☑ YES ☐ NO

5. The potential contractor further agrees by submitting this certification that it will include this certification titled "Certification Regarding Debarment, Suspension, Ineligibility, and Voluntary Exclusion for Covered Contracts" without modification in all covered subcontracts and in solicitations for all covered subcontracts.
6. A contractor may rely upon certification of a potential subcontractor that is not debarred, suspended, ineligible, or voluntarily excluded from the covered contract, unless it knows that the certification is erroneous. A contractor must, at minimum, obtain certifications from its covered subcontractors upon each subcontractor's initiation and upon each renewal.
7. Nothing contained in all of the foregoing shall be construed to require establishment of a system of records in order to render in good faith the certification required by this certification document. The knowledge and information of a contractor is not required to exceed that which is normally possessed by a prudent person in the ordinary course of business dealings.
8. Except for contracts authorized under paragraph 4 of these terms, if a contractor in a covered contract knowingly enters into a covered subcontract with a person who is suspended, debarred, ineligible, or voluntarily excluded from participation in this transaction, in addition to other remedies available to the federal government, any federal agency and/or Montgomery County may pursue available remedies, including suspension and/or debarment.

CERTIFICATION REGARDING DEBARMENT, SUSPENSION, INELIGIBILITY, AND VOLUNTARY EXCLUSION FOR COVERED CONTRACTS

Indicate in the appropriate box which statement applies to the covered contractor/potential contractor:

☑ The contractor/potential contractor certifies, by submission of this certification, that neither it nor its principals are presently debarred, suspended, proposed for debarment, declared ineligible, or voluntarily excluded from participation in this contract by any federal department or agency, the State of Texas, or Montgomery County.

☐ The contractor/potential contractor is unable to certify to one or more of the terms in this certification. In this instance, the contractor/potential contractor must attach an explanation for each of the above terms to which he is unable to make certification. Attach the explanation(s) to this certification.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY, TEXAS
EMPLOYEE POLICY MANUAL
5. WAGE AND SALARY ADMINISTRATION

5.1 MINIMUM WAGE, OVERTIME, AND COMPENSATORY TIME

FLSA COMPLIANCE

5.1-1 In administering its wage and salary program, the minimum standards of the County will be the basic standards set forth in the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and its amendments as they apply to County government. This includes the requirement that all employees be paid equal to or higher than the minimum wage established by the U.S. Government and administered by the Department of Labor. Pay deductions that are not consistent with the minimum wage provisions of the FLSA, the principles of public accountability as specified in 29 C.F.R. §541.710, and this policy are prohibited and will be corrected as soon after discovery as possible.

APPLICABILITY

5.1-2 This policy applies to all employees of Montgomery County, both exempt and non-exempt; it does not apply to elected officials.

CLASSIFICATION

5.1-3 The Human Resources Department, with input from the elected official or department head, shall be responsible for classifying positions as exempt or non-exempt under the FLSA.

OVERTIME

5.1-4 Overtime for non-exempt non-law enforcement employees shall be all hours physically worked in excess of 40 during the workweek which is defined in Section 5.0 of this manual.

5.1-5 (a) Overtime for non-exempt certified peace officers shall be all hours actually worked in excess of 80 during the pay period which is defined in Section 5.0 of this manual.

5.1-5 (b) Overtime for exempt certified peace officers holding the rank of lieutenant shall be defined as hours actually worked in excess of 80 during the pay period which is defined in Section 5.0 of this manual.

OVERTIME COMPENSATION

5.1-6 (a) In most cases, a non-exempt employee who works overtime during a workweek or pay period will be given compensatory time at a rate of one and one-half hours of the employee's regular rate of pay for each hour of overtime worked.

5.1-6 (b) An exempt certified peace officer holding the rank of lieutenant who works overtime during a pay period will be given compensatory time at a rate equal to one hour of the employee's regular rate of pay for overtime hours worked.

5.1-6 (c) An exempt certified peace officer holding the rank of lieutenant is not eligible for overtime payment at a rate of one and one-half times his/her regular rate for any additional overtime hours worked once maximum compensatory time accrual has been met.

5.1-7 If a department has budgeted funds to pay overtime, a non-exempt employee who works overtime during a workweek or pay period may be compensated at a rate of one and one-half times his/her regular rate of pay for overtime hours worked.

5.1 MINIMUM WAGE, OVERTIME, AND COMPENSATORY TIME

CALCULATION

5.1-8 In calculating "hours worked" for purposes of overtime computation, hours worked shall include only hours spent in the service of the County (as defined in the FLSA) and shall exclude all time spent on paid leave.

5.1-9 A full-time regular 40-hour per week non-exempt employee who physically works more than the number of hours required for the workweek shall be awarded overtime or compensatory time for those extra hours worked based on the employee's regular rate of pay. For example, an 8-hour per day, 40-hour per week non-exempt employee who works 34 hours during a week in which he takes a day of vacation would use 6 hours of accrued vacation and show 34 hours worked. The employee would not use 8 hours of vacation to accumulate 42 hours of work in order to receive 2 hours of compensatory time for that workweek. On the other hand, a non-exempt employee who actually works 42 hours during a single week would be awarded 2 hours of compensatory time.

MAXIMUM ACCRUAL

5.1-10 The maximum compensatory time accrual for any eligible employee shall be the maximum allowed under the provisions for the FLSA, i.e., 240 hours for non-law enforcement employees and 480 hours for certified peace officers.

5.1-11 When an employee has reached the maximum compensatory time accrual, he/she must be paid at a rate of one and one-half times his/her regular rate for any additional overtime hours worked.

PRE-AUTHORIZATION REQUIRED

5.1-12 An employee may not work overtime unless it has been authorized by his supervisor.

5.1-13 An employee may not work at home or anywhere outside his assigned work location unless it has been authorized by his supervisor.

COMPENSATORY TIME USE

5.1-14 Use of compensatory time shall be subject to approval by the employee's supervisor. Elected officials and department heads are encouraged to allow compensatory time to be taken as soon as possible after it is earned.

5.1-15 Compensatory time may be used as vacation, sick leave, or for any other reasons as leave with pay.

5.1-16 In order to reduce the County's liability for paid time, elected officials and department heads may require that accrued compensatory time be scheduled.

5.1 MINIMUM WAGE, OVERTIME, AND COMPENSATORY TIME

PAYMENT AT TIME OF TERMINATION

5.1-17 (a) An individual whose employment terminates before all compensatory time is used will be paid for said time on his/her final pay check in compliance with the FLSA. Employees elected to office or changing from full time to part-time status will be paid for accrued comp time at the rate being earned on the day prior to the effective date of the change.

5.1-17 (b) Any balance of Compensatory Time you earned as a Non-Exempt Employee gets paid based on your final regular rate of pay or in accordance with applicable law.

5.1-17 (c) Half of any balance of Compensatory Time you earned as an Exempt Employee gets paid based on your final regular rate of pay.

EXEMPT EMPLOYEES

5.1-18 An employee who is exempt from the overtime requirements of the FLSA is expected to work the appropriate number of hours required to adequately perform the job for which he was hired without compensation over and above his salary; this means he would normally be required to account for at least 80 hours each two-week pay period. This provision shall be suspended upon declaration of a state of emergency by the appropriate authority. Overtime payments may be made to otherwise exempt employees at a rate equal to their regular hourly rate if approved by Commissioners Court within sixty (60) days of the declaration.

RECORD KEEPING

5.1-19 In accordance with the principles of public accountability, Montgomery County requires that a Montgomery County time sheet be completed by each employee whether exempt or non-exempt. Employees and supervisors who do not truthfully record the time for which they and/or their employees should be paid in compliance with this policy are subject to termination of employment and prosecution.

A. Non-exempt employees are to record actual time worked calculating from the nearest 15 minutes, e.g. a person with an 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. schedule who reported in at 7:58 a.m. or 8:06 a.m. would be indicated as beginning work at 8:00 a.m. whereas 8:08 a.m. would be indicated as beginning work at 8:15 a.m. Someone working a schedule other than 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. would not necessarily calculate worked time based on the quarter clock hour but rather in 15-minute increments.

B. Exempt employees are to record vacation, sick leave, personal, and all other types of leave taken.
