IT

- Public CRM went live this week. The system is up and running on our website. There are still minor tweaks to be made, but all seems to be running as it should.

Parks

- Staff continues to open (plow and snow blow) trails and sidewalks – persistent winds, drifting snow with already high snow banks is exacerbating the ‘normal’ amount of time to get through the 40+ mile system
- Department of Corrections crew shoveled boardwalks and benches along Sunwood Drive
- Additional partial sponsorship received for The Draw Event Series – thank you to: Duane Larson, Realtor, Coldwell Banker Burnet! (Two events are partially sponsored, three full sponsorships available, with the remaining 12 events fully sponsored).

Police

- Moving on up. Capt. Dwyer has received a contingent job offer to be the next Police Chief in the City of Cambridge. Pending the completion of a background check, Capt Dwyer will take the helm in Cambridge in late April or Early May. Capt Dwyer is very excited for this opportunity and will be missed by his colleagues here in Ramsey. Congratulations to him on his achievement.

Public Works

- Couple more full scale plowing events since our last update. The weather pattern looks relatively dry for the next couple of weeks, so maybe, just maybe, we can be done with plowing for this season. With the weather slowly improving crews will now be switching over to pothole filling and street sweeping as our primary activities. We will also be checking to make sure catch basins and spillways are open to allow for the spring melt.

Utilities

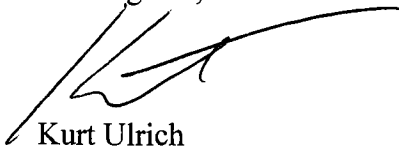

- On Friday March 15th during a snow event a City Plow truck struck a sanitary sewer manhole in the street, the upper portion of the manhole was ripped out of the ground including the lid and a large portion of the asphalt road as well. Crews went to work securing the site because now there was an open hole in the street that was about 15 feet deep. A new iron top section was added and soil and cones and a barricade was installed over the site, crews also had to utilize the Jetter truck to vacuum out a large amount of debris that fell into the sanitary sewer causing a slight back up, crews also monitored the air quality of the manhole and had to climb down where another five gallon bucket full of tar and class five was removed.
Once there is a supply of hot mix tar this site will be repaired and cones will be removed.
- The Utility crew assisted with snow plowing on Saturday and Monday of this week
- EH Renner replaced well #4 after repairs were made. This well was removed for preventable maintenance in October of 2012.

In January 2013, the Metropolitan Council began working on a study of potential bus transitways on eight regional highway corridors. The study will help regional transportation planners coordinate investments in transit with investments planned or being considered on the highway system, in hopes of advancing a more multimodal approach to investing in the regional transportation system. The study aims to accomplish several key things across the eight corridors.

- Identify which corridors demonstrate the most promise for all-day highway transitway service.
- Better understand the trade-offs between different levels of investment in highway transitway facilities and service.
- Identify areas where investment in highways and transit could have mutual benefits and warrant further, more detailed study.

The study will consider current and future demographics, land use, and transportation systems. The region also has growing experience in highway transitways through the implementation of the METRO Red Line (Cedar Avenue BRT) and elements of the METRO Orange Line (I-35W South BRT), as well as recent studies on I-35W North and the Gateway Corridor. This study will coordinate with plans in those corridors, as well as ongoing studies on other corridors such as the Red Rock Corridor and Robert Street Transitway.

The eight corridors included in this analysis are (with specific portions noted):

- Highway 212
- Highway 169 in the southwest metro
- Highway 36
- Highway 65 in the north metro
- Interstate 94 in the northwest metro
- Interstate 35E south of downtown St. Paul
- Interstate 35E north of downtown St. Paul
- Interstate 394

The study is expected to be complete by the end of 2013. Throughout 2013, the region will begin work on the update to the 2030 Transportation Policy Plan (TPP). The TPP currently discusses highway transitway corridors and Highway Bus Rapid Transit (BRT) and this study will help better frame the discussion around these topics. The Council has hired a consultant to lead the technical efforts of this study. A project management team (PMT) is providing the general oversight of the study and includes county, transit providers, MnDOT, and Council staff. A larger group of technical experts that includes representatives from county, city, and transit provider staff will be assembled to provide input on the study several times throughout 2013. In addition, the Metropolitan Council is planning to host two workshops for policy-makers and staff to interact and provide feedback. The workshops will be more interactive than standard meetings and allow participants to focus on issues specific to their corridor. These workshops are expected to take place in the late spring (May-June) and early fall (September-October) of 2013.

You can follow this study and find out more about upcoming information on the Council's website.

Thank you and feel free to contact Metropolitan Council staff if you have any questions!
