Council Update

Local Election Results. The General Election was held on November 6, 2012, with 12,347 Ramsey residents voting in the polls. A total of 1,239 residents voted absentee, with 611 of those voting at the City's counter. As of 7:00 a.m. Election morning, the total number of registered voters was 13,791. The election judges registered another 2,454 people at the polls on Election day. Staff has not yet received the number of new registrations that were included in the absentee voting. It was a VERY busy election! The results of the Election are as follows: Sarah Strommen was elected Mayor, John LeTourneau was elected Councilmember At Large, Mark Kuzma was elected Councilmember Ward 2, and Chris Riley was elected Councilmember Ward 4. The polling places had a steady stream of voters all day long. Sixteen Co-Chair Judges head up the eight precincts with a crew of 65 more judges to assist. There was about an 84 percent voter turnout.

A big "Thank You" to Jo Thieling and all the Public Works, Maintenance, and Admin staff that helped make the election run smoothly.

Update on Comprehensive Plan Amendments. As the City Council is aware, through two (2) separate processes, the City Council approved Comprehensive Plan Amendments at Green Valley Road/Nowthen Boulevard, Hope Fellowship (south of Highway 10), and The COR. The Green Valley Road and Hope Fellowship amendments were approved in 2011 and involved reverting back to the previous/current land use designations. The COR amendment obviously involved the change of the former Ramsey Town Center Master Plan. Because of their size, the Green Valley and Hope Fellowship amendments have been approved administratively. The Application for The COR amendment has now been considered complete for review, and will be heard on December 3rd (Community Development Committee) and December 12th (full Metropolitan Council). As a result, the City's preliminary recommendation for TOD Grant Approvals for Center Street ($650,000) and Mississippi Skyway ($100,000) will be heard by the Metropolitan Council on December 12th.

Beautiful Pea-Green Boat. Probably no Owls or Pussycats...but there were more than 384 uses of the self-serve canoe and kayak system at Sunfish Lake between April and August of this season. It is assumed that at least half the time the users had two people in a canoe – which would equate easily to more than 600 hundred paddling patrons for the Year and a Day. The free (no Honey or Money needed) card access system tracks precisely when and who activates the lockers holding the equipment. 43% used the boats between 4:00 and 8:00 p.m., and 22% before noon and the rest in the afternoon – with none by the Light of the Moon.

Sunwood Drive Project. The contractor has finished paving the wear course of bituminous and the project is nearing completion. The landscaper is installing the irrigation system and the trees in the boulevard on Sunwood Drive. After the trees are installed, the electrician will install the planned electrical receptacles next to the trees and the boulevard can be hydro-mulched for the winter. We anticipate that the striping and signage will also be completed this week.

RAMSEY, Minn. – (Oct. 29) –Northstar commuter trains will begin service to the newly constructed Ramsey Station on Wednesday, Nov. 14.

Twelve Northstar trips will serve the station each weekday during rush hours. The station will also be served by six trips on Saturdays and Sundays as well as specially scheduled trains for large downtown events such as Vikings games and Saturday Holidazzle parades. County Attorney finds no basis for conflict of interest accusation in KSTP news story targeting Anoka County Commissioner Dan Erhart

Washington County Attorney Pete Orput's office has found no basis for the conflict of interest claim directed at Anoka County Commissioner Dan Erhart in a KSTP television story aired Monday during the 10 p.m. newscast.

The story revolves around Erhart being one of several people in a partnership that owns a piece of hunting land in South Dakota. Also in the partnership is an employee of a company that sells bonds for Anoka County.

Erhart has voted to give contracts to the company. KSTP reporter Jay Kolls interviewed a professor who claimed Erhart had violated the conflict of interest laws by not disclosing his relationship with the company employee who, in the past, performed work for the county. Kolls also interviewed the current county board chair who said an investigation was needed.

The professor, board chair and reporter all got it wrong, says Erhart. He has a legal opinion from Washington County Attorney Pete Orput's office to back him up. Washington County Assistant Attorney Richard Hodsdon says there is no arguable violation of Minnesota statutes.

"There is simply no association of business between ownership of hunting real estate in South Dakota and issuance of bonds through Anoka County," said Hodsdon. "Therefore in my opinion there is no basis to conclude that there is any conflict of interest subject to disclosure or even that meets the definition of conflict of interest."

Erhart is considering legal avenues to pursue for what he sees as reporter Jay Kolls' reckless disregard of the truth.

"I'm sorry to see dirty politics leak into local elections," Erhart said. "Unfounded accusations can do a lot of damage to reputations of individuals and, in fact, the entire county. It's sad some people put their political agendas ahead of what's best for residents and businesses of the county."

Erhart faces a re-election challenge Tuesday in Anoka County district seven, which serves portions of Anoka, Andover and Coon Rapids.

Erhart asked the Anoka County Attorney's Office to review the conflict of interest accusations. The request was forwarded to Washington County in order to avoid any appearance of bias.

November 2, 2012

Dear Mr. Ulrich:

Enclosed is a summary of work done by the Metropolitan Mosquito Control District (MMCD) in the Ramsey area during the 2012 mosquito control season.

It was a tale of two seasons when it came to mosquito production in 2012. Early spring brought above normal temperatures and rainfall resulting in MMCD treating 205,775 acres of wetlands to control immature mosquitoes by mid July. After mid July very little rain fell and MMCD treated only 30,172 acres for the remainder of the season.

After the rain slowed in mid July, MMCD observed elevated rates of West Nile virus (WNV) infection in mosquitoes and birds tested in our laboratory. Twenty of 26 birds tested returned positive results and 105 mosquito samples were positive for the virus from 742 tested. In 2012 the Minnesota Department of Health reported 70 human West Nile virus (WNV) illnesses, fifteen of those cases were reported in people who lived within our District. In addition, four La Crosse encephalitis cases were reported in residents of the state, one within the District. MMCD employees continued to monitor and control populations of mosquitoes capable of transmitting disease right up until we received heavy frost this fall.

MMCD employees also controlled immature black flies in small streams and large rivers throughout the metropolitan area. These treatments have resulted in significantly fewer adult black flies when compared to a time before we conducted treatments. MMCD staff also continued to monitor the distribution of ticks capable of transmitting disease, and worked with the Minnesota Department of Health to provide information designed to reduce the risk of tick transmitted diseases.

If you have any questions, or would like to meet to discuss our agency's activities within Ramsey, please contact me.

Sincerely,

James R. Stark, Executive Director
